

KANSAS.

DISBANDING OF THE MILITIA.

Correspondence of The Cincinnati Gazette.

Lecompton Kansas, Nov. 25, 1856.

The order for the disbanding of the military companies called into service and enrolled by Gov. Geary immediately after his arrival in the Territory, was issued yesterday. The companies will start to-day to Fort Leavenworth, to be disbanded there. Seventy of the men under Col Titus's command have enlisted for Nicaragua, and the Colonel is still adding to the number. Those who go will rendezvous at St. Louis on the 10th of December. Col. Titus says he has received very flattering offers from Gen. Walker, and as he was born, as he says, a filibuster, and there is nothing more to be done in this Territory, it is destiny for him to go to Central America. He anticipates a fine opportunity to distinguish himself there, and is in excellent spirits at the thoughts of going.

Gov. Geary seems highly gratified to get rid of these "scallawags," as he calls them. He enrolled these militia to protect Kansas, supposing troubles existed within the Territory. But when he had disbanded the Missourians and sent them home, he found all the troubles over. The residents in the Territory were perfectly quiet, and consequently these militia have had nothing to do, and his Excellency has found as much trouble to keep them in order and provide something for them to eat, as with all his other duties. The Governor has evidently had pro-slavery allies and friends enough. He took the leaders of that party into his confidence on his arrival, but the indications are now that he is heartily sick of them, and will wish them success in their filibustering expedition, and bid them adieu with great satisfaction.

A residence in Kansas is rapidly doing for Governor Geary what it has done for two-thirds of the emigrants here from the South—to wit: converting him from a pro-slavery to a Free State man. He is in difficulty with many of the pro-slavery leaders, and has entirely lost the confidence of the men of that party. He has nothing left now but to come over to the Free State men.
