

CUBAN AFFAIRS.

NEW YORK, June 25.

Havana letters of the 19th say that on the 17th several anxious dispatches came to Espinar from generals in the field that they wanted men, and representing that their forces were in danger. The Spaniards at Puerto Principe and on the road to Nuevitas suffered heavily from the attacks of the rebels.

A correspondent sends the following statement of the forces in the field: The Government has 13,000 veterans, 2,700 volunteers; added to 16,800 volunteers garrisoning the principal cities, of which 9,200 are in Havana. The forces of the patriots are 36,000 whites and 19,000 negroes, of which about 25,000 are well armed. This force would undoubtedly increase to some 80,000 whites and negroes in a short time, should they continue to receive arms and ammunition from the States.

Latona had assaulted a camp consisting of families who had abandoned Puerto. The assault was made in the night, and 2,000 persons, old and young, men, women and children, were butchered.

General Marmol, under date of the 23d, makes a report of certain expeditions, among them the arrival of the Nipe expedition, under General Jordan, with 300 men, mostly Cubans, and even a greater amount of arms and munitions than had been reported.

There appears but little doubt that the larger portion of the filibusters who landed from the schooner Grapeshot were killed or captured; 25 of them were executed by the Spaniards.

The yellow fever is increasing at Havana, both on shore and on ship-board.

WASHINGTON, June 25.

Important intelligence has been received from the headquarters of the Cuban revolutionists by their friends in this city.

Since the battle of Puerto del Padre, there have been but two unimportant engagements, in both of which the Spanish forces were defeated, with the loss of over fifty men killed and wounded. In one, the Cubans captured a provision train.

The Cuban army is in good condition, while that of their opponents is suffering greatly from cholera and congestive fevers. Disease and discontent are proving more destructive to the Spaniards than unsuccessful operations in the field could have been.

Commanders find it difficult to maintain any organization. The feud between the regulars and volunteers is growing more intense every day, and all hopes of settlement seem to be at an end. The volunteers have complete control of the commanders, and indescribable outrages are being perpetrated at their instigation.
