Another Grand Campaign Inaugurated by the Spaniards—Expected Accomplishments—
More Troops from Spain.

HAVANA, April 3, 1870.

A general movement of the Spanish troops against the rebels in the Central Department has commenced. Separate columns left Puerto Principe on the morning of April 1; another has marched from Puerto del Padre to attack the insurgents in the rear, and Count Valmaseda has advanced to Cauto.

General Goyeneche is in the mountains behind Sibanicá. He reports that 300 rebels have surrendered there, and he discovered and captured a depot of artillery, which is supposed to be the only one the insurgents possessed, and a number of small arms. His prisoners report that the insurgent forces are in a state of dissolution.

Two powerful torpedoes were recently taken from under the rails of the Nuevitas and Puerto Principe Railroad, where they had been placed for the purpose of blowing up passing trains.

Forty insurgents have been killed in the Doña Inés jurisdiction since the opening of the campaign.

A steamer arrived to-day from Cadiz with 500 troops.
