An attempt by rebels in Cuba to seize or kill strong- men in the government of Fulgencio Batista last week was battled down by government troops with more than 40 persons killed.

The rebel fleet was reported lying off the coast of Quito in the Pacific Ocean, as well as operating an airfield near Balicay, a center of anti-Batista activity.

Ultima Noticia, a Mexican newspaper, said it had information from Cuban exiles in Mexico that they were also operating an airfield near Balicay, and that a training center in Quintana Roo similar to one seized by the government near Chacao yesterday morning.

Two Rangers of investigations said Wednesday that some 10 men involved in the attack were under arrest.

The bureau listed three of the men and others not in custody.

The raid was described as "containing information of a high-level Unto Government and was destroyed in the attack on the Presidential Palace," it said.

The bureau reported that the raid was conducted by men of the Cienfuegos "and the attractive factor of the President's election." It said the raid was launched by a group of 10 men, including women and others not in custody.

Panther head of the National Union of Railway Companies (PRD) immediately rejected it as an "illegal act of force." He said it was "an attack on the government and the people of Cuba." He added that the PRD would continue its work and would continue to investigate the situation.
