FOREWORD

The purpose of this book falls well within the scope of The Hispanic Society of America which embraces among its objects the "advancement of the study of the countries wherein Spanish and Portuguese are or have been spoken languages." It aims to present to English readers some account of the living Cubans who have won distinction, and to make them better known and appreciated in English-speaking countries.

Those whose careers are here recorded may fairly be taken as representative of Cuba. They are drawn from every important field of the national life, as from every profession and calling; they include Artists, Authors, Churchmen, Diplomats, Journalists, Lawyers, Merchants, Officials, Orators, Poets, Soldiers, and Teachers. They are likewise drawn from every part of the Island; all six of the provinces and almost every town in the Republic will find their sons here, and if Havana seems to have a disproportioned quota in the list, this is due to the traditional disposition in Latin countries to make the capital city the focus of the national life.

The biographies of the elder men reflect the tremendous part which the struggle for Independence played in their time and show how military prestige overshadowed for a time other kinds of distinction just as the lives of the younger men disclose the increasing value being attached to scientific, commercial, literary, and scholastic attainments.

Under the severe limitations of space which the large number of studies inevitably imposed, the aim has been kept steadily in mind to write genuine "lives"; and while avoiding bald summary and mere eulogium alike, to produce miniature but none the less veritable and, it may be hoped, readable biographies.

The obligations which the editor has incurred while preparing this book are too many to be recounted, but it is impossible to omit paying his grateful acknowledgments for invaluable aid and counsel to his many friends; to Dr. Carlos de la Torre, Señor Carlos Trelles, Dr. Thomas Barbour, and Señor Luis M. Pérez for sound advice and suggestion; to Dr. Salvador Massip and Dr. Ernesto Dihigo for loyal and skillful assistance and to the whole company of the subjects of the biographies for their polite and friendly cooperation. He takes pleasure also in recording his sense of obligation to the members of the press of Havana and to the Library of Congress of Cuba for unwearied and gracious assistance, in accord with the best traditions of Hispanic courtesy.

MARIO G. MENOCAL

Engineer, soldier, man of affairs, third President of the Republic of Cuba.

Like many of his compatriots of recent times President Menocal has spent much of his life away from his own country. His boyhood was passed largely in Mexico and his youth in the United States where he was educated.

Menocal was born in Hanábana, Province of Matanzas, on the seventeenth of December, 1866, the son of Don Gabriel G. Menocal, an experienced and skillful sugar planter who, when his son Mario was about two years old, had to flee from Cuba in consequence of his revolutionary activities. He went first to the United States and thence to Mexico where he settled down as a sugar planter at San Juan Bautista, State of Tabasco. Here the future President of Cuba spent his boyhood, but when he was thirteen he was sent to school in the United States, first at the Institute of Chappaqua, New York, and later at the Maryland College of Agriculture whence he passed in 1884 to Cornell University where he was graduated in the Engineering School in 1888.

On finishing his University course Menocal returned to Latin-America but not yet to Cuba. He first associated himself with his uncle Aniceto Menocal on the commission for the study and construction of the Nicaragua canal route, a task which occupied the greater part of three years. Then in 1891 he returned to his native land, which as yet he hardly knew. He was employed for a time as Engineer for a French Company owning salt works and banana plantations on the Island of Cayo Romano and later entered upon railway construction work, having been employed to carry the survey and location of the proposed railway line from Camagüey to Santa Cruz del Sur.
Here he soon found himself in the thick of revolutionary activities and when in 1895 the War of Independence broke out he joined the forces under General Máximo Gómez, continuing to serve in the field until the final victory following the intervention of the United States in 1898.

As a soldier Menocal exhibited talent for military affairs, and definite aptitude for strategy. He served under three famous chieftains, Generals Máximo Gómez, Mayía Rodríguez, and Calixto García, all of whom recognized his ability, and he won distinction in the battles of Yerba de Guinea, La Piedra, La Aguada, and also in the capture of the Fort Loma de Hierro.

In the capture of this fort he was mentioned as performing "gallant feats of valor" and given the rank of Colonel. Soon afterwards he took a very active part in the siege and capture of the town of Guáimaro in Camagüey for which he was made Brigadier General, but it was the battle of Victoria de las Tunas that marked the climax of his martial career. Here his engineering training stood him in good stead. He made such skillful disposition of men and guns that competent witnesses have said that the conduct of this battle stands out in the entire record of the Revolution as the one combat in which the Cuban forces were disposed and directed in accordance with the principles of military science. Not only did General Menocal direct the operations in pursuance of a well-considered plan but he is said to have led his soldiers in the assault with intrepid courage. Victoria de las Tunas was the crowning achievement of his military career and gave him the rank of General in the Cuban Army, but when war was declared by the United States on Spain, Menocal was appointed Commander of the 5th Army Corps, comprising the Provinces of Havana and Matanzas, where it was expected that American action would be more concentrated. This appointment carried his promotion to the rank of Major General.

On the return of peace General Ludlow of the American Army of Intervention made General Menocal Chief of Police of Havana and in the same year he was appointed to organize the Lighthouse Service, a post which he held for a short time, but gave up to undertake an engineering commission of considerable importance and extent, namely, constructing for the Cuban American Sugar Company the factory at Chaparra, then said to be the largest sugar factory in the world. This task General Menocal fulfilled with credit and distinction.

Meantime the growth of his reputation had brought him within the field of politics. In 1908 he was nominated for the Presidency by the Conservative party but failed of election; in 1912 he was again a candidate and was elected President of the Republic on the ticket of the same party. President Menocal's first term was characterized by a constructive policy including the following practical proposals:

(1) Administrative and financial reforms.
(2) Strengthening the relations with the United States.
(3) Strict regulation of the Public Treasury, liquidation and adjustment of all outstanding indebtedness, and reorganization of taxation, in order to equalize, as far as possible, its incidence.

(4) Support of agriculture and development of immigration.

(5) Reorganization of the Army and Navy, in order to obtain efficiency.

Again in 1916 he received the nomination and was declared reelected, but after a contest so close and so much disputed that the unsuccessful party fomented an armed uprising which for a time threatened to overthrow the government and was only subdued after bloodshed and some destruction of property. During General Menocal's presidency the European War presented many problems of the utmost difficulty, some of which were solved and the quality of President Menocal's statesmanship shown, when, following the example of the United States, Cuba espoused the cause of the Allies and declared a state of war with Germany within twenty-four hours after the United States had done so.

RAFAEL MONTORO

Orator; publicist; diplomat; Secretary of the Presidency of Cuba.

RAFAEL MONTORO was born in the city of Havana on the twenty-fourth of October, 1852, scion of an old family, whose ample means and close affiliations with Spain enabled him to pursue most of his studies in Madrid. There at the age of fifteen he began to study law, literature, and philosophy.

He began his literary career as editorialist and contributor to the Revista Europea and other publications including the Revista Contemporánea of which he was Chief Editor, taking an active part in the proceedings of the Atheneum of Madrid, having been elected Vice-president of its Political and Moral Sciences Section in 1877; also Second Secretary of the Association of Spanish Writers and Artists.
He returned to Cuba in 1878 just prior to the termination of the Ten Years' War, which ended with the Peace of Zanjón.

Shortly after his arrival he joined a party of friends in founding El Triunfo of which he became one of the editors; he also joined the Liberal Autonomist party, devoted to the cause of Cuban autonomy. The following year he was chosen as member of the Central Committee of the party, and likewise elected Deputy to the Spanish Cortes representing the Province of Havana. To this difficult post for which his sentimental regard for Spain and his familiarity with Cuban affairs particularly fitted him, Dr. Montoro was twice afterwards elected, in 1886 and again in 1893 to represent the Province of Puerto Principe.

From 1883 he practiced his profession as a lawyer, having appeared in that capacity before all the Courts.

A firm believer in political agitation and discussion, a partisan of evolution rather than revolution, Dr. Montoro took no part in the bloody struggle of 1895-98. He had remained in Spain until 1895, laboring to bring about autonomy for Cuba rather than final separation. When in 1897 in the midst of the final struggle for independence Spain granted autonomy and a new government was formed, Dr. Montoro accepted the post of Secretary of the Treasury. The solution came too late; the new government found no support and was lost in the intervention of the United States in 1898. Thereupon Dr. Montoro retired from public office and also declined to continue filling the position of Professor of Philosophy and History of Philosophy, to which he had been appointed in the University of Havana and withdrew to complete obscurity. Notwithstanding, in 1902 he was appointed a member of the Tariff Commission, under the Presidency of the now General, Tasker H. Bliss. During the same year, 1902, his talents and character were again requisitioned for the public service and he was appointed Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary to England, to which office was added in 1904 that of Minister to Germany, and he held both posts, residing alternately in London and in Berlin.

In 1906 he was appointed Delegate to the Pan-American Conference at Rio Janeiro. The following year he took part in the reorganization of the National Conservative party and was its first candidate for the Vice-presidency in 1908. Notwithstanding his defeat in the elections he resumed his position as Minister to London and Berlin, at the request of the new government, and remained in that position until 1910, when he was again elected to represent Cuba at the Pan-American Conference at Buenos Aires. On the success of his party in the elections of 1912 he was made Secretary of the Presidency, which position he still holds.

The place which Dr. Montoro has held in the esteem and admiration of his fellow countrymen, has been due in great measure to that gift of oratory which is so brilliant a part of the Spanish heritage and which he was enabled to cultivate to so much advantage as member of the Cortes of Spain.
Dr. Montoro is a member and Director of the National Academy of Arts and Letters, a member of the Academy of History and various other literary corporations. He was also appointed a member of the Advisory Law Commission in 1906 by Governor Magoon.

Dr. Montoro's publications include: Discursos políticos y parlamentarios, informes y desertaciones, Philadelphia, 1894; Principios de Moral e Instrucción Cívica, Habana, 1903: Nociones de Instrucción Moral y Cívica, Habana, 1908.
ALFREDO GONZALEZ BENARD

Lawyer; public man.

ALFREDO GONZALEZ BENARD was born on the twenty-sixth of October, 1871, in the city of Santiago de Cuba and received his early education in his native city. His more advanced studies he pursued in the University of Havana which he entered in 1888 and in which he obtained the degree of Licentiate in Law in 1893 and in 1897 that of Doctor of Laws.

Dr. Benard took up his residence in Cardenas and entered upon the practice of his profession, becoming in due course Member of the Board of Education, Member of the Board of Patrons of the “Santa Isabel” Hospital, and legal representative of his party.

In November, 1910, he was elected Representative in Congress for Matanzas, re-remaining in office until April, 1915, where he served as Vice Chairman and later Chairman of the Committee on Municipal and Provincial Affairs and Vice Chairman of the Committee on Foreign Relations. In 1917 he returned to Congress to represent the same district. He is an active and strenuous member of the Conservative party.

Dr. Benard has contributed occasional articles to various professional magazines and published in the Revista del Foro his doctor's thesis: Principios fundamentales de Derecho Internacional Privados consignados en nuestro Código Civil.
VICENTE PARDO SUÁREZ

Editor; official.

VICENTE PARDO SUÁREZ was born on the twenty-fifth of December, 1870, in the city of Havana where he obtained his early education and completed the courses for the Bachelor's degree in the Colegio of San Francisco de Paula. At the age of fifteen he began to write in the Republican newspaper La Libertad which was published in Havana by Don Niceto Solá y Freixas. He wrote much also for the theater. In 1888 he founded La Republica, a newspaper in which he vigorously opposed the colonial administration and the unjust course of the Spanish authorities toward the legitimate aspirations of the Cubans; in consequence of which he underwent much persecution and many interruptions of his paper. In 1895, after the beginning of the war of Independence, General Valeriano Weyler suppressed the paper on the ground that its title and ideals were incompatible with the tranquillity of the country and the sovereignty of Spain, subsequently deporting its editor to Spain where he was imprisoned in the castle of Monjuitch in Barcelona and afterwards in the prisons of Santander and Bilboa until the thirteenth of August, 1898, the day after the Peace Protocol between Spain and the United States was signed in Washington.

On his return to Cuba and on the organization of the first Board of Aldermen of Havana, Pardo Suárez was appointed, jointly with Colonel Saturnino Lastra, to a position of trust in the Administration of the Municipal taxes. When those who had suffered imprisonment, penalties, and deportation formed an association for patriotic purposes, he was elected Secretary; he also became an honorary Member of the Patriotic Committee of Havana of which Don Salvador Cisneros Betancourt, who had been President of the Republic in arms, was Chairman.
When the Republic was constituted in 1902, Pardo Suárez was appointed Editor of the daily record of the House of Representatives (Diario de sesiones) a post which he resigned in 1904 on his election as Chief Clerk of the House. He has traveled widely, visiting the Parliaments of Washington, Toronto, Madrid, Paris, and Rome to study their methods of administration and to adopt such as seemed suitable and advantageous to the Cuban House.

By the law of the seventeenth of August, 1912, he was made Secretary of the Committee of the Cuban Congress to attend the Centenary of the Constitution of Cadiz, Spain, and in the same year he was elected a corresponding member of the Royal Hispano-American Academy of Arts and Sciences of Cadiz.

He was Secretary of the Anti-Germanic League, founded in Havana to lend aid to the Allies and to conduct propaganda in opposition to the German pretensions.

He has issued eight volumes of Records of the House of Representatives and three volumes of the Legislative Index; he is the...

JOSE MANUEL CORTINA

Lawyer; legislator.

José Manuel Cortina y García was born on the third of February, 1880, in San Diego de Nuñez, Province of Pinar del Rio. He was educated in Havana, completing the courses for the Bachelor's degree in the Jesuits' Colegio of Belén and obtaining his degree of Doctor of Laws at the University in 1903.

While he was an undergraduate he was elected President of the Federation of University Students, organized at the close of the Spanish sovereignty, and then gave signs of promise as an orator in the speech he made in salutation to General Máximo Gómez when he entered Havana at the head of the Army of Liberation in 1899. He was still a student when he took an important part in the organization of the
CUBAN S OF TO-DAY

National Cuban Party, which had for one of its chief aims to put an end to the American Intervention which followed upon the withdrawal of Spain in 1899.

Dr. Cortina has been active in journalism. For two years he edited the newspaper Democracia and was at one time or another a member of the staffs of El Mundo, La Lucha, and La Revista de derecho, besides being a contributor to La Nación and other papers.

After the "Revolution of August" (1906) which overthrew President Estrada Palma, a division arose among the Liberals who had made the revolution and Dr. Cortina was chosen to bring about a reconciliation. His negotiations were successful and resulted in the Liberal party coming into power with the election of General José Miguel Gómez as President. Again at a later time when a fresh division occurred between the two wings of the party, under the leadership of Dr. Alfredo Zayas and General Gómez respectively, Dr. Cortina once more acted as mediator and the party presented a united front in the elections of 1916.
He was elected Representative for Havana in 1908 and re-elected in 1913 and 1917. He has been the leader of the Liberals in the House and has been influential in legislation. He is the author of the Workmen's Accident Law now in force, and of Bills to regulate strikes, to establish a Court of Arbitration for labor disputes, to make compulsory the provision of hygienic dwellings for rural workers, to provide secretaries for the House of Representatives, etc., etc. He is Chairman of the Committee on Public Works.

Among the public offices with which Dr. Cortina has been honored are: Counsel to the Secretary of Public Instruction, and to the Board of Aldermen of Havana; member of the Board of Inspectors of the University, and member of the Special Committee of Congress to revise all the legislation in accord with the economic and social changes brought about by the World War.
FERNANDO FIGUEREDO Y SOCARRAS

_Soldier; engineer; official._

_Fernando Figueredo y Socarras_ was born in Camagüey in the year 1847 and received his early education in Bayamo at the excellent training school “San José” then under the direction of Don José María Izaguirre. At the age of fifteen he passed on to Havana where he entered the preparatory school for special careers maintained by Colonel Eduardo Martín Pérez. In 1863, he proceeded to the United States and attended the Charlier French Institute. This was for a brief period, however, and in 1864 he entered the School of Engineers of Troy, New York, where he completed the course in Civil Engineering. Then he returned to Cuba to join the revolutionary forces organized by Carlos Manuel de...
Céspedes after the call to arms (grito) of Yara and the capture of Bayamo on the eighteenth of October, 1868, which began the Ten Years' War. Figueredo fought throughout the war, serving as soldier, engineer, legislator, Chief of Staff, chief of the revolutionary forces, and ended the conflict as member of the Revolutionary Government, being one of those who protested against signing the pact of peace of Zanjón. During this historic period he fought side by side with Maceo, and it was not until the end of May, 1878, that they gave up fighting, and Figueredo left Cuba with his wife and child.

He went first to Santo Domingo and later to Florida where he held several offices of trust under the American Government, including Member of the Legislature of Florida, Superintendent of Schools, and Mayor of West Tampa. Throughout this period he never ceased to serve the cause of Cuba by every means in his power and when the Revolution of 1895 broke out he was appointed by Delegate José Martí head of the movement for that district, and it is said that the group which lent the most valuable services to the cause was that under his direction.

After twenty years of exile he returned to Cuba in 1898 when the American flag was floating over the Island and soon afterwards was appointed by the American authorities Second Customs Officer at Cienfuegos. Later, in 1900, he came to Havana to take the post of Sub-Secretary of State—a position which he occupied until the twentieth of May, 1902, when President Tomás Estrada Palma appointed him Director General of Communications.

In 1906, he was made Interventor of State and in 1908, on the death of General Roloff, he was appointed by Mr. Magoon (American Governor during Intervention) to succeed him as Treasurer General of the Republic—an office which he still holds.
CHARLES HERNÁNDEZ

Soldier; official.

CHARLES HERNÁNDEZ Y SANDRINO was born on the sixth of May, 1867, in Pinar del Rio and spent his youth partly in Cuba, partly in Santo Domingo, and partly in the United States where he obtained his education. Here also he gained his first military training, in the Massachusetts National Guard which he joined in 1887. Later he went to Florida where he studied agriculture in general and especially tobacco culture.

Hernández enjoyed the confidence of José Martí, "the apostle of Cuban freedom," who commissioned him in 1894 to make preparations for the Revolution. He brought to Cuba the first orders of General Máximo Gómez, calling upon all the leaders of 1868-78 (the Ten Years' War) to place themselves at the command of Hernández and Martí for the rising of the twenty-fourth of February, 1895. At the outbreak of the war he was the first to leave the coast of Florida in command of an expedition with arms and supplies. Three months later he returned with another expedition, running all manner of risks and disembarking under the fire of the Spanish guard in the harbor of Varadero de Cárdenas.

His knowledge of the topography, geology, and botany of the country served him in good stead and was of great value to the army. He placed the mines in the River Cauto, entrance to the Bay of Puerto Padre, and in various other places of special peril and observed, hidden along the shore, the Spanish gun-boats escorting troops and supplies.

He won the rank of Major by gallantry in the face of the enemy in the attack of Guáimaro and that of Lieutenant Colonel in the famous battle of Jiguani, and General Funston said of him that he was one of the bravest and most skillful of the Cuban officers.
Early in May, 1898, he was commissioned by General Calixto García to accompany Lieutenant Colonel Andrew Rown of the American Army to Washington and to set forth to the Secretary of War the situation of the Cuban Army in the eastern end of the island; after which he returned, at the request of General García, to assist in taking the city of Santiago de Cuba. At the siege of this city he won the rank of Colonel.

At the close of the war he turned enthusiastically to the task of organizing the Republic, laboring first in developing the national police, and later in the postal service where he continues to serve as Director General of Communications.
JOSE A. VALDES ANCIANO

Physician; teacher.

José A. Valdés Anciano was born on the twenty-first of March, 1869, in the city of Matanzas and there obtained his early education, completing the courses for the Bachelor's degree. Thereafter he entered the University of Havana where he devoted himself to the study of Medicine and gained the degree of Licentiate and later that of Doctor.

He entered upon the practice of his profession in Havana and in 1906 obtained by competitive examination the Chair of Nervous and Mental Ailments in the School of Medicine in the University.

He has filled various positions related to his profession and has contributed articles, dealing with medical subjects, to various reviews and journals, Cuban and foreign.
He is a Member of the Academy of Sciences, and of the Society for Clinical Studies of Havana; Corresponding Member of the Philadelphia Neurological Society; Honorary Member of the Society of Mental Medicine of Belgium; Foreign Associate Member of the Clinical Society of Mental Medicine of Paris; Corresponding Member of the Medical Psychology Society of Paris, etc.
GUSTAVO PINO

Lawyer; magistrate; legislator.

GUSTAVO PINO was born in Havana on the twenty-fifth of June, 1877. After completing the courses required for the Bachelor's degree in the Colegio of Belén he went to New York to continue his studies at Fordham University, but returned to Cuba to fulfill the requirements of the legal profession in the University of Havana where he obtained the degree of the Doctor of Laws in 1898.

In 1902, he was appointed Judge of the primary Court of Cienfuegos; in 1904 he was transferred to a corresponding post at Cárdenas; in 1906, he was made Assistant Prosecuting Attorney of the lower courts of Matanzas, and in 1908 Counsel to the Prosecuting Attorney of the lower courts of Havana.
In the latter year Dr. Pino gave up the judicial career to enter politics and was elected on the Conservative ticket Member of the City Council (Ayuntamiento) of Havana. Two years later he was elected Representative for the Province of Havana and re-elected in 1914 and 1918. In the Chamber he has been a member of the important Committees of Public Instruction and of Municipal and Provincial Affairs.
DIEGO TAMAYO Y FIGUEREDO

Soldier; physician; teacher.

DIEGO TAMAYO Y FIGUEREDO was born in Bayamo on the twelfth of October, 1853, and was educated in the Colegio of Belén in Havana where he obtained the Bachelor's degree in 1868. A few months later the Ten Years' War broke out and Tamayo was one of those who joined the Cuban colors at Demajagua on the tenth of October of that year, being then fifteen years old, the youngest in the ranks. He took an active part in the war, being on the Staff of General Carlos M. de Céspedes until 1872, when, incapacitated by malaria, he was taken prisoner and expatriated.

Transported to Spain he there entered the University of Barcelona and obtained the degree of Doctor of Medicine in 1878. Soon after this the Peace of Zanjón was signed and he returned to Cuba to enter upon his profession, which he practiced, first at Manzanillo and later at Havana where he set up an academy to prepare medical students for their examinations.

On the outbreak of the Revolutionary War in 1895 he took part in the propaganda and expeditionary activities carried on from New York where he was President of the Revolutionary Council. He was also Vice-president of the Assembly of Santa Cruz and member of the Constituent Assembly. Under the American Intervention he was Secretary of Gobernación and held the same office under President Estrada Palma. In 1905, he was elected Senator for the Province of Havana. He has been deeply engaged in politics, first in the Autonomist party, in which he was a member of the Central Committee until 1895; then in the National party of which he was one of the founders, and later in the Conservative party which he aided in founding.

His professional activities have been numerous and varied. He was the Presi-

For a number of years he has been Editorial Secretary of the Crónica Médico Quirúrgica of Havana and is the publisher of Vida Nueva, a magazine of Hygiene and Social Science. He is also the founder and director of the "Tamayo Dispensary" which is a school for specialists. He has held office as Secretary of the Municipal Board of Health and Secretary pro tem of the General Board of Health. He is President of all the Medical Corporations and has been four times President of the Mutual Aid Society of the Physicians of Cuba. He is also President of the National Health Commission, Professor of Medical Pathology, and Dean of the Faculty of Medicine and Pharmacy in the University. He was Delegate from Cuba to the Anti-tuberculosis Congress held in Washington. | 37 | in 1908, as well as to that held in Barcelona in 1910 of which he was Vice-president; he was President and founder of the Cuban Red Cross; he is a member of the Sociedad Económica de Amigos del Pais.
EMILIO MARTÍNEZ

Physician; laryngologist.

EMILIO MARTÍNEZ was born in Havana on the thirteenth of April, 1864. His father, a political refugee, went to Baltimore during the Ten Years' War and for this reason he took his preliminary education at the public schools of that city; after the war he returned to his native city and entered the University of Havana where he graduated as Doctor in Medicine in 1888. From 1889 to 1890 he was engaged by General (then Major) George M. Sternberg as laboratory assistant of his commission for the investigation of yellow fever, finishing this work in the Laboratories of the Johns Hopkins University, Baltimore. This visit to Johns Hopkins, where he studied pathology and laryngology (post-graduate course) determined his future career as laryngologist and sanitarian.

As a laryngologist he established his practice in Havana and organized the Throat department in the Tamayo Dispensary and La Policlínica. He cultivated this specialty thoroughly in various visits to the New York Polyclinic and the Postgraduate School, New York, and later on in Vienna, at the Poliklinic Generale. His experience of six years as general surgeon to the Havana emergency stations (Casas de Socorro) helped him greatly in the specialty. In 1906 he was appointed, by competition, Professor of Clinical Microscopy in the University of Havana, a chair which he resigned later to occupy that of Laryngologist. He is at present Senior Professor of Laryngology, Rhinology, and Otology in the University and is also in charge of this Department at the General Calixto García Hospital. He is a Member of the American Laryngological, Rhinological, and Otological Society; and passed the examinations at the University of New York admitting him to practice medicine in that State.
As a sanitarian Dr. Martínez was appointed a Member of the Commission for Infectious Diseases by President Palma and is now President of this Commission and ex-officio a Member of the National Board of Health and Charities. He attended the Pan-American Medical Congress at Panama, being sent by President Palma, at the request of General Gorgas, to expound to the medical men of Panama in their own language the new methods employed in the sanitation of Cuba. One of the principal works of Dr. Martínez was the active part he took trying to continue the work of the Intervention Government in the Department of Charities. Being a member of the National Board of Charities and Correction he attended, with other Directors of Hospitals of Cuba, the 28th National Conference of Charities and Correction at Washington and learned there the modern principles of Charities and Correction with Mr. Homer Folks and Mr. Devine. On his return to Havana he organized Las Conferencias Nacionales de Beneficencia y Corrección with such success that they were held regularly for seven years in different cities of Cuba. The purpose of these Conferences was to develop modern charities under the control of the people. The political machine gradually invaded this Department of Charities and made useless all future work in this line.

Dr. Martínez has taken an active part in the medical press. He has been Co-editor of La Revista de Ciencias Médicas, of Los Archivos de la Policlínica, of La Revista de Medicina Tropical, and has published over one hundred articles on Laryngology and Sanitary matters. He is the author of Manual de Microscopía y Química Clínica and an active member of La Sociedad de Estudios Clínicos.
EVELIO RODRÍGUEZ LENDIÁN

Scholar; teacher; author.

EVELIO RODRÍGUEZ LENDIÁN was born on the eighteenth of November, 1860, in Guanabacoa and there obtained his early education. He was enabled to pursue his studies and obtain the Bachelor’s degree by means of a scholarship which carried the condition that he should obtain the highest rank in his classes. By fulfilling a similar condition he was able to continue his course into the University where in 1883 he gained the degree of Licentiate in Philosophy and Letters, winning at the same time the prize for distinction.

The same year he was appointed Auxiliary Professor in the Institute of Matanzas. In 1884 he obtained the degree of Licentiate in Civil and Canon Law, once more winning the prize for special distinction.
In this year also he gained the degree of Doctor of Philosophy and Letters and was appointed Auxiliary Professor in the University of which he served as Secretary for a time.

In 1889 he went as a member of a Commission of professors to examine the students of the College El Ateneo of Porto Rico. In 1893 he won in competitive examination the chair of Universal History and in 1898 he was elected Dean of the Faculty of Philosophy and Letters. He formed part of the Commission appointed in 1899 for the reform and reorganization of the University Professorships.

When General Weyler became Governor General, Professor Lendián found himself obliged, on account of his opinions, to leave Cuba and coöperated with the Revolutionary Committee in New York in active propaganda against the Spanish régime. At the close of the war he joined the Patriotic Committee which was organized in Havana, contributed to the formation of the first political party—the National party—and drew up the Manifesto which the party addressed to the country in 1899.

In 1910 he went to Mexico as one of the Envoys Extraordinary to attend the Centenary of Mexican independence and to bear the greetings of the University of Havana to the University of Mexico. Dr. Lendían has served as Magistrate of the Provincial Courts of Havana, Secretary of the College of Advocates, Director of the Society of Conferences, President of the Association of Doctors in Philosophy and Letters, Dean of the Faculty of Letters and Sciences, Editor of the Magazine published by the Faculty, Member of the Sociedad Económica, Member of the Anthropological Society and temporary Rector of the University.

He is professor of the History of America and of Modern History for the rest of the world; Honorary President of the Society Teatro Cubano; President of the Ateneo of Havana and also of the Academy of History; Member of the Cuban Society of International Law and Charter Member of the Cuban Red Cross.

AND MONOGRAPHS

LEONEL PLASENCIA

Physician.

LEONEL PLASENCIA Y MONTES was born in Madruga, Province of Havana, in the year 1877. His early studies were taken at the church school at Guanabacoa. Later he went abroad and studied at the Central University of Madrid, whence he returned to continue his studies at the University of Havana and there obtained the degree of Doctor in Medicine and Surgery.

He has served as Honorary Physician of the Hospital of Our Lady of Mercy and in 1906 became Ancillary Professor of the School of Medicine in the University. He is a member of the Academy of Sciences and Director of the Clinical Laboratory which bears his name.

Besides numerous monographs of a scientific character he is the author of a work entitled: Ensayo etiológico de la Tuberculosis en la Habana (Habana, 1897), and Trabajos de Laboratorio y su utilidad Clínica.
LEOPOLDO FIGUEROA Y MARTÍ

Physician; public man.

LEOPOLDO FIGUEROA Y MARTÍ was born on the ninth of October, 1858, in Santa Isabel de las Lajas, Province of Santa Clara. He was educated in Spain whither his father had been deported for political reasons and where, after completing the courses leading to the Bachelor's degree, he pursued the studies in the Faculty of Medicine for the degree of Doctor in Pharmacy which was granted him in 1881. He then returned to Cuba and established himself first in Cárdenas and later at Cienfuegos.

Early in 1896 he joined the Revolution, taking part in the expedition of Colonel Arteaga and thereafter serving until the end of the war under the command of General José Miguel Gómez where he rose to the rank of Lieutenant Colonel. During the First American Intervention General Wood appointed Figueroa Alcalde of Cienfuegos, an appointment which was ratified by the public in the first elections held under the Republic and by his re-election in 1908. In November of the same year he was elected Senator for the Province of Santa Clara to which office he has been re-elected and which he now holds. He has served on the following Committees of the Senate: Health and Charities; Tariff; Local Government, and Public Works of which last he is the Chairman. Among the principal laws proposed by Senator Figueroa are: An Act to regulate the practice of Pharmacy; An Act to remit the payment by the city of Cienfuegos of a million pesos besides the two fifths from which it was released by Decree No. 813 of Governor Magoon for the Aqueduct of Cienfuegos; An Act revising the studies of the Faculty of Pharmacy and of the School of Agronomical Engineers.

JULIO VILLOLDO

Author; editor.

Julio Villoldo y Bertrán was born in Havana on the eleventh of October, 1881, and obtained his early education partly in Cuba, and partly in the United States where he spent a portion of his youth. On returning to Cuba he entered the University of Havana to pursue the career of the law and won the degree of Doctor of Civil Law in 1907. But the call of journalism was stronger than that of the law and he devoted himself to writing. He became one of the editors of La Discusión, in which he established and, with the collaboration of associates, maintained for several years a special section called Ornato Público dedicated to the embellishment and adornment of the city.

In 1912 he was made a member of the National Academy of Arts and Letters; he has occupied the post of Secretary as also that of Librarian of the Ateneo of Havana, as well as of the Academy.

Dr. Villoldo is a frequent contributor to the review Cuba Contemporánea, of which he is one of the founders and in which he has written many articles on national affairs. He is also Vice-president of the publishing company which bears the same name, and he is President of the Civic Association of Cuba.

Among the articles which Dr. Villoldo has published in Cuba Contemporánea are: Necesidad de Colegios Cubanos, La inviolabilidad y la inmunidad parlamentarias al través de las constituciones españolas; and Rusia y la democracia.
CARLOS DE VELASCO Y PÉREZ

Author; editor.

CARLOS DE VELASCO Y PÉREZ was born on the fourteenth of August, 1884, in the city of Santa Clara and there, in the Colegio of “Santa Ana,” he received his early instruction, but in 1900 his family removed to Havana where he completed his formal education in the Institute. At an early age he became associated with public men and affairs; first, while he was still a boy, with President Estrada Palma, and later with President Menocal, in both of whose administrations he served as Private Secretary to the Secretary of Gobernación with the title of Chief of Administration.

Having chosen literature as his field of work, he became one of the founders and first editors of the newspaper La Prensa, later a member of the staff of La Discusión, and in 1913, with the cooperation of a group of writers—Dr. José S. De Sola, Dr. Julio Villoldo, Dr. Ricardo Sarabasa, Dr. Max H. Ureña, and Sr. Mario Guiral—he founded the monthly review Cuba Contemporánea, which he has since edited and which has made for itself a place in the front rank of journals issued in Spanish on this continent, numbering among its contributors the most notable authors of Latin-America.

Sr. Velasco has filled a number of posts of a public character: in 1911 he was Secretary of the Ateneo of Havana; he served as Secretary of the National Popular Commission to erect a monument in honor of General Máximo Gómez, Commander of the Army of Liberation, and of the committee to celebrate the centenary of the Cuban poetess G. G. de Avellaneda, which has prepared a definitive edition of her works. He is a Member of the Academy of History, Member of the National Academy of Arts and Letters, Honorary Member of the Royal Hispano-American Academy of Science and Art of Cadiz (Spain), and he VELASCO holds the Order of the Liberator granted him by the Government of Venezuela. In 1915 the Municipal Council of his native city—Santa Clara—by a unanimous vote honored him with the title of "Distinguished Son."

He has written much and widely, being a contributor to the leading periodicals and magazines of Cuba and other Latin-American countries. He is the author of:

Honrando al caído: Palabras de Estrada Palma (1910); La Academia de la Historia de Cuba: Los Académicos de número (1910); Estrada Palma: Contribución histórica (1911); Aspectos nacionales (1915); José Sixto de Sola (1917). He has published also, with Introduction and Notes, the following books: Cartas Amatorias de la Avellaneda (1911); Pensando en Cuba (1917), a posthumous work of Dr. José S. de Sola; Desde el Castillo de Figueras (1918), letters of Estrada Palma. He is now preparing a study on the Cuban historian Pedro José Guiteras, and a translation from the Portuguese, Cartas Familiares y Billetes de París, de Eça de Queiroz. Finally, 1919, he has published in pamphlet form a translation from the French entitled: La "Resolución" de su Santidad el Papa Benedicto.
ALVARO DE LA IGLESIA Y SANTOS

Journalist; author.

Alvaro de la Iglesia y Santos was born in la Coruña, Spain, on the fifth of April, 1859, and came to Cuba in 1874, where for thirty-eight years he has lived the life of an active journalist, having served as editor or contributor on all the leading papers in Havana.

He founded El Mundo, one of the most influential of Cuban newspapers, and is the dean of its editorial staff: he is also one of the editors of La Discusión on which he has served since before the War of Independence. He was editor-in-chief of La Época of Havana and of La Región of Matanzas. He was also the founder of La Familia Cristiana of Havana which he published for two years.

He has never held public office.

José Antonio Pichardo was born in Camagüey in the year 1840 and pursued his studies in Havana where in 1863 he gained his degree in the law. Thereupon he returned to his native city and became Professor in the Institute there, meantime entering upon the practice of his profession which he pursued for over thirty years during which time he was three times elected Dean of the College of Advocates.

Under the Spanish rule Dr. Pichardo was honored on two separate occasions by being made President of the Provincial Deputies, and at the end of his term of service was awarded the Grand Cross of Military Merit (la gran cruz del Mérito Militar) with special distinction. Notwithstanding which, when the sovereignty... of Spain ceased in Cuba he was appointed Presiding Judge of the Provincial Courts of the Republic.

Although he had taken no part in any of the revolutionary movements, the unswerving rectitude and strict judicial integrity of Dr. Pichardo were never questioned by his countrymen who recognized his attainments by making him a member of the Supreme Court, in 1900, a year later selecting him as Presiding Judge of the Criminal Section, in 1904 Presiding Judge of the Civil Division, and in 1913 Chief Justice of the Supreme Court.
JORGE C. MILANÉS

Lawyer; public man.

JORGE C. MILANÉS y FIGUEREDO was born in the year 1859 in the town of Bayamo and there began his education. In 1868 his father took him to the revolutionary camp and in 1871 he was taken prisoner with all his family, except only his father, and obliged to leave Cuba. He went to Jamaica and later to Costa Rica where he completed his studies with the degree of Doctor of Laws granted by the University of St. Thomas.

