THE GREATEST AND CHEAPEST BOOK OF THE AGE—Dr. Gunn's Domestic Medicine, or Poor Man's Friend, a complete guide to the afflicted. It contains 900 pages octavo, and is written in an easy, plain and familiar style, and points out the diseases of men, women and children, and the latest and most approved means used in their cure. The language and arrangement are so simplified as to bring it within the capacity of those who possess a very limited education. The object and design of the author seems to be to remove all that technical phraseology which is used in Medical works generally, and thus simplify the practice of the science which the head of every family should be acquainted with. NEW WORK BY MRS. ELLIS.—Social Distinction, or Hearts and Homes, by Mrs. Ellis.
 "Mrs. Ellis' new undertaking, quite realises the expectations we entertained. We purposed putting our readers in possession of the plot of the story, but, properly speaking, it has no plot; it is rather the illustration of a great moral, which the dullest reader may extract for himself. Perpetually is the fact impressed on the mind that the incessant struggle for social distinction ends in grief and disappointment. There are some most admirable and life-like pictures of character given. The book is romantic from its very truthfulness to living realities. It describes things as they are."—London Christian Times.
