

Newark.

THE CUBAN VOLUNTEER MOVEMENT.—The movement on foot here for several weeks past leading to the raising of men, arms and equipments for the Cuban patriots has now formed actual shapement. There has been raised here a detachment of seventy-nine men, who, with over one hundred Baltimoreans, will form a battalion, which will be commanded by Colonel Henry E. Moore, formerly commandant of the 152d New York volunteers. The other officers are Major George A. Winship, late of the Confederate army, and Major G. O. Meigs, who was also in the Confederate service. Some of the Baltimoreans arrived here yesterday and the remainder are expected to-day. A full supply of uniforms has been provided and the battalion will leave here for New York to-morrow morning, and at once proceed to embark on board a former blockade runner, now lying in the Sound. This organization is altogether an independent one, and is fitted out by private individuals, formerly residents of Cuba, but now living here. The arrest of the principal members of the Junta occasioned a temporary confusion among the volunteers, but they have now resolved to go on, regardless of that body. The utmost secrecy has surrounded the movements of the officers and their subordinates. A meeting was held last evening on Broad street, within a stone's throw of the City Hall, when final arrangements for starting were completed.