In 1881 he returned to Santiago de Cuba and in the following year, having obtained the validation of his degree at the University of Havana, entered upon the practice of his profession, first at Santiago de Cuba and later at Manzanillo.

When the War of Independence broke out in 1895 he again withdrew to Costa Rica, of which he had become a citizen, and there for three years fulfilled the duties of the office of Prosecuting Attorney of the Provincial Court, meanwhile practicing his profession. In November, 1898, the war being over, he returned again to Santiago de Cuba, renounced his Costa Rican citizenship to secure that of a Cuban and was appointed Magistrate of the Provincial Court in that city.

In January, 1900, he was transferred to Camagüey where he held the same office and later he fulfilled similar duties in Pinar del Rio and Santa Clara, finally being returned to Santiago de Cuba. In 1905 he was appointed Presiding Judge of the Provincial Court of Santiago de Cuba. In March, 1918, he was appointed Presiding Judge of the Civil Section of the Provincial Court of Havana in which post he continues.
MARCELINO WEISS

_Dentist; soldier; teacher._

Marcelino Weiss was born in the ancient town of Sancti Spiritus on the ninth of June, 1877. After receiving his early education in his native place and fulfilling the requirements for the Bachelor's degree in the Institute of Santa Clara, he went on in 1892 to the University of Havana where he won the degree of Doctor of Dental Surgery in the year 1895.

On the outbreak of the war (1895) he emigrated to the United States, there placing himself under the command of General Emilio Nuñez with whose forces he disembarked at Palo Alto. Later he was enrolled under the flag of José Miguel Gómez where his brothers were fighting and served as Secretary of the Army Corps, with the rank of Lieutenant.
At the end of the war in 1898 he entered the lists and took the competitive examinations under which University Professorships are awarded, and thus gained the Chair of Pathology of the Mouth at an age which made him the youngest member of the faculty.

Professor Weiss has been one of the men who have done most in Cuba for the progress of Dental Surgery and for the dignity of the profession of Dentistry; he is the inventor of an appliance for aiding articulation which bears his name, and is one of the founders of the Dental Society of Cuba.

In 1909 he was Delegate from Cuba to the Fifth International Dental Congress at Berlin and to the Fifth Spanish Dental Congress at Seville.
José A. Malberti

Physician; patriot; alienist.

José A. Malberti was born on the fourth of July, 1854, in Baracoa where he began his studies which he afterwards continued in Spain at the University of Barcelona and there, in 1875, obtained the degree of Doctor of Medicine. After further studies in Paris, Dr. Malberti returned to Cuba and entered on the practice of his profession in his native town of Baracoa. There, however, he became involved in the revolutionary movement of 1879 and was obliged to take refuge in an American schooner bound for New York.

In 1880 he again returned to Cuba and settled in Havana where he was appointed physician to the Asylum for the Insane (Casa de Enajenados). Here he devoted all his time and energy to the study of... mental ailments and became a skillful alienist, rising step by step in the Asylum staff until he became Director, a position which he filled for sixteen years.

He became involved again in the revolutionary movement—that of 1895—and was forced to flee to Mexico where he continued the practice of medicine and became a member of the faculty of the University of Mexico, meantime conspiring actively and at much cost to himself against the Spanish rule by establishing political clubs which maintained a constant propaganda in support of Cuban liberty and of the Revolution as a means thereto.

At the end of the war (1898) Malberti came back to Cuba to accept the post of President of the Board of Managers of the Hospital for the Insane. In 1902 he was elected Representative on the Liberal ticket and chosen Vice-president in two Congresses and President in one. During his period of service in the Legislature he was author of no fewer than eighteen bills affecting the public health and the organization of sanitary service.
In 1906 Dr. Malberti founded a private hospital for mental ailments. He is editor of the Archivos de Medicina Mental and author of Tratamiento sugestivo de la locura, 1896.
LUIS A. BARALT, JR.

Lawyer; teacher.

Luis A. Baralt, Jr., was born on the twelfth of April, 1892, in New York, where he lived until 1900. At that time his parents established themselves in Havana, Cuba, and there he has resided ever since. His father (q.v.) is a distinguished educator, lecturer, and diplomat. His mother, Blanche Z. de Baralt (q.v.), is well known in Cuba and in the United States as a lecturer and writer.

Dr. Baralt received his college education at the University of Havana, where he obtained the degrees of Doctor of Laws and Doctor of Philosophy and Letters. For his scholarship in the Faculty of Letters and Sciences, he was awarded the high distinction of "alumno eminente de la Universidad," which honor he won in competition.
He was also awarded a traveling fellowship which allowed him to study at Harvard and Columbia Universities for two years. At Harvard he studied Experimental Psychology under Münsterberg and conducted original investigations. There he took the degree of A.M.

He is now engaged in the practice of law at Havana and, besides, is Professor of English at the Institute of Havana.

He has published his doctorate thesis on “The Relations between Ethics and Religion” and a number of essays on philosophical and literary subjects which have not been collected.

He is a member of the Sociedad Cubana de Derecho Internacional, in whose work he has taken an active part since its foundation. At its annual meeting, 1919, he read a paper on “The International Significance of the Russian Revolution.”
LEONARDO SORZANO-JORRÍN

during the voluntary exile of his grandfather, José Silverio Jorrín, and his family, at the time of the Ten Years’ War. Educated in the United States, he received his A.B. degree at Georgetown University in 1899 and thence proceeded to Havana, where he studied law at the University of Havana and was admitted to the bar in 1911, being now a practicing lawyer and notary public.

In 1900 he won, through competitive examination, a life professorship of the English Language in the Institute of Havana where he is still lecturing. He has written two elementary school books for the teaching of English, which have run into many editions, entitled *Libro Pri-merno de Inglés and Libro Segundo de Inglés and an Elementary Phonetics now in the press, and is an enthusiastic student of phonetics, being a member of long standing of the International Phonetic Association and of the Société de Dialetologie Romaine.

Mr. Sorzano-Jorrín was one of the founders and for many years a member of the Board of Directors of the Vedado Tennis Club, and materially helped to introduce and popularize the games of lawn-tennis and squash and the sport of rowing in Cuba.

He is the head of the Knights of Columbus in Cuba.
NICOLÁS RIVERO

Journalist; author; publicist.

NICOLÁS RIVERO was born on the twenty-third of September, 1849, in Villa-Viciosa de Asturias in Spain, and there received his early education, but in 1858 entered the Seminary of Oviedo to be prepared for a career in the Church. In 1872, at the age of twenty-three, when he was about to be ordained, he fled the Seminary to go and fight on the side of Don Carlos of Bourbon, the Pretender to the Spanish Crown. In this struggle he was taken prisoner and imprisoned first in one Spanish jail and then in another and finally exiled to the Canary Islands. There he plotted an uprising to seize a warship but the plan was discovered, and Rivero was transported to Cuba with four hundred other political prisoners to fill the ranks of the Spanish regiments fighting to suppress the Cuban insurgents.

After three months Rivero escaped to Spain on the steamer Castilla and rejoined the Carlist forces. With them he took part in the battle of Montejura and continued steadily fighting from 1873 to 1875, during which period he rose by his service in the field to the rank of Major. At the end of the war he took refuge in France, but in 1876 an armistice permitted him to return to Spain where he settled in Oviedo and took up the practice of a notary.

In 1880 he returned to Cuba and devoted himself completely to journalism as a strenuous defender of the sovereignty of Spain. Settling in Havana he edited El Relámpago until, in consequence of its severe attacks upon the Spanish Captain General, it was suppressed. Then he published El Rayo and, later, La Centella, both of which came under the ban. His attacks upon the Spanish authorities led General Blanco to deport him to Spain, but in two months the unyielding journalist was on his way back to Cuba. In 1883 he founded the newspaper called El General Tacón; it was suspended. He founded El Español; it met the same fate: then El Pensamiento Español which was likewise suppressed.

In 1893 Rivero joined the staff of the Diario de la Marina and, in 1895, when the War of Independence was raging, became its editor. The period was a very difficult one for the paper because it stood for the Spanish cause, and the triumph of the Revolution left it in an unfortunate position. But Rivero had maintained strong relations with the Autonomist party which now stood him in good stead and enabled him to make headway under the new conditions.

The war over, he adopted a discreet political course, urging reconciliation between Spaniards and Cubans and forgetfulness of past differences in a joint effort to make Cuba prosperous. His services in this direction were recognized by the Spanish Government which honored him in 1902 with the Cross of Alfonso XII, and he has continued to uphold the interests of the Spaniards in Cuba, supporting a political course of moderation and security.
At the beginning of the World War, Rivero, as editor of the Diario de la Marina, did not conceal his pro-German sympathies but, from the time when the United States and Cuba threw in their lot with the Allies, he corrected his course and became a partisan of the Allied cause, making his paper one of the strongest organs of propaganda in Cuba.

Besides being a journalist, Señor Rivero is an author and has published: Recuerdos de un viaje por España; El Colorado; Recuerdos de México; Veinte días en automovil.
COSME DE LA TORRIENTE Y PERAZA (son of Leandro and Maria Ignacia) was born on the estate of his father, “La Isabel,” near Jovellanos in the Province of Matanzas on the twenty-seventh of June, 1872. He was educated in the Institute of Matanzas where he completed the course for the Bachelor’s degree and at the University of Havana, where he pursued the studies for the law until 1895 when he joined the Revolution which broke out on the twenty-fourth of February of that year. He had obtained the degree of Licentiate in Philosophy and Letters in 1892, for he had pursued this course simultaneously with that of law, and he obtained the degree of Licentiate in Law on his return from the battlefield at the close of 1898.
When the Revolution began in 1895, Torriente was active in the revolutionary clubs of Matanzas, and in March of that year he embarked for the United States to take part in the filibustering expeditions, there being organized. He was a participant in several of those which were captured and in consequence was imprisoned at different times, at Washington, Delaware, at Nassau in the Bahamas, and at New York. Finally he joined the famous expedition in the steamer _Bermuda_ under the command of General Calixto García which landed successfully in Baracoa, and he served throughout the rest of the war under Generals Máximo Gómez, Calixto García, José María Rodríguez, Francisco Carrillo, and José Manuel Capote. He served as Representative for Pinar del Río in the Constituent Assembly of Yaya, Camagüey, returning to the field on its dissolution. When the war closed he had gained the rank of Colonel on the General Staff, having taken part in the attack and siege of Santiago de Cuba as Chief of Staff in the Division commanded by Major...
General José Manuel Capote. He took part also in the fighting along the Gibara-Holguin line between the forces of General Calixto García and the Spanish General Luque, which continued until August seventeenth because the opposing forces were not aware that the Peace Protocol had been signed in Washington on the twelfth.

When the Spanish sovereignty ceased General Ludlow, the Military Governor of Havana, appointed Torriente Secretary of the Civil Government and later Acting Governor of the Province. In August, 1899, he was appointed Magistrate of the Provincial Courts (Court of Appeals) of Santa Clara and in 1900 he assumed similar duties in Matanzas, his native Province. There he remained until 1903 when President Estrada Palma appointed him Secretary of Legation at Madrid, where he served as Chargé d’Affaires until some time later when he was appointed Minister, and also Envoy Extraordinary, to represent the Republic of Cuba at the wedding of King Alfonso who conferred upon him on that occasion the Grand Cross of Isabel the Catholic. When the anarchist attempt then made upon the lives of King Alfonso and his bride occurred, the Cuban envoy and his wife were among those nearest to the royal pair and like them escaped unhurt although about a hundred people were killed or wounded.

In 1906 when the revolution broke out against President Estrada Palma, and an American Interventional government took charge of the country, Torriente resigned his charge although he was the only Cuban diplomat who did so, preferring not to act as foreign representative of the provisional government. The first and only Treaty ever made between Cuba and Spain—that is to say between the former Colony and her former sovereign—the Treaty of Extradition now in force, was negotiated by Torriente and bears his signature.

Since 1906 he has devoted himself to the practice of the legal profession and to public affairs. During the administration of President Gómez he held for a time the office of Civil Service Commissioner, the Commission consisting then of three members, two of the places being held by Liberals and one by a Conservative, Torriente, until the beginning of 1912 when he resigned. On his return from Spain he was one of those who founded and organized the National Conservative party which he served for some years as General Secretary, later as Vice-president, and finally as President which honor he laid down at the end of 1914, but still continues to be Honorary President of the party.

In 1908 he was candidate for Senator from his native province and in 1910 for Representative and was later elected Senator for the term of eight years beginning in April, 1918. He was the first Secretary of State in President Menocal's administration. Among matters of international importance which came under his charge, and were determined in accordance with his opinion and counsel, was the question of claims made by England, France, and Germany for damages suffered by their subjects during the War of Independence.
and known as the "Tripartite Claims," and the case, no less famous, of the Ports Company of Cuba, known as the "Compañía del Dragado." In regard to the latter question it was the judgment of the Cuban Government, sanctioned without dissent by the Supreme Court of Cuba, that it was the most important case of its kind that had arisen in Cuba and possibly in any country in America and offered more difficulties than any other in its study and solution.

Señor Torriente is the first Vice-president of the Association and also of the National Council of Veterans of the War of Independence; Vice-president of the Cuban Society of International Law, and one of the four members for Cuba in The Hague Tribunal of Arbitration; he is a member also of the High International Commission for Uniform Legislation which holds its sessions in Washington. He is the Chairman of the Committee on Foreign Affairs in the Senate of Cuba.

On the declaration of war by Cuba upon the Imperial Governments of Germany and Austria, Senator Torriente took an active part in presenting and urging the principal laws dealing with the war, among them the act for Aid to the Allies which was due to his initiative and became law on the fifteenth of May, 1918. By this there was granted a credit of $2,400,000 annually, to support the civil populations in the war zones of Europe and to succor the soldiers who were victims of the war, and their families. He was President of the Cuban National Committee created by the law of Propaganda for the war and of Aid to its Victims. In recognition of his labors and efforts the French Republic has conferred upon him the decoration of an Officer of the Legion of Honor and he has received the thanks of the Government of Great Britain.

Senator Torriente is a Member by Merit as also Corresponding Member of the Royal Hispanic-American Academy of Science and Art of Madrid; Honorary Member of the Faculty of Political and Administrative Science of the University of St. Mark of Lima, Honorary Corresponding Member of the Royal Geographical Society of Spain, and he was elected in April, 1919, Corresponding Member of the Hispanic Society of America.
ARTURO BETANCOURT MANDULEY

Lawyer; public man.

Arturo Betancourt Manduley was born in the town of Holguín, Province of Oriente, Cuba, on the third of August, 1870. His formal education was interrupted in his youth and was not resumed until much later.

When the War of Independence broke out in 1895 he was deported from the city of Santiago and withdrew to the state of Yucatan, Mexico, where he continued active in the cause of the Revolution until opportunity offered to return and join the Cuban forces in the field. Disembarking in the Province of Santa Clara he served with the rank of Lieutenant under the command of Major General Máximo Gómez.

Some years later he returned to his studies; he completed the courses for the Bachelor's degree at the Institute of Santiago de Cuba in 1909; in 1911 he took the Civil Service Examinations for administrative service; in 1912 he took the examinations for Procurator before the provincial court of Oriente and in 1914 he obtained the degree of Doctor of Civil Laws in the University. In 1916 he was appointed Notary Public for the Municipal district of Cobre, Oriente, and practices the profession of law in Santiago de Cuba and Havana.

He has taken an active part in politics. For three and a half years he served as Private Secretary to the Governor of Oriente. In the general elections of 1912 he was elected Representative from the Province of Oriente on the Liberal ticket and was re-elected in 1916. In the House of Representatives he has been Secretary of the House; Vice-president of the Committee on Foreign Relations, Member of the Committee on Justice and Codes, and President of the Committee on Petitions and Concessions.
From the year 1910 he has been General Secretary of the Liberal party in the Province of Oriente.

He took an active part in the Revolution of 1917 and was appointed Legal Adviser to the Provincial Government of Oriente, President of the Committee on Banks, and Colonel in the Legal Staff of the Revolutionary army.

He is the author of many laws to improve the condition of labor and of public roads.
DOMINGO FIGAROLA-CANEDA

Librarian; editor; author.

DOMINGO FIGAROLA-CANEDA was born in Havana on the seventeenth of January, 1852. He completed the courses leading to the Bachelor's degree and at an early age entered upon a literary career, working as a journalist-contributor, editor, and correspondent—on various newspapers among them El Triunfo, El País, and La Lucha.

In 1876 he founded, in Havana, El Mercurio which he published until the following year. In 1883 he founded El Argumento which had a brief career in Havana. In 1885 he founded La Ilustración Cubana in Barcelona and directed it until 1887. In Paris he founded and published La República Cubana, 1896–1897. Finally he founded La Revista de la Biblioteca Nacional in Havana.
Señor Figarola is a member and one of the founders of the Academy of History and is keeper of its Annals. He is also a consulting member of the Permanent Council of the American Congress of Bibliography and History of Buenos Aires.

He is the author of the following works: Biografía de don Saturnino Valverde (Habana, 1880); Guía Oficial de la Exposición de Matanzas (Matanzas, 1881); Bibliografía de Rafael Merchán (Habana, 1905); El Dr. Ramón Meza y Suárez Inclán, noticia bibliográfica (Habana, 1909), and Cartografía cubana del British Museum, a chronological catalogue of charts, plans, and maps from the sixteenth to the nineteenth century. He collaborated upon the Diccionario Biográfico cubano, de Calcagno (New York-Habana, 1878-86); he arranged the materials of the Obras de Rosa Kruger (T. I. Habana, 1883), and as part of the Biblioteca de La Ilustración cubana published the Poesías de Julia Pérez de Montes de Oca (Barcelona [1887]); Los negros, de Antonio Bachiller y Morales (Barcelona [1887]); Seis conferencias, de Enrique José Varona (Barcelona [1887]) and Dos Amores, de Cirilo Villaverde (Barcelona, 1887).

In addition to these books, Figarola has published the following of which also he is the author:

Escudos primitivos de Cuba (Habana, 1913); Memorias inéditas de la Avellaneda (anotadas, Habana, 1914); Milanés y Plácido (Habana, 1914); Bibliografía de Luz y Caballero (Habana, 1915).
FRANCISCO DE ARANGO

Official; man of affairs.

FRANCISCO DE ARANGO Y MANTILLA is a scion of one of the most distinguished Cuban families, grandson of the eminent don Francisco de Arango y Parreño whose services to his country were so numerous and so conspicuous that on the petition of the Ayuntamiento of Havana the Spanish Government granted him the title of "Marques de la Gratitud." Arango was born at Guanabacoa, and entered the University of Havana where in the years 1884–1885 he gained the degrees of Doctor of Civil and Canon Laws and Doctor of Philosophy and Letters.

In 1885 Dr. Arango was made Assistant Professor in the Faculty of Philosophy and Letters and in the same year began the practice of his profession, but the death of his parents in 1889 compelled him to abandon his hopes of a professional and academic career and to devote himself to the care of his properties. In consequence of the Revolutionary War and the destruction of his properties, he was obliged in 1897 to go to Europe and later to Puerto Rico where he was appointed Judge of the Lower Courts. With the end of the war in 1898 Arango was able to return to his country and give his attention to restoring what had been destroyed in the war. He took no part in politics until his friend General José Miguel Gómez was nominated for the Presidency when he entered the lists in his behalf. On the election of General Gómez in 1908, Dr. Arango was appointed Assistant Secretary of Government (Gobernación), in 1910 he was made Assistant Secretary of Justice, and in 1911 Inspector General of Agricultural Schools.

In 1912, at the end of General Gómez's term of office, Señor Arango resigned and turned his attention to practical affairs—particularly to developing new resources and new agricultural products, for which the fields of Cuba offer special opportunities.
MAX HENRÍQUEZ UREÑA

Author; musician; critic; teacher.

Max Hénriquiez Ureña was born in Santo Domingo on the sixteenth of November, 1885. He was educated in his native place and at an early age entered upon the literary career, being dramatic critic of La Lucha of Santo Domingo when he was fifteen. In 1901 he was granted a pension by the Dominican Government to enable him to go abroad to study music and he began to develop his aptitude for this art in the New York College of Music. Very soon, however, he abandoned his musical studies and though, to be sure, he produced some few compositions, he found his real vocation in literature to which he devoted himself. In 1903 he settled in Cuba and there in Santiago de Cuba founded, and during two years published, the magazine...
Cuba Literaria. Later in Havana he served as editor of La Discusión, El Figaro, and La Lucha.

In 1907 Henríquez removed to Mexico where he remained a year, living an active editorial life as editor of El Diario in Mexico City, of La Gaceta in Guadalajara and of The Monterrey News of Monterrey. During this year he also founded La Sociedad de Conferencias de México.

In 1908 he returned to Havana and there continued his literary labors. In association with Jesús Castellanos he founded La Sociedad de Conferencias de la Habana in which he delivered a number of addresses including: Grieg y la música del Norte, Georges Rodenbach, Tolstoi y la novela realista, Jesús Castellanos; su vida y su obra and Martín en Santo Domingo.

Henríquez also delivered notable addresses in the Ateneo of Havana, as Ibsen y el teatro contemporáneo, Heredia y la poesía parnasiana, and Los fundamentos del bien y del mal. In the Academia Nacional of Arts and Letters he has spoken on Hauptmann.
In 1912 he received the title of Doctor of Civil Laws in the University and in 1916 that of Doctor in Philosophy and Letters. In 1917 he gained in competitive examination the Chair of Grammar and Literature in the Normal School of Santiago de Cuba and in 1918 he was appointed Director of the School.

He was Director of the Ateneo of Havana. In 1914 he founded the Ateneo of Santiago de Cuba in which he has given lectures on Schumann, José Enrique Rodó, and others. In 1915 he founded an Academy for higher studies in language and literature under the title "Academia Domingo Delmonte" in which he has given courses in Spanish and Cuban literature.

He has published: Whistler y Rodin, conferencia (1906); Anforas, poesías (1914); Tres poetas de la música (1915); La Combinación diplomática, juguete cómico (1916); Rodó y Rubén Darío (1918) and El ocaso del dogmatismo literario (1919). He has in preparation a study on the Teatro contemporáneo (1850–1918). He has translated into Spanish Los Trofeos de José María Heredia.
NÉSTOR CARBONELL

Journalist.

NÉSTOR CARBONELL Y RIVERO was born on the fourth of May, 1883, in the town of Alquizar, Province of Havana. When he was four years old his family emigrated and for this and other causes his father was his sole instructor until he was sixteen. Although his family returned to Cuba in 1889 he was not able to follow the usual course of education on account of the necessity to assist in the family support. He obtained somewhat later than usual the degree of Bachelor of Arts in the Institute of Pinar del Río.

He took part in the Revolution of 1906, directed against the government of President Tomás Estrada Palma, and held the rank of Colonel.

Carbonell has been an active journalist.
and has founded the following magazines: Letras in 1906, Biblioteca Cuba in 1914, Don Pepe (devoted to boys and girls) in 1917.

In 1909 he was made Special Inspector in the Department of Public Instruction and, in the same year, Chief Secretary to the Police Force of Havana.

Carbonell is the author of many articles in the press and in various magazines and has given special study to Cuban biography, a field in which he has written much and in which he has a volume in preparation: Los Próceres; ensayos biográficos de cubanos ilustres. In particular he has made a special study of the career of Martí whose works are now appearing under his direction in La Prensa, and whose personality has formed the subject of various addresses by Carbonell, particularly that given on his election in 1914 to membership in the Academia Nacional de Artes y Letras.

MARIANO BRULL was born in the city of Camagüey, Cuba, on the twenty-fourth of February, 1891. At the age of two his parents took him to Spain, where he lived in Andalucía for about nine years, then returning to Cuba. He received his degree of Bachelor of Science and Arts in the city of Camagüey in 1908, and graduated as Doctor of Law at the University of Havana in 1913. He practiced as Attorney at Law in that city almost four years, leaving that profession to enter the Diplomatic Career as Second Secretary of the Cuban Legation at Washington, D. C., in 1917.

During his several years as student in Camagüey, Brull made his first essays as prose and poetry writer. Together with other schoolmates he founded and edited... a small student's magazine, which lasted but a few months. Later, while a resident of Havana, he contributed to the leading Cuban magazine, El Figaro.

In 1916 he published his first volume of poems entitled La Casa del Silencio, and is preparing a new volume of poems, En el Peñón del Vuelo, for publication in the near future. He is also working on translations of English poetry into Spanish.
ADOLFO DE ARAGÓN

Scholar; teacher; author.

ADOLFO DE ARAGÓN was born on the twenty-fourth of March, 1864, in Havana and has lived almost all his life in his native city. There he obtained his education, gaining his degree as Bachelor of Arts in the Institute in 1878; that of Licentiate in Philosophy and Letters at the University in 1882; and likewise that of Licentiate in Civil and Canon Law in 1883. There also he has taught, with the exception of a brief period at the Institute of the neighboring Province of Pinar del Rio where he was Professor of Latin and Spanish in 1883–84. In the latter year he received the investiture of Doctor of Philosophy and Letters and was made Auxiliary Professor, occupying temporarily the chairs of Greek and Latin Literature and Metaphysics.
In 1896 Dr. Aragón was obliged to leave Havana and Cuba on account of his political opinions which were emphatically Separatist, and he removed to the United States where he joined himself to the revolutionists acting with them in the political clubs "Oscar Primelles" and "Patria" of New York and "Tunas de Calixto" of Jacksonville.

In 1897 his Chair at the University was declared vacant for the reason that General Weyler had commanded him to return and he had not done so, but on the contrary had continued his revolutionary activities abroad.

In 1898 when the War of Independence was won, Dr. Aragón was reinstated in his position as Auxiliary Professor by the Government. On May first, 1900, he was appointed to the Chair of History of Classical Literature and in September of that year he gained, in competitive examination, the post of Professor of Latin Language and Literature which he has continued to occupy.

In 1900 Professor Aragón was elected a member of the Board of Education of Havana which office he filled until 1916 and was President of the Board from 1914 to 1916 during a period of important changes in the educational system. In 1916 he was elected Dean of the Faculty of Letters and Science for the period 1916 to 1919.

Dr. Aragón has published Los Dramas de Esquilo (Conferencia, 1916); Aristofanes y la antigua comedia griega, Conferencia, 1914.
HUBERT DE BLANCK

Musician; composer.

Hubert de Blanck was born on the eleventh of July, 1856, in Utrecht, Holland. He received his first instruction from his father and continued his studies in the Conservatory at Liège under Professors Dupuy and Le Dent, where he won the second prize for proficiency at the piano and gained a subvention from the government. In 1873 when he was only sixteen he made a tour of the cities of Russia, and in 1875, being then director of the orchestra at the theater “El Dorado” in Warsaw, he made a joint tour with the violinist Dangremont through Germany and Denmark which was attended with marked success. Following this tour the two musicians sailed for South America where they gave several concerts at the court of Don...
Pedro II. In the same year Blanck returned to Europe and took part in a musical festival at the palace of the King of Saxony. Later he embarked for the United States where he was appointed Professor of the Piano in the College of Music in New York.

In 1882 Blanck visited Cuba and gave several concerts which were crowned with success, and in the following year returned to Havana where he settled and in 1885 established a Conservatory of Music.

In 1896 he was imprisoned for belonging to the Revolutionary Committee of Havana, and soon afterwards, on the order of General Weyler, expelled from the country. On his return after the defeat of Spain, he reopened the Conservatory of Music, which he had founded in 1885, giving it the title Conservatorio Nacional to signify that it was the center of musical education in Cuba.

Hubert de Blanck is not only a pianist but also a composer, and has had an influence in both fields upon the development of music in Cuba.
ANTONIO RODRÍGUEZ MOREY

Painter; director. and teacher of Art.

ANTONIO RODRÍGUEZ MOREY was born on the fourth of March, 1874, in Havana and there in his native city he gained his first instruction in the art of painting to which he has devoted himself. His early studies in design were made in the Academy of San Alejandro de la Habana, and those in painting under the Cuban painters: Juan Ruiz and Miguel Arias. For further instruction he sailed in 1891 to Italy and continued his work in scenic painting and perspective under the celebrated painter Giovanni Lessi. In 1892, with the advice of Lessi, he entered the Scuola Professionale deli Arti Decorative where he won several prizes and the title Pintor escenógrafo. In 1895 Morey passed on to Rome where he entered the examinations and won one of the free posts in the Academy of Painting for the study of anatomy and the nude. At the same time he worked in the studio of the famous Spanish painter Salvador Viniegra and collaborated with the painters Serra and Carrodi. He became Professor of Design and Painting in the Colegio of Santa del Monti and later, after a tour through the principal art centers of Europe, returned to Cuba.

On his return he was appointed Professor of Anatomy, Perspective, and the History of Art in the Academy of Painting and Sculpture of Havana. He has been awarded medals and diplomas in many expositions both in Europe and America. He is a member of the National Academy of Arts and Letters and Art Director of the magazine Bohemia.

Among Morey's most notable works are: Demasiado tarde, Triste jornada, and El otoño en la montaña.
JORGE LE ROY CASSÁ

Physician; scientist; statistician; author.

Jorge Le Roy Cassá was born on the thirtieth of September, 1867, in the city of Havana and there he received his education—the early stages in the Colegio of San Carlos, the secondary courses in that of La Gran Antilla where he gained the degree of Bachelor of Arts in 1882, and the later stages in the University where he won the degree of Licentiate in Medicine in 1888, and of Doctor in 1890. He went on then to Paris where in her University he studied with distinguished masters—A. Pinard (Obstetrics), Latteux (Histology, Pathology, Bacteriology), and Pozzi (Gynecology). In 1893 he was a member of the staff of the Necker Hospital in Paris, working with Dr. Joaquin Albarran as Assistant in the Gynecology ward.

ANTONIO SÁNCHEZ DE BUSTAMANTE

Lawyer; professor; publicist; statesman; orator.

Dr. Bustamante's life possesses that unity and continuity which belongs peculiarly to one whose days are spent in the city of his birth, and where his family has lived before him. Antonio Sánchez de Bustamante was born in Havana on the eleventh of April, 1865, son of another Dr. Bustamante, who was Professor and Dean of the Faculty of Medicine in the University of Havana. The boy began his studies in the famous Colegio of Belén where he completed the course for the Bachelor's degree, going thence to Spain, as was long the custom with Cuban youth, to begin his legal studies at the Central University of Madrid, but returning to the University of Havana to complete his course and obtain his title of Advocate (Abogado).

In 1884, before he was yet twenty, he began the profession of the law and gained by the customary contest of public competitive examination the chair of International Law in the University which he has occupied from that date.

In 1902, when the Republic of Cuba was constituted, he was elected Senator for the Province of Pinar del Rio and was re-elected in 1909 to represent Havana.

In 1895 he was made Member of the Institute of International Law, the only Cuban who has gained that distinction, and in 1907 he was selected as Delegate Plenipotentiary of Cuba to the Second Peace Conference at The Hague. He is Dean of the Faculty of Law at Havana University, President of the Academy of Arts and Letters; President of the Proprietors' Club (Centro de Propietarios) of Havana, over which he has presided for twenty years; Dean of the Havana Bar; Member of the Permanent Arbitration Tribunal of The José Miguel Gómez was born in the year 1858 in the ancient town of Sancti Spiritus and here, in a Colegio maintained by the Society of Jesus, he obtained his early education. After some years he proceeded to Havana and entered the Institute there. Meantime the Ten Years’ War which disturbed the country from 1868 to 1878 was raging and at last the call to arms became too urgent for young Gómez to resist and, in 1876, only a short time before his graduation from the Institute, he joined the forces in the field and fought to the end of the war in Sancti Spiritus.

From this time on he has taken part in nearly every political movement in Cuba. He had a prominent and not inglorious share in the War of Independence, joining the forces of General Serafin Sánchez in the early conflict and continuing in arms until the close. He was made Lieutenant Colonel in command of the "Máximo Gómez" regiment and rose from rank to rank by valor in the field, becoming Colonel by reason of the battle of Palo Prieto—one of the most important battles of the war, becoming Brigadier General by the battle of Santa Teresa—where he was wounded—and finally winning the rank of Major General by valor in the field at Gibaro and Arroyo Blanco.

General Gómez enjoyed the special confidence and regard of the Commander-in-Chief Máximo Gómez, to such a degree that when Maceo was killed, he was selected to take Maceo's place in command of the forces in the West. For this duty Gómez began to organize a force of volunteers, but so numerous were these that the mandate was recalled, the Commander-in-Chief fearing that his army would be weakened and he himself be deprived of an indispensable associate. During these strenuous times Gómez lived a life of incessant toil and combat—at one period, during General Weyler’s campaign in the Sancti Spiritus region, fighting no fewer than seventeen minor engagements in one day.

It was General Gómez’ good fortune in all these combats, great and small, never to have been defeated, though often engaged with much superior forces of the enemy and on one occasion, when the force at his command amounted only to seventy men, taking captive no fewer than two hundred Spanish cavalry, men, horses, and equipment.

At the close of the war, General Gómez was elected Representative to the famous Last Assembly of the Revolution which met first in Santa Cruz del Sur and later in the Cerro at Havana. He was also a member of the commission which was sent to Washington to obtain a settlement of the soldiers’ claims for back pay, his associates being Generals Calixto García, González Lanuza, Villalón and Sanguily. In 1898 he was appointed Governor of Las Villas, under the American Intervention, and was continued in the same office by the votes of his fellow-citizens at the election of 1901. In 1905 he was the candidate of the Liberal party for the Presidency of the Republic but failed of election. Whereupon, after a visit to the United States, he devoted himself for a time to business interests, acting as head of the Silveira Sugar Co.

When the Revolution of 1906 occurred Gómez was arrested and placed under indictment, but was released at the order of the American Commissioners, Taft and Bacon. General Gómez now devoted himself to politics; he was again nominated for the Presidency by the Liberal-Historical party which fused with the old Liberal party and elected its candidate in 1908.

The administration of General Gómez (1909-1913) was marked by many achievements, among which was the reorganization of the army, the increase of the national marine, the improvement of the ports, roads, and bridges, the construction of railways, the improvement of the condition of the workingmen, and the enlargement of the public schools.

Following the election in 1912 of General Menocal, candidate of the Conservative party, General Gómez made an extended visit to Europe, and on his return abstained from politics until the Presidential election of 1916 when he gave his utmost efforts to secure the election of Alfredo Zayas. On the defeat of Zayas in a disputed election, there were various disorders which grew to the proportions of a revolution in which General Gómez became involved and in February, 1917, he was seized and imprisoned for a brief period after which he retired to the United States.
FERNANDO LLES

Writer; editor; poet.

FERNANDO LLES was born in Ceiba Mocha, Province of Matanzas, on the thirty-first of August, 1882, but received his early education in Spain where he was taken by his parents when he was only four years old. When he was twelve he returned to Cuba and set to work to gain an education which should be broad and sound in spite of its irregularity of method. Resolving to remedy the casual nature of his educational training by sustained methodical study, Lles obtained in 1918 the Bachelor's degree in the Institute of Matanzas.

From a very early age Lles felt drawn to letters and particularly to poetry. He founded and edited two magazines, Alma Latina and Matanzas, both of which had an interesting though brief career. In 1909 and 1910 he was the editor of the daily paper Heraldo de Matanzas; from 1910 to 1917 he was editor of El Imparcial and in 1918 took charge of El Jején, all published in Matanzas.

Lies has gained a very creditable reputation as an editor and journalist, but he has won greater distinction in the higher field of poetry in which he has produced a considerable body of work characterized by faultless form and a genuine lyric note. In association with his brother Francisco he has issued three volumes of verse: Crepusculos, in 1909; Sol de invierno, in 1910, and Limoneros en flor, in 1911, in addition to which he has collected a volume of his fugitive poems entitled A orillas del Pireo, inspired by aspects of ancient Greece.
José Augusto Escoto was born on the twenty-fourth of January, 1864, in Matanzas, and gained his early education in his native town where he pursued the studies leading to the Bachelor's degree, but failed to obtain it there, because the Institute of Matanzas like others throughout the Island had been suppressed by the Spanish authorities; but he received the degree in 1880 from the Institute of Havana. In the same year he entered upon the study of Medicine but soon abandoned it to follow the stronger interest in literature and criticism.

The twenty years between 1880 and 1900 Escoto devoted to research—investigating and accumulating material on the history and literature of Cuba, co-operating in his labors with the distinguished Cuban scholars, José Silverio Jorrín, Vidal Morales, and Manuel Villanueva.

