

FREMONT, March 6.

The Cuban insurrection has had the effect of greatly increasing the price of sugar, and the probabilities are that prices will still further advance. Every farmer of Ohio should think of this matter now and prepare himself with good seed and plant from one to ten acres of cane. Eight or ten mechanics, then, in each township could be warranted in putting up cane mills, and be prepared to work up the cane. One half of the families in the State, within the last thirty days, have had to pay from twenty-five cents and upwards for the advance in sugar. What a large sum of money this is in the aggregate. Now, this matter of sweetening can be reduced. In 1855 and 1856 there was probably one hundred thousand gallons of sorghum syrup manufactured in Sandusky county. Every farmer had for sale from one to several barrels. Merchants and grocers bought but little or no molasses or syrup in the East. The people of the county saved many thousands of dollars to their pockets. A large quantity was also shipped to other points from this county. But, unaccountably to us, in 1857 and 1858, very little was raised, and our farmers had to pay out the money they had heretofore saved. The extreme dry seasons the last two years was probably the attributable reason for its non-production. Will not the farmers of Ohio the present year raise largely and manufacture sorghum both for their own use and for sale to those who cannot raise it. It can be done with large profit.

About ten o'clock Friday night, 5th, a snow storm accompanied with very high wind from the northeast commenced. Not a great deal of snow fell, but the high wind continued until morning. Mercury, eight degrees above zero, at seven o'clock Saturday morning. The weather has been so severe to-day that few people have come to town. K.
