

NICARAGUA.—The New York papers continue to give column after column of confused and contradictory accounts of the movements and condition of Walker. That Walker is in a tight spot; that his followers are a drunken and badly officered crew, and that his new ally, the distinguished member of the self styled Democratic party, Col. Titus, whilom of Kansas, has proved himself a coward as well as a bully and fool, appear to be undisputed facts. The following is a condensation of Titus' part of the history:

The failure of Col. Lockridge's attempt upon Castillo was owing to the cowardice of Col. Titus, the Kansas ruffian, who led the attacking party. While Titus was besieging Castillo he held a parley with the enemy who agreed to surrender provided he would permit a messenger to pass his lines to inform Gen. Mora. He agreed to this, but the next day was attacked by a large force under Mora, and driven back with loss, himself leading the race. Titus, with other officers, went down the river in the steamer Rescue, to Greytown, where the boat was seized by an English officer, who offered protection to any one who offered to leave Walker's service. Titus used insulting language to the officer and was seized and carried on board the English frigate Cossack, but was subsequently released. The British steamer Clyde arrived at Aspinwall from Greytown, had 30 deserters from Walker.