In 1900 he succeeded Carlos M. Trelles as Librarian of the Public Library of Matanzas and has continued in that post until to-day. During this period, the second epoch of his life, Escoto has brought to fruition the results of his research in the earlier years and has published numerous articles and pamphlets in the field of Cuban history. In 1911 he produced an extensive biography of the famous Cuban poetess, de Avellaneda—entitled Gertrudis Gómez de Avellaneda: cartas inéditas y documentos, 1859 a 1864.

In 1916 Escoto began to issue his magazine Revisíta histórica, crítica y bibliográfica de la literatura cubana, which, though only four numbers appeared, constituted a positive contribution to Cuban history and letters.

In 1917 Escoto was awarded the prize offered by the Franciscan Order in Cuba in a literary contest with his essay entitled Contribución al estudio de la Primera Orden.
Franciscana en Cuba. And he is at present bringing to completion the critical edition of the works of the poet José Jacinto Milanés which is being published in accordance with the vote of the Congress of Cuba.
JUAN SANTOS FERNÁNDEZ

Physician; ophthalmologist; publicist.

JUAN SANTOS FERNÁNDEZ was born on the twenty-second of June, 1847, at "Atrevido" the estate of his maternal grandfather in the town of Alacranes, Province of Matanzas.

He began his studies at the Colegio of Belén in Havana where he gained the Bachelor's degree and entered the University of Havana. He remained there, however, only two years, passing to Madrid where, in June, 1872, he received the degree of Licentiate in Medicine and two years later at Barcelona that of Doctor.

His devotion to Ophthalmology was apparent during his university days and has remained the central interest in his life. From Spain he went to Paris where he gave special study to his chosen subject.
until 1875 in Dr. Xavier Galezowski's clinic for diseases of the eye. In 1875 he established himself in Havana and founded the Crónica Médico-Quirúrgica de la Habana which is the oldest magazine of the city. In 1887 with the aid of colleagues he founded the Laboratorio Histo-Bacteriológico y de Vacunación Antirrábica which has rendered important scientific service and has passed its twenty-fifth year, which was celebrated in a special number of the Crónica Médico-Quirúrgica de la Habana.

Dr. Fernández has devoted his energies to the medical Press and the Academies. His publications have been very numerous. More than sixteen hundred contributions, containing many annotations and descriptions, constitute the record and these contain details of no fewer than sixty thousand cases, i.e., clinical histories of individuals. So that it might be said that no physician has published more cases in Spanish.

In October, 1909, Dr. Fernández was invited by the American Academy of Ophthalmology to read a paper on his specialty and to receive the title of Honorary Member. On his return to Cuba the Academy of Sciences of Havana, as a sign of its admiration and esteem, devoted a special session to his honor and placed his portrait in its halls.

In 1912 he was chosen to preside at the Pan-American Congress held at Havana; he is President of the Academy of Sciences and also of the Ateneo y Circulo of Havana.
RAFAEL PEREZ VENTO Y NIN

Physician; teacher; writer.

RAFAEL PÉREZ VENTO Y NIN was born on the twenty-first of October, 1875, in the town of Guanabacoa. His education was gained partly in Havana, partly in Madrid, and partly in Paris, and he holds the degree of Doctor in Medicine and Surgery.

He served for a time as Physician of the Hospital of Mercedes and Number One. He won in competitive examination the post of Professor of Physiology, etc., in the Faculty of Medicine of the University of Havana and has continued to occupy it. Meantime he has contributed many articles on his special subject to professional journals and has published: Hojas Fisiológicas, 1914; Hojas Neurológicas y Mentales, 1916.
ALBERTO BARRERAS FERNÁNDEZ

Soldier; educator; administrator.

Alberto Barreras Fernández was born on the twenty-seventh of February, 1870, in Havana and there obtained his education, pursuing the courses leading to the Bachelor's degree in the Jesuit Colegio of Belén and continuing the study of law, though not completing the course, in the University.

During the War of Independence he was imprisoned for conspiring against the Spanish rule and in favor of Cuban liberty, and was later expelled from Cuba. Whereupon he gave himself to organizing revolutionary clubs in the United States and Mexico, devoting his energy particularly to providing resources for the Cuban army and to the propaganda of emancipation.

In 1897 he joined a military expedition which reached the coast of Cuba on the ship Dauntless and disembarked there under the command of Major Luis Rodolfo Miranda. His services in the war gained him the rank of Major.

At the close of the war he continued in government service and on the third of January, 1899, was appointed Secretary of the Board of Education for Havana. His duties began with the organization of education in Cuba, and he had a share in all the early stages, being entrusted with special duties of importance. This post he held until the eighth of October, 1908, when he was appointed Secretary of the Government of the Province of Havana under Governor Asbert, and filled the duties of this office until the sixth of April, 1913. Meantime in the elections of the first of November, 1912, he had been chosen Representative from the Province of Havana and he entered upon the duties of his new office on the seventh of April, 1913. In the House of Representatives he was elected Secretary of the House and held this position until the twenty-ninth of July, 1914.
continuing as Representative until the first of April, 1917.

In November, 1916, he was the Liberal Candidate for Governor of the Province of Havana, and is said to have been elected by a great majority. Under the law the successful candidate should have taken possession of his office on the twenty-fourth of February, 1917, but the government then in power, belonging to the party to which Barreras had been opposed in the elections, prevented him from doing so and imprisoned him until the thirtieth of June, and then, on setting him at liberty, under a fine of $10,000, charged that he had in effect resigned his office by not taking possession of it at the time designated—at which time he was in jail, imprisoned in the cells of the Cabaña. In the spring of 1919, under authorization of the Courts, he entered into his office of Governor.
TOMÁS JUAN DE JUSTIZ Y DEL VALLE

Teacher; writer.

TOMÁS JUAN DE JUSTIZ Y DEL VALLE was born in Santiago de Cuba on the twelfth of July, 1871.

He gained his degree of Doctor in Philosophy and Letters and the secondary degree of Licentiate in Law at the University of Havana where he taught for a time as auxiliary Professor of Universal History. He is now Professor of Geography and Universal History in the Institute of Havana. In the Summer Sessions he has been Lecturer on the History of Cuba, and General Geography.

He has been active as a journalist as well as a teacher, serving as editor and contributor to various papers, and is now one of the editors of La Noche.
For a time he served as Secretary and Director of the Ateneo y Circulo of Havana and is the author of: ¿Existe una Literatura Cubana? —Thesis for the Doctor’s degree, Havana, 1900; Carcajadas y sollozos, a novel, Havana, 1906; Ultima esperanza, a comedy, Havana, 1910; La Victima, a comedy, Havana, 1911; El Suicida, a novel, Havana, 1912; Terrible Sanidad, a comedy, Havana, 1915; Historia Universal, Havana, 1916.
JULIO BLANCO HERRERA

Man of affairs.

JULIO BLANCO HERRERA was born on the twentieth of December, 1881, in Havana. His early education he gained at the church schools of Guanabacoa, and later went to France where he entered the School of Commerce of Paris.

On returning to Cuba he entered the commercial field, joining the staff of the firm of ship-owners Empresa Naviera de Sobrinos de Herrera, of which his father was the manager. In 1903 he became head of the firm, and remained in charge until 1914 when he became head of the Nueva Fábrica de Hielo, S. A.

Señor Herrera has traveled widely and in 1911 made a tour of the world.

He is prominent in Havana Society, being a member of many clubs, and is one of the Directors of the Chamber of Commerce, Industry, and Navigation.
Mario Muñoz Bustamante
MARIO MUÑOZ BUSTAMANTE

Writer; official.

MARIO MUÑOZ BUSTAMANTE Y MEDINA was born in Havana on the third of July, 1881. He gained his education by his personal efforts without attending college or university.

He has an official position as Chief Clerk of the Republic of Cuba. But his active career has been that of a writer, first in journalism where he has served as editor or contributor to nearly all the papers and periodicals of Havana, and later in more sustained efforts in biography and fiction.

RODOLFO RODRÍGUEZ DE ARMAS

Scholar; teacher; publicist.

Rodolfo Rodríguez de Armas was born on the fourth of February, 1874, in Havana, and gained part of his education in the city of his birth. In the year 1891 he became editor of the Revista Universitaria, and in the following year edited also El Centenario en la Habana. He served for a time as Professor of Latin Grammar and of Spanish Grammar and Literature in the Institute of Pinar del Rio, and won the following degrees—Doctor in Philosophy and Letters and Licentiate in Law.

In 1898 he went as Deputy for Havana to the Spanish Cortes where he urged that a sweeping autonomy be granted to Cuba, and later besought the Spanish government to authorize the execution of the Treaty of Paris with the United States, maintaining that it was the duty of Spain to assure the recognition of Cuba as an independent nation.
In 1900 he edited La Unión Democrática in Pinar del Río.

In 1909 he was official Delegate of Cuba in the Third International Conference on Maritime Law at Brussels where he contributed to the discussion of the rules upon Boarding, Salvage, and Responsibility, the application of which might be of great benefit by preventing much litigation.

He is Professor of Geography and Universal History in the Institute of Havana; President of the Section of History in the Sociedad Económicade Amigos del Pais; Member of the Academy of History of Cuba and also Librarian.

LUIS GARCIA CARBONELL

Meteorologist.

LUIS GARCIA CARBONELL was born in Los Palos, Province of Havana, on the tenth of October, 1840. He took his early studies in the Colegio of Don Joaquin Andrés de Dueñas in Havana, but while still very young went to Spain to fit himself for a naval career. There he entered the Naval School of San Fernando in Cadiz where he graduated in 1857 as a Marine guard.

He sailed until 1875 on various ships and on many seas, being in charge of navigation or actually navigating officer of several vessels. From 1875 until 1893, when he requested and obtained his discharge from the service, he was employed in the Captaincy of the Port of Havana and in the Naval Station.

In the year 1899 he established for the Spanish Marine the meteorological service of the Antilles by which he gained the rank of Frigate Captain with which he retired.

When the Spanish rule in Cuba ceased, Carbonell was appointed by the U. S. Government, Assistant in the Weather Bureau of the Antilles, with headquarters at Havana. On the establishment of the Republic in 1902, he was called upon by the Secretary of Agriculture to take charge of the service of climatology and crops which the Intervention government handed over to Cuba.

In 1905 he was placed in charge of the Meteorological Service by which he became Director of the National Observatory, and this he inaugurated on the spot which it now occupies in the Loma de Casa Blanca, of which the exact geographical position is: Latitude 20° 9' N. Y.; Longitude 5 h. 29 m 23.4 sec. W. of the Meridian of Greenwich.

ARMANDO ANDRÉ ALVARADO

Soldier; official; Director of Subsistence.

ARMANDO ANDRÉ ALVARADO was born in Key West, Florida, on the first of May, 1872. In 1892, when he was twenty years old, he joined the Cuban revolution in the Province of Matanzas, attaching himself to the staff of General Antonio Maceo. Under the orders of General Maceo he came to Havana and carried out daring projects including a visitation on General Valeriano Weyler in the very palace in the Plaza de Armas which is now occupied by the President of the Republic. He operated later in the Province of Havana with Generals Delgado and Castillo.

In 1892 he was sent to the United States under orders from General Castillo to conduct an expedition and obtain materials of war. This commission he fulfilled within a month, landing at the mouth of the River Mosquito (near Mariel) with all the members of the expedition, twenty in number, and the materials safe. At the end of the war his services had won for him the rank of Major.

He became an officer of Police in Havana and was entrusted with confidential duties in the administration of President Palma. He fought during the Revolution of August, 1906, at the head of a mobile force.

In 1911 he was elected Representative on the Conservative ticket, for the term ending in 1915. He has twice been candidate for Governor of the Province of Havana and has been President of the Conservative party in the Province and Political Editor of El Día.

In April, 1913, he was elected President of the Commission for the examination of the National Accounts and the verification and inspection of the National Debt.

On the entrance of Cuba into the War in 1917 Señor André was appointed Director de Subsistencias.
ARTURO R. DE CARRICARTE Y DE ARMAS

Editor; author; official.

Arturo R. de Carricarte y de Armas was born on the sixth of November, 1880, in Havana and received his early education at home under the instruction of a noted teacher and writer, Doctor Esteban Borrero Echevarría. In 1894 he gained the degree of Bachelor of Science and Letters and thereafter pursued for three years the Medical course. In 1900 he won the rank of Professor in competitive examination, being one of eleven successful out of a total number of a hundred and five competitors.

In 1902 he resigned his professorship and went to Mexico where he engaged in literary work which occupied him either in Cuba or in Mexico until 1909 when he entered the Consular service and was stationed at Montevideo, Uruguay.

In 1911 he resigned his consulship at Montevideo and was appointed Chief Clerk to the Secretary of Gobernación from which post he resigned in 1913. In 1916 he was appointed Chief Clerk of the Senate where he continues.

Señor Carricarte's life has been chiefly lived in his literary work which he began at an early age, having founded when he was sixteen the Revista Habanera a students' magazine. In 1904 he founded the weekly journal Helios at Marianao and in 1906 in Vera Cruz, Mexico, the Revista Crítica.

In 1907 he served as city Editor of the Spanish edition of the Havana Post and also edited the art journal El Mundo Artístico. He has been a member of the staff of Azul y Rojo, El Figaro, and El Triunfo of which last he has been editorial writer for eight years. He has also contributed to the principal magazines of Cuba and written reviews for the Diario de la Marina.

In 1906 he founded the Asociación
CARRICARTE

Literaria Internacional Americana which he served as President and which included among its members, Jesús Castellanos, Miguel de Carrión, Max Henriquez Ureña, etc. In 1908 he was crowned in the Ateneo of Havana for his critical study on the Caracteres predominantes de la actual lírica Castellana. He is a Honorary Member of the Ateneo of Salvador, and a Corresponding Member of the Academias de Ciencia, Letras y Artes of Salvador, of the Academia Emilio Castelar of Mexico, of the Sociedad de Escritores y Artistas of Porto Rico, etc.

AND MONOGRAPHS
BLANCHE ZACHARIE DE BARALT

Lecturer; writer.

Blanche Zacharie was born in New York on the seventeenth of March, 1866, but spent most of her childhood in Paris where she obtained her early education. On returning to the United States, she entered the Packer Collegiate Institute of Brooklyn where she graduated and afterwards continued her studies, particularly in music, which she pursued under the best masters for several years.

After her marriage to Dr. Baralt (q. v.) she continued to live in New York, occupied chiefly in literary work, until 1900 when her husband fixed his residence in Havana and where husband and wife have had an active literary career. In 1902 she obtained the degree of Doctora in Philosophy and Letters.
She has lectured widely, both in Cuba, France, and the United States, having spoken at the École des Hautes Études Sociales de Paris, Columbia University, and Wellesley, Vassar, and Wells Colleges in the United States, besides the Ateneo in Havana. She has contributed to many newspapers and periodicals, particularly the Diario de la Marina and El Figaro of Havana.

When the war broke out Doctora Baralt associated herself with Señora Mariana Seva de Menocal in organizing the Cuban Red Cross of which she was Vice-President.

She is the author of: Gertrudis Gómez de Avellaneda (article in Werner's Magazine, N. Y., 1898); Conferencia en el Ateneo de la Habana, 1909; Estudios de Arte y de Vida, Paris, 1914.
MODESTO MORALES DÍAZ

Journalist.

MODESTO MORALES DÍAZ was born in the city of Sancti Spiritus, Province of Santa Clara, on the twentieth of April, 1871, while the Ten Years’ War was still raging. He obtained his education in his native place, which at that time possessed excellent primary and secondary schools, and entered at an early age upon the journalistic profession to which he has devoted himself. His first work was done on the staff of El Fenix, the oldest newspaper of the province, which he served first as reporter and later as editor and to which he has continued to contribute.

In his youth he took an active part in the Autonomist party and was zealous in organizing the Young Liberals. When the Revolution broke out in 1895 he was an energetic agent in the revolutionary organization, while acting at the same time as a correspondent of La Discusión (of Havana), and was deported from Sancti Spiritus, in company with other ardent Cubans of the town, by the Spanish General Pin. Whereupon he took up his residence in Havana and joined the staff of La Discusión on which he continued until it was suppressed by the Spanish authorities.

On the foundation of the Republic (in 1902) he became one of the editors of La Lucha and remained on its staff until 1907 when he cooperated with General José Miguel Gómez in founding the newspaper El Triunfo, of which he is now the sole proprietor and in which he maintains the lofty ideals and democratic principles of the Liberal party.

Although he has had a prominent part in political affairs, being one of the original organizers of the National party in Cuba and active later in uniting the elements which supported and elected General Gómez, Sr. Díaz has never held office, either National, Provincial, or Municipal. His sole ambition is centered in the ideals of journalism.
LEOPOLDO ROMANACH

Painter.

Leonardo Romanach was born in 1869 in Sierra Morena, Province of Santa Clara, but was educated in Spain, whence he returned as a youth, resolved to be a painter, and began to paint without instruction.

Sometime later the Provincial Assembly of Santa Clara granted him a pension to enable him to go to Italy to study. There he remained five years and received much instruction from the distinguished master, Professor Filippi Prosperi, Director of the Institute of Fine Arts of Rome.

At the outbreak of the War of Independence in 1895 he lost his pension and went then to the United States where he lived by his brush until 1900 in which year he returned to Havana. His return was signalized by an exhibition of his paintings.
and his appointment as Professor of Color in the Academy of Havana, a post which he still holds.

Sr. Romanach has exhibited at the World's Fairs of Paris in 1902, of Buffalo in 1903, of Charleston in the same year, of St. Louis in 1904, of Havana in 1911, and of San Francisco in 1916. In the Havana Exposition he was awarded the First Prize (Gran Premio) and in that of San Francisco a Medal of Honor. In the earlier Expositions he was awarded two gold medals, one of silver, and one of bronze.

Among Sr. Romanach's works are: Convaleciente, Abandonada, Un nido de miseria, La promesa, Cumpliendo el voto, Juventud, Mis modelos, Rincón de estudios, Segoviana, Viejo rezando, Segadora, Vendedora de naranjas, Luisele, Viejo fumando, Gitana, Madrileña, Soñadora, Contraste.

In addition to these he has produced various decorative panels, a triptich representing Agriculture, and a historical painting El Toso de los Laureles y la Ultima Prenda which obtained the Medal of Honor at the San Francisco Exposition.
Dr. Hugo Roberts.
HUGO ROBERTS

Doctor; soldier; scientist; administrator.

Hugo Roberts was born in Trinidad on the twentieth of July, 1868. He received his early education in Madrid but later came to Havana where he completed the studies for the Bachelor’s degree in the Institute and, proceeding to the University, obtained the degree of Doctor of Medicine in 1891.

He was occupied in the practice of his profession and as Medical Advisor of the Compañía Transatlántica Española until the year 1895 when, on the outbreak of the War of Independence, he threw himself into the struggle and joined the forces of General Antonio Maceo under whom he served and who made him Surgeon at his Headquarters. When Generals Gómez and Maceo organized the column of invasion in the Eastern provinces to carry the war into the western part of the Island, Dr. Roberts was made Surgeon General of the invading forces, a difficult and dangerous post which put to the test at once his personal valor, his patriotism, his energy, and his quality as a man of science. In the course of duty he was severely wounded in the battle of San Gabriel de Lombillo; nevertheless he finished the campaign, gaining promotion from rank to rank solely by his personal merits and ended the war with the rank of Brigadier General.

In 1898 he was delegated from the Sixth Corps of the Army to the Assembly of Santa Cruz del Sur, and in 1901 he served as Alternate in the Constitutional Convention which drew up the fundamental code of the Republic.

During the first American Intervention Dr. Roberts was appointed Surgeon to the Havana Police force; later he was made first surgeon of the Port of Havana and on September 1, 1902, he was named Chief of the Quarantine service—a post which he still occupies.
Along with Doctors Guiteras, Agramonte, Barnet, and López del Valle, Doctor Roberts was one of the most effective co-laborers in the work initiated under the American Intervention for the public health of Cuba, as he has been one of the ablest of those who have maintained the sanitary policy then adopted.

Dr. Roberts was Delegate of the Cuban Government to the Exposition in St. Louis (1904) and to the Pan-American Health Conventions in Mexico (1907), Costa Rica (1909), and Santiago de Chile (1911).

He was also Acting President of the National Red Cross Society of Cuba; and at present is a Member of the National Board of Health; Member of Special Commission of Infectious Diseases and also Member of the Bureau of American Republics in Washington.

He is author of several scientific works on Medical and Sanitary matters and also inventor of an apparatus for generating and injecting hydrocyanic acid gas, which is employed to advantage by the Sanitary Department for the destruction of all kinds of vermin. This apparatus was awarded a Gold Medal in the International Exposition of San Francisco, California, in 1915, and was also awarded a prize by the Third National Medical Congress held in Havana in December, 1914.
Señor Freyre de Andrade was born in the city of Havana on the tenth of September, 1863. His early studies were pursued in Havana in the Colegios of Carcásés and of Don José Alonso Delgado, where he completed the courses leading to the Bachelor's degree, going thence to the Universities of Havana and Madrid to continue his studies in the Law in which he graduated from Havana in 1885.

In 1890 he was made substitute Prosecuting Attorney of the Audiencia of Havana, in 1894 he was made substitute Magistrate, and during the same period he acted as Secretary and Counsel of the Casa de Beneficencia y Maternidad.

When the War of Independence broke out Señor Freyre de Andrade left Cuba and went to the United States where in due course he placed himself under the direction of Tomás Estrada Palma who was guiding the Revolutionary forces in New York. He embarked on the third expedition of the Dauntless landing in Rio Hondo de San Juan on the thirteenth of October, 1896. He then served under General Máximo Gómez who placed him in command of his Cavalry. In the same year the Council of Government named him Auditor General of the Army Legal Staff attached to General Headquarters. In September, 1897, he was elected Representative of the Fifth Army Corps in the Second Legislative Assembly of the Revolution which met at Yaya, Camagüey. At the close of the Assembly the Council appointed him chief of the Military Legal Staff with the rank of Brigadier General, and at the end of the war he was elected to represent the Fifth Army Corps in the last Assembly of the Revolution which met, first in Santa Cruz del Sur and later in Cerro in Havana—of which Assembly he was elected alternate President with General Capote.

When the legal division of the Government was organized under the American Intervention, Freyre de Andrade was made Magistrate of the Audiencia of Havana. Later General Wood appointed him Prosecuting Attorney (Fiscal) of the Audiencia, and when the Republic was constituted President Palma appointed him Fiscal of the Supreme Court. This office he resigned to become Secretary of Gobernación in 1905. In the same year he was elected Representative and was also chosen President of the House of Representatives where he continued until Governor Magoon, at the second American Intervention, suspended the functions of Congress.

General Freyre de Andrade was one of the founders of the Republican party. For a period he abstained from politics on account of his duties as Magistrate, but after becoming Secretary of Gobernación he took part in the activities of the Moderate party as long as it survived, whereupon he shared in organizing the Conservative party with which he remains allied.

In 1912 he was elected Mayor (alcalde Municipal) of Havana and occupied the office until 1916 when he retired before the end of his term on account of illness.
SERGIO CUEVAS ZEQUEIRA

Teacher; orator; publicist.

Sergio Cuevas Zequeira was born on the thirty-first of January, 1863, in the city of San Juan de Puerto Rico (Puerto Rico), and there, in the Colegio of the Society of Jesus, he obtained his early education and received the Bachelor's degree. He then devoted himself to the teaching profession and by competitive examination gained a position in the city schools of Ponce (Puerto Rico). In 1887 the Spanish Governor General, D. Romualdo Palacios, threatened him with deprivation of office unless he would renounce his Autonomist opinions. Thereupon Cuevas Zequeira resigned his post, left Ponce and went to Mayagüez where the Society for the Propagation of the Faith entrusted him with the charge of El Liceo, a school of primary and secondary education where he continued for three years.

Stirred by the spirit of enterprise he left his native country and set off to make a career in Cuba. Going to Havana he entered the University and there, having gained the degree of Doctor in Philosophy and Letters, he obtained the position of acting-Professor of the History of Spain. At the close of the Spanish-American War he returned to Puerto Rico to accept the post of Professor of Philosophy, Logic, and Ethics in the Provincial Institute there.

In 1900 he returned to Cuba, seeking an ampler field for his energies than he could find in his native island, and entering the competitive examination, he won, by the unanimous vote of the committee of judges, an Auxiliary Professorship in the school of Philosophy and Letters in the University. In fulfillment of this appointment he acted as substitute for Dr. Enrique José Varona in the chair of Psychology, Morals, and Sociology while this distinguished scholar was occupying the post of Secretary of Public Instruction in the Cabinet. Later he had the chair of History of Philosophy and has now been promoted to act definitively as Substitute Professor in the chair of Dr. Varona.

Dr. Cuevas Zequeira has won distinction in other fields—those of oratory and journalism. As an orator he became widely known in Puerto Rico, not only for political addresses but as a speaker in support of various good causes affecting patriotism and education. In Cuba he is President of the Society for advancing the Cuban Theater and is sought as a public speaker.

Both in Puerto Rico and in Cuba Dr. Cuevas Zequeira has had an active journalistic career. In Puerto Rico he founded and edited El Liceo and served on the editorial staffs of El Liberal, El Territorio and El Diario de Puerto Rico; in Cuba he has been an editor of El Mundo, La Republica Cubana, La Opinion Nacional and La Instrucción Primaria. He has served also as a member of the Provincial Council of Havana.

Besides being a frequent contributor to periodicals, Dr. Cuevas Zequeira is the author of: En la Contienda, a collection of political articles, Havana, 1901; El Padre Varela, Habana, 1906; Platicas Agridulces, satires, political and literary, Habana, 1906; William James y pragmatismo, a lecture, 1914; La Revolución de Yara, a lecture, 1915.
LUIS A. BARALT Y PEOLI

Educator; writer; lecturer; physician; diplomat.

LUIS A. BARALT Y PEOLI was born in Santiago de Cuba, on the first of October, 1849. Having received his early education there, he soon went to Matanzas where he continued his studies at "La Empresa," Antonio Guiteras's famous school. Having returned to Santiago de Cuba, he studied at the Institute of that City.

During his five years at this institution, from which he graduated a Bachelor, he earned his tuition by scholarships awarded for excellence in his work. In his eighteenth year he set sail from Santiago de Cuba to New York where he studied at Bellevue Hospital, and became a Doctor in Medicine. He practiced this profession for several years with success, but for vocational reasons discontinued his practice and devoted his attention to journalism, art, and education. He was for several years special dramatic critic for The World of New York. In the eighties Doctor Baralt became the center of an artistic and literary movement, which took concrete form in the "Society for Harmonious Culture," of which he was founder and President.

At the time of the Cuban War of Independence Doctor Baralt collaborated successfully with the Revolutionary Junta of New York in the work of raising funds for the cause of Cuban freedom.

He was for some time Professor of Spanish at Columbia University and for fifteen years Special Instructor in the same subject at the College of the City of New York.

When the Spanish domination ceased, he immediately returned to his native land where he soon after won by competition a chair at the Institute of Havana as Professor of English.

Since returning to Cuba, Doctor Baralt has devoted most of his time and efforts to the study of Education; has been the leader or inspirer of several movements for the betterment of public instruction in Cuba, and on two occasions has been sent to Europe to study educational methods there. The first time, in 1907, he traveled extensively through Europe and submitted to the government, on his return, an important report on his investigations. The second time, in 1912, he was a delegate of Cuba at the Pedological Congress held at Brussels.

Besides innumerable articles, lectures, reports, etc., which Dr. Baralt has published in various periodicals, he is the author of two textbooks for the study of English and one for the study of Spanish, and also of a translation into Spanish verse and prose of Shakespeare’s Hamlet.

At present Dr. Baralt is Minister Plenipotentiary and Envoy Extraordinary of Cuba at Lima, Peru.

RAIMUNDO CABRERA

Lawyer; editor; author.

RAIMUNDO CABRERA was born in Havana on the ninth of March, 1852, and received his early education in the schools for the poor in the town of Guines whence he passed, as a gratuitous pupil, to the Colegio of San Francisco of Asis completing there his course for the Bachelor's degree.

From his boyhood he was involved in revolutionary activities against the Spanish rule and in 1869 he was indicted, condemned, and confined upon the Isle of Pines. In 1872 he obtained permission from the Spanish authorities to be transferred to Seville where he was permitted to resume his studies at the University and obtained the degree of Licentiate and was admitted to practice in 1873. In the same year he returned to Cuba and entered upon the practice of the law in Havana where he won early and notable success.

When the Ten Years' War closed in 1878 and the Autonomist party was formed Cabrera was one of its founders, organizing the local section in Guines. In 1879 the party elected him Provincial Deputy and at the same time made him Secretary of the Provincial Deputation of Havana, to both of which offices he was reelected in 1883.

In Guines he founded the newspaper La Unión which always maintained a high reputation and under the inspiration of Cabrera kept alive the fires of enthusiasm for liberal ideas.

In 1890 the Central Board of the Autonomist party presented him as a candidate for the office of Deputy in the Spanish Cortes and although he gained the majority of votes he was defeated through the highhanded procedures of the Spanish party. He never again sought public office. He had already lost confidence in any peaceful development of Cuba under the sovereignty of Spain and when the Autonomist party ceased to be the genuine representative of the movement of protest against the oppression, Cabrera abandoned its ranks and withdrew from political life in 1893.

A few years earlier, in 1887, he had written, as a result of a controversy, a book which embodied the history and aspirations of the Cuban people of that time. Cuba y sus Jueces was the title of the work which ran through nine editions in a short time and was translated into English where it appeared as Cuba and the Cubans.

At the beginning of the War of Independence in 1895, Cabrera emigrated to New York and founded the illustrated magazine Cuba and America.

This magazine, which is still alive, soon gained a wide circulation and was the channel of a fearless campaign in support of the independence of Cuba. When peace was made Cabrera returned to Havana where, instead of seeking political office, to which both his deserts and his talents gave him high claims, he immersed himself in the practice of his profession as advocate.
On his return from New York he had continued publishing his magazine Cuba and America which has always been his pulpit from which he has made his influence felt in the intellectual and political life of Cuba.

The only public offices which Cabrera has held have been honorary. He has been:

Member of the Local Board of Health; Member of the Provincial Board of Agricultural Industry and Commerce of Havana; Vice-president of the Patrons of the Home for Relief and Maternity (Casa de Beneficencia y Maternidad).

A great part of his life Cabrera is bound up with the Economic Society of the Friends of the Country (Sociedad Económica de Amigos del Pais) which he served as President of the Section of Education from 1898 to 1910 and of which he has been President since 1910.

In addition to Cuba y sus Jueces published in 1896 he is the author of a number of books among which are: Cuentos mios, Havana, 1904; Cartas a Estevez, Havana, 1906; La Casa de Beneficencia y la Sociedad Económica, Havana, 1914; Los Partidos Coloniales, Havana, 1914; Desde mi Sitio, 1911; Episodios de la Guerra, Phila., 1898; Los Estados Unidos, 1890; Cartas a Govin, 1892; La Exposición de Chicago, 1893; Juveniles, Poesias, 1907; Borrador de Viaje, 1911; Mediro Sigto, stories and a novel, 1913; Sombras que Pasan, a political novel, 1916; Ideales, sequel to the foregoing, 1917; Sombra Eternas, sequel to the foregoing, 1918; Mis buenos Tiempos, 1891.
ENRIQUE JOSÉ VARONA Y PERA

Man of letters; scholar; teacher; statesman.

ENRIQUE JOSÉ VARONA Y PERA was born on the thirteenth of April, 1849, in Camagüey, and there obtained his early education, later going on to Havana where he graduated from the University with the degree of Doctor of Philosophy and Letters. He embodied for his generation in Cuba the ideals and attainments of the classic type of the parent race. A poet in his youth, producing before he was yet twenty odes and lyrics of marked promise, he went on to achieve a notable place in the fields of scholarship, letters, and public affairs—the arenas in which the men of earlier generations in Spain were used to test their powers and to exhibit their inheritance of the Roman tradition.

In all these fields Varona won distinction. The list of his published works is long and varied. He had written a volume of Anacreontic Odes before he was nineteen, ten years later he published a survey of the intellectual movement in America; in the following decade he was publishing philosophical studies; in the forties he was writing political tracts and later turned his attention to problems of education.

The public life of Dr. Varona has been in entire accord with the best traditions of a University professor and a man of letters. For many years he has held the chair of Psychology, Moral Philosophy, and Sociology in the University.

For a brief period he was one of the Cuban Deputies in the Spanish Cortes, and for more than two years he held office first as Secretary of Finance and afterwards as Secretary of Public Instruction during the first American Intervention. He was elected in 1912 Vice-president of the Republic but at the end of his term retired to the academic and literary life which was more to his liking. He was President of the Anthropological Society.
of Cuba and Vice-president of the Ateneo y Circulo of Havana.

CARLOS M. TRELLES

Scholar; bibliographer; patriot; man of letters.

Carlos M. Trelles was born on the fifteenth of February, 1866, in the city of Matanzas, "the Athens of Cuba," where he received his early education in Los Normales and La Unión schools in which he came under the influence of the distinguished scholar Dr. Carlos de la Torre. For his degree of Bachelor it was necessary for him to attend the Institute of Havana because the Spanish authorities had closed the doors of the Institute at Matanzas.

In the same year in which he graduated (1880) he began the study of Medicine but four years later gave it up to enter a commercial career, which did not prevent him, however, from continuing in his devotion to Letters. By the year 1887 he began to be recognized as a rising journalist; in 1892 he was one of the influential writers in the Revista Cubana, then edited by Dr. Enrique José Varona, to which he contributed a series of articles on the United States as an intellectual power.

In 1895 he issued a pamphlet widely read at the time, Cuba and America, in which he disclosed his separatist tendencies, and on the outbreak of the War of Independence Trelles began to take an active part in it, laboring to arouse the spirit of patriotism in Matanzas which had been beaten down in the disaster of Ibarra (February 24, 1895). So successful were his efforts that Estrada Palma, then directing the revolutionary propaganda from New York, designated him, together with other patriots, to form the Revolutionary Committee of Matanzas, of which he continued to be the life and soul.

In spite of the vigilance and persecuting zeal of the Spanish authorities, Trelles escaped to Tampa early in 1896 where he pursued his activities for the Revolution. He became a regular contributor to Patria.

the newspaper organ of the revolutionists then published in New York, contributing to its columns between eighty and one hundred propagandist articles, not ceasing meantime to contribute regularly to the pages of Cuba y América, the magazine which his compatriot Raimundo Cabrera was publishing in the same cause in the same city.

In 1898, at the close of the war, Trelles returned to Cuba and organized in his native town the Public Library of Matanzas of which he was the first librarian. It began with two thousand volumes and he was able when, at the end of ten months, he turned it over to his successor to deliver thirteen thousand volumes—a thing without parallel in the history of Cuban libraries.

In 1900 he was selected to collect and organize the products and characteristic objects of the Province of Matanzas for exhibition at the Paris Exposition. He met with such a measure of success in this that he was commissioned to organize the Cuban section in the Exposition and was later designated to write the official report on "Sugar and Tobacco at the Paris Exposition" which appeared in 1901.

On his return to Cuba, Trelles was elected Member of the Council of Matanzas, but he soon discovered that he had no calling for politics and at the end of three months retired in disgust.

In 1900 he had begun to collect the materials for his great work Bibliografía Cubana, on which he was continuously occupied for sixteen years. In 1907 he began its publication in parts and completed the issue of the twelfth and concluding volume in 1917. The bibliography includes thirty-three thousand books and pamphlets by nine thousand authors and is the only work of its kind hitherto completed in any country of America—an achievement due solely to the energy and sacrifice of the author; for no aid of any sort was supplied him by the government.

In 1918 he began a new series of bibliographical publications, the Biblioteca científica cubana of which the first volume has already appeared and the second is in the press—in reality a revision and supplement of his Bibliografía. These will be followed by Bibliotecas, Geográfica, Histórica, Literaria, etc.

Trelles is also the author of Los ciento cincuenta libros más notables que los cubanos han escrito (The Hundred and Fifty Best Books Written by Cubans).

He is a Member of the Academy of Arts and Letters and that of History, and an Honorary Member of the Economic Society of Friends of the Country. On the occasion of his installation in the Academy of History, Trelles produced a study on The British Rule in Cuba (La dominación británica en Cuba) based upon documents hitherto unknown. In 1918 he was elected Corresponding Member of the Hispanic Society of America.

He is now engaged upon a new edition of his work on America as an Intellectual Power.
LOLA DE TIO

LOLA RODRIGUEZ Y PONCE DE LEON DE TIO

Poet; authoress.

LOLA RODRIGUEZ Y PONCE DE LEON DE TIO was born in the town of San Germán (Puerto Rico), the daughter of Dr. Sebastian Rodriguez de Astudillo and Doña Carmen Ponce de Leon.

