PROGRESS OF THE REVOLUTION—THE FILIBUSTERS ON LAND—LOCKRIDGE IN BAD ODOR.

The Corpus Christi Valley of the 1st inst. has the following important news from Northern Mexico, furnished by Captain Dan. Hastings, just in from Rio Grande city:—

Durango has pronounced in favor of Zuloaga against the liberals, to whom they swear they will give the sword to the hilt.

Parrodi's forces, to a man, had deserted and joined those of Zuloaga.

The Nuevo Leon forces in the neighborhood of San Luis are too weak to accomplish anything, are divided into several parties to cut off provisions, and are awaiting reinforcements.

Caravajal will leave for Tampico immediately with but few troops. He is General-in-Chief of the vanguard.

Three peons from the vicinity of San Luis, sent out to assassinate Vidaurri, Garza and Zayas, have been caught and hung.

From a reliable source we have still further information from the seat of confusion, to the effect that Vidaurri's forces under Suassa having failed to make an impression upon San Luis had retreated.

Lieut. Martinez, of Cardala, one of Suassa's command, with ten men, had been ambuscaded and the whole party massacred. Upon hearing of which Suassa was so enraged that he caused thirty prisoners to be shot—some accounts say seventy.

News from Monterey to the 21st ult. represents Vidaurri's army as being in fine condition; enthusiastically awaiting the rumored approach upon Monterey of 8,000 government troops. If this be true the question will soon be settled—against the liberals we fear, unless aid from this side of the river be promptly accepted.

Gen. Henningsen arrived in Monterey on the 17th ultimo.

In the same paper we find the following:—

Mr. S. A. Lockridge (sometimes called Colonel) upon arriving at Brownsville, addressed Vidaurri a letter, in which he offered to furnish men and munitions to aid in the liberal cause. To which Vidaurri replied by stating that upon certain contingencies he might accept aid. On the 7th ult. Mr. Lockridge, upon hearing of Gen. Henningsen's arrival in this city, writes Vidaurri again; from which we take the following extract:—

This Gen. Henningsen is the agent of Walker, and comes to your country to filibuster. You know what was the conduct of Walker in Senora and Nicaragua too well for me to give any light as to his intention. Henningsen has said that if he can make no arrangements with you or Caravajal, he will take possession of the country. I desire to inform your Excellency, that I protest against these piratical arrangements, and that I will have no connection with such movements.

In reply, Gen. Vidaurri dismisses Mr. Lockridge very summarily, declines any further correspondence with him, and deservedly treats him as a renegade, adventurer and filibuster.
