

There are very many destitute Cuban exiles in this country at the present time. It is estimated that there are nine thousand in New York, two thousand at Key West, and many scattered in other sections of the country.