From her early youth Señora Tió showed a marked talent for writing, and her disposition was developed by a stormy and eventful life marked by a period of exile for political reasons and much travel. She took as active a part as possible in the political struggles of Puerto Rico and, on taking up her residence in Cuba, gave similar devotion and zeal to her adopted country, becoming the enthusiastic admirer of General Maximo Gomez and the men who surrounded him in the Cuban Army of Liberation.
In 1892 Señora Tió was distinguished by her native town by being made an Honorary Member of the Circulo Sangermeno.

In 1896 she was unanimously elected Honorary President of the Political Club Rius Rivera founded in New York by those who emigrated from Cuba during the War of Independence.

In 1910 she was made Honorary Member of the Society of Authors and Artists of Puerto Rico. In the same year, she was elected a Member of the Academy of Arts and Letters of Havana.

In 1911 she was honored with the title of Socio Bienhacher, in the Benevolent Society of the natives of Galicia. She has also been decorated by the Government of Venezuela with the Order of the Liberator Bolivar.

Señora Tió has written much both in verse and prose but her best known books are three volumes of poems: Mis Cantares, Claros y Nieblas, and Mi Libro de Cuba.
Raúl de Cárdenas y Echarte
RAUL DE CÁRDENAS Y ECHARTE

Lawyer; writer.

RAUL DE CÁRDENAS Y ECHARTE was born on the twenty-fourth of December, 1884, in Havana, where he was educated, passing through the successive stages of primary school, the Institute where he gained the degree of Bachelor of Arts, and the University where in 1905 he was made Doctor of Laws.

He entered at once on the practice of his profession. In November, 1910, he was elected Representative for the Province of Havana for the term ending in 1915, and in 1914 reelected for the term ending in 1919. In the same year he was chosen Secretary of the House of Representatives and reelected to this office also in 1915.

Dr. Cárdenas has written various papers of a legal character, among them, *El Recurso de Inconstitucionalidad, and has treated international problems in papers such as that which he read in January, 1917, before the American Institute of International Law on Cuba no puede invocarse en testimonio del imperialismo Norte-Americano. At present, March, 1919, he is publishing in the magazine Cuba Contemporánea, an article on La Política de los Estados Unidos en el Continente Americano in which he discusses the Monroe Doctrine and the various aspects of the preponderance which the North American republic exercises in America.
JOSE MARTÍ Y ZAYAS BAZÁN

Soldier; official.

José Martí y Zayas Bazán, son of the famous Cuban patriot and apostle of independence, was born in Havana on the twenty-second of November, 1878. There he was also educated, following the usual courses of study while his father in exile prosecuted in other lands the propaganda of Cuban liberty.

He was graduated at the Institute, Bachelor of Arts and Sciences, and had begun to study law at the University of Havana when the War of Independence broke out.

Being unable on account of the vigilance of the Spanish authorities to join the Cuban Army from Havana, he went with some of his student friends to the United States and tried to join from that point.
For some time he was prevented from so doing by his father's friends who considered him too young to enter the war. But he was finally allowed to enlist as a soldier, which he did in October, 1896, and, after some months of training and waiting, landed in Cuba in February, 1897.

He was promoted a month later to the rank of Second Lieutenant, on account of his being a Bachelor of Arts, and was appointed Aide-de-Camp to General Calixto García on whose Staff he served until the end of the war.

He volunteered for service with the dynamite gun and served this weapon during the siege and attack of Victoria delas Tunas and Guisa, both great victories for the Cuban Army. In the former fight he was promoted to be First Lieutenant for gallantry in action on the battlefield. He took part in all the operations in Oriente led by General García and finally was present at the landing of the American forces and the attack and siege of Santiago.

At the end of the war, when he was a Captain, he was sent on an official mission from General García to the Cuban Delegate in the United States, Tomás Estrada Palma. In 1902, after a competitive examination for appointment of Officers to the Cuban Artillery forces organized at the time, he was appointed Captain, ranking first, and consequently took command of the battalion. In 1906 he was appointed Aide-de-Camp to Secretary William H. Taft and afterwards remained in the same capacity with Governor Magoon. In 1907 he was promoted by seniority to the rank of Major, in 1909 to that of Lieutenant Colonel and, on the reorganization and increase of the Army, to Colonel and appointed Chief of Staff of the Army. In 1910 he was appointed to the command of a Brigade of Infantry and in 1913 he was appointed to temporary command of the Army.

In 1915, after the reorganization of the Army, a work he undertook by special instructions from the President of the Republic, General Menocal, he was appointed Assistant Chief of Staff with the rank of Brigadier General, and later in the same year was appointed Chief of Staff with the rank of Major General, holding this office until August, 1917, when he retired after nineteen years of service, including those of the War of Independence, to accept the office of Secretary of War and Navy, which he now holds.

He is a member of the Military Order and of the Red Cross.
FRANCISCO DOMÍNGUEZ ROLDÁN

Physician; soldier; teacher; Secretary of Education for Cuba, 1917.

FRANCISCO DOMÍNGUEZ ROLDÁN was born in Havana on the fifteenth of February, 1864. His early studies indicated his native bent, for he studied first in the Colegio of Esculapius in Guanabacoa, later going to the University of Havana where in 1884 he obtained the degree of Licentiate in Medicine and from there went to Madrid to obtain the degree of Doctor in the University.

From Madrid he journeyed to Paris and there won his Doctor's degree in 1888. There also he won a place on the Hospital staff where he served as interne and externe for a period of four years, and gained at the close of his service the Bronze Medal of the Asistencia Pública of Paris.

AND MONOGRAPHS
In 1892 he returned to Cuba and exercised his profession in Havana until 1895 when, at the outbreak of the War of Independence, he left his brilliant prospects to take part in the Revolution. He served throughout the campaign in the provinces of Havana and Matanzas, rising to the rank of Colonel in the Medical Service. At the end of the war he returned to Havana and took up again the practice of his profession.

In 1899 he assisted General Wood in reorganizing the School of Medicine and was appointed Professor of Topographical Anatomy. Since the year 1903 he has devoted himself to the study of the X-ray in which he has become an authority. In 1905 he was commissioned by the government to visit Europe to study radiography—a commission which he fulfilled with great success, visiting England, France, Germany, and Denmark. In 1907 he was honored by the French Government with the order of the Legion of Honor, and in 1910 he was sent as delegate from Cuba to the International Congress of Radiology held in Barcelona.
DOMÍNGUEZ

In 1916 Dr. Roldan was elected Dean of the Faculty of Medicine and in 1917 he was appointed, by President Menocal, Secretary of Education and Art, in which position he has had opportunity to put into effect views of education which have been of great benefit to Cuban culture, giving vigorous impulse to all branches of education and calling to her shores distinguished educators from abroad.

Among his published works are: El tórax y sus regiones (1895); Procedimientos operatorios (1904); Lecciones de cirugía de urgencia (1905); Lecciones de anatomía topográfica (1905 y 1906); Rayos Finsen, Rayos Rontgen, Radio (1906); Radio, Radiología y Electricidad Médicas (1911); Anatomía topográfica y operaciones de urgencia del tórax (1914).
CARLOS E. FINLAY

Physician; teacher; specialist.

Carlos E. Finlay, son of the famous discoverer of the transmission of yellow fever by the Stegomyia mosquito, was born in Havana on the fifteenth of July, 1868. His early studies were made at the Colegio of Belén, where he completed the courses leading to the Bachelor's degree, after which he went to the United States, entered Columbia University, and obtained his degree in Medicine in 1889. He then joined the staff of the New York Ophthalmic and Aural Institute, serving as Clinical Assistant and Interne until 1892 when he returned to Havana and began the practice of his profession as eye and ear specialist. In 1905 Dr. Finlay was appointed Professor of Ophthalmology in the University and has continued in that position.

Notwithstanding his duties in the University and the ever increasing pressure of a growing practice, Dr. Finlay has contributed numerous articles to professional journals both at home and abroad, giving special attention to the operation for cataract. He has also translated Dr. Charles H. May’s Manual on Diseases of the Eye, one of the most important recent works in the field of Ophthalmology.

Dr. Finlay is a Member of the Academy of Sciences and of the Society for Clinical Studies.
JOSE MARIA COLLANTES

Lawyer; poet; official; Member of Congress of Cuba.

JOSE MARIA COLLANTES was born in San Cristobal, Province of Pinar del Rio, on the thirteenth of November, 1877, and received his early education in his native town. His later education he obtained in Havana where he studied at "La Gran Antilla" Colegio and gained the Bachelor's degree in the Institute of Havana in 1893. Having elected to enter the legal profession, Collantes pursued the law course and obtained his degree as Licentiate in 1898. In the following year he was appointed Municipal Judge of the Vedado (Havana), and in 1900 designated as member, and Secretary, of the Tripartite Commission of Charities for the Island of Cuba, which was set up by General Wood under the American Intervention to study the reforms necessary in this branch of the administration and to investigate and organize the multitudinous interests involved in the charitable organizations.

In 1902 he was appointed auxiliary Professor of Literature in the Institute of Pinar del Rio, and in 1903 he was made official Counsel for the defense of the poor and those who had no counsel before the Provincial court in the same city—an office which he retained for six years. Thereafter, from 1909 to 1912, he filled various official positions under the same body until in 1912 he was elected Representative in Congress on the ticket of the Conservative party, and re-elected to the same office. In 1915 he received the nomination to the Presidency of the Chamber of Representatives, and at present (1918) is Chairman of the Committee on Foreign Relations and that on Justice and the Codes.

Señor Collantes is Secretary of the Conservative party and Secretary of the Commission on Propaganda for the War and for the Relief of its Victims.

Señor Collantes has distinguished himself also as a poet and is counted among the most effective orators of his party.

Among his published works are: Rojas y Palidas, poems, 1900; Un vueltabajero ilustre, Tranquilino Sandalio de Noda, 1901; La casa del pobre, 1903; Sistemas penitenciarios, 1904; Discurso sobre Maceo, 1914.
LUIS MARINO PÉREZ

Librarian.

LUIS MARINO PÉREZ was born on the twelfth of July, 1882, at Kingston, Jamaica (B. W. I.). His parents were among those Cubans who preferred to reside in a foreign country than to suffer the oppression of the Spanish government in Cuba. His father, José Francisco Pérez, had joined the Revolution in 1869 and was, during all his life, a staunch supporter of the movements for Cuban independence.

Pérez's education, begun in the Jamaica schools, was continued in the United States, where he studied successively at Alma Academy (Michigan), completing the Scientific course in June, 1901, and at the University of Michigan, obtaining the degrees of A.B. (1903) and A.M. (1904). He there studied principally philosophy, sociology, and history; was a member of the Quadrangle Club, and in 1909 was elected to the Michigan Chapter of the Phi Beta Kappa Society. During his last year in the University (1904) he was appointed Assistant in European history.

He has served in the following positions: with the Department of historical research of the Carnegie Institution, Washington, D. C., for which he prepared, first, a report on the materials for American history in Cuban archives (1905) and, later (1916), on the archives of Jamaica; in the Library of Congress, Washington, D. C. (1906); translator in various departments of the Cuban government; and head Librarian of the House of Representatives of Cuba since 1912. He was appointed in 1914 to assist the Commission created by presidential decree, No. 659 of 1914, for the study of the budget system of Cuba, and, in 1918, Chief Clerk of the National Commission for war propaganda and for the distribution of Cuban government funds in aid of the soldiers and war victims of the Allies. At the request of the Department of Public Instruction he has recently undertaken the work of organizing the classification and cataloguing of the National Library of Cuba.

He has contributed articles on historical, social, and political questions to the Publications of the Southern History Association, Washington, 1907; Pro-Cuba, Havana, May and June, 1911 (only issues published); La Reforma Social, Cuba Contemporánea, El Figaro, and others. At the annual meetings of the Cuban society of international law, 1917, 1918, and 1919, he has read papers on the Sovereignty of Cuba, Justice as a Principle of International Law, and the Self-determination of the Small Nationalities, respectively.

He was one of the organizers of the "Fundación Luz Caballero," an influential educational and patriotic association, and of the Pure Suffrage League ("Liga protectora del sufragio"). He was the chief initiator, in 1917, of the Liga nacional de propaganda económica, which, after a short agitation in favor of the domestic production of all necessary foodstuffs, discontinued its labors.
He has published the following books and pamphlets: Apuntes de libros y folletos... que tratan de Cuba, desde principios del siglo XVII hasta 1912, Havana, 1907. Guide to the Materials for American History in Cuban Archives, Washington, 1907. Estudio sobre las ideas políticas de José Antonio Saco, Havana, 1908. Bibliografía de la Revolución de Yara—Cuaderno I, Havana, 1908. Biografía de Miguel Jerónimo Gutiérrez, revolucionario y poeta cubano, Havana, 1912; and, with Orestes Ferrara and others, Anuario estadístico de la República de Cuba: Ano I, 1914, Havana, 1915. In 1909 he published a magazine in Spanish and English entitled Cuban Opinion (La Opinión cubana), of which only six numbers were issued, and in 1916, with Federico Córdova, the Revista de historia cubana y americana, of which five numbers have been issued. He has edited, with Vicente Pardo Suárez, Trabajos parlamentarios de José A. González Lanuza, Havana, 1919.
GUSTAVO F. AROCHA Y LLANERAS

Lawyer; magistrate.

GUSTAVO F. AROCHA Y LLANERAS was born on the first of May, 1864, at the Villa of Guanajay, in the Province of Pinar del Rio. He was educated under the direction of F. B. Ramos, at the Colegio of San José de Calasanz. After studying at the Jesuit College of Belén he received the degree of Bachelor of Arts in 1879 and then took up the study of civil and canon law at the University of Havana. After six years' study he was admitted to practice in both these faculties. While at the university he worked in a law office and was admitted to the bar in Havana, where he exercised his profession from 1885 to 1899. At this last date the first American Government of Intervention nominated him for Judge of the First Instance and Instruction in Pinar del Rio, the Court of which had suggested him for the position. He was transferred from this position in 1900 to a similar post at Cárdenas, in the Province of Matanzas. In 1904 he was promoted to the magistracy of the Court of Santa Clara and from this he proceeded to a judgeship of the First Instance in the north of Havana Province. After three years in this post he was promoted in 1909 to the presidency of the Court of Matanzas, a charge which he exercises at the present time, 1919, and which carries with it the presidency of the Provincial Electoral Board. Since his presidency of this court he has read each year a formal charge published thereafter in accordance with the prescriptions of the Cuban Judiciary Act.
Miguel Garmendia y Rodríguez

Educator.

MIGUEL GARMENDIA Y RODRÍGUEZ was born in the town of Máximo Gómez, on the eighth of May, 1862. He received his primary education at Matanzas and, owing to his father's death in 1875, he was compelled to make a living as instructor in the schools of Matanzas, finally becoming superintendent of one of the primary schools there. In the meantime he devoted himself to higher studies and took the degree of Bachelor of Arts in 1879. From this date he has devoted himself to the pursuit of teaching and the study of literature. In 1892 he received from the University the license of professor and in the same year entered the Institute at Matanzas as associate professor. In 1899, under the authority of the Provincial Council he organized the public schools of Matanzas and was offered the position of provincial school inspector by Mr. A. E. Frye, but he preferred to remain in his teaching position. In 1899 also he was authorized by the American Intervention Government to hold classes in Spanish for the officers of the American Army stationed at Matanzas. In 1900 he was appointed professor, after competition, to the chair of grammar and literature in the Institute of Matanzas. In 1902 he was nominated provincial superintendent of the schools of Havana; in 1904 he accepted the position of general superintendent of the schools in Cuba, and took part in the arrangement of the courses of study applied throughout the Island until 1914. In 1905 he withdrew from his position, during the presidency of President Palma, and resumed his chair at Matanzas. In 1916 he was elected a member of the educational board of Matanzas, over which he presided for three years. Among his published works may be named two novels: Almas Perdidas, Cursa de Gramática, Sol de Autuño, 1882. His educational publications are: Libro de Lectura, 1885; Ortografía Castellano, 1896.
FEDERICO EDELMANN Y PINTO

Educator.

FEDERICO EDELMANN Y PINTO was born in Havana on the twenty-sixth of May, 1869. He was educated at the Colegio of Belén in Havana. After studying also at the School of Painting and Sculpture in Havana, he was appointed in 1892 Professor of Spanish Language and Literature by the New York City Board of Education. In this capacity he taught at the Evening High School of New York City, and in 1898 he became Professor in the same branches at the De Witt Clinton High School. Both of these positions he filled until 1905, when he was placed in charge of the chair of English at the Institute of Havana, a position won after competition. From 1889 to 1892 he was employed on the staff of Frank Leslie's AND MONOGRAPHS illustrated newspaper, New York City, as an illustrator. He is author of a monograph entitled: "How a Foreign Language Should be Taught," and of a series of articles published in the Heraldo de Cuba, entitled Como deben visitarse los museos de Arte; besides, he is author of a considerable number of paintings in oil of landscapes and figures, and pen-and-ink drawings. He initiated the founding in Havana of the Salon of Fine Arts in 1916, which has been held there annually since. He has been President of the Association of Painters and Sculptors in Cuba from its foundation in 1916.
Víctor Muñoz
VICTOR MUÑOZ

Journalist.

VICTOR MUÑOZ was born at Havana in 1873. He came in his early youth, in 1890, under the influence of the revolutionary spirit of the day, abandoned his studies, emigrated to the United States, and established himself in Florida, where he soon engaged in journalist work in the Spanish publications issued in Tampa and Key West in favor of Cuban independence. In 1899 he returned to Havana and took up the profession of journalism, to which he has devoted himself ever since. He is a journalist, not a political editor of the type so long familiar in Spanish America, and has familiarized himself practically with all the various departments of journalistic activity. He began his career in Havana as reporter of La Discusión and after two years became associated with El Mundo. In this paper he was in charge of the sporting page and also of the Washington correspondence. His journalistic ideals are based upon American models, which he has studied directly in the newspaper offices of New York. Even the terminology of American slang he has transplanted to Havana journalism. Lately, without giving up his interest in the records of sport, he has developed in El Mundo a special section called "Round About the Capital," which gives the Cuban reader information in regard to American social and political life. His purpose in this department must be regarded as educational as well as entertaining. The picture presented in El Mundo of the life in the United States is derived from a careful reading of the principal representatives of the American press. An idea of the aims of this type of his journalistic work can be derived from a selection published from it, called Junto al Capitolio. This publication will soon be followed by another book, a realistic novel, called Sangre Africana.
DOMINGO F. RAMOS Y DELGADO

Physician.

DOMINGO F. RAMOS Y DELGADO was born in Pinar del Rio on the ninth of September, 1884. His education was received at the University of Havana, where he took the degrees of Doctor of Medicine, 1905, and Doctor of Science, 1906. In both these schools he was a gold medallist, an honor which enabled him to pursue graduate studies in New York and Paris hospitals. Among the scientific posts held by him may be mentioned the directorship of the clinical laboratory of Hospital No. 1, the directorship of the library and press section of the Sanitary Commission, Chief of the Department of Infantile Hygiene, Chief of the Department of Homiculture in the Commission of Hygiene, Chief of the Department of Milk Analysis, and Member of the Investigating Laboratory of the Department of Sanitation. He has also served as assistant in the Museum of Natural History of the Havana University, as interne associate and medical interne of the Mercedes Hospital, and as delegate of the Cuban government to the Third International Congress for the Protection of Children, 1911. In 1917 he was named Assistant Professor in the Medical Department of Havana University. At the present time he is attached as doctor to the Calixto García Hospital and is obstetrician and pediatrician of the Mercedes Hospital. He is the author of many scientific articles and in collaboration with Professor Eusebio Hernández has published a work entitled Homicultura, presented to the Third International Congress mentioned above. Acting in association with Dr. Hernández he introduced into Cuba the principles of infantile hygiene, and took part recently in founding hygienic departments for the protection of children, such as milk analysis and the distribution of modified milk for poor children. In addition to this milk laboratory he has established a similar one in the Bluhme Ramos Laboratory for the well-to-do classes.
EZEQUIEL GARCÍA ENSEÑAT

Educator; public man.

EZEQUIEL GARCÍA ENSEÑAT was born in Havana on the twenty-third of March, 1862. His advanced studies were pursued in the University of Havana, in which he graduated in law and afterwards as Doctor of Letters. He soon became known as a writer in the field of literature and journalism but took no part in public life while Cuba was a Spanish colony. For some time he remained away from the Island and traveled in Europe, residing for a considerable period in Paris, where he devoted himself to the study of literature, history, and art, and contributed to Cuban reviews and papers and also those of other countries. During the War of Independence he was secretary of the committee representing the Cuban Revolutionary party, and also edited the separatist publication, La République Cubaine. On his return to Cuba he was named professor of one of the chairs of history, and when the university was reorganized he obtained competitively an associate professorship of literature. On his return to Cuba he began to take an active part in political life and allied himself with the Progressive party. He became editor of the Patria, was a frequent speaker on the political platform, and in 1908 he became editor in charge of El Liberal. In the Cuban Legislature he represented the Province of Havana and in this body he was made Chairman of the Committee on Public Instruction. Among other legislative measures, his name is associated with the present educational code of the Island. As a parliamentary speaker he is known for his championship of advanced standards in administrative departments. In 1913 he became Secretary of Public Instruction and Fine Arts, and remained a member of the Cabinet until the end of 1917. In this capacity may be mentioned his work in behalf of education, illustrated by his reorganization of the program of study, especially in primary schools. More than a thousand country schools were established under his régime, and the system of itinerant school teachers is due to him. In addition to this he promoted the organization of the first four normal schools in the republic. He is a member of the Academy of History of Cuba and is known as a writer on art and as a lecturer. At the present time he is Minister of Cuba in Mexico.
prison infirmary, the public dispensary and, during the American Provisional Government, was chief of the Board of Health.

In 1909 he went to Havana as head of Hospital Number One (now Hospital Calixto García), but resigned to take a similar position with the Casa de Beneficencia y Maternidad; in this capacity he represented the Cuban government at the International Congress on Infantile Diseases convened in Berlin in 1911 and, after studying asylums and hospitals in the United States and throughout Europe, reformed according to the most advanced standards the hospital in his charge.

Politically Dr. Mencia is a Liberal and in 1916 was elected to represent the Province of Havana in the National House of Representatives.
LEANDRO GONZÁLEZ ALCORTA

Teacher; patriot; writer.

Leandro González Alcorta was born on the thirteenth of March, 1861, in the Province of Pinar del Rio. In 1883 he accepted the call of the recently created Institute of that Province to join its teaching force and became its Secretary.

The Cuban struggle for independence soon claimed his attention and he allied himself enthusiastically with its propagandists. When troubles were at their height in 1895 he was forced to emigrate to Spain where in the very stronghold of the enemy he proclaimed the wrongs of the colony through the columns of La Paz, a paper which he founded for the purpose. He was arrested and imprisoned, but later being provisionally released, escaped to the United States and thence went to Mexico.
where he remained until peace was concluded in 1899.

He then returned to his native province and succeeded in reopening the Provincial Institute of which he again became Director. In this capacity he has worked many years for the betterment of the locality, having established in the school a public library and free training classes for prospective men and women teachers. He established in 1911 and maintained for three years a weekly periodical Región y Patria. He continues in the Provincial Institute of Pinar del Rio filling two professorships, that of Philosophy and Letters and that of Spanish Language and Literature.

Dr. González Alcorta has written and published various pamphlets, chiefly of a political nature; his thesis for the degree of Doctor of Philosophy and Letters prepared in 1901 was upon Causes of the Cuban War for Independence.
Luis Montané
LUÍS MONTANÉ

Physician; man of science.

Luís Montané was born in Havana on the seventh of April, 1849, and educated in France. He received in Paris in 1874 the degree of Doctor of Medicine, his thesis upon Estudio anatomico del Craneo de los Microcefalos being awarded a prize. Throughout his undergraduate years he devoted special attention to anthropology, coming under the tutelage of the eminent scholars Broca, Hamy, and de Quatrefages. At this time he was chosen as a titular member of La Sociedad de Antropologta de Paris.

Upon the completion of his medical education Dr. Montané returned to Havana where he has won distinction in his profession and has held very close his connection with anthropological research.
He has served as visiting physician to the Hospital of S.S. Felipe y Santiago; dean of the faculty of Sciences and Letters of the University of Havana; professor of Anthropology in the same university. He is a member of the Academia de Ciencias and has acted as its general secretary; was one of the founders and president of the Sociedad de Antropologia of the Island of Cuba; founder and vice-president of the Sociedad de Estudios Clinicos of Havana; creator and organizer of the anthropological museum which bears his name; member of the Ateneo, Liceo de la Habana, and Sociedad “Poey.”

He was delegate of the government of the Republic of Cuba to the scientific Congresses at Monaco, Turin, Paris, Buenos Aires, and Washington. Under the auspices of the Academy of Sciences Dr. Montané has carried into effect various anthropological missions to the interior of Cuba.

Many of the lectures and papers which he has prepared for scientific and literary organizations have found their way to the press. Notable among these writings are those bearing upon scientific research in the Island: La Infanta de la Humanidad, Sepulturas Indias, Cubanas, Un Chimpancé Cubano. He also has made a study of the psychology of the noted Cuban scientist, Felipe Poey.

MANUEL PÉREZ BEATO

Teacher; physician; author.

Manuel Pérez Beato was born in Cádiz, Spain, on the fifth of March, 1857. His studies were pursued in Cádiz until the fourth year of his medical course which he completed in Havana in 1882, obtaining the degree of Licentiate and later that of Doctor of Medicine. Upon his graduation he won by competition an appointment as interne in the Civil Hospital of Havana. Through success in later competitions he won places as assistant in the Department of Physics and Chemistry in the Escuela Profesional of the Island of Cuba and as librarian in the same school, and later as assistant in the physical and meteorological observatory of the Island of Cuba. The greater part of his mature life has been devoted to the Escuela de Artes y
Oficios in Havana, where he has served for thirty-six years as Professor of Industrial Chemistry, at the same time acting as Secretary of the school for sixteen years and for seventeen years as its Vice-president.

During recent years Dr. Pérez has been prominent among students of Cuban history. He has been since its foundation in 1910 a member of the Academia de la Historia de Cuba and since 1918 has been the librarian of that organization. His later writings have been mostly of a historical nature: _El Curioso Americano_, _Revista de Historia de Cuba_; _Bibliografía Comentada Sobre los Escritos publicados en Cuba, relativos al Quijote, 1905_; _Inscripciones Cubanas de los siglos XVI, XVII, XVIII, 1915_.

His earlier writings were upon medical topics: _Algunos tratamientos empleados en la curación de la fiebre amarilla_ (Thesis for the doctorate); _Historia de la vacuna y progresos alcanzados en este ramo de la administración en la isla de Cuba_ (1896).

In addition to these works he has published in different magazines a variety of articles upon history, medicine, and criminology. He has ready for publication: Topografía médica de la Habana, Cuba, Cuatro siglos de Historia, Bibliografía médica Cubana.

AND MONOGRAPHS
JOAQUÍN CHALONS

Civil engineer.

JOAQUÍN CHALONS was born in Santiago de Cuba, on the twenty-fourth of August, 1864, and received his early education and his Bachelor's degree in the Colegio "Santiago." In 1882 he entered the Academia de Ingenieros at Guadalajara, Spain, where five years of study brought him the title Engineer. He devoted the next three years to field work upon the Pyrenean border, then returned to Cuba as Captain of Engineers and was appointed subhead of the engineering offices of the city of Santiago.

At the outbreak of the war for Cuban Independence (1895) he returned to Spain and took a position with the Southern Railway lines of that country.

When the war was over he returned to Santiago as engineer of the Steel Ore Co., and in 1900 joined the local Department of Public Works as assistant engineer. After several minor promotions he became chief engineer of the Department of Public Works of the Province of Oriente. He soon attained the rank of Chief Engineer of the First Class and under the national government filled successively the offices of Director General and Inspector General of Railways.

Following a two-years' interim marked by the American Provisional Government, during which he devoted himself to private practice of his profession chiefly as technical director of a company engaged in the urbanization and extension of Santiago, he was returned to the Department of Public Works. After a few months, as head of that department in his native province, he was attached to the National Department of Public Works as secretary (1909-1911).

For the following two years, 1912-1913, he remained in Havana as the consulting engineer of the General Contracting Co. and of the "Compañía de los Puertos de Cuba" as well as member of the Harbors Board; he then returned to Santiago where he practices his profession.

He is a member of the National Academy of Arts and Letters.
Aurelia Castillo de Gómez
AURELIA CASTILLO DE GONSALES

Traveler; author.

AURELIA CASTILLO, daughter of Pedro Castillo y Betancourt and María Castillo y Castillo, was born in the Province of Puerto Príncipe (now Camagüey), Cuba, on the twenty-seventh of January, 1842. Her parents found it impossible to give her the educational advantages they desired, and after her tenth year her intellectual development was left to the Fates which supplied her with reading matter.

In May, 1874, she was married to Francisco Gonsales del Hoyo, Major of Infantry in the Spanish Army. A year later she accompanied her husband to Spain when he was expelled from the Island by the Spanish Brigadier Ampudia [because of his vehement condemnation of the execution of the Cuban patriot, Dr. An-
The family made its home at various times in Santander, in Madrid, and in Almería, the husband engaged in preparing El Pueblo de Camagüey while Doña Aurelia wrote Hicólencate, Doña Mariana, and Moctezuma.

Returning to Cuba, Doña Aurelia de Gonzales settled with her husband in Guanabacoa and wrote her: Adiós de Victor Hugo which won in 1885 the first prize in a literary contest. The following year in a similar competition her Biografía de G. G. Arellanedo received honorable mention. She attended the Paris Exposition in 1889 and recorded her impressions for a Havana journal, El País. The Revista Cubana published subsequent letters from Italy and Switzerland and a poem entitled Pompeya. Later all this correspondence was collected and published under the title Un Paseo por Europa (1891).

After traveling in Mexico she visited the United States and attended the Columbian Exposition in 1893 again acting as correspondent for El País; this series of letters composed the volume Un Paseo por América, issued in 1895.

Upon the sudden death of her husband, the twenty-fourth of March, 1895, she determined to write no more since the main incentive was gone.

By the edict of General Weyler she was again expelled from Cuba in 1896 and chose for her place of residence Santa Cruz de Tenerife and afterwards Barcelona. Returning to Cuba at the close of the Spanish régime, and finding her former home in Guanabacoa in ruins her emotions forced her to break her resolution and write. Her verses Ruinas were soon followed by another poem, Expulsada, which expressed her feelings upon being obliged to abandon her home as the result of attack and robbery with threats of death.

Upon the reëstablishment of the Republic in 1902 Sra Castillo de Gonsales turned again to her pen; she prepared two small volumes of verses, Trozos Guerreros and Apoteosis, which appeared the following year. She made visits to Italy and to France in 1904–5 and 1909 respectively; during the former she translated, while in Naples, Gabriel D'Annunzio's La Figlia de Jovio.
CUBANS OF TO-DAY

This was followed in 1912 by Cuentos de Aurelia and Ignacio Agramonte en la Vida Privada.

In 1914 a complete edition of her writings was issued, comprising two volumes of poetry and three of prose. In 1918 there was added a sixth volume made up of original writings and of translations from Italian, French, and English sources.
DEMETRIO CASTILLO DUANY

Soldier; man of affairs; administrator.

DEMETRIO CASTILLO DUANY was born in Santiago de Cuba on the seventeenth of November, 1856, into one of the leading families of the eastern region of Cuba and went for education to France. After spending some years at the Lycée of Bordeaux he went on to the United States where he gave himself to the study of English and entered an established business house. In 1878, at the age of twenty-two, he returned to Santiago de Cuba to take charge of the interests of his mother. A year later the outbreak of the "little war" obliged him to emigrate to the United States where he remained until 1885.

The outbreak of the War of Independence in 1895 found him ready for the final struggle and he devoted himself to it without reserve. He joined the Revolutionary forces under Victoriano Garzón, was soon transferred to the staff of José Maceo and saw much arduous service under that redoubtable chief. His valor and enterprise brought him rapid advancement. He became Lieutenant Colonel after the actions of Yerba de Guinea and la Curia and became Colonel after the battles at El Triunfo and Sao del Indio. Three days before the fatal encounter of Loma de Gato in which Maceo lost his life he promoted Duany to the rank of Brigadier General.

When the United States entered the war against Spain, General García selected Brigadier General Duany to confer with the American commanders and arrange for cooperation with them. In fulfillment of this commission General Duany conferred with Admiral Sampson on board the battleship New York to concert plans for the landing of American troops and to provide for joint action with the Cuban forces. Under his command the Cubans captured Siboney and thus reduced the risk of the disembarkation of the American force. He continued to cooperate with the Americans throughout the remainder of the war.

When hostilities ceased he turned to politics. In 1898 he was named Governor of Santiago de Cuba and was later appointed Civil Governor of the Eastern Province under the American Intervention. He was one of the founders of the Republican party in Oriente which later merged with the Liberal party. In 1906 he was associated with the Revolutionary Committee and was arrested and imprisoned until the arrival of the American commissioners who released him. Soon thereafter Governor Magoon appointed him Chief of the Penitentiary of the Republic. In consequence of the Revolution of 1916–17 he retired from office and resumed the life of a private citizen.

JUAN GUITERAS

Physician; author; man of science.

Juan Guiteras was born in the city of Matanzas on the fourth of January, 1852, the son of Eusebio Guiteras and Josefa Gener, both members of families active in the higher life of Cuba. At the age of seven Guiteras was enrolled in the Colegio "La Empresa" founded by his father and his Uncle Antonio who was at the time at the head of the school. From this institution he graduated Bachelor in Arts in 1867. At the University of Havana he came under the influence of Don Felipe Poey, the foremost Cuban man of science of his time. Guiteras studied Natural History under him for the preparatory course in Medicine. He matriculated for the first year at the University of Havana, but in 1869 moved to Philadelphia with his parents who were obliged to emigrate on account of the sympathies of the family with the revolutionary movement for the independence of Cuba. Guiteras then entered upon the study of Medicine and graduated from the University of Pennsylvania in 1873, taking first prize for his thesis on the Development of the Skeleton as Influenced by Functional Activities.

He completed a term of service as interne in the Philadelphia Hospital, 1873-74, and was Visiting Physician to the same, and clinical lecturer in Medicine from 1876 to 1879. He soon won marked distinction in his special field of Pathology; he was selected by the American Government to study yellow fever in Havana in 1879; in the following year he was appointed Physician in the United States Marine Hospital Service; in 1886 he was made Professor of Medicine in the University of Charleston, S. C. He took a course in Pathology at Frankfort, Germany, under Weigert in 1889, and in the same year was called to the Chair of Pathology by his Alma Mater, the University of Pennsylvania. He was selected in 1890 by this University to investigate and report upon Koch's discovery of tuberculine. Whilst in Berlin he took a course on the Pathology of the Blood with Ehrlich, and laboratory courses with Israel, Pfeiffer, Jürgens, and Günther.

At the outbreak of the war for the Independence of Cuba, in 1895, Dr. Guiteras, then in the United States, gave his best efforts to obtain recognition of Cuban belligerency by the American Government, and on the formation of the Cuban Republic he devoted himself to strengthening the foundations of the new state, particularly laboring to give Cuba a sound and scientific national hygiene. In 1900 he founded the Review of Tropical Medicine. As colaborer with Dr. Finlay and his associates Reed, Carroll, Lazear, and Agramonte he shared in the final demonstration of the transmission of yellow fever by the mosquito. ity to those of endemic origin. In 1916 Dr. Guiteras was appointed in the International Health Commission of the Rockefeller Foundation to study yellow fever in South America, and has continued these investigations up to the present year.

He is Professor of General Pathology and Tropical Diseases in the University of Havana; Director of Health; President of the National Board of Health; Member of the Board for Infectious Diseases; Member of the Academy of Sciences and of the Sociedad de Estudios Clinicos of Havana; Honorary Member of the Association of American Physicians; of the College of Physicians of Philadelphia; of the American Society of Tropical Medicine, and of the Academy of Medicine of Caracas.

Among the most important contributions of Dr. Guiteras to Medical Science the following may be mentioned: he discovered the filaria Bancrofti in the United States, 1886; he demonstrated the importance of mild cases in the propagation of infectious diseases, especially in connection with the yellow fever of children in the endemic zone, 1887; in his teachings at the University of Pennsylvania he recognized the importance of functional disturbances in the development of structural changes, and endeavored to establish pathology on a physiological rather than an anatomical basis, 1889–99; he introduced in America the modern methods in Tropical Pathology, founding the first chair and the first journal on this specialty on the Continent in 1900; he discovered the existence of ankylostomiasis in Cuba; he contributed to the extinction of yellow fever, and established the importance of hydrocyanic fumigations in the extinction of plague.

