

Prio Tells U.S.

He Keeps Pledge

Former President Carlos Prio Socarras of Cuba said today he has made it clear to the U.S. government that he has done nothing to break his agreement with this country that he will keep out of foreign politics.

Prio, in exile here, testified for two hours yesterday before a federal grand jury investigating possible connections between dissident Cubans in South Florida and recent uprisings in the island republic.