PREFACE

TO THE SEVENTY-EIGHTH VOLUME.

1864-'5.

THE publisher of the Directory is compelled, for the first, since this important work came into his hands, to offer a word of apology for its non-appearance at the usual time. Its publication, however, has been delayed but a week, and it is the cause of the delay, rather than the delay itself, which is the main reason for regret.

The same exertions, the same degree of ability, and a greater degree of perfection in the organization of the machinery necessary for the collection of the information essential to the value of the Directory have been employed, and at a much greater expense, than in any previous year; but we are now entering upon the fourth year of the rebel war, and the great demands of the nation for men have rendered laborers of all kinds, and especially of the more intelligent and active kind, such as must be employed in this work, so scarce, that it has been with extreme difficulty a sufficient number could be obtained to enable the work to be brought out even with so brief a delay. The publication of the Directory is in many ways a sure indication of the condition of the country, as well as of the prosperity and growth of its commercial metropolis. It was stated last year that in only one year since its publication had the number of names in the Directory indicated a decrease in the population and the business of the city, and that was in the year succeeding the great commercial disasters of 1857. Both the first and the second years of the rebel war, notwithstanding the immense number of men which the Empire City furnished to the armies and navy of the Union, showed an increase of population; the last year perhaps the least; but the condition of the city as shown by the number of names in the Directory this year is decidedly an improvement on the last. The same classes have been canvassed as before, and the same thoroughness followed in collecting names, and the increase exhibited is about a thousand names, which indicate an increase of population of about five times that number.* But this can hardly be taken as a fair indication of the actual increase in the business of the city; for the great rise in rent and the scarcity of houses have greatly increased the hotel and boarding-house population, of which no account is taken, and driven a large number of families over to Brooklyn, Jersey City, and the villages and country in the neighborhood of which New York is the centre.

In past editions of the Directory the publisher has felt himself under the necessity of noticing the obstacles which have been placed in the way of canvassers in the collection of names by ill-tempered or ill-disposed persons who did not, or would not understand the importance of a direct and truthful answer to the questions put in relation to their places of residence and business; and he is now very happy to say that such annoyances and hindrances to the completion of the work are so rare as not to require notice. The public have come to rightly understand that it is for the interest and convenience of every honest member of the community that his place of residence and business should be known.

The great increase in the prices of labor and of all the material which must be used in the compilation, printing and manufacture of a work like this, must of necessity involve either a disastrous loss to the publisher, or an increase in the price at which it is sold. No choice has been left but either to diminish the value of the Directory by greatly curtailing the amount and accuracy of the information which the public have been accustomed to look for in its pages, or to increase its price. Believing that the latter would be most in conformity with the public wishes, it has been adopted; but still the increase of price will not be proportioned to the increase in the cost of paper, and other materials, or to the expansion of value, which has taken place in all other kinds of productions of labor.

* The total number of names contained in this volume is 152,568.

ELIE CHARLIER'S

French and English Institute

FOR YOUNG GENTLEMEN,

Boarding and Day School, Classical and Commercial,

Nos. 48 and 50 EAST TWENTY-FOURTH STREET,

(New Nos. 126 and 128,)

NEAR MADISON PARK, Between 4th & Lexington Aves.

THIS School is now in its Ninth year. Its Pupils are to be found at West Point, in the Navy School, in the Army, in the Counting House, many Colleges, and Professions.

The studies pursued embrace all the studies necessary for a liberal instruction. Pupils can commence when Six years of age in the Primary Department, and continue until they are seventeen or eighteen, ready for their future profession.

German, Spanish, and French are taught by native teachers. American pupils are obliged to speak French, the only way to acquire it in a foreign country.

As heretofore, I will devote to my school all my time and energy; surrounded with excellent teachers, and all the resources presented by a large city, I will do my utmost to continue to deserve the confidence and esteem of my pupils' parents. Pupils are received as boarders. There is but one table for pupils, teachers, and myself.

Gymnastics, military drill, singing, and drawing are regularly taught.

