

OUR CUBAN CORRESPONDENCE.—The news which we publish in another column from our special correspondents in Cuba does not afford much consolation to the well wishers of Spain. General Puello, who started out from Nuevitas on the 25th ult., amid a flourish of trumpets and high-sounding proclamations, with three thousand men, has done comparatively nothing. His promises to crush the revolution in his department have not been fruitful in results. Notwithstanding all the boastings of General Puello that he would stamp out the insurgents in the Central Department he has done but little. If the Spaniards mean business they should work more and talk less. Words accomplish nothing.
