

A NEW JERSEY MAN.

PROCLAMATION INDEPENDENT OF THE CUBAN REVOLUTION.

Senor Tomas Estrada Palma named "by the revolutionists—Held to Miss him, and the Island's claims to be recognized before the United States Government."

The Italian Times,

116 Times Building,

New York May 3—Senor Tomas Estrada Palma who, in 1873, assumed the provisional presidency of Cuba, has been proclaimed President of the hypothetical Republic by the Cuban revolutionists who have organized some kind of a Government in Palanque. Senor Palma lives at Center Valley, N. J. When seen there today, he said:

"This resolution is considered a continuation of the last war, and as I then had the honor to be President, I am not surprised that my friends in the Cuban party wish me to continue in that office. I have not yet received official notice of my election, but I presume that the news communicated to me is accurate. If it should prove so I shall have a conference within the next week or two with Senor Jose Marti, the diplomatic representative of the Cuban revolutionary party. Senor Marti is coming back to the United States to ask this Government to recognize the belligerency of the Cubans, and, after we come to an understanding, this request will be made in a formal way of the proper authorities in Washington. As a patriot, I consider myself obliged to render the services my compatriots expect of me, and I prefer to do so in Cuba rather than from a distance, so I will go to Cuba and continue my mission."

Regarding the prospects of victory, Senor Palma said:

"My sincere opinion is that we shall win. Our men will be able to maintain their position for years without surrendering to the Spanish soldiers. Take the case of Montenegro. It is a small place, yet Turkey was not able to conquer it. We are just in the same position, in our mountainous revolutionary districts, and it will be next to impossible for the Spanish soldiers to win. We are well organized, but it is my opinion that no aggressive move will be made upon the Spanish troops until the latter part of June or the first of July. The Cubans are pursuing a defensive campaign, pending the harvesting of the sugar crops. It is only when they meet the Spanish soldiers by accident that fighting takes place. There have been no great battles yet and there will be none probably, until the crops have been gathered. Then the war will begin in earnest."

Asked what sort of a government would be established if the Cubans won, Senor Palma said:

"If I am elected President after the war I shall endeavor to establish a Unitarian Republic, as Cuba is not yet ripe for the Federal system. In all other respects I shall follow the example of the United States, the model Republic of the world, for I want my country to have a strong Government and a free people. When Cuba has been liberated our task will be by no means ended for we shall then help our sister island, Porto Rico to obtain her independence. The Spanish Government is well aware of this, and I have learned that on April 22 four battalions of Spanish soldiers were drafted to that island from Cuba. The Spanish soldiers fight because they are sent but there is no sentiment to back them, while every Cuban is a soldier fighting for liberty."

Senor Palma was born in Bayamo, Cuba, in 1823. He was educated in Havana and at Seville, Spain. When the revolution of 1868 was inaugurated he acted in the Cuban Congress and in 1873 he was elected President of the provisional Government. Two years later he was arrested by Spanish soldiers in the mountains and cast in prison. The war ended in 1878 and he was set free. Antonio Maceo continued the fight, however, until 1895 when he was forced to flee, the movement having collapsed.

CUBA'S AFTERSHOCK.

Paid No Attention to United States Quarantine Law.

Tampa, Fla. May 3—Last evening, the Spanish warship Infanta Isabella steamed past Quarantine station at night, without paying any attention to the quarantine law and anchored for the night about 10 miles off the shore. This morning the State Board of Health chartered a steamer and started out to her. Both steamers then proceeded to Quarantine, where Mr. Remondia informed Commander Francisco that before proceeding his ship would have to be isolated and detained for at least five days. The physician aboard the man-of-war presented a clean bill of health but as they were only four days from Havana and had 125 men on board Mr. Remondia had no alternative but the enforcement of the law.

Initial news has been received that some of the most noted leaders of Port Principe are out in the field and that the revolution will spread there immediately.

Through the same source the death of General Arsenio is officially denied.

CUBA'S AFTERSHOCK.

One of the Insurgent Leaders—Maceo—Refuses to Contribute.

Mexico May 3—The Government forces of Huastecano have captured Colonel Leticio Orozco, one of the rebel leaders.

It is reported that Juan Vega, another insurgent chief, has surrendered. It is stated that General Antonio Maceo recently sent letters to farmers asking them to contribute arms and money in aid of the rebel cause, adding that he desired to secure the sum of $20,000. The recipients replied in effect that they were not disposed to contribute money for such a purpose and were still less disposed to contribute arms.

Another a rebel chief, has surrendered at Mazatlan.

CUBA'S AFTERSHOCK.

One of the Insurgent Leaders—Maceo—Refuses to Contribute.

Mexico May 3—The Government forces of Huastecano have captured Colonel Leticio Orozco, one of the rebel leaders.

It is reported that Juan Vega, another insurgent chief, has surrendered. It is stated that General Antonio Maceo recently sent letters to farmers asking them to contribute arms and money in aid of the rebel cause, adding that he desired to secure the sum of $20,000. The recipients replied in effect that they were not disposed to contribute money for such a purpose and were still less disposed to contribute arms.

Another a rebel chief, has surrendered at Mazatlan.

CUBA'S AFTERSHOCK.

One of the Insurgent Leaders—Maceo—Refuses to Contribute.

Mexico May 3—The Government forces of Huastecano have captured Colonel Leticio Orozco, one of the rebel leaders.

It is reported that Juan Vega, another insurgent chief, has surrendered. It is stated that General Antonio Maceo recently sent letters to farmers asking them to contribute arms and money in aid of the rebel cause, adding that he desired to secure the sum of $20,000. The recipients replied in effect that they were not disposed to contribute money for such a purpose and were still less disposed to contribute arms.

Another a rebel chief, has surrendered at Mazatlan.

CUBA'S AFTERSHOCK.

One of the Insurgent Leaders—Maceo—Refuses to Contribute.

Mexico May 3—The Government forces of Huastecano have captured Colonel Leticio Orozco, one of the rebel leaders.

It is reported that Juan Vega, another insurgent chief, has surrendered. It is stated that General Antonio Maceo recently sent letters to farmers asking them to contribute arms and money in aid of the rebel cause, adding that he desired to secure the sum of $20,000. The recipients replied in effect that they were not disposed to contribute money for such a purpose and were still less disposed to contribute arms.

Another a rebel chief, has surrendered at Mazatlan.