Dr. Guiteras has edited the Selected Papers of Dr. Carlos J. Finlay, published in Spanish and English by the Cuban Government in 1912, and has contributed to scientific journals numerous articles on his specialty of Tropical Medicine, most of which are highly technical.
Among them are: Notes on Pathology for Students of the University of Pennsylvania;
"Experimental Yellow Fever" (Havana, 1901), American Medicine; Recent Discoveries on Malaria and the Mosquito, 1900; Chappa, Aceopatia mutilante, 1904; Cartas sobre el Cólera (Habana, 1911); "Insect Borne Diseases," Proceedings of the Second Pan-American Scientific Congress, vol. ix., 1916.
MANUEL GUTIÉRREZ QUIRÓS

Man of affairs; official.

MANUEL GUTIÉRREZ QUIRÓS was born in Santa Clara on the twelfth of February, 1856, and began his education at the Colegio "Santo Domingo" in his native town whence he went in 1868 to the Colegio "El Salvador," then under the direction of the well-known author and educator Señor José Maria Zayas.

As a result of the revolutionary activities of his father and the consequent confiscation of all his property by the Spanish Government, Gutiérrez was thrown upon his own resources while yet quite young. At the age of nineteen he became a teacher, but shortly afterwards gave up the profession to enter business, by which he had acquired some capital when in 1897, during the Revolution, being President of the Revolutionary Board of Sagua la Grande, he was arrested and lodged for a period of eight months in the prison of the Cabaña Fort.

On being released he went to Jamaica where he remained until the end of the war. Thereupon he came back to Cuba and set himself to restore his shattered fortunes, in which he was successful.

Señor Gutiérrez has taken an active part in politics. As a friend and co-religionist of General José Miguel Gómez he became Representative for Santa Clara, later Mayor of Sagua la Grande, and also Minister of Hacienda in the Cabinet of President Gómez.

He has maintained an active interest in literature and has published a book of poems.
JOSÉ MANUEL CARBONELL

Soldier; author; orator.

JOSÉ MANUEL CARBONELL y RIVERO was born in July, 1880, in Alquizar, Province of Havana. When he was an infant his parents moved to the United States where he obtained his early education. From his boyhood he was a revolutionist and a disciple of José Martí, "the liberator." When the War of Independence broke out Carbonell, then fifteen years old, joined one of the expeditions fitted out in the United States and remained in the field for a time. Later he returned to Tampa, Florida, and served with Pastor Moinelo, Carlos Boissier, Octavio García Campos, and Fernando de Zayas in the campaign of propaganda, founding and editing the magazine, El expedicionario, and contributing to various other periodicals.
At the end of the war he came to Havana, resumed his studies in the Institute, and ultimately obtained the degree of Doctor of Civil Laws in the University. He began to be known also as a writer of verse and a public speaker. When the Republic was constituted in 1902 Carbonell, and his intimate friend, José María Collantes, organized a great celebration in honor of Martí. President Palma presided and the oration of Carbonell was the event of the occasion. Since that time he has spoken many times at the Ateneo of which he was the originator and which he served as secretary for two years. His most notable work as an orator was done in the campaign for the election of General José Miguel Gómez as President. Together with Señores Mendieta, Ferrara, and Villuendas he toured the country, organizing and inspiring the masses.

When the Revolution of 1906 broke out Carbonell joined it; in fact was one of the first to take the field after a fiery speech in which he used the phrase, often since repeated, “hay que sacar los collins (machetes) de sus vainas!” For his services in this brief revolution he was rewarded with the rank of Brigadier General.

Since that time he has given much time to poetry and has both recited and published numerous poems which have been received with popular approval. Together with his brother Nestor and Sr. Félix Callejas, he founded the magazine Letras. He has also held various positions in the field of education—Chief of Section of General Superintendents; Secretary of the Committee of Superintendents; Provincial Superintendent of Havana, etc., etc.

In 1910 he was Cuban Delegate to the Fourth Pan-American Conference held in Buenos-Aires; in 1911 he was Cuban Delegate at the Coronation of King George V. He is President of the Section of Literature of the National Academy of Arts and Sciences; President of the Geographical Society of Cuba; Compiler of the works of Jesús Castellanos and Enrique Hernández Miyares.

He is author of: Patria, Poems; Penachos y Mi libro de amor, Poems; Discursos y Conferencias; Páginas literarias; Oyendo a mi padre.

AND MONOGRAPHS
EMILIO ALAMILA REQUEIJO

Physician.

EMILIO ALAMILA REQUEIJO was born on the twenty-sixth of January, 1872, in Havana, where he gained his early education in the Colegio of Belén, completed the courses for the Bachelor’s degree in the Central Institute, and later entered the University to study the Physico-Chemical Sciences and Medicine. There also he obtained the degree of Doctor of Medicine in 1895.

Dr. Alamilla graduated at the time of the War of Independence but because of the imprisonment of his political associate, Dr. José A. González Lanuza, he took refuge in the United States where he remained until the war was over, practicing his profession in various hospitals of Atlanta (Georgia) and New York.
In 1903 he set up, in cooperation with Drs. Carlos Desvernine and Martínez Mesa, the first Institute of Radiotherapy and Electrotherapy that had been seen in Cuba. In 1908 he was appointed Professor of Physics in the Institute of Havana and when, under the plan of Varona, the educational system was reformed, he entered the competitive examination for the Chair of Physics and Chemistry in the Institute, was successful, and has continued to occupy this post.

In 1910 he was appointed Director of the Department of Electrotherapy and Radiotherapy in the Centro Gallego (Gallician Club).

Dr. Alamilla has contributed occasional articles to the medical press, among which are: Tratamiento del penfigo por los Rayos Finsen; Las radiodermitis, 1905.
ALFREDO M. AGUAYO

He was appointed Superintendent of Schools for the Province of Havana and later became Professor of Pedagogical Psychology, History of Pedagogy and School Hygiene in the University of Havana.

Dr. Aguayo founded, and for a number of years edited, the Magazine of Education of Havana, and in 1912 established the Laboratory of Child Study (Paidologia) in the University.

He has written much, both as contributor to magazines and as author of serious books. Among his works are: La escuela primaria como debe ser; Enseñanza de la lengua materna, en la escuela primaria; Pedagogia del escolar (translated from the German); *Luis Vives como educador; La pedagogía en las universidades; Concepto de la apercipción con las principales determinaciones y su aplicación a la doctrina del método; La pedagogia de las escuelas secundarias; Las escuelas normales y su organización en Cuba; Los laboratorios de paidología y las clínicas psicológicas; Desarrollo y educación del poder de observación; Elogio del Dr. Manuel Valdes Rodriguez; Ideas pedagógicas del Padre Varela; Geografía elemental; Geografía de Cuba; Elementos de Aritmética; Estudio de la naturalesa, etc.
GUILLERMO DE MONTAGÚ

Lawyer; official; author.

GUILLERMO DE MONTAGÚ was born in San Juan y Martínez, Province of Pinar del Rio, Cuba, on the twelfth of December, 1881. His early education was obtained in Barcelona, Spain, whither his family moved in his infancy, but they returned to Cuba in 1890 and he entered the Institute of Pinar del Rio where he completed the courses for the Bachelor's degree, thereafter continuing in the University of Havana where he obtained the degree of Doctor of Laws in 1905.

Some years earlier, in 1901, while he was still a student, he began to write articles on legal subjects for the Magazine of Law (Revista del Derecho) of Havana, his topics being "El Protectorado"; "El hipnotismo en Derecho Penal"; "La Premeditación";
“La Familia”; “La doctrina italiana en Derecho Internacional Privado,” etc., etc. In due course he began also to publish poems and to appear as a political speaker, and won the prize in competition organized by the Havana magazine El Figaro, for five sonnets dedicated to Martí, the glorious liberator of Cuba.

In June, 1905, Dr. Montagú opened his office as a lawyer in Pinar del Rio where he lived and where he has practiced as a lawyer since 1905 and as a Notary since 1909. He has held many offices, professional and other, among them that of Official Attorney of the Provincial Court, 1906; Judge of the First Instance, 1906-07; Deputy Prosecuting Attorney, 1907; Member of various committees of Judges for Examination of Notaries, 1908-1916; Professor in the Institute of Pinar del Rio, 1908-1911; Treasurer of the Association of Notaries, 1912-17; and First Censor of the same.

In addition to these posts, Dr. Montagú has held that of Secretary of Conventions—both Provincial and National—of the MONTAGÚ

Liberal Party; president of the Patriotic Association (Asociación Patria) and Representative in the Provincial Legislature, 1910.

Along with his professional activities, he has had a productive literary career. In 1908 he won the first prize in a poetical contest in the National Theater. In 1910 he gave an address and read verses in commemoration of the distinguished Cuban author Jesús Castellanos. In 1911 on a visit to Spain he gave various lectures and addresses in the Ateneos of Barcelona and Madrid.

He has contributed to many magazines and reviews and has published the following works: Poestas (1906); A la Patria (1908); Iris (1909); Monografías de la Revista de Derecho (1901); Cirilo Villaverde: estudio de su vida y obras (1909); Martín Pérez, Novela (1910); La Fuga (1912); Notas y Apuntes para un sistema de legislación agraria (1913); Consideraciones acerca de la Ley que señala el origen y rige el desenvolvimiento de la humanidad (1918).
PEDRO E. BETANCOURT

PEDRO E. BETANCOURT Y DOVALOS was born in 1858 and baptized in Seiba Mocha, Province of Matanzas. Having chosen Medicine for his profession he studied first in Philadelphia and later in Madrid where he graduated in 1881. He returned to Matanzas to practice his profession, but when the War of Independence broke out in 1895 he was one of the first to take part in it. As President of the Revolutionary Club of the Western part of the Island he was charged with the selection and organization of the revolutionary forces of the Province of Matanzas and was one of the members of the ill-fated force that took up arms in Matanzas on the twenty-fourth of February, 1895. When this force was defeated and scattered Betancourt was captured, imprisoned for a time in the Castle of San Severino, later in Havana and finally exiled to Spain. There he encountered General Calixto García with whose assistance he succeeded in escaping to France. Once in Paris he joined with the famous Dr. Betances to execute the commissions affecting France and England which had been entrusted to him by General García. These fulfilled, he went on to New York where he joined the Revolutionary Committee working for the war. He served in an expedition organized by General Francisco Carrillo which was detained in Wilmington (Delaware) by the United States authorities. The members of the expedition were placed on trial, acquitted, and set at liberty; whereupon Betancourt joined three other expeditions one after the other, all of which were stopped in the same way by the American authorities.

In a fourth expedition Betancourt and his companions were taken prisoners in the Bahamas by the British Cruiser Partridge and imprisoned in Nassau where again they were tried, acquitted, and set at liberty.
Once more Betancourt returned to New York and on the next attempt succeeded in landing on the coast of Cuba under the direction of General García.

During the rest of the war he fought in Matanzas, under General Lacret, and at its close was at the head of the revolutionary forces in that province with the rank of Major General.

After the war he was appointed Civil Governor of Matanzas; later Member of the Constituent Convention and also one of those designated by the Assembly to discuss with President McKinley the actual significance of the Platt Amendment.

He was elected Senator in the first Legislature of Cuba, but later retired from public life to devote himself to agricultural interests.
ANTONIO IRAIZOZ Y DEL VILLAR

Journalist; author.

ANTONIO IRAIZOZ Y DEL VILLAR was born on the fourteenth of June, 1890, in Havana, where he received his education and where he has had his career. He studied at the Colegio “La Gran Antilla” and completed the course leading to the degree of Bachelor of Arts and Sciences. Obtaining also the degree of public teacher he entered the profession and taught in the schools for five years. Perceiving, however, that his true vocation lay in journalism, he served on the editorial staffs of several Havana papers, including La Discusión, La Prensa, and La Lucha and later became editor-in-chief of Patria. In 1913 he became editor-in-chief of La Noche, an important evening paper, and has continued at that post.
Sr. Iraizoz is deeply interested in Masonry. He holds a high rank in the order—that of "Venerable Maestro de la Logia Fé," and has devoted long and patient study to the history, ideals, and achievements of Masonry. In this field he has published: La Masonería y las tendencias al nacionalismo. He is also author of: El sentimiento religioso en la literatura española, and Sensaciones del momento.
Luis Ortega y Bolanos was born on the sixteenth of July, 1872, in the city of Cienfuegos and there, in the Colegio of the Jesuit Fathers he received his early education. Later he went to Havana where he entered the University and gained the degree of Licentiate in Medicine in 1896 and that of Doctor in 1899.

When the Spanish-American War broke out he removed to Mexico where he remained, practicing his profession, until peace was signed when he returned to Cuba.

He served as Interne in the Hospital of Nuestra Señora de las Mercedes, and later as Head Interne for ten years. In 1906 he entered the competitive examination for the post of Professor of Clinical Medicine.
in the University, was successful and has continued to hold the chair from that time.

Dr. Ortega is Visiting Physician to the Centro Asturiano (Asturian Club) and Director of the Clinic "Raimundo Menocal"; Member of the Anti-Tuberculosis League and was Vice-secretary of the Second National Medical Congress (Havana, 1908). He is also a frequent contributor to medical journals and is author of: La Epidemia actual de influenza, 1918; Estudio clínico de una epidemia de gripe-paludismo, 1898; ¿Por qué deben bañarse los niños? 1900; ¿Cómo evitar la tuberculosis en Cuba? 1902; Primer ensayo sobre la distribución geográfica de la tuberculosis en Cuba, 1904.
José A. Del Cueto was born in the year 1854 in the city of Havana, but pursued his legal studies abroad at the Central University of Madrid where he obtained the degrees of Licentiate in Administrative Law, as well as in Philosophy and Letters, and Doctor in Civil and Canon Law. He finished his course of study in 1875 and was given the title of Advocate as an extraordinary distinction. Afterwards he won, in competitive examination, the post of Professor of Mercantile Law, in the University of Havana which he retained for thirty years.

He was a Member of the Autonomist party which labored in vain to secure for Cuba her own government without severing the relation with Spain. In the last years of the nineteenth century when the Spanish Government—at too late a date—consented to set up an Autonomous government, he went as Deputy to the Spanish Cortes and was also President of the Insular House of Representatives during the brief experiment of the Autonomist Government.

Señor Cueto has served as Dean of the Bar Association (Colegio de Abogados) of Havana, and Dean of the Law School.

On the ninth of June, 1917, he was appointed President of the Supreme Court of Cuba. Thereupon he resigned his position as Professor in the University but was made Honorary Professor, being the first to be honored with this title.
ARTURO GARCÍA CASARIEGO

Physician; teacher.

ARTURO GARCÍA CASARIEGO was born in Cifuentes in the year 1885. He chose the medical career at an early age and pursued his education for the profession in Spain, Paris, London, and New York. He gained his degree with distinction of Doctor of Medicine at the University of Havana in 1906 and served as Student-externe and Student-interne in the Mercedes Hospital; Assistant and afterwards Professor in the Faculty of Medicine of the University; Chief of the Laboratory and Professor of the Faculty of Hospital Surgeons; Physician of the "Covadonga" Infirmary as well as of the "Tamayo" Dispensary.

While he was still a student he was one of the founders of the magazine of the School of Medicine and has since served

GABRIEL CASUSO

Physician; educator; Rector of the University of Havana.

GABRIEL CASUSO was born in Matanzas in 1850. He was educated partly in Havana, partly in Madrid, and partly in Paris. He devoted himself to Medicine and graduated in Medicine in Madrid, in Surgery in Paris, and in Dental Surgery at the University of Havana where he received the Doctor's degree.

He took part in the Ten Years' War (1868-78), serving for five years with the Cuban forces.

By competitive examination he won the chair of Obstetrics and Gynecology in the Medical School and concerned himself solely with university education and his profession until the War of Independence broke out, when he was seized by the Spanish authorities, imprisoned and deported, being unable to return to Cuba until peace was concluded.

On his return he resumed his university relations and was elected three successive times Dean of the Faculty of Medicine and Pharmacy.

In 1915 he was elected Rector of the University and in 1918 re-elected to this post.

During the Presidency of Tomás Estrada Palma Dr. Casuso held the position of Secretary of Agriculture.

He has been editor of the professional journal Progreso Médico, to which and to other medical periodicals he has contributed a great number of articles particularly upon prophylaxis.

In 1881 he published an article entitled Cirugía antiséptica, and from that time on continued to labor for the popularization of prophylaxis and the use of antiseptics.
ENRIQUE SALADRIGAS Y LUNAR

MANUEL SANGUILY

_Soldier; author; administrator._

Manuel Sanguily y Garritt was born on the twenty-sixth of March, 1848, in Havana and had the good fortune to enter the Colegio “El Salvador” while the famous educator, Dr. José de la Luz Caballero was at its head. Later he began the study of the law at the University, but the Ten Years’ War (1868–78) supervening, he left the academic life for the field. The Peace of Zanjón (1878) found him in New York where he had been sent in 1877 by the Revolutionary Government with the rank of Colonel to act as Secretary to his brother, Major General Julio Sanguily.

When peace was made he went to Spain and in 1879 completed his law studies in the University of Madrid, returning in 1880 to enter the office of Dr. Antonio
González de Mendoza in Havana. There he served as clerk, but was not able to practice in his own name because he was unwilling to take the oath (of loyalty) required in the Courts as a prerequisite. Afterwards he got his living for a time by giving lessons in private houses, but turned his attention to literature acting as the sole editor of Dr. Enrique J. Varona's magazine, the Revista Cubana, and later of Hojas Literarias which he founded in 1893.

During the War of Independence, 1895-98, Colonel Sanguily emigrated with his family to the United States, returning at its close to act as a member of the Assembly of Santa Cruz which appointed him to the Commission which went, with Major General Calixto García at its head, to Washington to obtain aid for the Cuban forces so that they might have the means of existence when they disbanded. In 1901 he began his career as a public man when he was made a member of the Constitutional Convention for the Province of Havana. Later he held the offices of Director of the Institute of Havana; Sena-ator for the Province of Matanzas; President of the Senate; Delegate to the Second International Peace Conference at The Hague (1907); Secretary of State in the Cabinet of President Gómez; Inspector General of the Armed Forces of Cuba, and Director of the Military Academy.

Colonel Sanguily is the author of many articles, as also many orations and addresses—for he enjoys a distinguished reputation as an orator—and among his publications are some which gained a wide reading: Los Caribes de la Isla, Havana, 1884; Un insurrecto Cubano en la Corte, Havana, 1888; Cespedes y Martí, New York, 1905; Cuba y la Furia Española, New York; Victoria de las Tunas, New York, 1897; José de la Luz Caballero.
RAFAEL FERNÁNDEZ DE CASTRO

Sugar planter; man of affairs.

RAFAEL FERNÁNDEZ DE CASTRO was born in Regla, a suburb of Havana, in 1856, and after passing through the higher grades of school at the Colegio Belén, he there took his B.A. degree in 1873. He then went to Seville and Madrid, graduating in those famous universities as Doctor of Philosophy and Letters.

Returning to Cuba in 1878 he practiced his profession as a lawyer and in 1880 was appointed Auxiliary Professor in the University of Havana. In 1882, after a competitive examination, he was appointed to the Chair of Universal History.

His first experience in politics was in 1881 as Provincial Deputy for the District of Járucó in the Province of Havana. In 1886 he was elected Deputy to the Spanish Cortes for the Province of Santa Clara, a post which he held until 1890 and was re-elected in 1893 for the Province of Havana.

Between these two periods, namely in 1891, he was the representative in Madrid of the Planters' Association of the Island of Cuba upon the Commission that was appointed by the Spanish Government for the purpose of securing economic data concerning its colonies.

During the War of Independence, de Castro withdrew entirely from political affairs, but when the Spanish Government, in 1898, decreed autonomy for Cuba, he returned to public life and helped in the organization of the new system, being elected a representative in the Cuban House.

At the beginning of the war between Spain and the United States, he was named Civil Governor of the Province of Havana, a difficult task. While the Island was being blockaded by the American Navy he made tremendous and successful efforts to avoid rioting in the Capital and to assist those who were suffering from hunger. He organized the free kitchens at which over seventy-five thousand people were fed each day. His work at that difficult period earned him the praise of Miss Clara Barton, the Spanish Government decorated him with the Gran Cruz de Beneficencia for his services and the Municipal Council of Havana presented him with a medal commemorative of the Blockade. That body also desired to erect a statue in his honor in the San Juan de Dios or the Paula Park, both of which he had caused to be rebuilt. Dr. de Castro accepted the medal, but refused to allow any statue to be erected to him, or to permit either of the parks to be named after him. He based his objections on the fact that such honors should be posthumous.

In 1899 he delivered the City of Havana to General William Ludlow, coincident with the delivery of the Island to General Brooke by General Castellanos in compliance with the provisions of the Treaty of Paris; Dr. de Castro then retired to private life. Since that time he has devoted himself to the development of the sugar plantations established by his father, which are known under the name of the Pedro Fernández de Castro Sugar Company.

JOSE B. CORNIDE

JOSE B. CORNIDE was born in Santa Clara on the thirteenth of December, 1859. After passing the early stages of education in his native town, he went to the Colegio of Escolapius in Guanabacoa where he completed the studies requisite for the Bachelor's degree in 1878. Then he entered the University at Havana to fit himself for a career in the practice of Medicine. He obtained the degree of Licentiate in 1883 and fulfilled the intellectual requirements leading to the Doctor's degree, but the expenses attending the ceremony of granting the degree (Investidura) prevented him from obtaining it.

Returning then to Santa Clara, Cornide began the practice of his profession, meantime devoting himself to the various problems of public education, charity, etc., which affected the general welfare. Recognizing these civic interests and virtues, the Government under the first American Intervention made him President of the Board of Education to which he gave his disinterested services until 1909.

Señor Cornide was one of the founders of the Conservative party in Santa Clara; he entered upon an active political career in 1914, and in 1916 he was elected Representative. During his term of service in the Chamber he has taken an eager interest in all matters relating to public education, charity, and health.
ALCIDES BETANCOURT

Journalist; man of affairs; senator.

Alcides Betancourt was born in the city of Camagüey on the twenty-first of December, 1865, and was educated in Havana, but went at a later date to New York to obtain special instruction in commercial subjects.

When the War of Independence broke out, in 1895, he was appointed correspondent of the New York Herald in Camagüey, and later, held a similar post in Havana. In consequence of the news he sent to his paper he was expelled from Cuba (1897) by General Weyler, whereupon he went to New York and continued to write for the Herald there until the United States declared war on Spain, when he became war correspondent writing despatches from the front.

During the American Intervention he was appointed Secretary of the Provincial Government of Camagüey, in which position he continued until 1902 when he associated himself with the Cuba Railroad Company. In 1906 he retired from the railway business to devote himself to dealing in land on a large scale.

In 1909 he was appointed by General Menocal to an important administrative position in the great sugar mill "Chaparra."

GUSTAVO G. DUPLESSIS

Gustavo G. Duplessis y Alzpurua was born on the twelfth of October, 1864, in the city of Havana, but obtained his early education in the Church schools at Guanabacoa, later returning to Havana where he entered the University and obtained his degree as Doctor of Medicine when he was scarcely twenty years of age, in 1884. Sometime later, being desirous of extending his knowledge and obtaining a wider experience in his profession, he went to Paris, there entered the University and obtained a second degree of Doctor of Medicine in 1893, meantime obtaining invaluable training and experience through a term of services as Interne and Externe in the hospitals.

In 1893 he returned to Havana, entered at once on the practice of medicine and surgery, and has enjoyed a career of dis­tinguished success.

In 1895 he was appointed Physician and Surgeon of the Hospital (Quinta) of the Association of Clerks (Dependientes) which has a membership of over thirty thousand.

In 1899 he was appointed Professor of Clinical Surgery in the University and occupied the Chair until 1901. He was then made Surgical Director of the Hospital (Casa de Salud) of the Canary Islands Association with its forty thousand members.

Dr. Duplessis is a Member of the Academy of Medicine and of the Society for Clinical Studies. He has published frequent articles in the medical press upon professional subjects.
ANTONIO BRAVO CORREOSO

Lawyer; public man; administrator.

ANTONIO BRAVO CORREOSO was born in Santiago de Cuba in 1874. After obtaining his early education at the Colegio of "Santiago" in his native town he went on to Havana, there completing the course for the Bachelor's degree and entering the University to pursue studies in Philosophy, Letters, and Law. In the year 1886 he obtained the degree of Licentiate in Philosophy and Letters, and a year later that in the Law.

Correoso returned to his birthplace to accept the position of Professor in the Provincial Institute of Santiago, and continued to teach until the Revolutionary War broke out in 1895. He had been a prominent member of the old Reform party and Provincial Deputy for it; naturally, therefore, when the war came he devoted himself to the Cuban cause and became a marked man. He was one of the first whom the Spanish General Martínez Campos caused to be seized and imprisoned. He was taken to the Cabaña Fortress in Havana; from there transported to Spain, and placed in prison first at Santander and later at Madrid. He escaped from custody, made his way to Italy, thence to Paris, and later to New York, meantime spreading in all the cities which he visited the story of Cuba's struggle for liberty.

When the war was won and the Cuban Republic was constituted, Correoso was elected Member of the Constitutional Convention for Santiago and was made Secretary of the Commission charged with drafting the Constitution. In 1902 he was elected Senator and reelected in 1906; he was first Vice-president of this body. From the end of the war until the second American Intervention he was President of the political party to which he belonged in Santiago, but since that time he has taken little part in politics, preferring to devote himself to the practice of his profession.
ERNESTO A. DE ARAGÓN

Physician.

ERNESTO A. DE ARAGÓN Y MUÑOZ was born in the town of Marianao on the ninth of January, 1868. His early education was obtained in Havana where he attended Colegios, continued in the Institute where he completed the course for the Bachelor's degree and also in the University which granted him the degree of Licentiate in Pharmacy in 1889. He became Assistant Professor in this subject in 1894 and also pursued his medical studies obtaining the degree of Licentiate in Medicine in 1895.

The political events of 1895 in Cuba obliged Dr. de Aragón to withdraw to the United States where he continued the study of his profession as assistant in the Lying-In Hospital in New York and at the same time cooperated with his compatriots who were lending effective aid to the Revolution by means of political clubs organized in New York and other cities. After spending some time in New York Dr. de Aragón removed to Jacksonville, Florida, where he practiced his profession until the end of the war and the success of the Revolution in Cuba when he returned to Havana.

In 1900 he obtained the degree of Doctor in Medicine from the University of Havana and in the same year was made Head of the Clinic of Obstetrics in the School of Medicine in Mercedes Hospital. In 1902 he was appointed Chief Inspector of the Health Department. He is also Vice-president of the Society of Clinical Studies and Financial Secretary of the Medical College of Cuba.

Dr. de Aragón is a contributor to medical journals; has acted as editor of Medical Progress and collaborated on the Manual of Practical Sanitation issued by the Department of Health in 1905.
CRISTÓBAL DE LA GUARDIA

Lawyer; official.

CRISTÓBAL DE LA GUARDIA was born on the eighteenth of July, 1859, in the town of Guanabacoa, Havana Province. There, in the Church schools, he took his early education and continued thereafter in the colleges of Havana and the University where he studied law, obtaining the degree of Licentiate in Law in 1880.

In addition to the practice of his profession Señor de la Guardia has held various public offices and occupied positions of importance, among them being: Secretary of the Board of Patrons of the Hospital for the Insane of Cuba; Counsel of the Board of Aldermen of Havana; Consulting Attorney of the Board of Aldermen of Guanabacoa; Senator for the Province of Havana and Secretary of Justice in the Cabinet of President Menocal.
De la Guardia is the author of articles, addresses, and reports on legal subjects some of which have been highly regarded and one of which was described by an eminent authority as "the most important document which had been published since Cuba became free." This was his, Informe del Secretario de Justicia, Habana, 1915. Among his other publications are: Para el Pueblo, Habana, 1900. Porqué soy liberal, Habana, 1903. Una reforma que no se hará, Habana, 1905.
MIGUEL ALONSO PUJOL

Lawyer; publicist.

MIGUEL ALONSO PUJOL was born on the seventeenth of July, 1892, the son of Señor Gustavo Alonso Castañeda and Señora Teresa Pujol y Tristá. He gained his education largely in Brazil where he graduated from the National Institute of Science of Rio Janeiro in 1907 with the degree of Doctor of Civil Law.

Since he returned to Havana Dr. Pujol has taken an active part in public affairs, contributing to various periodicals including El Mundo, El Triunfo, La Discusión, La Lucha, etc., and recently he has become the editor of La Semana Judicial, a magazine devoted to legal and social questions.

In 1910 he obtained the degree of Doctor of Civil Laws in the University of Havana. Dr. Pujol is a member of the National...
Committee of the Union Liberal party; Vice-president of the “Luz Caballero Foundation,” and member of the Executive Committee of the League for the Protection of the Suffrage. He has been a candidate for Representative and has given special study to constitutional questions on which he has written extensively. He has had practical contact with government by serving as Chief of Administration of the Third Class in the civil administration.

Among his publications are: La Reforma Constitucional y el Sistema Parlamentario, Habana, 1918; Controversia de Constitucionalidad, Habana, 1918.

Later he went to the United States and continued his studies in the Catholic University of America, at Washington, D. C., where he obtained the degree of Licentiate in Theology. He was enabled to take all his courses of study by the generosity of Father Manuel González Cuervo.

In 1897 he was ordained and in 1900 he was sent as chaplain to the teachers who went to Boston in that year.

During his career in the church the Reverend Father has filled various official posts, including that of Secretary to the Chapter of the Cathedral of Havana; Chaplain of the Choir; Secretary of the Records (Sumario); Secretary and Prosecutor of the Bishops of Havana and Cienfuegos; Curate and Vicar of Sagua la Grande; Curate of Cruces, Lajas, and Cienfuegos; Administrator of the House of Correction, and professor of the four courses in Latin and the Humanities in the Seminary of Havana.

In 1907 Father Ruiz was appointed Bishop of Pinar del Rio. He was designated in April, 1907, consecrated in Cienfuegos on the eleventh of June, and took possession of his charge on the tenth of July of the same year, where he continues.

He is the author of various Pastoral Letters, has translated The Heart of Jesus of Nazareth, and is the author of Liras y Estrofas, poems published under the pseudonym “Lucas del Cigarral,” and a volume Impresiones de un Viaje a Tierra Santa.
Carmela Nieto de Herrera
CARMELA NIETO DE HERRERA

Writer; journalist.

Señora Carmela Nieto de Herrera was born in Havana on the sixth of March, 1879, but received most of her education abroad; first in the United States and later in Madrid (Spain) where her father, Don Mariano Nieto Mujica, held the rank of Brigadier General in the Spanish Army. There she completed the courses leading to the degree of Bachelor, gaining also various prizes for distinction.

In 1904 she began to write in El Figaro of Havana and soon afterwards was placed in charge of the Home Department of El Mundo. Later she founded and conducted in the same paper a section devoted to "Questions—moral and general" in which she dealt with matters of belief, affection, and good counsel.

AND MONOGRAPHS
In 1906 she was elected member of the Board of Charity and Correction; first officer of the Library and Press division of the Bulletin of Health of Cuba.

In 1907 she was appointed member, with voice and vote, of the Board of Health of Havana—being the only woman who has held any of these positions in Cuba up to this time. She is a member of the Red Cross. She is also a member of the Section of Public Instruction of Cuba, and through her writings a general, unofficial adviser of many students, boys and girls.

Señora Nieto de Herrera is the only woman journalist in Cuba and is the author of a great number of articles, sketches, and stories which have appeared in newspapers and magazines.
JOSÉ M. SOLER FERNÁNDEZ

ERNESTO ASBERT

Soldier; man of affairs; administrator.

ERNESTO ASBERT was born in the town of Consolación del Sur in the Province of Pinar del Rio on the first of May, 1873, and took the early courses leading to the Bachelor's degree in the private Colegio of the Society "La Unión" in his native place. But the student's life made an indifferent appeal to his energetic nature and he left books to devote himself to business.

When the Revolution broke out in 1895 Asbert prepared to take part in it and on January 9, 1896, joined the forces of Col. Antonio Nuñez with the rank of Captain. During the remainder of the war he fought under the command of the Commander-in-chief Máximo Gómez, under that of General Antonio Maceo, and for part of the time under that of General Adolfo del...
Castillo, the scene of his activities being the Province of Havana, where he obtained his promotion to the rank of Colonel on the 24th of August, 1898.

With the close of the war he turned his attention to politics. His first office was that of Chief of Municipal Police for Guínes. At the same time he served also as Secretary of the Liquidating Commissions (Commission for settling soldiers' claims) of the Fifth Corps of the Army. In 1904 Col. Asbert was elected Member of the Council for the Province of Havana, and in 1908 he was elected Governor of the Province of Havana, in which post he was active in improving roads, bridges, and all means of communication so as to increase the traffic and add to the resources of all parts of the province.

Some years ago the Congress of Cuba passed a special act of amnesty designed, it was said, to clear Gen. Asbert's name and exculpate him from the charge of manslaughter on which he had been tried.

Gen. Asbert has interested himself in publications: he was the founder of the newspaper El Independiente of Guines and has had a share in establishing and developing some of the papers of the Capital.
FERNANDO ORTIZ Y FERNÁNDEZ

Lawyer; criminologist; author.

Fernando Ortiz y Fernández was born in Havana on the sixteenth of July, 1881, of a Spanish father and a Cuban mother. Vice-president of the Republic of Cuba, 1909-1913.

ALFREDO ZAYAS Y ALFONSO was born on the twenty-first of February, 1861, in the city of Havana where his whole life has been spent. His early education was obtained in the colegio of Madame Boblag and the more famous colegio "El Salvador" founded by Luz Caballero which was then under the charge of his father, Juan Bruno Zayas. In 1882 at the age of twenty-one he received the degree of Licenciado en Derecho from the University of Havana and entered upon the practice of the law. Like most Cubans of his generation he shared in the revolutionary activities of the time; he was a member of the Autonomist party, a contributor of propagandist articles to various newspapers, editor of a literary magazine, and representative of the Revolutionary party in Havana. His part in the revolutionary program resulted in his arrest and imprisonment in 1896 and his exile in 1897.

With the triumph of the Revolution in 1898, he returned to political life in which he has since been active. He has held many offices. As early as 1889 he was Prosecuting Attorney; in 1891 Municipal Judge; in 1901 acting Mayor of Havana and Member of the Council; in 1905 he was made Senator for the Province of Havana and chosen President of the Senate; in 1906 he was President of the Revolutionary Committee; in 1907 he was chosen member of the Committee of Consultation to deal with matters affecting Cuba and the United States and in 1908 he was elected Vice-president of the Republic.

The literary interests of Dr. Zayas have been many and varied. He has been a frequent contributor to the press and to magazines on political and historical subjects; he was for six years Librarian of the Sociedad Económica de Amigos del País and for many years its President. His published works include El presbítero don José Agustín Caballero y su vida y sus obras, 1891. Cuba Autonómica. Lexicografía Antillana, Habana, 1914.

MANUEL RAFAEL ANGULO

Lawyer; man of affairs.

Manuel Rafael Angulo was born on the twenty-seventh of April, 1855, in Matanzas where he received his early education and at the age of fifteen won the Bachelor's degree. He then entered the University of Havana to study law and continued his studies for a time in Spain, but returned to Havana to practice his profession.

In his youth he took an active part in politics, as a member of the Central Committee of the Autonomist party. During the War of Independence he founded the periodical Cuba in New York which appeared in two editions—Spanish and English—both of which he edited. When, a little later, an Autonomist government was set up in Cuba he was made its representative in Washington. Still later, when the Spanish rule in Cuba ceased, he took part in founding the Union Democratic party and when this was dissolved he retired from political life to devote himself entirely to affairs—to the practice of his profession and the management of his business interests which included the "Cuban Star Line," a national interoceanic navigation Company, of which he is the President.

He has recently shown a new interest in public affairs by acting as one of the founders of the League for the Protection of the Suffrage.
CONRADO WALTER MASSAGUER

Artist; editor; manager.

CONRADO WALTER MASSAGUER y DÍAZ was born in Cárdenas, Cuba, on the third of May, 1889. When he was seven years old his parents, to escape Spanish persecution, moved to Mexico taking him and his brother. There he attended school in the Literary Institute of Mérida, Yucatan, but soon after moved to the United States where he entered St. John's School, Ossining, N. Y., and later the New York Military Academy at Cornwall. There in 1908 he began drawing caricatures for the school paper. In 1907 he was drawing for the Yacatecan paper La Campana and was soon contributing to other papers in Yucatan, The Diario Yucateco, Artes y Letras, La Arcadia, and Frou Frou.

