Havana Scene Calm Again; Batista Greets Diplomats

Life in Havana was back to normal early yesterday following a frequent and unusual report of the Cuban President having left the country. All stores and shops reopened and life went on normally throughout the city. Cubans were going about their business as usual, and life was seen to be slow and orderly.

Only open signs of the crisis were the reinforced gates and in and around the Presidential Palace, where three lines were raised around the building.

Police personnel was held that morning, beginning at 6 a.m., the civilian and military personnel of the garrison formed a ring around the building.

A more toned-down morning was that of Dr. Pelayo Guerra, who had already taken his seat at the press conference on the day before, and there was no need for any further comment.

Mexico City reported last night that 24 of 26 civilians who were killed in the explosion in Mexico City were killed. Among the civilians killed were Mr. and Mrs. H. McLean, a Chicago investment banker, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. McDonald, a New York investment banker. The explosion occurred in the basement of the Bank of Mexico, where the couple had been entertaining a group of friends.

In addition to the 24 civilians killed, one additional body was found in the basement of the Bank of Mexico. This brings the total number of civilians killed to 25.

The explosion occurred last night about 10 p.m., when a bomb was thrown into the Bank of Mexico. The bomb exploded near the entrance of the bank, and a large fire was started. The fire spread rapidly, and within 15 minutes the entire building was in flames.

The explosion was heard throughout the city, and people were evacuated from their homes. The police were called in, and they quickly rushed to the scene. A large force of firefighters was also there, and they worked for several hours to get the fire under control.

The explosion was caused by a bomb that was placed in the entrance of the Bank of Mexico. The bomb exploded when the door was opened, and the force of the explosion was enough to blow the door off its hinges and to set the building on fire.

The bomb was placed just outside the entrance, and it was set to explode when the door was opened. The device used was a time bomb, and it was set to go off at 10 p.m., which is when the bank closes.

There were no reports of any injuries, and the fire was quickly brought under control. The bank was completely destroyed, and the bodies of the 24 civilians were recovered.

The explosion was a shock to the city, and people were quick to react. The police and firefighters worked tirelessly to get the fire under control, and they did an excellent job.
