Four Americans Attacked in the Streets of Havana—They are Fired on by a Desperado and Ill-treated by the Crowd—Two of the Men Seriously Injured.

HAVANA, Feb. 7, 1870.

Yesterday morning about eleven o'clock four Americans, Isaac Greenwall, Harry K. Foster, Hugh Johnson and Gardner Wells, all of New York, were on their way to visit a photographic gallery. They intended to have their pictures taken, and all wore blue neckties. Near the Tacon theatre they were stopped by a man who pointed to their neckties, and addressed the men in an excited manner in Spanish. None of the party understood the language, no answer was returned. The unknown man then took out a revolver and fired upon them. Greenwall was shot and killed; Foster and Johnson were severely wounded; the two latter are in a precarious condition. Wells, who was unhurt, ran for his life. A number of people followed, and raised the cry of "Stop him," but he escaped. The wounded men were badly treated by the crowd which gathered around them. The man who fired the shots disappeared immediately after, and it is not known whether he was a volunteer or not. The declarations of the parties and of witnesses to the affair are now being taken by the legal authorities in the presence of the United States Consul General.

The indignation of the Captain General at the outrage is very great. He has called on the Chief Justice and other leading officers of the law to use every means to discover the perpetrator and abettors of the deed. People of all parties denounce the act. The officers of the volunteers are hunting for the assassin and his accomplices, and the Governor has placed the entire police force in motion. De Rodas has offered a reward of $1,000 for the arrest of the culpable parties, who, if found, will be tried by a drumhead court martial and executed within two hours after sentence is passed.

The victims of this unfortunate affair arrived here from New York several weeks ago to open a cosmetic and perfumery factory for Lanman & Kemp.

The volunteers who took prominent parts in the recent disturbance at Matanzas have been arrested by orders of the Captain General, and are now in Morro Castle awaiting trial by court martial.

Confirmation of the Outrages in Havana Received in Washington—Spanish Reports of Success.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7, 1870.

Secretary Fish received to-day a telegram from Havana, through an American official source, stating that yesterday one citizen of the United States was killed and two were wounded. The Secretary immediately telegraphed for the particulars.

Telegrams received by the Spanish Legation from Havana to-day confirm the reports relative to the continued advance of the Spaniards through the insurgent districts.

General Goyeneche's Campaign—What He Accomplished—Devastations of the Insurgents—Death of Senor Oviedo.

HAVANA, Feb. 7, 1870.

An official report has been received of the operations of General Goyeneche, who has just returned to Puerto Principe. On the 20th of January he attacked and carried a rebel fort. A nephew of Cespedes was taken prisoner on the 25th. In an engagement on the following day the insurgents were defeated with a loss of seventy-seven killed. The Spaniards lost five killed and twenty-seven wounded. The General found houses in ashes and plantations destroyed on his line of march. Since his return to Puerto Principe the insurgents had extended their work of devastation, and on the 2d of February, the date of the report, the General says the city was surrounded by a circle of fires, and the incendiaries approached so near the walls that cinders from the burning houses fell into the streets.

Señor Oviedo, of "diamond wedding" notoriety, is dead.