In 1908 his family returned to Cuba and he became a contributor to El Figaro, Letras, Cuba y América, El Triunfo, Don Pancho, El Choteo, El Mundo, La Prensa, Ultima Hora and La Lucha.

In 1911 he held an exhibition of caricatures in the Ateneo of Havana and in 1912 was made President of the section of Fiestas of the Ateneo. In 1912 he paid a visit to New York where he made his début in the New York American with caricatures of Broadway and accompanying comment. In 1913 the health of his family obliged him to return to Havana where he founded the Gráfico of which he is Vice-president and which he edited until 1916. In 1916 he founded the magazine Social of which he is Editor, and in the same year he founded the Institute of Graphic Arts of Havana of which he is President. In 1918 he was appointed a member of the Committee on the Fourth Liberty Loan and in the same year he was elected to the Board of management of the Club de Pintores y Escultores.

When Cuba entered the war he made an energetic Pro-allied campaign in caricature and text in his papers, and lent active aid to the loan and to the Red Cross.

In 1919 he produced the first number of Pulgarcito, a magazine for children. He is at work on preparations for the celebration of the Centenary of Havana to be held in December, 1919.

He is a member of the Union and Rotary clubs as well as of various clubs of a purely social character.
José A. Rodríguez García
Teacher; writer.

José A. Rodríguez García was born in Matanzas on the twenty-second of February, 1864. He removed to Havana where he was taught in private schools and in due course won his degree of Bachelor.

In 1882 he was appointed auxiliary Professor in the School of Arts and Crafts. In the following year he became Professor of Mathematics and later, on the reorganization of the plan of education, he was entrusted with the courses in Grammar, Geography, History, Accounting, and Economy. During the seventeen years of his service as Professor in the School of Arts and Crafts he continued his study of Philosophy and Letters and Law. He obtained his degree of Licentiate and later that of Doctor in Philosophy and Letters but did not complete the course in Law.

In 1900 he was appointed Professor of Grammar in the Institute of Matanzas, and somewhat later entered the competition for the Chair of Grammar, Didactic Literature, and the History of Spanish Literature in the Institute of Havana. In this he was successful and has since been Professor in the Capital.

Dr. Rodríguez García has also taken an active part in journalism. He has been a member of the staff of El Dia and also of La Noche and has published several magazines. In 1887 he issued Cuba Intelectual; in 1898 Los Domingos Literarios; in 1904 El Teatro Cubano; and in 1907 a second time Cuba Intelectual.

He has also written books in a number of different fields—Law, History, Geography, Philology, Mathematics, Literature, Grammar, etc.

Among his publications are: Programa de nociones de Gramática Castellana, Havana, 1904; Enseñanza gradual de la Lengua Castellana, Havana, 1896; Programa de...
Rodríguez García

Principios de Gramática Castellana, Havana, 1896; Principios de Ortografía, Havana, 1896; Principios de Geografía, Havana, 1897; Gramatiquerias, Havana, 1898; Ensayo de un Programa para la enseñanza gradual de la Gramática Castellana, Havana, 1899; Bibliografía de la Gramática y Lexicografía Castellana, etc., 2 vols., Havana, 1903-1913; Literatura Preceptiva, Havana, 1914; De la Avellaneda, Havana, 1914.
José Comallonga y Mené was born in Guantanamo, Province of Oriente, in the year 1865. Although he came of a family fairly well off, when he was fifteen he left home rather than adopt the commercial views of his family and go into business.

From the time he was fifteen until he was eighteen he lived a wandering life, marked by hardships and poverty, which led him into many parts of the Island. Under these unfavorable conditions, without the knowledge of his family or any aid or influence from any source, he entered a competition, set up by the now extinct Provincial Assembly of Santa Clara, for a scholarship at the Moré School of Agriculture, and notwithstanding the odds against him, won the prize. He then got to Havana.
as best he could and devoted his full energies to the study of Agronomical Engineering in which he gained his degree in 1888. Thereupon he paid a long deferred visit to his home with his degree and with the satisfaction of owing his success solely to his own resolution and resources.

During the period of his study for his degree he got his living by writing for newspapers, making reports, and other jobs. At this time he published a book of verses, collecting those which he had written for El Figaro and La Habana Elegante some of which have since appeared in the anthology of Cuban poetry entitled Arpas Cubanas.

On completing his studies Comallonga devoted himself to what was then a new science in Cuba—that of the Chemistry of Sugar-making—and during fourteen years served as expert for the leading sugar mills of the island, seven of which he spent at the Central Constancia which from 1890 to 1895 had the reputation of being the first sugar mill in the world.

When the Independence of Cuba was declared he took an active interest in obtaining recognition for the academic degrees which had been granted by the School of Moré and as result of his labors secured the validation of his own degrees by the University. Thereupon he presented himself in competitive examination for a professorship in the School of Agronomy in the University, but failed to win it. A little later he entered a new competition for the chair of Agriculture in the Provincial Institute of Oriente Province, which he won. After four years he entered a new competition for the chair of Agriculture in the Institute of Santa Clara, in which he was successful notwithstanding that among his rivals was the famous Cuban authority on agriculture Don Juan Bautista Jiménez.

At this time he was appointed by the government of President Estrada Palma, although he was a political opponent, Commissioner to study the Naudet system, upon which he published a pamphlet designed to prevent the landowners from loss and injury by adopting the new method.

In 1907 he entered a competition for the Professorship of Rural Economy, etc., in which he was successful and which he now occupies.

He was appointed at the same time by President Gómez, Director General of Agriculture, and in this position he set up the six model Agricultural schools which Cuba has and in which 180 children of rural Cuba are annually taught, clothed, and fed by the state.

Under the administration of General Gómez (1908–12) Comallonga was also appointed Commissioner of the Cuban Government to study agricultural instruction in France, Belgium, Switzerland, and the United States, publishing a report on his return. He set up in the Department of Agriculture the Government agronomical service and the National Agricultural Laboratory. At the end of General Gómez's term of office Comallonga retired from public service to resume his chair at the University.

In 1915 he was appointed by President Menocal, Delegate to the Second Pan-American Scientific Congress, held in Washington; President Menocal also invited Comallonga, in collaboration with Dr. Francisco Henares, to direct the publication of a Portfolio of the Sugar Industry said to be the most sumptuous publication yet produced in Cuba.

He has published: Manual del químico y maestro de azúcar cubano, Habana, 1897; Memorandum, Teoría de los Triple Efectos, Santiago de Cuba, 1903; La Industria azucarera en Cuba, Habana, 1906; Por la cultura agrícola, Villaclara, 1908; La Feria y el Dr. Sacc, Habana, 1911; Acciones Agrícolas de algunos Gobiernos europeos, Habana, 1911; La instrucción agrícola en Cuba, Habana, 1913; Lecturas agrícolas para los niños, Habana, 1914; Portfolio de la industria azucarera, Habana, 1915; (and in collaboration with Señorita Ortiz), Tratado de enseñanza de economía doméstica y agricultura, Habana, 1918.
JUAN MANUEL MENOCAL

Lawyer; soldier; magistrate.

JUAN MANUEL MENOCAL y FERNÁNDEZ de CASTRO was born in Matanzas in 1870, and began his studies in his birthplace where he took the courses leading to the Bachelor's degree in the Institute and was awarded the title after examination. Thence he went to Havana, entered the University, and was made Advocate in 1894.

He had practiced his profession only a year when the War of Independence broke out and he joined the revolutionists. He was a member of the expedition under the command of General Collazo which landed on the beach of Varadero, Hicacos Peninsula, Matanzas, in March, 1896, and he continued in the service, fighting in the provinces of Matanzas, Las Villas, and Havana, until the end of the war when he re

During the first American Intervention
Menocal fulfilled the duties of the following positions: Consulting Attorney to the Secretary of the Treasury; Acting Prosecutor of the Provincial Courts of Matanzas and Camagüey; and Prosecutor of the Provincial Court of Santiago de Cuba, at which last post he remained until the Republic was constituted.

Under the Republic he has held without any interval the following positions:
Member of the Committee on Claims of the Army of Liberation; President of the Provincial Court of Matanzas; Presiding
Judge of the Provincial Court of Havana;
Secretary of Justice; Magistrate of the Supreme Court of the Republic.
RODOLFO GUIRAL

Oculist.

RODOLFO GUIRAL y VIONDI was born on the eleventh of February, 1874, in Guanabacoa and there, in the church schools, he obtained his education as far as the Bachelor's degree. He then entered the University of Havana, began the study of Medicine, and obtained his degree as Doctor in 1898.

In the practice of his profession he has devoted himself to ophthalmology, in which he has had an exceptionally wide range of experience both in public and private practice.

In 1908 he was appointed head of the Doctor Enrique López Eye Clinic and retained that post for four and a half years. He was then appointed oculist of the Hospital of Guanabacoa, remaining at this post three years. In 1901 he was made oculist of the Centro Balear (Balearic Islands Club); and resigned in 1906 when he became oculist of the Centro de Dependientes (Clerks Club), which position he later resigned.

In 1908 he established a clinic of his own which bears his name. Meantime at one period or another he has been oculist to all the societies for mutual help in Havana and on occasion has been attending all of them at the same time.

Dr. Guiral has contributed to the progress of his profession by various studies and experiments; he has completed a set of slides for stereoscopic use containing four hundred slides which exhibit the whole of the surgery of the eye, and has set up a complete laboratory of photomicrography, the only one in Cuba.

He is the inventor of the treatment for the care of Oftalmia blenorragica in children which has proved successful in 1,200 cases. He is also the inventor of the operation called Divertículo canaliculotomía and of the special instrument for this operation. He GUIRAL has, moreover, effected a modification in Professor Elliot's operation for trepanning by which the trepanning of the eye in glaucoma is harmless. Dr. Guiral has held no political office, but during the War of Independence he served on the Revolutionary Committee of his native city.

He has been Secretary of the Board of Judges in competitive examinations for the Chair of Ophthalmology in the University.

He has published: La Oftalmia purulenta, Havana, 1913; Diagnóstico diferencial de la conjuntivitis granulosa, etc., Havana, 1913; Clínica quirúrgica estereoscópica de los ojos (with 350 stereoscopic photographs), Havana, 1916; Nociones de Oftalmología necesaria al médico general, Havana, 1916; La antisepsia en Cirugía ocular, 1918.
FRANCISCO DEL RIO

Francisco del Rio y Ferrer was born in Havana on the twenty-seventh of December, 1880, but was educated chiefly in Spain. He won the degree of Bachelor at the Institute of Granada in 1897; then, going to Seville, he studied at the University and graduated as Doctor of Veterinary Medicine in 1905. In the following year he gained the same degree in the University of Havana, which also granted him the degree of Doctor of Pharmacy in 1913 and that of Doctor of Medicine and Surgery in 1918.

In 1904 he was appointed Assistant in the Faculty of the Veterinary School of Córdoba (Spain). In 1906 the Board of Health of Havana made him Veterinary Inspector. In 1907 he was appointed Veterinary for the Eastern Division in the Department of Public Works. He was one of the founders of the Free School of Veterinary Medicine in Cuba. In 1908 he was appointed Interne Professor in the School of Veterinary Medicine in the University, and later, through competitive examination, titular Professor of the Anatomy and Dissection of Domestic Animals.

He has been Sub-Delegate of Veterinary Medicine, and in 1914 he was Vice-president of the Third National Medical Congress. He is the editor of the Revista Cubana de Medicina Veterinaria and author of Compendio de Artrologia y Miologia del Caballo (1914).

PABLO DESVERNINE

Scholar; teacher; diplomatist; Secretary of State in the Republic of Cuba, 1914—

The Premier in President Menocal's Cabinet has had the fortune to run a long and distinguished career almost wholly in the city where he was born and grew up. Except for two comparatively brief periods spent in the United States, the first at Columbia University where as a student he obtained the degree of LL.B. and the second in Washington where he represented his country as its Minister, his life has been passed in Havana where he was born in the year 1854.

He studied at the University of Havana and practiced law in the Havana courts. In 1899 he was appointed by General Brooke, the American Military Governor, to be Chief of the Cabinet to the general satisfaction of the people. In the following year he was made Professor of Civil Law in the University where he has continued to teach with occasional interruptions. In 1911 he was made President of the Exposition of Agriculture, Industry, Art, and Labor. In 1913 President Menocal appointed him Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary to Washington, then as now the most important and responsible diplomatic post to a Cubán. In 1914 he was made Secretary of State.

JOAQUIN N. ARAMBURU

Journalist; educator; author.

JOAQUIN N. ARAMBURU was born in Guanajay, Province of Pinar del Rio, on the tenth of September, 1855. He was educated at home, and in the public schools of his native town; never has attended college or university, but has increased his scanty early equipment by constant reading and the regular work of journalism. To this he has devoted his life, having been, during his career of forty years, the founder of eight papers and an editor of no fewer than twenty. For the past fifteen years he has been on the staff of the Diario de la Marina. Besides his services to Cuban papers he has been correspondent of several European periodicals.

Of public offices Señor Aramburu has held but one—that of Secretary of the Board of Education to which he was nominated by General Wood in 1901.

He is an Honorary Member of the Royal Academy of Galicia (Spain) and of nearly all the societies organized in Cuba for instruction, recreation, and charity.

He is the author of a number of books some of which have been honored by translation into English:

SANTIAGO GARCÍA CAÑIZARES

Physician; public man.

SANTIAGO GARCÍA CAÑIZARES was born on the seventh of July, 1862, in Sancti Spiritus, the birthplace of his mother; his father was a Spanish army officer. He prepared for the Bachelor's degree in the Jesuit College of Sancti Spiritus and in 1878 entered the University of Havana where he obtained the Licentiate in Medicine in 1884 and the Doctorate in 1886.

He began the practice of his profession in the Isle of Pines and continued it in his native city where, besides serving on the Board of Education and the Board of Hospital Patrons, he edited a periodical La Igualdad. He held the position of Director of Coast Sanitation until 1895 when, at the outbreak of the War of Independence, he joined the revolutionaries.
In the same year he was elected to represent the Fourth Army Corps in the Constitutional Assembly where Cuban independence was declared and the constitution signed. By unanimous vote of that Assembly he was chosen Secretary of the Interior of the Revolutionary government, and performed the duties of that office during the two years of the constitutional régime. From 1897 until the end of the war he held the rank of Colonel in the Sanitary Service.

Following this, as Mayor of Sancti Spiritus he organized departments of health and education, established orphanages and other philanthropies.

In 1901 the Republican party of which he was one of the founders, elected him to represent the Province of Santa Clara in the Cuban House of Representatives where he served several terms as president.

He has always been an earnest and active partizan; in Congress he has worked for the extension and regulation of charities and has been the author of various bills looking toward public betterment.
JOSÉ G. VILLA

Emilio Bobadilla
("Fray Candil")
EMILIO DE BOBADILLA
(Fray Candil)

Critic; poet; novelist.

EMILIO DE BOBADILLA, widely known by the pseudonym Fray Candil, was born in the city of Cárdenas, Cuba, in 1872. His father, Don José Sixto de Bobadilla, a descendant of the Spanish Knight, Francisco de Bobadilla who carried Columbus to Spain in chains in 1500, was an attorney well known in Havana in his day and a professor in the Law Department of the University. He desired that his son should study law and succeed to his practice and prestige; but the boy's bent was totally different.

As a youth of fifteen or sixteen, a student in the University of Havana, young Bobadilla felt an irresistible attraction toward literature as a career; and began writing... for the local papers and reviews under the name which he afterwards made famous.

From the first he gave indications of a vein of satire and keen critical ability, which made it evident to himself and his family that he must devote himself to letters. The intellectual poverty and the narrow social atmosphere of the oppressed colony were odious to the young man and upon the death of his father he sailed for Spain. At twenty years of age he arrived in Madrid, the metropolis of his race and his tongue, where he was already known in journalistic circles through his work for Cuban and South American periodicals.

He at once entered the Central University of Madrid and completed his legal studies but with his mind fixed always on literature. He collaborated in the work of El Imparcial and other Madrid papers soon becoming recognized as a critic of power, discernment, and independence. His fearless sincerity naturally won him enemies, but in the Spanish speaking world he is known as one of the critics of the day. A duel which he had with the famous critic and satirist Clarin, in which the latter was wounded, produced a sensation in Madrid.

Bobadilla is a scholar: he is acquainted with several languages and with nearly all European countries. Upon a visit to the Scandinavian countries he was cordially treated by the public and was entertained several days by the celebrated Björnson at his home, Anlestad.

Bobadilla's novels are: Novelas en germ-en; A fuego lento (a tale which is to tropical life what some of Kipling's are to the jungle); En la noche dormida (a pathological study); En pos de la paz (word painting of events in the Lower Pyrenees); Viajando por España (with a prologue by Pérez Galdos); Sintiendome vivir (the intimate spiritual life of the author). His books of literary criticism are: Capiritazos; Solfeo; Triquitraques; Con la capucha vuelta; Grafomonos de América; Bulevar arriba, Bulevar abajo; El padre Coloma y la aristocracia.

Poetical works: Vortice (a collection of poems various of which have been translated into English, Italian, and French); Fiebres (short poems, much admired and imitated in Latin America, the best known of which are entitled Bogotá and À Velázquez. Although one by one Fray Candil's sonnets make their first appearance in La Esfera (Madrid) he contributes constantly to many South American and European reviews including Le Figaro and Le Gil Blas, La Revue de Revues and La Renaissance latine. His work is received with great respect by the critics: Azotin affirms that “Fray Candil has taught Spain to think and to feel”; Gómez de Baquero, “Fray Candil has the melancholy and sobriety of Anatole France, the aggressiveness of Octave Mirbeau, the scientific seriousness of Taine and the rougishness of Henri Lavedan”; the London Athenæum proclaims him “the first of Spanish critics.”

At present, 1919, Bobadilla makes his home in Biarritz, France, where he is serving as Consul from Cuba.
NEMESIO BUSTO Y DELGADO

Lawyer; judge.

NEMESIO BUSTO Y DELGADO was born in the village of Recreo, now called Máximo Gómez, on the nineteenth of December, 1865. At the Colegio “El Progreso” in the City of Cárdenas he prepared for the Bachelor’s degree which he received in 1882; six years later he was granted the Licentiate in Law by the University of Havana.

He has occupied in Cárdenas the office of Judge of the Primary Court of Claims and Mandates, Correctional and Municipal, and was President of the Board of Education until December, 1910.

In 1910 he was the candidate of the Liberal party, and was elected to represent the Province of Matanzas in the House of Representatives and, later, was designated Secretary of that body. He filled the same position in the special session of Congress convened in 1913.
BONIFACIO BYRNE

Poet; journalist.

Bonifacio Byrne was born in Pueblo Nuevo a suburb of Matanzas on the third of March, 1861. At seven years of age he entered the Colegio “El Porvenir” in Matanzas where he came under the influence of Antonio Luis Moreno, the director of the school. Pupil until 1875, and afterwards teacher in this institution, the inspiration and guidance of Moreno, added to that master’s illuminating teaching of the poets, led young Byrne to choose poetry as his vocation. Aside from Moreno, the model and mentor of Byrne’s early days was the poet Nicanor A. Gonzales.

Byrne’s first appearance in print was in his seventeenth year, when some of his verses were published in a Matanzas weekly, La Primavera.
His first essay in the journalistic field was as annalist of the “Ateneo” society, being associated with the veteran writer Fernando Romero Fajardo who was its Director.

He later joined the editorial staff of El Pueblo in Matanzas, and was director successively of La Mañana, La Juventud Liberal and El Obrero; twice he was editor of El Diario (Matanzas) and did special articles for El Imparcial and La Región. In 1895, when rebellious Cuba was being disciplined by Spain, Byrne’s caustic and enthusiastic pen attracted a dangerous degree of attention; his separatist propaganda led to the suppression of his paper, El Diario de Matanzas. Byrne was arrested and tried; defended by Nicholás Heredia, a writer of note, his trial deteriorated into a picturesque political wrangle, in which the President of the Tribunal frequently obstructed the defense with interruptions. Byrne was sentenced to six months’ imprisonment but escaped serving through a proclamation of amnesty.

At this juncture Byrne emigrated to Tampa, Florida, where he remained three years. Here he continued to work for Cuban independence largely through the columns of El Expedicionario, a small paper which he directed, and through his contributions to the Cuban periodicals Patria, El Porvenir, Cacarajicara, El Continente Americano, and Cuba. He also collaborated in the Album Patriotic which El Figaro published in 1899. He was secretary, in Tampa, of the club Pedro Betancourt.

Upon his return to the island of Cuba, after the close of the Spanish-American War, Byrne acted for a short time as editor of La Discusión, but in April, 1899, resigned to accept an appointment under the provincial government of Matanzas; later, being appointed secretary of that government, he retained the position for ten years, until 1912.

During a part of this period he directed in Matanzas the periodical Yucayo, which he continues in 1919, serving also as Secretary to the Superintendent of Schools of the Province. He has been President of the Press Club and of the Club of "Emi-grados" in Matanzas. He is a member of the Cuban Academy of Arts and Letters and an Associate (Correspondent) Fellow of the Academy of the Republic of San Salvador.

Byrne has not been without honors in his own city: The Council has declared him an Eminent Son of the City of Matanzas, and a street has been named in his honor. A commemorative stone tablet has been placed in the house in which he was born, at the expense of the Association of Students of the Institute in the same place.

In 1915, during a second visit to the Great Republic of the North, Byrne wrote a book of verses entitled La Nación Maravillosa, a tribute of admiration to the country of Washington. This has not yet appeared.

His published writings are the following: Volumes of poetry: Excéntricas (Philadelphia, 1893); Efigies (Philadelphia, 1897); Lira y Espada (1901); Poemas (1903); En Medio del Camino (1914).

Several of his dramatic works have been produced with success: El Anónimo; Rayo
He has been successful in numerous literary competitions, having been awarded the first prizes in Matanzas at the quatrocentenary of the discovery of America, and in Havana. His sonnets and patriotic poems presented at Juegos Florales throughout Cuba and in Spain have brought him many prizes.
FELIX CALLEJAS

FELIX CALLEJAS was born of Cuban parents at Bogotá, Colombia, on the eighteenth of May, 1878. His first studies were pursued in the Colegio of Belén and the Institute of Havana. He began his literary career in the field of poetry, where his success as a verse writer soon attracted notice. His first volume of poetry, Vibraciones, won enthusiastic welcome from the public. Among the noticeable poems in this volume are "Noche de Baile," "Cuadro de Sombres," "Cieno y Alma," "Premium," and "Entre llamas." In his later verse may be mentioned "Armas y espigas," which won the first prize in a competition taken part in by the leading poets of Cuba. The sonnet form is especially affected by this writer and many of his sonnets are distinguished for elevation of thought and beauty of expression. Endowed with versatility of talent, Callejas has used various forms of literary expression, ranging from poetry to humorous essays. He was the founder and editor of the educational review Cuba Pedagógica and edited for a number of years the child's magazine called Primavera. He has contributed also in prose and verse to the principal literary publications of his country. In 1912 he took up journalistic work as editor of the Prensa of Havana, in which he inaugurated a humorous section, which soon attracted popular notice throughout the country. His humor and his irony are directed to encourage all elements of social progress and it was through his championship that the system of giving free luncheons to public school scholars was introduced in Cuba. A selection of humorous articles was published in 1914, under the title Arreglando el Mundo, a book which won popular approval.

Callejas is also distinguished as an educator, in which capacity he has lectured on grammar in Normal schools in Havana, and has occupied important technical positions in the Office of Public Instruction and Fine Arts. He is a member of the National Academy of Arts and Letters, in which he has served as general treasurer and vice-president of the section of literature. At the present time, although not giving up his work in daily journalism, he is editor of the Review of Agriculture, Commerce and Labor, an official publication of the Cuban Government.
FELIPE GARCÍA CAÑIZARES

Physician; teacher.

FELIPE GARCÍA CAÑIZARES was born in Sancti Spiritus on the fourteenth of July, 1872. He obtained his early education in his native city, and afterwards proceeded to Havana and Madrid. In 1892 he became a member of the hospital staff of San Francisco de Paulo, and in November of that year, after a competitive examination, he was appointed assistant in Dissection in the medical faculty of the University of Havana. From 1893 to 1896 he was in charge of the chair of Mathematics, Physics, Chemistry and Natural History in the Real Concilia Seminary of Havana. In 1895 he was appointed, after a competition, a member with first honors of the "Weiss" Obstetrical Clinic, and later in the same year associate professor of Technical Anatomy, in the Preparatory School of Medicine at Havana. He obtained his degree of Licentiate in medicine with first-class honors and afterwards the degree of Doctor of Natural Sciences. At the close of 1895 he proceeded to Europe and graduated as Doctor of Medicine at the Central Faculty of Madrid. From this city he went on to Paris to specialize in the study of botany, syphilitic diseases, and diseases of the skin. He continued to Manila and this trip was wrongly interpreted as involving him in questions of Cuban politics. He was tried by a court martial and was sent to Barcelona. After a month he was freed and he then went to France and from there to Venezuela, where he practiced his profession until he returned to Cuba in 1900. He was nominated after a competition to the chair of Natural History in the Institute of Havana, and also assumed charge of the Botanical Garden and Museum of the Institute.
MANUEL ARTEAGA

MANUEL ARTEAGA was born in Cama­ güey on the twenty-eighth of December, 1879. In 1892 he went to Venezuela to pursue his studies at the University of Carcacas where he followed courses in civil law and theology. After being ordained he was appointed to the position of foreign curate and vicar at Cumana and later was named Canon with the title of Doctor in the Cathedral of Guayana. While at Cumana he took charge of the decoration of the Church of Santa Ines and was also given supervision of the restoration of the parish church at Benita in Venezuela, which had been destroyed by the earthquake of 1900. This work under his direction was entirely successful. In 1910 he was sent to the Eucharistic Congress of Madrid as a representative of the Archdio-

ARMANDO MENOCAL was born in Havana in 1866. His early education in Cuba was supplemented by the study of art in Spain. In 1888, he was appointed professor in the School of Painting and Sculpture of Havana, the appointment being renewed in 1899.

He has at sundry times served as judge in competitions of painting, and was official representative from Cuba to the Paris Exposition in 1900. He was elected in 1912 to membership in the Academy of Arts and Letters (Cuba).

Menocal has for many years been a painter of portraits and of genre and historical pictures; he has more recently turned his attention to fresco. His decorations for the auditorium of the University and for the magnificent new presidential palace were chosen as the result of competitions. Menocal reached the rank of major in the Cuban War for Independence.
ENRIQUE COLLAZO

Patriot; historian.

ENRIQUE COLLAZO was born in Santiago de Cuba on the twenty-eighth of May, 1844. At fourteen years of age he was sent to Spain and entered the Colegio of Segovia as artillery cadet. He finished the course with the rank of Second Lieutenant (cadet) and later was made full Second Lieutenant, then Lieutenant.

Two years later, in 1868, war broke out in Cuba and young Collazo renounced his military career in Spain, went to the United States and enlisted as a soldier in the Company "Riflers de la Libertad" under the command of Colonel Manuel Súarez. In May of 1869 he arrived in Cuba with the expedition of the Perit. In 1871 he went to Jamaica with a revolutionary commission and in 1875 returned to Cuba in the steamer Octavia as a member of the expedition under Pio Rosado. Thereafter he remained in the Revolution as Major in Camagüey until the signing of the Pact of Zanjón in 1878.

He then went to Jamaica with General Máximo Gómez and together with Gómez and Martí signed on the 20th of January, 1895 the order of revolt for the 24th of February of that year. The year following, in March, 1896, he disembarked in Veradero with an expedition carried by the steamer Three Friends. He commanded different brigades in the war and in 1897 was designated Representative for Oriente to the Assembly of Yaya.

Upon the formation of the Republic he was made Representative for the Province of Havana; at the close of his term of office he was designated Comptroller General of the Republic, which position he occupied several years as also that of voting member of the Junta de Protestas.

He has published various works upon Cuban history: Desde Yara hasta el Zanjón (1893); Episodios de la Guerra (1899);
Armando de Córdoba
ARMANDO DE CÓRDOVA Y QUESADA

Physician; specialist.

ARMANDO DE CÓRDOVA Y QUESADA was born in Havana in 1880 and educated in the Institute and the University of Havana, obtaining from the latter the degree of Doctor of Medicine.

He has served Hospital Number One as Chief of Laboratory and for five years was medical interne. He has been a voting member of the National Board of Health and Philanthropy and specialist in nervous diseases at the Quinta de Dependientes.

As the result of competitions, Dr. Cordova has been assistant in Histology and Pathological Anatomy and has filled various other positions in the National University, reaching in 1907 the one which he now holds (1919): that of Professor of Nervous and Mental Diseases and Head of the Clinic in the same department. He also is at the head of a Sanatorium for the treatment of the diseases in which he specializes.

Dr. Córdova has contributed to Cuban Medical reviews numerous articles chiefly along the lines of Neurology and Psychiatry.
FRANCISCO DE PAULA CORONADO Y ÁLVARO

Historian; literary man; educator.

FRANCISCO DE PAULA CORONADO Y ÁLVARO was born in Havana on the eighth of January, 1870, of distinguished ancestry on both sides. His father D. Augustin Coronado y Piloña claimed direct descent from the Coronado who was conqueror of Costa Rica and the Coronado who explored parts of North America in 1540.

He entered when very young the Colegio “La Educación,” and later attended “San Francisco,” the “Real Colegio de San Fernando” and “Belén” where he followed the courses required for the Bachelorate. In Havana University he studied Civil and Administrative Law and also Philosophy, Letters, and Pedagogy.

AND MONOGRAPHS
At seventeen he began to write for La República, a Havana daily paper, and to teach Spanish grammar and literature in the "Círculo de Trabajadores."

From about 1887 he devoted himself definitely to literature, history, and teaching despite the traditional family profession, Law, for which he studied but which he never practiced.

From 1889 to 1895 his writing was in the line of literary criticism. Sometimes over his own name, sometimes using the pseudonym César de Madrid, he made constant contributions to various Havana dailies, to the reviews, La Habana Elegante, El Figaro, El Hogar, El Pitcher, Gil Blas and to some foreign periodicals as well. In the Figaro he maintained for several years a special column of wit and satire with the caption "Cosas" in which he signed himself variously as Don Pánfilo, Panfilón or Panfilito.

Upon the organization of the Cuban Revolutionary party in 1892, Coronado joined it and also was allied with the patriotic "junta" of Havana until 1896 when he was forced to emigrate to escape the persecutions of the Spanish authorities. Settling in New York he allied himself with various revolutionary clubs and edited Patria, the official organ of the Revolution in foreign parts. He collaborated also in El Porvenir, Cuba y América, and Cuba y Puerto Rico, all published in New York. In 1897, in association with Enrique Hernández Meyares, he founded Carajícara but soon withdrew from it.

In 1898, Coronado was free to return to educational and literary work which he has continued with a single interim of two years, 1902–4, when he was Secretary of the Cuban legation in Mexico. He has been member of the Havana Board of Education (1899), school inspector for the Province of Havana (1900), member and secretary of the board of judges for the scholastic contests in the secondary schools of the Provinces of Matanzas and Santa Clara (1900), Provincial Superintendent of the schools of Camagüey (1900–1902), Provincial Superintendent of the schools of Havana (1904–1909), Secretary of the National Council of Librarians of Cuba (1910-1913), member of the board of judges in competitions for the chair of Pedagogy in the University of Havana (1916).

Coronado directed the first lay school in Cuba, that established by the Círculo de Trabajadores in 1889; he first taught patriotic history in night classes for laborers; he early gave courses of lectures upon national history to the teachers of the Island. While connected with the Department of Public Instruction he codified and edited the first courses of study used in the elementary schools, established examinations for teachers, and organized the system of common school inspection.

He is a member of the following societies: Association of Painters and Sculptors; Cuban Theatrical Society; Fundación Luz Caballero; National Association of Revolutionary Emigrés; Cuban Society of International Law; Ateneo of Havana (one of the Board of Governors); Academy of History of Cuba (Secretary).

Leading periodicals of Latin America frequently publish poems from Coronado's pen under the pseudonyms "Marcelo Du Quesne" and "El Caballero de la Blanca Luna." He also has delivered many addresses of which the most notable are: Luz Caballero (1908); Los Evangelios apócrifos (1911); Villaespesa y la poesía española contemporánea (1912).

He is author of pamphlets bearing the following titles: Frutos coloniales (Havana, 1891); Primera campaña (Havana, 1892); En mis trece (Havana, 1893); Debilidades femininas (Havana, 1894); Amortos, short stories (Havana, 1895); Sangre, short stories (New York, 1896); Apuntes para la vida de General Maceo (N.Y., 1897); Crímenes de España en Cuba (N.Y., 1898); Datos para una biografía del Gen. Calixto García Iñiguez (Havana, 1899); La toma de Cárdenas en 1850 (Havana, 1900); La enseñanza en Camagüey, 1900-1901 (Havana, 1902); and Las Pediciones de Plácido (Havana, 1909).
MANUEL DELFIN

Physician; charity worker.

Manuel Delfín y Zamora was born in Baracoa, Province of Oriente, Cuba, on the twenty-eighth of February, 1849, and began his education in the local public schools. Although in very modest circumstances his family determined to give him educational advantages. Accordingly he was sent to school in Santiago and later to the Colegio de Belén in Havana where he took many prizes for scholarship.

During these years, struggling with poverty, young Delfín tutored in private families and even worked as a servant. He finally entered a private Colegio as pupil-teacher but unhappy conditions forced him to leave. Returning to Baracoa, he taught for two years in the public schools, then entered upon a pharmaceutical course in the University of Havana.
Early in the seventies, Cuba being most dangerous for a youth who was not circumspect in speech about governmental affairs, the family sent young Delfín to Spain to continue his education. From the Central University in Madrid he won the degree of Licentiate in Pharmacy, then gave himself to the study of medicine. At the conclusion of this course he returned to Cuba, making his home in Vuelta Abajo where he founded and managed a paper called El Veguero. Active in the Autonomist party he became its unsuccessful candidate for membership in the colonial congress. He became involved in some political difficulties and was imprisoned; liberated, he resumed his professional practice but later moved to Havana.

In Havana, after many hardships, he became established as chemist in a medical and surgical laboratory. During this period he was a pioneer, in Cuba, of medico-legal investigations. He was Secretary to the Board of Philanthropies and for three years issued a review entitled La Higiene.

He established dispensaries, said to have been the first in Cuba, first in Matanzas and later in Santa Clara and Havana. During the enforcement of Gen. Weyler's re-concentration decree, he maintained dispensaries among the fugitives.

Aroused to the necessities of the poor, especially women and children, he founded "La Casa del Pobre," whose object was to care for the poor in their homes; later, about 1915, he succeeded in inducing the public to institute "La Granja de Niños Pobres" and house it satisfactorily. This asylum, directed by Dr. Delfín, cares for about a hundred poor children.
Sr. Miguel Espinosa
J. Hernandez
MIGUEL ESPINOSA HERNÁNDEZ

Miguel Espinosa Hernández was born on the Canary Islands on the fourth of April, 1869. His father, Miguel B. Espinosa, was a well-known Cuban medical man and publicist. His early studies were pursued in the Santa Cruz Institute at Teneriffe. From there he proceeded to the University of Havana. As a young man he devoted himself to journalism and in politics affiliated himself with the Liberal and Autonomist party. In the year 1898, he was elected a deputy to the Spanish Cortes by the Autonomist party. From the foundation of the Conservative party he has acted as a zealous adherent promoting its principles in two newspapers, El Nuevo País, and Cuba. In 1908 he was elected Representative for the Province of Las Villas. In 1911 he founded the Journal El Via of which he is now Managing Editor. In 1912 he was again elected Representative for Las Villas Province, and secured a further election in November, 1916.
JUAN MIGUEL DIHIGO

Teacher; linguist.

Juan Miguel Dihigo y Mestre was born in Havana on the eighth of May, 1866. He received his secondary education in the Colegio de "Belén," a Jesuit school, where through his conduct and application he won many prizes. During these school days he was winner in a competition in the English Language in which the students of the several secondary schools of the city were included. Upon terminating his studies for the Bachelorate in 1882 he entered the University of Havana and pursued simultaneously the courses in Philosophy and Letters and in Law, receiving the Licentiate in both departments in 1884, the Doctorate of Philosophy and Letters in 1888, and that of Civil and Canon Law in 1898.
In 1891 he had begun serving as assistant in Greek, and soon after receiving his Doctorate in Law he was given the chair of Greek in the University (1899), at the same time being Professor of the History of Pedagogy. At present (1919) he is serving the University as Professor, by competition, of Linguistics and Philology. In 1901 he was appointed Secretary of the Department of Science and Letters of whose official Review he became Director in 1914, this organ having been founded by the joint labors of Dr. Dihigo and Dr. Aristides Mestre.