Complete obedience, cheerful and prompt obedience, truth in everything, and work—such are my rules. I shall not fail to enforce them, even if I have to dismiss any pupil refusing compliance with them, or exerting an evil influence in the school. The classes in my institution may be visited at all times by the parents or guardians of the pupils.

It is a rule with my assistants and myself to accustom our pupils to use their powers of reflection and of reasoning throughout the course of their studies. We do not ask them to work beyond their powers, but require strictly the performance of their tasks; in a word, we wish them to exert themselves conscientiously.

THE ACADEMIC YEAR, 1864–65, will extend from the 20th of September to the end of June, divided, for the payments, into two sessions. All bills payable in advance, semi-annually. Pupils are charged for the entire Academic year, except new pupils, who are charged from the date of their admission to the end of the school year.

Hours of attendance for Day Scholars.—From five minutes before 9 A.M. till 3 P.M. (with recess). In the Primary Department, pupils, if desired, may leave at 2 P.M.

A report of the attendance, deportment, and proficiency of the pupil, is sent to his parents at least once a month.

For all details, terms, and further information, see the Prospectus of the School.

The following gentlemen have had sons, grandsons, wards, &c., under my charge:

FOR EIGHT YEARS CONSECUTIVELY—James G. King, banker; General James S. Wadsworth; D. D. Lord, lawyer; H. K. Bull, merchant.

FOR SEVEN YEARS—E. Lahens, merchant; R. A. Witthaus, merchant; Adrian Iselin, banker; Colonel A. Van Buren, U. S. A.

FOR SIX YEARS OR LESS—William Barton, banker; Reuben W. Howes, banker; Horatio Allen, Watts Sherman, Hon. Aaron Vanderpoel, Hon. Hamilton Fish, Hon. Washington Hunt, Hon. H. J. Raymond, Hon. Edw. EMERY'S PATENT

UNIVERSAL COTTON GIN:

Manufactured at their Albany Agricultural Works,

BY

EMERY BROTHERS,

ALBANY. N. Y. "U. S. A."

This Cotton Gin had received a very successful and extensive introduction throughout the best cotton growing sections of the Southern States, for several years prior to the rebellion, where it was always found to make superior and cleaner cotton, which commanded a more ready sale and higher prices than that from any other Gin. The improvements, introduced by the inventors, obviate all difficulty in feeding them, as the roll readily adapts itself to any desired or variable speed of the Gin which the variety of the cotton may require, as well as to the nature and efficiency of the propelling force applied, whether manual, horse, steam, or water power, without causing any choking, bridging or breaking of the cotton roll, or impinging and injuring the staple. They consequently, may be operated by less skillful attendants as well as lessen the power required to operate them fully one-half that which is required for any other Gins without the improvements, this fact is evident, when it is known that a sixty saw Gin is readily driven with a three-inch band over a twelve-inch (in diameter) pulley on the Gin for ginning equal quantities in even time with any other Gin, of the same size, without the said improvements, and requiring eight to ten-inch band.

CONDENSER.

In addition to the improvements to the Gin proper, the inventor has added a condensing and cleaning attachment for receiving the cotton, with the wind and dust from the Gin, and by means of a revolving screen within it the cotton is arrested while the wind and dust pass through into and off at the open ends of the said screen, thus leaving the cotton in the form of a thick batt upon the screen, and this batt is delivered between impinging cylinders in one continuous sheet, thus not only cleaning and separating all the dust and sand thoroughly from the cotton, but delivering it in a compact and convenient condition to be handled for packing, and without stopping the ginning process. This attachment also obviates all liability of danger from fire and admits it to be operated in any building, however small, or, if necessary, without any building whatever. It thus becomes practically a portable machine, and always complete in itself, and is ready to operate under any circumstances.

The Gins can be used with or without a condensor, or the condensor may be attached at any subsequent time, if not purchased with the Gin.

