

The agents of the Cuban junta have bought an estate of 170 acres in Bergen county, N. J., to be laid into villas for Cuban exiles. Just now, unfortunately, the Cuban exile is a species of lion that is in very great danger of losing all claim to the glories of banishment.