

A CUBAN LADY ROBBED OF TWENTY THOUSAND DOLLARS WORTH OF DIAMONDS.—A short time previous to the landing of the steamer Richmond, or while she was lying at the wharf boat at Vicksburg, after midnight, November 18, the stateroom occupied by Mrs. Yznaga was entered and the lady's store of diamonds and other jewels, valued at $20,000, stolen. Mrs. Yznaga is the wife of a Cuban gentleman who has a large 'planting' interest near Waterproof, La., and in the island of Cuba. She took passage for herself and daughters from Memphis. She states that on Monday evening she had her jewels in a sack which she placed in the pocket of her dress. Before retiring she hung the garment on a hook. In the morning she found the pocket and dress cut and the jewels missing. The doors were locked, but the outside transom was open, and the thief had secured the treasure through this opening. A thorough search was made by committees appointed by the passengers; but everything that was elicited tended to prove that the robber must have got off with his booty at Vicksburg.
