

AID FOR CUBA.—Quite a number of ladies, natives of Cuba, and either permanent residents or temporary sojourners in this city, met yesterday afternoon at the residence of one of their number, in West Twentieth street, for the purpose of organizing an association in aid of the revolution in Cuba. The object of the call was warmly approved of, the formation of the society at once resolved on, and the proper officers elected from the number of the ladies present. They desire, however, that the names of the fair revolutionists thus elected be not yet published, as it is feared that a premature disclosure may endanger the success of their efforts.
