

CITY INTELLIGENCE.

Cuban Mass Meeting To-night.

There will be a mass meeting of the citizens of New York, this evening, at the Cooper Institute, to give expression to their sympathy for the patriotic Cubans now struggling heroically against Spanish oppression and barbarity, and also to ratify the action of the National House of Representatives as expressed in their recent resolution in favor of the early recognition by our Government of the young Republic of Cuba.

A large number of our great public speakers and thinkers will be present, including such men as Henry Ward Beecher, Wm. Cullen Bryant, George W. Curtis, Charles A. Dana, John C. Fremont, George Wilkes, John K. Porter, and others. If the cause of Cuban independence is to succeed at all it must receive practical aid and encouragement from the friends of liberty in the United States.

The future of a people whose interests are so closely interwoven with our own, cannot be a subject of indifference to New Yorkers. That mighty progress which only awaits the downfall of Spanish dominion in America, to begin, will not acquit us if we stand idle spectators of the contest now being waged. The wealth, patriotic sympathy, and intelligence of the metropolis must stand forth and pronounce its judgment in behalf of a free Government for the men who have gone forth to do battle in this cause. The meeting to-night is called to promote this end, and we trust it will be an occasion worthy of its exalted objects.