He founded in the University the Laboratory of Experimental Phonetics which bears his name and, in association with Dr. Mestre, an annual series of University Extension lectures. Some of these lectures he has himself delivered, all on more or less popular subjects: "Influence of Analogy in Language"; "Roosevelt's Influence upon English Spelling"; "The Bible from the Linguistic Point of View"; "Popular Speech in Literature"; "How to Know a Country's History from its Money."
DIHIGO

He has rendered other diverse and distinctive services to the University of Havana, including the editing of the University Statutes, and the delivery of the address of welcome to Dr. Rafael Altamira, delegate from the Spanish University of Oviedo.

Not only in the University Extension work has Dr. Dihigo contributed to the education of the masses. It was to him that was assigned the task of reorganizing and reforming the secondary schools of the Republic; he organized with Drs. Alfredo Zayas and Julio San Martín the first municipal School Board of Havana and for many years worked with that group either as Secretary, President, or member, improving and systematizing the public schools of the city which he visited and studied personally; he was at times member of the examining board for teachers; chairman of a committee which studied the rural school-house question; lecturer in summer Normal Institutes for teachers.

The Teachers' Club of Havana, as an expression of gratitude for Dr. Dihigo's efforts in behalf of primary education, presented to the Board of Education his portrait in oils to be hung in the Board rooms. In Public School No. 37 of the city there has been established, in recognition of their honored patron, the República Escolar Juan Miguel Dihigo.

Although known in other lines of usefulness it is chiefly as a linguist that Dr. Dihigo has gained his reputation. He has long been a student of the Indo-European tongues and of those of the Semitic group, especially Hebrew and Arabic. His linguistic works have been recognized by foreign laborers in the same field, by Manoury, Regnaud, Lebègue, Cejador, Fay, Wheeler, Meyer Lübke, Boisacq, Lenz, Sayce, De Gregorio, Rozenvalle, Meillet. He is frequently consulted upon matters of doubt in relation to language.

He is a member of the French Association for the encouragement of the study of Greek, of the Society of Linguists in Paris, of the Geographical Society of Mexico, of the Cuban Academy of History, and in 1918... he was elected Corresponding Member of the Hispanic Society of America.

Dr. Dihigo has many times been delegate to foreign congresses and celebrations: official representative of the University of Havana on the occasion of the third Centenary of the University of Oviedo, Spain; official delegate from the University and from the Cuban Government to the first Centenary celebration in Mexico; official University and governmental delegate at the 16th Congress of Orientalists convened in Athens in 1912; delegate at the Jubilee of the National University of Greece in the same year.

Although several times offered governmental appointments, Dr. Dihigo has not found their acceptance consistent with his many duties, but he did for a time act as member of the Havana City Council. During that term he corrected, by request of the Council, errors that had been noticed in the Latin inscription upon a stone tablet in the Templete. He is a member of the Literary Section of the Ateneo.

In 1894 Dihigo came under the surveillance of the Spanish Government and was prosecuted for his alleged unfriendliness. During the Revolution the following year, he was delegate in Havana of the "Oscar Primelles" Club of New York; member of the patriotic committee of "Alacranes"; delegate of the revolutionary committee of Matanzas with the pseudonym "Lincoln"; member of the patriotic Junta of Havana and secretary of its Section of Relief.

For many years Dr. Dihigo has contributed to various periodicals and has published the following works: Paradigmas de verbos árabes (1891); Sinopsis de Gramática Griega (Habana, 1894); Elogio del Dr. Nicolás Heredia y Mota (Habana, 1902); José Ignacio Rodríguez (Habana, 1907); Discurso de apertura del Curso Escolar de 1907 a 1908 (Habana, 1907); Las raíces griegas (Habana, 1908); Regnoud y su obra (Habana, 1908); El profesor Graziadio I Ascoli (Habana, 1908); Roosevelt y la ortografía inglesa (Habana, 1909); La fonética experimental en el Laboratorio de Rousselot (Habana, 1909); Bréal (Habana, 1910); La fonética experimental en la ciencia del len-
| guaje (Habana, 1911); Rufino J. Cuervo (Habana, 1911); L'enseignement de la langue grecque à Cuba (Athènes, 1912); El Congreso de orientalista y el Jubileo de la Universidad de Grecia (Habana, 1912); Elogio del Dr. Ramón Meza y Suárez Inclán (Habana, 1912); Reparos etimológicos al Diccionario de la lengua castellana; Voces derivadas del griego (Habana, 1912); La Biblia desde el punto de vista lingüístico (Habana, 1913); Las clases populares y la extensión universitaria (Habana, 1914); El habla popular al través de la Literatura cubana (Habana, 1915); Rafael María Merchán (Habana, 1915); Poey en su aspecto literario y lingüístico (Habana, 1915); La Universidad de la Habana (Habana, 1915); El movimiento lingüístico en Cuba (Habana, 1916); Hacia el viejo Oriente (Habana, 1917). | 499 |
RICARDO DOLZ

Lawyer; public man; sportsman.

RICARDO DOLZ ARANGO was born in the city of Pinar del Rio, Cuba, on the third of January, 1861. After preliminary schooling in his native place he prepared for and received the degree of Bachelor from the Institute of Havana; he continued his studies in the University of Havana, obtaining there the degrees of Licentiate and Doctor in Civil and Canonic Law.

When a vacancy arose in the professorship of Trial Procedure he competed for and won the appointment, continuing as Catedratico-Proprietor. He has been closely allied with the Círculo de Abogados of Havana, being Secretary and President of the section of Procedure and one of the Board of Directors. This organization has recognized his preeminence and his valuable service by awarding him several medals including two of gold. He is a member of the Board of Governors of the Colegio de Abogados (Bar Association) and formerly was president of the Ateneo.

Dr. Dolz early entered political life, allying himself with the partisans of autonomy. His first public appearance in a political rôle was at the theater of Santa Clara during an unsuccessful candidacy for deputyship to the Cortes. He was subsequently elected to a similar position during the period of autonomy, but declined the office and emigrated to New York where he was secretary of the Cuban Revolutionary committee of which Enrique José Varona was President.

Since the establishment of the Island Republic, Dr. Dolz has been connected in official capacities with the Moderate, the Republican, and the Conservative parties in turn. He formerly represented the Province of Pinar del Rio and now represents Cama-güey in the Senate of which he is President.

His legal writings, some of which have been adopted as textbooks in Spanish and other universities, are as follows:

Prescripción de las acciones civiles; El código civil y el Notariado; La seguridad social y la libertad individual; Las abintestatas y el juicio ejecutivo; Proclama de derecho procesal. He is author of an interpretation of a portion of the Cuban constitution known as the “Quorum Dolz” which has been sanctioned by the Supreme Court. In connection with his professional and public life he has contributed widely to periodicals and for a time was director of a newspaper, Patria. As president of the National Conservative party he was in charge of the party’s campaign in which General Menocal was elected President.

What time he can take from weightier matters, Dr. Dolz devotes to sports—to horses, of which he owns some fine thoroughbreds, to fencing, and to marksmanship. He was one of a trio of sportsmen who introduced the first airplane, a Bleriot, into the Island, and continues his interest in aeronautics as Vice-president of the Aero-club of Cuba. He also is a member of the Union Club of Havana.
FERNANDO SÁNCHEZ DE FUENTES

FERNANDO SÁNCHEZ DE FUENTES was born in Havana on the twenty-second of December, 1871, son of Eugenio Sanchez de Fuentes and Josefina Pelaez y Cardiff. With both his Bachelorate (Colegio La Gran Antilla, 1887) and his Licentiate (University of Havana, 1891) he received prizes for the highest scholarship.

Upon attaining the degree of Doctor of Philosophy and Letters he was appointed Assistant Professor in that department of the University (1894) and was reappointed in 1901. At about this latter date he took up the study of law and completed it with the doctor's degree in 1904. Soon afterwards he was successful in competitive examinations for a position in the Faculty of Law of the same University where he now (1919) is Titular Professor of Mercantile and Civil Law and Secretary of that faculty.

Dr. Sanchez de Fuentes was a member of the delegation from Cuba at the Second Peace Conference at The Hague, and represented the Law Faculty and the Cuban Society of International Law at the Second Scientific Congress at Washington; he was Envoy Extraordinary of the Republic of Cuba to the Mexican Centenary Celebration, and assisted in preparing the exhibits for the Fourth Pan-American Conference.

He is a member of the American Society of International Law, of the Instituto Americano de Derecho Internacional, of the International Council of the World’s Court League, of the Academy of Political Science in the City of New York, and honorary member of the Bar Association of Lima, Peru. He has been decorated by the Venezuelan Government with the Cross of the Order of the Liberator.

As Representative in the lower House of Congress he served upon the Committee of Foreign Relations and was Chairman of the Committee on Justice and Legal Codes; he was member of the committee which formulated the existing currency system and of the joint committee which prepared the Law for Economic Defense. He gave final form to the law organizing the Diplomatic and Consular Service, as also to the Workman's Liability Law which, after having been presented ten years before, was finally perfected and passed under his sponsorship.

Two other important parliamentary labors of Dr. Sánchez de Fuentes are the bill—the first he introduced—by which the National University received a considerable appropriation for improvements, and one by which the Penal Code was reformed in conformity to modern standards.

Upon the occasion of the tobacco crisis of 1915-16, he was one of a special commission appointed by the House of Representatives to study the situation. The results of these investigations were collected and form the subject-matter of Ponencia, a volume whose editing was assigned to Sánchez de Fuentes. It contains studies upon the agricultural problems of the country, tariff and revenue reforms, partition of lands, the lowering of the cost of living, etc., also the text of a bill recommended by the committee providing for the establishment of Agricultural Credits.

Dr. Sánchez de Fuentes' published writings are: El Teatro moderno; Las Nuevas Tendencias del Derecho Civil; La Segunda Conferencia de la Paz de la Haya; La Ley Orgánica del Poder Judicial y las leyes procesales; Por La Libertad y El Derecho, and various articles and addresses upon professional subjects.
JUAN GUALBERTO GÓMEZ

Journalist; public man.

JUAN GUALBERTO GÓMEZ was born at the sugar plantation "El Vellocino," Province of Matanzas, on the twelfth of July, 1854. From an early age he was active in the campaigns for the liberty of Cuba, writing on the subject for various papers.

He later went to Paris and entered the Escuela Central de Ingenieros, but having to earn his living he went into newspaper work on the editorial staff of L' Événement. Later he travelled as a teacher through the French Antilles and from there to Mexico; then, going to Havana, he went into the offices of La Discusión as editor.

Subsequently he spent nearly ten years in Madrid, the first part of that time being secretary to Rafael M. de Labra. There he published his works: La Cuestión de Cuba en 1884 (1885); La Isla de Puerto Rico (1891); Las Islas Carolinas y Harianas (1885). He directed in Madrid the dailies, El Pueblo and El Progreso and was editor of La Tribuna. He was an ardent advocate of the abolition of slavery and the betterment of the negro race, with liberal interpretations of the abolitionist law of 1881. He was secretary of the abolitionist society of Madrid.

He was afterwards connected with the War of Independence and his part in the insurrection of Ibarra caused the Spanish Government to deport him to Ceuta in 1897. He has constantly taken an active part in political life. He was secretary of the committee of Consultations which edited the existing organic law of the Cuban Republic. He has been one of the editors of the daily paper La Lucha and at times has directed its policy. At present (1919) he is a member of the national Senate.
PEDRO MENDOZA GUERRA

Teacher; journalist; public man.

PEDRO MENDOZA GUERRA was born in Pamplona, Spain, in September, 1862. While very young his family migrated to Havana where he was educated in the Colegio de Belén, winning there the degree of Bachelor. He early became imbued with a desire to help his adopted country in her struggle for freedom, and the Third Corps of the Army of Liberation, in which he held the rank of Colonel, sent him as its representative to the assembly of la Yaya.

In 1896 he was appointed Governor of Camagüey, and was for a time mayor of the City of Camagüey after the establishment of the Republic. In 1902 he was elected to represent that province in the lower house of Congress where he was for a time Vice-president and presiding member of several committees. In 1907 he was made Inspector of Census for the Province of Havana.

The Cuban Government has sent Colonel Mendoza upon various foreign missions: to eastern Uruguay to adjust some national affairs, to Santo Domingo as Minister, to Washington, and Seattle as delegate to international congresses.

He has been allied with educational matters of the country having occupied at one time the position of sub-secretary of Public Instruction and Fine Arts. He has been teacher of Latin, Spanish, and Universal History in the Colegios “San Miguel Arcangel” and “Hernández Mederos” (Havana) and Progreso (Cárdenas). At a pedagogical congress at the National University he delivered an address upon the educational differences between El Niño Cubano y el Niño Americano.

He is the author of Las Razas (a study in comparative ethnology and sociology) thirty-nine chapters of which were published in La Cuna de América; and also of Semblanzas de Políticos and Cancionero Heroico.

Besides being a collaborator in numerous periodicals in various parts of the country, he established and directed La Revolución in Cienfuegos and Las Dos Repúblicas in Camagüey; he was for a time director of El Partido Liberal in Havana. He is a member of the Academy of History of Cuba.
GUSTAVO GUTIÉRREZ Y SÁNCHEZ

Lawyer; teacher.

Gustavo Gutiérrez y Sánchez was born in Camajuani in the Province of Santa Clara, Cuba, on the twenty-second of September, 1895. His mother was a native of the same province, his father of Spanish birth. After some primary instruction at home he was sent to the Colegio of Belén in Havana and later to St. Ann's Military Academy in New York where he acquired a knowledge of English. Returning to Cuba he received his secondary education in the Institute of Havana whence he entered the University where he was graduated as Doctor of Civil Law in 1916, and a year later attained the degree of Doctor of Public Law, in both cases receiving the highest honors.

Dr. Gutiérrez acted in a secretarial capacity with the First National Legal Congress of Cuba and with the Board of Directors of the American Institute of International Law in session at Havana; through competitive examinations he has been made Assistant Professor of International Public Law in the University of Havana and, during the absence of the titular professor, Dr. Bustamente, at the Peace Congress in Paris (1919), is the acting head of his department.

Following is the list of scientific societies of which he is a member: Colegio de Abogados de la Habana; Sociedad Cubana de Derecho Internacional (secretary since its foundation); American Academy of Political and Social Sciences; American Society of International Law; National Geographic Society; Organisation Centrale pour une paix durable de la Haye.

As a public speaker he has dealt with such subjects as La Destrucción de Polonia; La emancipación de Grecia; La nacionalidad en la familia cubana; Cuba contemporánea.

Aside from various papers on historical and political subjects which, after appearing in Cuba Contemporánea and other periodicals, have been collected and published in the Anual of the Sociedad de Derecho Internacional, Dr. Gutiérrez has published a volume upon La Neutralidad y la Belligerencia de la República de Cuba durante la Guerra Actual, and in collaboration with Dr. Cesar Salaya a work (404 pp.) entitled Apuntes de Derecho Internacional Público. He has in preparation works upon La liga de las Naciones; El régimen nacionalista cubano; La obligación de no intervenir; La situación internacional de Cuba and Apuntes de Derecho Internacional Privado.

ANTONIO MARIA VALDÉS DAPENA

Physician; teacher.

ANTONIO MARIA VALDÉS DAPENA was born in the village of Regla in the Province of Havana in 1879. He was educated in his native place and pursued secondary studies in the Institute of Havana, where he obtained the degree of Bachelor of Arts in 1895 and Doctor of Medicine in 1901. Since then he has held the following positions: Assistant, after competition, in the Chair of Therapeutics and Pharmacy in the University of Havana; in 1908 Assistant head ad interim of the laboratory of Therapeutics and Pharmacy of the University of Havana. In the same year, he was designated by the Titular professor to do the work of the Chair of Pharmacy. In October of the same year he was appointed, after a competition, to be Assistant Professorial head of the Laboratory of Therapeutics and Pharmacy.
CUBANS OF TO-DAY

The following medical works have been published under his name: Fractura del cráneo con hundimiento de los fragmentos; Trepanación, 1901; Acción inhibitorio de la química en el protoplasma Vegetal, 1902; Antagonismo entre la estricnina y la quinina, 1903.
GERARDO MACHADO Y MORALES

GERARDO MACHADO Y MORALES was born in Santa Clara, Cuba, on the twenty-ninth of September, 1871, and was educated in the same province, receiving the Bachelor's degree in 1884.

He then joined his father in agricultural pursuits and together they enlisted in the Revolutionary force organized by Casallas, young Machado receiving the rank of Second Lieutenant. He soon joined the guard of General Suárez and later, promoted to a captaincy, was assigned to the guard of Gen. Juan B. Zayas. At the close of the war he was in command of the Santa Clara brigade with the rank of Brigadier General.

Upon the organization of the Rural Guard he was appointed Chief of the Dis-district of Santa Clara and Trinidad, but resigned shortly to go into the tobacco business, founding the firm Ramos, Machado y Cia with which he remains as a silent partner.

General Machado devotes himself chiefly to public activities. In the first popular elections he was chosen Mayor of Santa Clara which office he occupied until the proclamation of the Republic. He was subsequently appointed to the command of the Twelfth Regiment but, desiring to throw himself into the campaign of the Liberal party for the election of General José Miguel Gómez, he severed his connection with the military. He attended to private business until his nomination for the governorship of Santa Clara Province in 1908. In December, 1909, he was appointed secretary of the Provincial Government and occupied that position for seventeen months.

Under the presidency of Gen. Gómez, Gen. Machado was in command of the armed forces.
LORENZO FRAU MARSAL

Journalist; author.

LORENZO FRAU MARSAL was born in Igualada, on the third of April, 1885. After a public school education he entered the University of Havana and pursued courses in philosophy and literature, then took up the study of law and obtained the degrees of Doctor of Civil and Public Law.

He was appointed assistant director of the journal of the House of Representatives in 1910 and has devoted his time largely to journalistic work as editor or director of various periodicals including Pay-Pay, La Ilustración, Graphic Press of Cuba; Biblioteca América; Diario de la Marina; La Opinión; and El Noticiero. The last two are daily papers of Liberal affiliation.

His writings show much diversity of interest; they are: La Babel de Hierro

GUILLERMO FERNÁNDEZ MASCARÓ

Physician; educator; public man.

GUILLERMO FERNÁNDEZ MASCARÓ was born in Puerto Rico in 1872 of cultured and well-to-do parents, his father being a writer of some note. His academic education in San Juan de Puerto Rico was followed by scientific study in the University of Havana where he obtained the degree of Licentiate in Physico-Chemical Science in 1892. As a student in the School of Medicine and Surgery of the same University he was winner in many competitions and was graduated with the highest honors in 1895, receiving the degree of Doctor of Medicine and Surgery.

Although of foreign birth, Mascaró, during his student days became one of the leaders and spokesmen of the anti-Spanish movement, and the moment he was free from the University he hastened to join the Army of Liberation of Cuba. Being appointed to the sanitary service, he attained the rank of Colonel and continued active until the close of the Spanish-American war.

After a short period devoted partially to private practice of his profession and partially to the duties of public and hospital physician, Dr. Mascaró turned his attention largely to educational work. Upon appointment of Governor General Wood in 1900, he took charge of the reorganization of the Provincial Institute of Santiago where he served also as professor of physics and chemistry. He has continued his connection with this school, being reconfirmed as director, and has contributed to the cause of education many scholarly articles of which the following may be cited: Resumen de los progresos más recientes en las ciencias físico-biológicas; Ideas dominantes en el actual desenvolvimiento de la segunda enseñanza; Educación física; Necesidad de una educación nacional y patriótica para la juventud cubana; Vulgarización de las ciencias y las letras como medio de educación popular; La educación en sus aspectos artístico, filosófico, cívico y moral; Relaciones entre la educación religiosa y moral.

Closely connected with Dr. Mascaró's labors for general education and for public health has been his political activity; he was one of the founders of the Republican party which has twice elected him to the National House of Representatives and in 1917 to the governorship of the Province of Oriente.
CARLOS MENDIETA

Journalist; soldier; public man.

Carlos Mendieta was born on the fourth of November, 1873, at La Matilde, the sugar plantation of his family, in the vicinity of San Antonio de las Vueltas, Province of Santa Clara, Cuba. His education was begun with private tutors in his home but was continued in the Colegios “Bélen” and “El Mesias” in Havana and in the Institute of Santa Clara. From the last named school he received the Bachelor’s degree in 1895, then entered the University of Havana to prepare for the medical profession.

Early in January, 1896, he abandoned his studies and went to the family sugar plantation “Central America” situated in San Diego de Nuñez, Province of Pinar del Rio, there to throw himself into the Revolutionary movement. From his own allowance he armed and equipped a company of one hundred and twenty-five men with whom he joined the Army of Liberation. Before the close of the War of Independence he had attained the rank of Colonel. Upon the formation of the Rural Guard during the first American Intervention he was made Captain but resigned the post to continue his medical studies in the University of Havana. Here he was graduated in 1901 with the degree of Doctor of Medicine.

In December, following his graduation, he was elected Representative from the Province of Santa Clara for the first and second congressional periods. During the Provisional Government he occupied the position of Inspector of Health of the Republic. In 1908 he was again elected to represent the Province of Santa Clara in the lower House of Congress for four years, and was returned in 1912 for four years more.

Meanwhile, in 1911, he was elected by a parliamentary majority of his party to the presidency of the Commission of Agriculture, Industry, and Commerce, and two years later, by the same majority, he was made President of the Commission of Legal Acts, Authorization, Procedures, etc.

In 1916 he was the nominee for National Vice-president of the Liberal party of which he is a prominent member. He is now (1919) Director of the Heraldo de Cuba.
PEDRO CALVO Y CASTELLANOS

PEDRO CALVO Y CASTELLANOS was born in Guínés, Cuba, in 1859. He received his early education in Havana then studied some years in the United States. He holds the degrees of Doctor of Medicine and Doctor of Dental Surgery from the Pennsylvania College of Dental Surgery and the University of Philadelphia; also the degree of Doctor of Dental Surgery from the Universities of Mexico and Havana.

He has been one of the leaders in the dental profession in his native country; was active in the organization of the Dental Society in Havana of which he became president, as well as associate editor of its official organ Anales de la Sociedad Odontológica; he was founder and director of the Dental College of Havana and has been closely connected with the dental department of the University of Havana both as member of the Board of Examiners and as professor, by competition, of Prótesis Dental e Histología Anormal de la Boca.

His extensive writings on scientific subjects in French, English, and Spanish have won him honorary membership in the Dental Societies of France and Spain. Besides numerous shorter articles his published works are: Lecciones de Prótesis; Metalurgia aplicada a la Prótesis Dental; Histología de la Boca (a translation).
JESÚS MARÍA BARRAQUÉ Y ADUÉ

Lawyer; cabinet member.

JESÚS MARÍA BARRAQUÉ Y ADUÉ was born on the twenty-eighth of December, 1868, at Havana. His early and secondary education were received in the Provincial Schools of Guanabacoa, after which he entered upon the legal course in the University of Havana. He was graduated as Licentiate in Civil and Canon Law on the twenty-first of June, 1889, his special preparation having been as advocate.

After many years devoted to the private practice of his profession he was chosen in 1911 to the important position of Secretary of Justice of the Republic of Cuba, one of the departments of the President's Cabinet. He was dean of the Colegio de Abogados of Havana in 1913.
ARÍSTIDES MESTRE

Man of science; teacher; author.

ARÍSTIDES MESTRE Y HEVIA was born in Havana, on the twenty-eighth of November, 1865, his parents being Dr. Antonio Mestre y Domínguez, one of Cuba’s most eminent sons, scientist and man of letters, and Dolores Hevia y Romay. He obtained the degree of Bachelor at the Jesuit Colegio de Belén in 1880. He won the highest honors in his class on that occasion and also at the granting of the Licentiate in Medicine (1886), the Licentiate in Physico-Chemical Science (1886), the Licentiate in Natural Sciences (1887), and the Doctorate in Medicine (1895) from the University of Havana.

During his student days, young Mestre had been much under the influence and inspiration of Dr. Felipe Poey, the eminent naturalist who then headed the faculty of sciences in the University. On Dr. Poey's recommendation he was appointed by royal order in 1888 to an adjunct professorship in natural science, a position which he resigned in 1895. Upon the death of Poey in 1891 his professorship, zoology of vertebrates, also was given to Mestre.

In 1895, Dr. Mestre started on his first trip abroad for scientific study. He spent some time in New York and Toronto and matriculated in the University of Pennsylvania. Then, sojourning in Mexico, he divided his time between medical work and revolutionary propaganda. The government of the State of Monterey put him in charge of a lazaretto established to combat the yellow fever epidemic. Already he had begun specializing in nervous diseases and he now was entrusted with that department in the Monterey hospital.

The War for Independence won, Dr. Mestre in 1898 set out for Europe by way of the United States and spent some months in Paris attending the famous clinics upon mental and nervous disorders, Bicêtre, Salpêtrière, Santa Ana, etc., as well as studying institutions devoted to the care of abnormal children, following summer courses in natural history, and taking lessons in anthropology. Returning to New York he continued the same lines of study at the Vanderbilt Polyclinic, at hospitals, and the Museum of Natural History. At the end of 1899 he reached Havana.

In conformity with the order of the American Provisional Governor, he gave in 1900-1904 free courses in anthropology and in nervous and mental diseases at the National Museum, with related laboratory practice. During the same years he delivered many addresses in hospitals, in the Normal School, the Summer School, and the Institute for Secondary Education.

As the result of competition in 1904, Dr. Mestre was named Assistant Professor of the School of Sciences with the additional duties of Curator of the Poey Museum, which positions he continues to occupy (1919). To his efforts is due the erection of the Hall of Natural Sciences and the Biological Laboratory. He has substituted for Dr. Dihigo, Secretary of the Faculty of Letters and Sciences, and has collaborated with him in founding the Review, organ of that faculty (1905), and in editing a biography of Dr. José Manuel Mestre by Dr. José Ignacio Rodríguez which has important bearing on Cuban political evolution.

In 1909 he represented his University at the Inaugural of President Lowell of Harvard and in 1914 received leave to visit the maritime biological museums of Europe. This trip was interrupted by the outbreak of the European war and he hastened home.

Mestre's first appearance in print was with a translation of a French article on Hygiene in 1883. Since then, aside from the Doctor's theses and an incalculable number of articles in newspapers, the medical journals of Cuba have published, and foreign journals have to an extent cited or reproduced, the following articles: Tendencias a que obedece la Higiene actual (1886); Hipnotismo. Irresponsabilidad de los actos que se sugieren y realizan durante...
ese estado (1886); La política moderna y la ciencia antropológica. El problema de la colonización (1887); ¿Deben los anfibios constituir un orden entre los reptiles, o bien una clase intermediaria entre los reptiles y los peces? (1887); Elogio del Sr. Felipe Poey (1891); De las relaciones entre los diversos estados patológicos, consideradas en la serie ancestral y hereditaria (1893); La Antropología en Cuba (1894); Primera observación de acromegalia recogida en Cuba (1895); La enseñanza de las ciencias Naturales en Paris (1899); La enseñanza de la Antropología en Paris (1900); Sobre la creación de un departamento para la educación médica de los niños defectuosos en sus facultades intelectuales y morales (1902); Osteoartropatía hipertrofisante pnéumica (1902); Epilepsia progresiva (1903); Informe sobre el estado mental de una procesada (1903); Elogio del Dr. José I. Torralbas (1904); La Biología y el programa de su enseñanza (1905); Las inteligencias anómalas y el problema de su educación (1905); La imitación como factor de defensa en el reino animal (1906); Los nidos de las aves y su filosofía (1907); El Profesor Dr. Luis Montané (1907); La inauguración del nuevo Presidente de Harvard (1910); El naturalista Cuvier y sus paradojas científicas. Homenaje al Dr. La Torre (1912); Alfred Russel Wallace en la historia de la filosofía biológica (1914); Las Ciencias Zoológicas en nuestra Universidad (1915); y las Leyes de la herencia y la Biología aplicada (1918).

Dr. Mestre has also written a textbook of Biology (editions of 1910 and 1917) and has occupied the following posts: Secretary of the Sociedad Antropológica de Cuba (1886-1889); Member of the Sociedad de Estudios Clínicos (1888) and of the Sociedad Económica de Amigos del País (1888); Vice Secretary of the Centro encargado de la Constitución del Museo Biblioteca Ultramarino (1888); Secretary of the Sección de Ciencias de la Caridad del Cerro (1888); visiting physician of the Hospital Mercedes (1892); member of the Academia de Ciencias de La Habana (1892), Professor of Fisiología Humana in the Escuela Preparatoria de Medicina (1894); etc. Chief editor of the Boletín Clínico del Hos

JOSÉ MIRO Y ARGENTER

Soldier; journalist.

José Miro y Argenter was born near Barcelona on the fifth of March, 1857. He continued his education as far as fulfilling the requirements for the degree of Bachelor of Arts.

During the War for Independence, he was Chief of Staff of Lieutenant General Antonio Maceo and himself reached the rank of General. The archives of the Army of Liberation were consigned to his keeping.

Following his military career he took an active interest in journalism. He founded and directed in Holguín La Doctrina, in Manzanillo El Liberal and La Democracta, and in Havana, Vida Militar. He contributes to various periodicals and is the author of the following pamphlets: La invasión de Occidente (published by the Cuban delegation in N. Y. C., 1896); Muerte de General Maceo (Key West, 1897);
Apuntes de la vida de Antonio Maceo Grajales (credited at the end to Vera Cruz print, but in reality published by The Revolutionary Press in Camagüey, 1897);
Crónicas de la Guerra (Havana, 1909);
Salvador Roca (Havana, 1910).
MANUEL RIVERO Y GANDARA

Agriculturist; public man.

MANUEL RIVERO Y GANDARA was born in the city of Cienfuegos, Province of Santa Clara, Cuba, on the third day of January, 1874. He received his primary schooling in the Colegio "San Carlos" and prepared for the Bachelorate in the Colegio of "Monserrat," Cienfuegos, and the Institute of Secondary Education in Santa Clara, the degree being granted him in the latter school in the year 1890.

He pursued in the University of Deusto (Bilbao, Spain) the studies preparatory to entrance in the famous Polytechnic School of Madrid in which institution, as well as the special School of Roads, Canals, and Ports, he was a student.

Since his return to Cuba he has devoted himself to agriculture and to public life.
He was elected in 1908 to represent the Province of Santa Clara in the lower house of Congress, and was reelected in 1910 and 1914. In 1916 he was elected Senator from Santa Clara for a term of eight years. In both houses of Congress he has served as President of the Committee on Tariffs and Imposts.
RAFAEL MONTALVO

Business man; soldier; public man.

RAFAEL MONTALVO was born in Havana in 1875 and attended the Colegio Casado until attaining the Baccalaureate. He then entered the University of Havana to study pharmacy, but the War of Independence cut short his studies.

Soon after the outbreak of the Revolution he joined the forces of General José Maceo under whom he fought until he was made Aide to General Antonio Maceo, with whom he served during a portion of the campaign. He then was transferred to the orders of General Calixto García taking part in the famous combat of Victoria de las Tunas. He was promoted to be Chief of the Regiment Carlos M. de Céspedes with which he fought near Bayamo; later, to be Chief of a Regiment in Manzanillo; and finally to be Chief of a flying column, under the orders of General Calixto García, with which he took part in the attack on Santiago de Cuba. His conduct on this occasion won him the rank of Brigadier.

Under the First Intervention of the United States he was Chief of the Presidio, which position he held until the designation of Sr. Estrada Palma for the Presidency of the Republic. Under this administration he served as Secretary of Public Works and Agriculture.

He later retired from public life to attend to personal business and to develop, with his company, the sugar property "Habana." He has since returned to active politics, and is one of the prominent members of the Conservative party.
DAMASO PASALODOS

Lawyer; public man.

DAMASO PASALODOS was born in Cienfuegos in the Province of Santa Clara, Cuba, on the first of June, 1872. He received his early education at the Jesuit Colegio, "Nuestra Señora de Monserrate," reaching the grade of Bachelor, then passed to the University of Havana to undertake the study of law; here he was graduated in 1892 with the degree of Licentiate.

He immediately entered public life and occupied various elective and appointive offices:

Under the Spanish dominion, — Commissioner of the "Fiscal" of His Majesty for the Audiencia Territorial of Cienfuegos; Managing Secretary of the Board of Charities of the Province of Santa Clara; Register of Properties for Cienfuegos.
During the first American Intervention,—Secretary of the Mayoralty of Cienfuegos; member of the Cienfuegos City Council; sub-director of the Registry and Notary.

Under the first Republic,—Register of Properties for the city of Trinidad during two periods covering several years; Register for Bejucal, near Havana, to which city he was transferred upon his own solicitation. After the reconstruction of the Republic,—Director of the Registry and Notary for five months—during the Presidency of General Gómez—then called by the national government to become Secretary to the President, which position he occupied two and a half years. Upon the creation of the Registry of Properties del Oriente de la Habana he was designated as its chief and so remained until 1917, at the same time attending to private law practice in Cienfuegos as well as in Bejucal, Trinidad, and Havana.

Pasalodos' first political affiliation was with the Reformista party of Duquesne, Amblard, Conde de la Mortera, etc. He was Secretary of this group in Cienfuegos until it was merged with the Autonomists. With the political readjustment that accompanied American Intervention, he was instrumental in the formation of the Republican party in company with Alemán, Monteagudo, Machado, and the afterwards President José Miguel Gómez.

Beside contributing to various newspapers, including the Diario de la Marina and El Triunfo, he has written a number of pamphlets of an administrative order and in his official capacity the presidential reports.

AND MONOGRAPHS
José Pereda y Galvez was born on the twenty-sixth of January, 1872, in Consolación del Sur, Province of Pinar del Río, whence after having fulfilled the requirements of the Bachelorate he moved to Havana and matriculated in the Medical Department of the National University.

His special leaning was toward anatomy and surgery to which he devoted his entire time as student and instructor.

In 1894, he received the title Doctor of Medicine and immediately began in Havana the practice of the profession and also the institution of the "Escuela Libre de Medicina," a private medical school into whose teaching force he drew some of Cuba's most prominent physicians.

At the outbreak of the War for Indepensation in 1895, he offered his professional services to the Army of Liberation, but being without private means of support for his family he was permitted to serve in the vicinity of Havana and to devote a portion of his time to personal affairs. The war terminated, he returned to his surgical practice in the several hospitals of the city and in the "Quinta del Rey."

In 1906 he founded his clinic "San Rafael." Throughout the Revolution which broke out the same year, he gave his services in city and country and used his clinic as an army hospital. He had in his care the Commander-in-Chief, General Máximo Gómez and, refusing to accept any emolument for that service, the City Council of Havana proclaimed him an "adopted son of that city and capital."

In 1908 the Liberal party elected him to represent the Province of Havana in the lower house of Congress where he was placed at the head of the Committee of Health and Philanthropy; but he resigned to accept President Gómez's appointment as Surgeon General of the army with the rank of Lieutenant Colonel. This position he held until August, 1913.

In 1913 under a commission from the Government he left Cuba upon an extended tour of inspection and observation among the leading hospitals of America and Europe.

He is author of pamphlets as follows: Anastomosis de las arterias del cerebro (1892); Las localizaciones cerebrales y la trepanación; Modalidades de la arthritis blenorárgica (1896); Contribución al estudio del peritoneo tuberculoso (1906); Ictero apendicular; Diversas etiologías (1906); Estudio comparativo entre la seda y el catgut, para ligaduras en las operaciones abdominales (1908); La apendicitis y el ovario esclerotúnstico derecho (1909); Un caso de tuberculosis genital (1911); Hojas clínicas (1912).

For one year he was employed in the Secretary’s office of the Senate of the Cuban Republic. He served two years as Second Secretary of the Cuban Legation in Mexico and afterwards was promoted to the rank of First Secretary and then for eight years was Chargé d’Affaires at the same legation. The period of his diplomatic career in Mexico, from 1910 to 1919, covers the critical years of recent Mexican history.
Manuel Márquez Sterling
MANUEL MÁRQUEZ STERLING Y LORET DE MOLA

Journalist; diplomat; author.