This attachment is of the greatest importance to the successful introduction of a saw Gin. With it the Gin is better adapted for the farmer or planter with small means, or small production of cotton. In addition to the extra cleanliness and brightness of the lint, it commands, always, a more ready sale, and almost invariably a higher price in any market than when ginned with ordinary machines, where the cotton, lint, dust, &c., are deposited together into a lint room.

As an inducement to purchasers to use this attachment, the manufacturers have reduced the price for it this season to two-thirds the price of the Gin, heretofore it having been held at the same prices of the Gin of the same size.

This Gin and Condensor were taken to the Great Exhibition in London, England, in 1862, and although arriving late it was in successful and constant operation for the last four months of the Exhibition, and secured the most unqualified approval of the best spinners and experts, and in working all kinds of cotton, from every part of the World which produces it, among which may be named the upland New Orleans variety, grown in the United States; also, from India and other countries where it has been introduced; Chinese, Burmah and African; Native India, or Surat; the Smyrna, Italian, Grecian and Turkish. the Egypt, Jamaica, Venzuela and Java varieties; the Brazilian, Hayti, Honduras, Colon, Central American, and Monte Video; the Queensland, Sea Island, British, Guiana, &c.

So great was the success gained by its rapidity of operation and the small power required for driving it, and the simplicity and ease with which it is attended, together with the superior quality of its work, that it was at once in large demand, and very extensive works have been erected near London for their manufacture, which is already carried on to a large extent, and with a constantly increasing demand.

At a trial, in December, 1863, under the auspices of the Manchester Cotton Supply Association, at their rooms in Manchester, England, some half a dozen kinds of cotton were ginned with the best Gins made in England.

The samples were afterwards appraised by their Cotton Brokers, in Liverpool, for the Association, and, in all cases but one, the values were considerably higher for the Cotton from this Gin, and in that one case referred to, the price was the same as that ginned by Evans Leighs & Son's "McCarthy Gin," this, together with the report that the staple was entirely uninjured, at once set at rest the prejudice so long so strong, and so justly attaching to all other Saw Gins, which Gins are not and never can be adapted to many kinds of cotton, and with unskillful attendance and variable speed will do more or less injury to the staple of every kind.

This Gin is already adopted by the LONDON AND MANCHESTER EAST INDIA COTTON AGENCY, the largest and oldest cotton Company operating in India. Also by several of the largest private establishments there, some of which turn out the enormous quantity of thirty tons of cleaned cotton per day, and whose brands in Liverpool market command the highest prices of all India Cottons; the same is true of several large Houses in Greece, Smyrna and Egypt.

The India Government are purchasing them for distribution among the people, for promoting the growth of Cotton, and for both the Native Cotton and Acclimatized New Orleans variety now extensively and successfully cultivated in India.

They are constructed of materials suited to all climates and countries, some wholly of iron, others partially of wood, but all parts susceptible of being affected by climate, temperature, or insects, are made of iron, steel and zinc, so as to insure uniformity of operation and durability under any and all conditions; those partially of wood are suited to almost every condition and circumstance; those wholly of iron are afforded at about ten per cent higher in price.

CAPACITY OF GINS.

The HAND GINS are capable of cleaning from 25 to 35 pounds of cleaned cotton per saw per day of ten hours.

The POWER GINS will clean from 36 to 50 pounds per saw per day of ten hours, requiring about one indicated horse power for every 20 saws, for small sizes; for large Gins 25 saws per each horse power, and about the same when driven by horses.

HORSE POWERS of all sizes and kinds, for different countries, and adapted to the purposes of driving COTTON GINS, TENNESSEE MACHINES, Pumping Machines, Shops, Foundries, Boats, manufactured and furnished on order. Also Portable Steam Engines of all sizes and at the most reasonable prices. See descriptive Agricultural Catalogue, sent free on receipt of a three cent stamp.

PRICES FOR 1864.

The following list of prices has been arranged to suit the times and currency of the country, and are based upon the relative value of United States currency and Gold, Gold being estimated at 60 to 75 per cent premium:
