Telegraphic Communication with Villa Clara Re-established—Ex-United States Consuls Taking the Field.

HAVANA, Feb. 11, 1862.

Telegraphic communication between Havana and Sagua la Grande and Villa Clara, which had been destroyed by the revolutionists, has been restored.

It is reported that the leaders of the revolution in the sugar districts of Cienfuegos, Villa Clara and Trinidad are Adolfo Cavada and his brother, Frederick Cavada. The former was recently American Vice Consul at Cienfuegos, and was removed at the request of Captain General Lersundi. He was colonel of a Philadelphia regiment of zouaves during the civil war in America. The latter was until last week the American Consul at Trinidad de Cuba, and has just resigned.

More Arrests Being Made—The English Consul at Cardenas a Prisoner—Three Thousand Insurgents at Camarones—The Movement to Raise Funds for the Government—Arrival of the Yacht Henrietta.

HAVANA, Feb. 11—Evening.

Arrests continue to be frequently made by the military and police, of suspected parties in the city and throughout the island. Among the prisoners are many well known planters, merchants and lawyers. The English consul at Cardenas is among those arrested.

The Prensa says that at present Jimenez, Planita and Cassanova are the only rebel leaders in the Central Department. None of the other chiefs with their men have appeared. The number of the rebel forces at Camarones is supposed to be 3,000.

The meeting of the merchants at the Palace last night to raise funds for the government had no decisive result. A mixed commission of merchants and planters was appointed, with instructions to report a feasible plan for supplying the needs of the government quickly and securely, without imposing additional burdens upon the middle or poorer classes.

The yacht Henrietta has arrived from New York, with General Van Allen and his friends on board. General Van Allen dined with Admiral Hoff to-day.