Manuel Márquez Sterling y Loret de Mola was born in Lima, Peru, at the Cuban Legation in that city on the 28th of August, 1872. He comes of distinguished Cuban parentage, being in both lines of descent associated with illustrious and ancient families in the town of Camagüey. His father, Manuel Márquez Sterling, took part in the War of Separation in 1868, and was sent to South America to secure the recognition and protection of Cuban patriots in South American countries. After Peru had recognized the independence of Cuba, his father remained there for some time, representing as Minister Plenipotentiary the Cuban President Carlos Man-Márquez pursued courses in the University of Havana, but the war of 1895 prevented him from completing his studies. During his youth he traveled in Europe and the United States. After the war was ended and Cuba had become independent he was intrusted with important public duties. He was Secretary to the Cuban patriot, Gonzalo de Quesada, at Washington, during the negotiations for the establishment of the republic. In 1900 he was member of the Commission sent by Cuba to the Paris Exposition. After this date he devoted himself to journalism until 1907, when he was nominated Chargé d'Affaires in Buenos Ayres. In 1909 he became Resident Minister at Rio de Janeiro; in 1911 Minister Plenipotentiary in Peru, and in 1912 Minister Plenipotentiary in Mexico. He was in Mexico at the time of the tragic end of President Madero and with other diplomats tried to save his life. These efforts failed, but he was able to place the widow, the father, and the sisters of the President and the President's brother, Ernesto Madero, safe on board the cruiser Cuba, which was anchored in the port of Vera Cruz.

He soon retired from the diplomatic career and founded the journal, Heraldo de Cuba, which achieved great success. After this paper had passed into the hands of Dr. Orestes Ferrara he founded his present organ, "La Nación," which supports the Liberal party. In 1918 he was nominated as a candidate for the Chamber of Deputies, but refused after learning that the election would be tainted by fraud. In the line of literature he has written many books. The best known of these are Ideas y sensaciones, Hombres de pro, Alrededor de nuestra Psicología, Psicología profana, Burla burlando, La Diplomacia en nuestra Historia, Los últimos días del Presidente Madero, a volume of more than seven hundred pages, a large edition of which was exhausted in one month. He is a member of the National Academy of Arts and Letters.

JOSE TARAFA

Business man.

JOSE TARAFA was born in Matanzas, Cuba, in 1869. His early education was received in Havana, after which he continued his education in the United States.

Upon his return to Cuba he went into the sugar business, but at the outbreak of the War for Independence enlisted in the insurrectionist forces. Fighting under Generals Maximo Gomez, Monteagudo, and Vega he won several promotions, reaching the rank of Colonel.

At the termination of the war he once more turned his attention to financial affairs especially as related to sugar. Through the great experience acquired in re-organizing several sugar enterprises and the successful outcome of his efforts, he has come to be considered an expert in the financial and administrative side of sugar production.

He has interests in three great sugar plants: Flora Sugar Co., Morón Sugar Co., and Central Sugar Co., and is president of the last two. He is president also of the railroad from Júcaro to Morón.

He also has organized the Cuban Distilling Co., a syrup and molasses business, which has branches in Puerto Rico.
MANUEL VILLALÓN

Lawyer; public man.

Manuel Villalón was born in Cienfuegos on the twenty-second of December, 1877. After receiving the degree of Bachelor in his native city he matriculated in the University of Havana where he was graduated in 1898 with the degree of Doctor of Laws.

Upon his graduation he was named municipal judge for the city of Cienfuegos and also acted ad interim as judge of the Primary Court of Claims and Mandates. In the political turmoil which was specially violent in Cienfuegos at the beginning of the American Intervention, he was appointed by General Wood to study questions of electoral legality and to assist in remedying the situation.

He has served as Register of Deeds of...
Santa Clara and as member of the City Council for Cienfuegos. In 1908 he was elected to the Council for the Province of Santa Clara, being chosen secretary and afterwards president of that body.

Upon the death of the provincial Governor Roban he succeeded by virtue of his office to the governorship. His administration has been marked by the execution of several public works within the province: the building of roads and bridges and a fine Palacio de Gobierno. Politically Villalón is a Conservative.
RICARDO DE LA TORRIENTE

Painter; illustrator; cartoonist.

RICARDO DE LA TORRIENTE Y TORRIENTE was born at Matanzas, Cuba, on the eighth of January, 1867. He was educated in Bordeaux, France, and in the leading schools of Spain. After receiving the degree of Bachelor of Arts he returned to Cuba and devoted himself to artistic labors.

At the time of General Weyler's concentration decree Torriente emigrated to New York. He became associated with well-known American cartoonists and was for five years cartoonist for New York daily papers—the Journal, the Herald, and the World.

In 1900 he returned to Havana and became professor in the National School of Painting and Sculpture, which position he now holds. He established La Política Cómica of which he is owner and director. "Liborio," the popular representation of Cuba—what "Uncle Sam" is to the United States—is the creation of Torriente.
REGIS DU REPAIRE DE TRUFFIN

Business man; club man.

REGIS DU REPAIRE DE TRUFFIN, generally called-in Cuba Regino Truffin, was born in the Province of Santa Clara, Cuba, in the year 1857. He was educated in Paris in the Colegio de “Sainte Barbe” obtaining the degree of Bachelor. He retained the citizenship of his father who was French.

At the close of his course of study in France he returned to Cuba where, under the firm name R. Truffin & Cia, he devoted himself to business enterprises, especially to the export of molasses and crude sugars. This business was transferred after twenty-two years to the “Cuba Distilling Co.” He built up also the large sugar plantations “Mercedes” and “San Juan Bautista.”

During an interim in his business activities, Truffin served as Cuban Consul in Russia, appointed in 1892. The Russian Government conferred upon him the Cross of Santa Ana and the Order of Saint Stanislas.

Returning to commercial life he has been Vice-president of the Cuba Cane Sugar Corporation; President of the Manatí Sugar Co., and President of the Compañía Cubana de Jarcia. Furthermore, he has been President of the French Chamber of Commerce of Havana, President of the Union Club, and President of the Yacht Club of that city.
JAIME VALLE Y DIAZ

Artist; draughtsman.

JAIME VALLE Y DIAZ was born in Barcelona in the year 1885 and was educated at the church schools where he obtained the Bachelor's degree. In Havana he has acted as supervisor of Modeling and Drawing in the public schools of the city and as Artistic Director of the Bureau of Publicity and Graphic Arts. He has served also as art editor of the Cuban paper, La Discusión. He is the author of the artistic posters which obtained the first prize in all competitions held in Cuba up to the present year (1919). These competitions, it may be mentioned, were nine in number. He is responsible for almost all the drawings and posters published by the Bureau of Publicity and Graphic Arts in Havana, and of a great number of title-pages, illustrations. and caricatures contributed to the leading papers and magazines of Havana. He has the reputation of being one of the best draughtsmen in Cuba at the present time. His poster work is noticeable for its firmness of treatment, its distinction of form and its beauty of coloring.
NICOLÁS ALBERDI

NICOLÁS ALBERDI was born in Sagua la Grande, Province of Santa Clara, Cuba, in the year 1865. At the age of ten he was taken to Spain to continue his education in Seville and in 1883 he returned to Cuba, entered the University of Havana and in 1892 obtained the degree of Doctor in Medicine.

Following his graduation Doctor Alberdi settled in Cifuentes to practice his profession and continued there until the Revolutionary War broke out in 1895, whereupon he joined General José Luís Roban in the organization of the military forces of Santa Clara and was appointed to a command. He later joined the Medical Corps, being chief health officer first of the brigade of Juan Bruno Zayas and later of the Fourth Corps of the Army of Liberation. By the Fourth Corps he was elected to the Assembly of Yaya and there chosen Subsecretary of Foreign Relations, later becoming Secretary. He retired at the close of the war with the rank of Colonel.

He has held important appointments both civil and medical. During the American Intervention he was made Director of the Civil Hospital of Sagua la Grande; in 1901 he was appointed Health Officer for the Province of Santa Clara; during the first Cuban Government he was elected Member and President of the Council of the Province of Santa Clara and Governor pro tem of the Province, and in January, 1909, he was appointed Secretary of Government (Gobernación) in the cabinet of President José Miguel Gómez. In 1913 he was elected Senator for the full period of eight years on the Fusion ticket. He is chairman of the Committee on Sanitation.
LEOPOLDO CANCIO Y LUNA

Economist; publicist; financier; Secretary of the Treasury of the Republic of Cuba, 1913.

LEOPOLDO CANCIO Y LUNA was born on the thirtieth of May, 1851, in the historic town of Sancti Spiritus, Cuba, where he received his early education, later attending the Colegio "El Salvador" in Havana founded by Don José de la Luz Caballero. From there he went on to the University of Havana where he obtained the degree of Doctor of Laws in 1873. Already revolution was in the air and Dr. Cancio attached himself to the group of young men who aspired after a free Cuba. In 1879 he was elected one of the Deputies from Cuba to the Spanish Cortes. At almost the same time he was elected a member of the governing committee of the new Autonomist party. which he had helped to organize. To further the purposes of the party new periodicals sprang up, El Triunfo, El País, and later La Unión on all of which Dr. Cancio served as editor. He later withdrew from the Autonomist party; but not desiring to join the revolutionary conspirators, separated entirely from political activity, shutting himself up in his house.

Nevertheless when, upon the American Intervention, a new government was organized Dr. Cancio’s talents were recognized and his services required. He served in the Treasury Department under the direction of General Brooke and also under the administration of General Wood.

Shortly after the first Cuban government was formed under the Presidency of Tomás Estrada Palma in 1902, Dr. Cancio was appointed substitute Secretary of Government in which capacity he acted a year and a half. At about this time he was instrumental in removing serious obstacles to the negotiation of the Treaty of Reciprocity with the United States; in recognition of this service he was placed in charge of Public Instruction. This post he resigned, however, because of political differences with the President and entered upon an active campaign of opposition using the columns of the review Cuba y América and co-operating with Dr. Emilio Nuñez in founding the Conservative party, upon the success of which Dr. Cancio became President of the Provincial Assembly and Delegate to the National Assembly. In 1913, when the Conservative party won a complete triumph, Dr. Cancio was appointed Secretary of the Treasury in President Menocal’s cabinet.

He has headed many committees designated to study the financial problems of the country and for many years has been censor of the economic Society, Amigos del Pais. He is contributor to periodicals and reviews upon economic and financial subjects and is the author of numerous pamphlets among which is La Moneda y la Circulación; published in 1900 under the auspices of the University of Havana where he is professor of Political Economy and Finance.

Aurelio Hevia
AURELIO HEVIA

Lawyer; soldier; publicist; administrator; Secretary of Government (i.e., Army, Navy, Railways and Police) in the Republic of Cuba.

AURELIO HEVIA Y ALCAIDE was born in Havana on the twenty-fifth of October, 1866, and after a preliminary course of study entered the law office of Señor Antonio Govín, where he was introduced to the practice of the law.

When the Revolution broke out in 1895 Dr. Hevia enlisted in the army where he won his way upward step by step to the rank of Colonel. In 1898 he was a member of the Assembly of Santa Cruz del Sur by which he was designated a member of the commission which visited the United States to treat with President McKinley in regard to the claims of the Cuban Army.
for back pay. In 1899 he was a member of the Constituent Assembly. In 1900 he was named by General Brooke Chief of the section of State in the Secretaryship of State and Government, a post in which he was continued by General Wood. In 1902 when President Tomás Estrada Palma came into office Dr. Hevia became Sub-secretary of State where he had to do with organizing the diplomatic and consular service of Cuba and with negotiating the treaties which the infant Republic entered into with the various Powers.

When the second Intervention became imminent Dr. Hevia opposed it to his utmost and on its occurrence withdrew to private life only to resume his interest in public affairs with the candidacy of his friend General Menocal for the Presidency in 1909. Into that campaign he threw himself with ardor, and although unsuccessful he gained experience which enabled him to contribute to General Menocal's success in the notable campaign of 1913. Elected then to the Presidency, General Menocal designated Dr. Hevia Secretary of Gov-

While Secretary he introduced important prison reforms including the abolition of corporal punishment and commutation of sentence for good behavior; secured the regulation of the manufacture, sale, and storage of explosives; dictated improvements in mail and telegraphs; aided in suppressing brigandage; supported Army and Navy reforms and the retirement provision for both branches of the service.
JULIO DE CÁRDENAS

Lawyer; magistrate.

JULIO DE CÁRDENAS Y RODRÍGUEZ was born in Matanzas on the twelfth of April, 1849, and began his education in the famous Colegio of "San Francisco de Asis," which was then conducted by D. José Alonso y Delgado. Thence he passed to the University of Havana and completed the studies for his degree in the Law, which he began at once to practice in the office of Dr. Antonio González de Mendoza.

In addition to his long practice of the profession, extending over nearly half a century, Dr. Cárdenas has seen important and varied service as a judge. In May, 1894, he was appointed Municipal Judge for the District of Pilar in Havana; in 1899, General Brooke, the first Military Governor of Cuba, appointed him Presiding Judge.
over the Criminal Section of the Provincial Court of Havana and in 1901 General Wood appointed him Presiding Judge of the Provincial Courts of Santa Clara, a post which he found it inconvenient to accept. In 1906 the City Council of Havana elected him Mayor and Chairman of the Council and in 1908 he was chosen by popular vote on the Conservative ticket to the same office under the new laws. Besides these regular appointments and elections, Dr. Cárdenas has filled from time to time temporary posts on the bench, thus extending the period of his service as a magistrate. After completing his term of office as Mayor in 1913 he was appointed Attorney General of the Republic which office he held until he retired with a pension in 1918. He then resumed the practice of law.

In 1902 he was appointed Resident Physician in Las Animas Hospital, Havana, which is devoted to the treatment of contagious diseases. Shortly afterwards he was appointed Vice-superintendent of the same hospital. Later on he became Director of the Laboratory of Scientific Investigation and finally chief of the section of Epidemiology and the laboratories of the Department of Hygiene. He was also substitute member in the Commission for Infectious Diseases. He is ex-director in the Biological Section of the Felipe Poey Cuban Society of Natural History. He was head of the campaigns conducted in various regions of the Island against the yellow fever epidemic. He was given a special commission by the Department of Hygiene for epidemiological works for such diseases as yellow fever, paludism, bubonic plague, poliomyelitis, and typhoid fever. He organized the bacteriological service for the diagnostic study of the human and murine plague during the epidemic which took place in 1912. He was delegated officially to go abroad at different times to study epidemic conditions: to New Orleans for the bubonic plague; to Merida for the yellow fever; to Vera Cruz and Tampico on suspected cases of cholera and yellow fever; to Puerto Rico for yellow fever. He was a delegate from Cuba to the Paris Tuberculosis Congress in 1905; to the American Public Health Association in Colorado in 1912; to the Tuberculosis Congress held in Washington in 1908; to the International Congress of Hygiene and Demography held at Washington in 1912; to the second Pan-American Scientific Congress held in Washington in 1915.

He was in charge of the reports on Sanitary Subjects in the second and third National Congresses of Cuba. He was a member of the Yellow Fever Commission at Guayaquil, Ecuador, July to September, 1918, appointed by the Rockefeller Institute. He is the author of reports and pamphlets on medical subjects from the point of view of original investigation in the field of epidemiology, embracing such questions as filaria, malaria, poliomyelitis, inquilostomiasis; in collaboration with Dr. Arthur Coca, New York, he has made a study of cancer. He is the author of monographs on the anatomy of the mosquito, and on the transmission of the nocturnal filaria by the mosquito. He is the author of a memoir rewarded with the "Nicolás Gutiérrez" prize of the Academy of Medical and Physico-Natural Sciences of Havana on Intestinal Parasitism in Cuba principally inquilostomiasis.

JOSÉ ANTONIO LÓPEZ DEL VALLE

Doctor; health officer.

JOSÉ ANTONIO LÓPEZ DEL VALLE was born in Havana on the sixth of November, 1875, and was educated by his mother. At the age of twelve he was pupil-teacher in a private school; at the age of fourteen he was assistant-professor in a public school of the Monserrate ward, and at fifteen he was student-interne in the Hospital Aldecoa. Aided by the maternal counsels, López del Valle continued his arduous course; he obtained the degree of Licentiate in 1897 and that of Doctor of Medicine and Surgery in 1903.

After seven years at the Hospital of Aldecoa in which he held the most important posts, he accepted the position of Physician of the Emergency Station and Home Relief Staff (Casa de Socorro y Asistencia Domiciliaria). But in 1898 at the end of the War of Independence he found an opportunity under the American Intervention of entering the field of Public Health and Sanitation to which he has devoted himself without respite ever since and in which he has held successively many offices: Local Inspector; District Inspector; Disinfection Officer; Inspector-General of the Department; Secretary of the Local Board of Health of Havana; Executive Head of the Department of Health, etc.

As health officer Dr. López del Valle has contributed to the public health by many practical suggestions and regulations looking to the reduction of means of contagion and infection. In association with Drs. Furbusch and Jacobsen he had an active part in founding the first dispensary for ailments of the lungs. And he was instrumental in having Arbor Day adopted as a holiday.

EMILIO NUÑEZ

Soldier; administrator;
Vice-president of the Republic since 1917.

EMILIO NUÑEZ y RODRÍGUEZ was born on the plantation called “San Francisco” near Sagua la Grande on the twenty-seventh of December, 1855. His youth was spent in the midst of revolutionary agitation and he became a revolutionist by force both of heredity and of environment. He had hardly obtained his Bachelor’s degree at the Institute of Havana when the Revolution of ’68-’78 broke out—the first act of the great struggle—and he joined the fighters. Figuring in the “Guerra Chiquita,” he is said to have been the last Cuban leader to come to terms with the Spanish. From that time until the final success in 1898, he never ceased his revolutionary activities, either fighting in the field or directing agitation in Cuba or the United States. He gained the rank of Colonel as an aide to General Martí in charge of the Department of Expeditions obtaining and transporting to the revolutionists in the field, supplies, arms, and munitions and by his vigorous prosecution of these important duties gained in 1895 the rank of General at the head of the Department of Expeditions.

Meantime General Nuñez had obtained his degree in dental medicine and was practicing his profession in Philadelphia. Sometime before the close of the Revolution he returned to Cuba and became the Representative in the Assembly of Santa Cruz del Sur of the Fourth Corps of the Army of Liberation. Upon the dissolution of the Assembly of Representatives of the Army, in 1899, he was appointed by General Brooke, Military Governor under the American Intervention, to go to Philadelphia to represent Cuba in the Commercial Congress. In the same year he was elected a member of the Constituent Convention for the Province of Havana.
and took an active part in its deliberations. In 1900 he was appointed Governor of the Province of Havana under the American Intervention—to which office at the close of the Intervention he was elected without opposition by the popular vote.

One of the most notable achievements of General Nuñez in public affairs was his part in the organization of the Veterans of the Revolution into an influential political body, by which his services were recognized in his election as President of the National Council of Veterans—an office to which he has been twice reëlected.

Upon General Menocal's accession to the Presidency in 1913, General Nuñez was appointed Secretary of Agriculture, Commerce, and Labor; in the general elections of 1916 he was elected Vice-president of the Republic, which post he now holds (1919).
BENIGNO SOUZA

Benigno Souza y Rodriguez was born in the village of Macurijes, Province of Matanzas, on the twenty-first of May, 1873. His early education, up to the completion of the course for the Bachelor's degree, was obtained in Havana at the Colegio “El Progreso” then under the direction of the distinguished scholar Dr. Carlos de la Torre, whence he went to the University and gained the degree of Doctor in Medicine in the year 1900, at the age of twenty-seven.

While a student at the University he had won in open competition the post of assistant in Dissection. For six years after graduation, Dr. Souza held the position of Interne Physician in Hospital Number One in Havana; then he became Head Physician and, later, Assistant Director of the Hospital, going on from that post, in 1909, to be Surgeon of the Emergency Hospital.

Dr. Souza is President of the Commission of Hygiene; Member of the National Board of Health, and Surgeon of the Hospital Number One. He is the author of Tres casos de cirugía gastro-intestinal (1916).
CARLOS M. DE ROJAS

Soldier; official; man of affairs.

Carlos de Rojas was born on the fourteenth of March, 1862, in Cárdenas. Here he gained his early education, going on to the Colegio de Escolapius in Guanabacoa where he completed the course required for the Bachelor's degree and proceeded to the University. After two years' study of law, de Rojas left the University to visit the United States and spent a year at Harvard University where he had the privilege of studying under the poet Longfellow.

On leaving the United States de Rojas went to Santo Domingo where he devoted himself to business, but in 1883 he returned to Cuba and settled in Cárdenas to develop certain special business interests. In 1884, he was made Vice Consul for the Dominican Republic in Cárdenas and, in 1891, Vice Consul for the Republic of Argentina. The latter position he retained until 1896. He then joined the revolutionary forces under General Lacret and fought through the war, gaining promotion step by step by valor in combat until at the close of hostilities he had been made General of a Division and in 1897 had won the rank of Brigadier General.

During the first American Intervention de Rojas was appointed Alcalde of Cárdenas and continued in the same office by election of his fellow citizens. During his incumbency of the office the Library and Museum of Cárdenas was founded.

In 1903 he was appointed Colonel of the Rural Guard; in 1905, Chief of Corps of Artillery; in 1908, on the reorganization of the Army, he was given command of the Second Regiment of Infantry, and in 1910 he was made Inspector of the Armed Forces of the Republic with the rank of Brigadier General. In 1913 he was appointed Minister to Peru, but he did not take possession of the post.
CARLOS THEYE Y SHOSTE

Carlos Theye Y Shoste was born at Havana on the twenty-third of October, 1853. He was educated at Paris, where he obtained the degree of Bachelor of Sciences at the Sorbonne, in 1871. He also completed courses at the École Centrale in Paris, obtaining the degree of Engineer in Chemistry, and he received at Barcelona, in Spain, the degree of Industrial Engineer. He was instructor in Chemistry at the École Centrale of Paris, and in 1882 became Professor of Physics and Chemistry at the Havana School of Agriculture. In 1885 he was named Professor of Chemistry at the University of Havana, a position which he holds at the present day. In 1904 he was a member of the Commission appointed by the Cuban Government in connection with the Exposition of St. Louis. He has been University Extension lecturer on Meteorology and Chemistry. He is the author of scientific investigations on the composition of atmospheric air, on the Nitrification of Agricultural Land, and on Meteorology, which have been published in scientific reviews and the daily press.

CARLOS DE LA TORRE was born in Matanzas, on the fifteenth of May, 1858, and after early education at “Las Normales” and the Colegio “La Empresa” of Matanzas, completed the requirements for the Bachelor’s degree at the Institute of Havana in 1876, then entered the National University where his brilliant scholarship won him many prizes and where, in 1881, he received the Licentiate in Medicine, in Pharmacy, and in Natural Sciences. The degree of Doctor of Natural Science he obtained at the Central University of Madrid two years later, with a thesis upon Distribución geográfica de la fauna malacológica terrestre de Cuba.

His vocation for Natural History was furthered by the learned Francisco Ximeno, of Matanzas, who opened to young de la Torre his museum and fine library, and by his teachers Ramón Forns, Rafael Arango, and Juan Gundlach. He also acknowledges a great debt to Felipe Poey in whose inspiring society he worked and whom he succeeded in the chair of Zoögraphy in the University of Havana. Before the end of his twentieth year he had discovered two new species of mollusk which were named in his honor Cylindrella Torrei, Arango, 1876, and Cyclostoma Torreianum, Gundlach, 1878.

Simultaneously with his enthusiasm for natural science grew his interest in teaching. He taught in “Los Normales” and “San Carlos” (Matanzas) and “La Gran Antilla” and “El Progreso” (Havana) and was one of the founders of the School of Arts and Crafts in Havana. As the result of competitive tests he was appointed in 1880 Assistant in Natural and Physico-Chemical Sciences at the Institute of Havana, and, in 1883, Professor of Natural History and Physiology in the Institute of Porto Rico, which latter position he filled one year then returned to take the professorships of Comparative Anatomy and of Zoögraphy of Mollusks and Zoöphites in the University of Havana.

In 1886 he joined the Anthropological Society of Cuba and in 1889 the Academy of Sciences, on the latter occasion delivering a learned discourse on Consideraciones anatómicas sobre los huesos de la cabeza del manjuari. Before the same Academy in 1890, he presented an Informe sobre la enfermedad de los cocoteros, and a year later a report, illustrated with many archaeological objects there discovered, of his Excursión antropológica a las cavernas de Maist (Oriente), from which he had just returned.

In 1893 he was appointed “Judge of Awards” in the section of Mineralogy and Geology of the Chicago Columbian Exposition. In 1895 he opened the scholastic year at the University of Havana with an address on Clasificación de los animales observados por Colón y los primeros exploradores de Cuba.

Persecutions by the Spanish colonial government moved him to leave the country at the outbreak of the War for Independence. He went first to Mexico where he served as Professor of Natural Science in Chihuahua, then to Paris where, after studying in the University and the College of France, he was, in 1897, admitted to membership in the Société Zoologique of France.

Upon returning to Cuba in 1898, his university post of which he had been deprived by order of General Weyler was, by the Government of the American Intervention, restored to him. He has continued active service in the University, being now (1919) Professor of Biology, Zoology, and Zoography.

Upon his return to Cuba Dr. de la Torre entered political life and was active in founding and organizing the Nationalist party, by which he was elected to the City Council (1900-1902). General Wood appointed him to the Mayoralty which position he was occupying upon the inauguration of the Republic in 1902. He then was elected Representative for the Province of Havana for four years, and in 1905 the House chose him for presiding officer. In the same year he retired from public life to devote himself to scientific pursuits.

When the Government of the American Intervention designated Supt. Frye and Lieut. Hanna to organize the Cuban public school system (1899), Dr. de la Torre was an able cooperator: he enlisted the aid of his distinguished countrymen, Aguayo, Borrero Echevarría, Vidal Morales, and others, and prepared the Manual para los examinés de maestros which soon was followed by Libros de lectura y lenguaje, La Geografía de Cuba, La Historia de Cuba, Instrucción Moral y Cívica.

In 1900 he was delegate for the Province of Havana at the Paris Exposition; in 1904, Commissioner of Public Instruction at the Exposition of St. Louis; in 1906, delegate to the Tenth International Geological Congress in session in Mexico; in 1910, he represented the Government of Cuba at the Eighth International Zoological Congress at Gratz.

In 1909 he proved the existence of Jurassic strata in the western part of Cuba and in 1910 found Pleistocene fossils in the central region of the island, restoring a Megalocnus rodens, discoveries which were submitted to the judgment of the Eleventh Geological Congress at Stockholm in 1911.

The Cuban Government has committed to de la Torre the revision and publication of Ictiologa cubana by the illustrious naturalist Poey, a work in which Dr. Cañizares is collaborating.

The Academy of Science of Havana in 1911 raised him to the category of member "de mérito." He has been since 1901 corresponding member of the Academy of Science of Philadelphia and since 1911 corresponding member of the Spanish Academy of Science, and life member of the Museum of Natural History of New York.

In 1912 Harvard University conferred upon him the honorary title Doctor of Science, characterizing him as "statesman and naturalist, first in the knowledge of mollusks of the Gulf of Mexico, discoverer of fossils which have revolutionized the geological history of Cuba." In recognition of this honor to their co-worker the University of Havana gave a great celebration in 1913; the Academy of Science hung his portrait in the Salon de Sesiones; Matanzas, his native city, declared him a "favorite son" and had a gold medal made in his honor; the Institute of Matanzas gave a festival and hung his portrait in the Auditorium. In 1918 Dr. de la Torre was elected corresponding member of The Hispanic Society of America.
ANDRÉS SEGURA Y CABRERA

ANDRÉS SEGURA Y CABRERA was born on the twenty-third of October, 1864, in the city of Havana, of Cuban parentage. He pursued his secondary studies in Havana, taking the degree of Bachelor of Arts in 1883, and then entered what was then the Royal University of Letters at Havana, where he pursued legal studies. In 1888 he was graduated as Licentiate in Civil and Canon Law, and immediately after graduation began to practice his profession. In 1897 he received the degree of Doctor of Jurisprudence and in 1898 the title of Notary Public. In the year 1900, he was graduated as Public Expert Land Surveyor and Taxer of Lands in the professional school of the Island of Cuba, which later on was incorporated in the Engineering Institute of the University. In 1805 he graduated as Mercantile Professor in the Havana School of Commerce, an institution affiliated with the Institute. After being duly authorized by the Secretary of Public Instruction and after having given proof in the University of his training in Paleography, he began the exercise also of expert caligraph and paleograph and expert chirograph.

During the course of his public career he has filled the following positions: Assistant Reporter and Administrative Judicial Instructor in the Bureau of Public Works; and acted in the same capacity in the Bureau of Agriculture, Commerce, and Labor; ex-municipal Judge of the Town of Regla; ex-secretary in the office of the Civil Section in the Havana Court and in the local Tribunal of Administrative Cases in the Island of Cuba; Clerk of the Department of Records and Judicial Archives in the Department of Finance; President of the National Association of Land Surveyors in the Republic of Cuba; of the Buenos

Gnl. Eusebio Hernández
EUSEBIO HERNÁNDEZ

Soldier; physician.

EUSEBIO HERNÁNDEZ was born in the year 1858, in the town of Colón, Province of Matanzas, and received his education in Madrid where he obtained the degree of Doctor of Medicine which was afterwards confirmed at Tegucigalpa, the capital of Honduras, and also at Havana. At a later date he pursued special studies in obstetrics in Paris.

In 1879 he interrupted his studies at Madrid to take part in the revolution known as the “Little War” (La Guerra Chiquita) which had its origin in an uprising organized abroad and brought to pass in Santiago on August 26th of that year. In this enterprise he held the rank of Captain and in the same year he was promoted, in consideration of his services to the revolution where he cooperated with José Maceo, Emilio Núñez, José Martí and other leaders, to the rank of Major.

In 1880 he was obliged by the persistent persecution of the Spanish authorities to leave Cuba, and he sailed to New York where he joined the revolutionary leader Calixto García. With a group of revolutionists including Carlos Roloff and José María Aguirre he went to Kingston, Jamaica, to organize an expedition directed to Santa Clara. The "Little War" came, however, to an unsuccessful end and he turned for a time to journalism, contributing to the Deber of Kingston and La República and El Yara of Key West, acting also as secretary to Antonio Maceo. In the following year Hernández went with a group of revolutionaries to Honduras and there continued his journalistic work in La Paz, El Yara, and El Renacimiento.

In 1883 he was appointed Professor in the School of Medicine of Tegucigalpa and there continued his labors as a revolutionist, serving as envoy of Generals Antonio Maceo and Máximo Gómez to the govern-Hernández maintained an equal loyalty to his profession and served in many capacities in his special field of obstetrics. He was interne in the clinic of Bandelacque in Paris; assistant to Professor Segond in the same clinic; Professor of Obstetrics in the Free School of Medicine of Havana; Professor of Obstetrics in the clinic of the University of Havana; chairman of the Board of Patrons of the Hospital of San Lazaro, etc., etc. He is also author of many articles in his special field of medicine.

On the political side, Hernández has played a prominent part, having been Chief of his political party and its candidate for high office. He was Vice-president from 1908 to 1912; President of the Historical Assembly, and in 1912 was candidate for Vice-president but was defeated.

José López Rodriguez was born in Spain but emigrated to seek his fortune in Cuba before he was twenty. He arrived in Havana without money or friends or education, penniless and illiterate. In spite of these hindrances, López Rodriguez has won great success and has become one of the most widely known and reputed to be one of the richest men in Cuba.

He began his business career as a dealer in books and though he has since extended his interests into many fields,—printing, manufacturing, contracting, farming, sugar planting, real estate, banking, etc.,—he has retained his early interest and still has one of the leading book-stores of Havana and in fact of Cuba.
Señor Rodriguez, known far and wide as "Pote," and regarded with almost sentimental respect for his remarkable business sagacity and the prosperity of his enterprises, has made no attempt to enter the public life of Cuba but continues to devote himself to his commercial and financial interests.
TOMAS V. CORONADO

Physician; teacher; author.

TOMAS V. CORONADO was born in 1855 in Matanzas and there in his native town completed the courses leading to the Bachelor's degree at the Colegio "La Empresa" and in the Institute. Interrupted for a time by reverses of fortune which obliged him to turn to commercial pursuits, he resumed his studies at the University of Havana where in 1881 he gained the degree of Licentiate and in the following year that of Doctor in Medicine and Surgery. While he was a student he won in competitive examination the appointment as Assistant in Dissection and Histology and later that of Interne in the Hospital of San Felipe and Santiago. He served also as free instructor of preparatory education in Zoology, Mineralogy, Anatomy, and Histology.
From 1882 to 1893 he was a member of the Board of Health of Cabañas.

In 1888 he founded a free station for vaccination in the district of San Diego in Vuelta Abajo.

In 1896 he was Delegate representing Cuba and Porto Rico to the Second Pan-American Medical Congress, held in Mexico.

In 1899 he aided in founding the Medico-pharmaceutical Association of Cuba and served as its Secretary; in the following year he became its Vice-president and in 1901 its President.

In 1899 he was appointed auxiliary professor in the Faculty of Sciences in the University. In 1900 he received the degrees of Licentiate and Doctor in Physico-Chemical Science and Pharmacy and in the same year won the position, by competitive examination, of auxiliary Professor of Hygiene and Legal Medicine.

Dr. Coronado has held many honorary positions and is member of many societies. He is a member of the National Board of Health; he has served as Vice-president of the Academy of Sciences and as President of the Society for Clinical Studies.

In 1918, after being auxiliary Professor of Hygiene and Legal Medicine for seventeen years, he became titular Professor. He has devoted himself chiefly for a number of years to Hygiene and Medicine, and has in preparation a work on Hygiene and Sanitary Legislation in Cuba.

His published works are very numerous and include: Presentación á la Academia de preparaciones de filarias sanguinis hominis, 1879; Pleuresta con derrame, muerte, 1881; Hemato-quiluria de los países cálidos, 1882; Tratamiento de las fiebres palúdicas sin quinina, 1888; Botón de Biskra, 1888; Envenenamiento autoclono en el paludismo, 1888; Ayuda forceps, 1888; Cuerpo extraño en la articulación peroneo-tibial superior, 1888; Impotencia temporal, 1888; El microbio del paludismo, 1889; Orquitis palúdicas, 1889; Cuerpos de Laveran, 1889; Pneumonia palúdica?, 1889; Contestación al Dr. Roig, 1889; Crítica científica, 1889; Tétanos traumático, su tratamiento, 1889; Eruptions medical.

ROSENDO COLLAZO

ROSENDO COLLAZO y García was born on the Hacienda "San José," in the district of Mangas, Province of Pinar del Río on the first of March, 1875, and obtained his education in the provincial Institute of Pinar del Río.

He joined the Revolutionary Army in 1895 and thus entered the military profession to which he has devoted his life. His first command was that of Captain in the forces of Brigadier General Torres and Colonel Nuñez who were cooperating with Generals Gómez and Maceo. He obtained promotion to the rank of Lieut. Colonel by conspicuous gallantry in the action of "Galope" on March 17, 1896, and in May 14, 1898, won the rank of Colonel in the battle of "Flor de Mayo" at Guines.
He saw much active service and took part in a great number of combats small and great, among them “Guano Prieto,” “Caiman,” “Mulatin,” “Potrero de Mendoza,” “Batabanó,” “Canja de Prieto,” “Ufón,” “La Lima,” “Adjovín” and “Venecia.”

When the war closed he was appointed Inspector of Police for Havana (Fifth Zone) and fulfilled the duties of this post until 1903 when he was made First Lieutenant in the Rural Guard. In 1905 when a revolution was attempted in the district of Alquizar he was called upon at the suggestion of President Palma to assume command in the zone of disturbance, where he speedily restored order, taking a great number of the rebels prisoners and compelling the surrender of their leaders. This and his success in dealing with the threatened revolution of August, 1906, secured him promotion to the rank of Captain.

In these and other actions it has been chiefly as an organizer and as an expert in the use of machine guns that Major Collazo—rank granted him in 1912—has gained his successes. To this weapon he has given special study and attention making it the subject of various articles for publication.

In the year 1912 Major Collazo was placed in command of the operations of the so-called "War of the races," or negro uprising in the Cobro district where he took personal charge and had part in numerous skirmishes as well as engagements of a larger scope including those at "Santa Elena," "La Yaya," "Trinchera," "Gran Colima," "Loma de Gato," "Barraquerra," etc., etc.—operations which he brought to a successful termination.

He was appointed in this year Paymaster General of the Army.

In 1913 he was promoted to the rank of Lieutenant Colonel and in 1915 to that of Colonel. In 1917 when a revolution was threatened he was in command of the troops who captured the city of Sancti Spiritus and sometime later seized General Gómez and staff—thus putting an end to the rising.

He has always maintained an active interest in sports, particularly in polo in which he has been Captain of the Artillery team and has won two years in succession the trophy offered by the President. He has also written occasional articles on military subjects, particularly in his special field of the Machine Gun and its uses.
