No Account from Puello—A Force Sent to Look Him Up and then Co-operate With Him.

HAVANA, Jan. 22, 1870.

Letters received in this city from Neuvas and Puerto Principe, under date of the 18th inst., state that no news had yet been received from General Puello.

General Goyeneche, with 5,000 men, all fully armed and equipped, arrived at Puerto Principe on the 12th from Sancti Espiritu. They rested only a few days and again started on the march. The destination of the troops is unknown, but it is supposed they are intended to act in combination with Puello.

It is reported that the cholera has reappeared.
