NEWS OF THE DAY.

THE REV.

A telegram from Denver, of the 9th inst., says the peace conference has met in the town, and that the Indians are present, and are ready to sign the treaty of peace, and to form a relation of friendship with the United States.

The treaty is to be held at the head of the Arkansas river, and the Indians are to receive a sum of money, and a large quantity of provisions, for the purpose of obtaining a permanent peace with the United States.

The treaty is to be signed by the Indians, and the United States, and the treaty is to be ratified by the Senate of the United States.

The treaty is to be held at the head of the Arkansas river, and the Indians are to receive a sum of money, and a large quantity of provisions, for the purpose of obtaining a permanent peace with the United States.

The treaty is to be signed by the Indians, and the United States, and the treaty is to be ratified by the Senate of the United States.

The treaty is to be held at the head of the Arkansas river, and the Indians are to receive a sum of money, and a large quantity of provisions, for the purpose of obtaining a permanent peace with the United States.

The treaty is to be signed by the Indians, and the United States, and the treaty is to be ratified by the Senate of the United States.

The treaty is to be held at the head of the Arkansas river, and the Indians are to receive a sum of money, and a large quantity of provisions, for the purpose of obtaining a permanent peace with the United States.

The treaty is to be signed by the Indians, and the United States, and the treaty is to be ratified by the Senate of the United States.

The treaty is to be held at the head of the Arkansas river, and the Indians are to receive a sum of money, and a large quantity of provisions, for the purpose of obtaining a permanent peace with the United States.

The treaty is to be signed by the Indians, and the United States, and the treaty is to be ratified by the Senate of the United States.

The treaty is to be held at the head of the Arkansas river, and the Indians are to receive a sum of money, and a large quantity of provisions, for the purpose of obtaining a permanent peace with the United States.

The treaty is to be signed by the Indians, and the United States, and the treaty is to be ratified by the Senate of the United States.

The treaty is to be held at the head of the Arkansas river, and the Indians are to receive a sum of money, and a large quantity of provisions, for the purpose of obtaining a permanent pe