

ANOTHER EXPEDITION FOR CUBA.

The Steamer Salvador Off for Sagua.

KEY WEST, May 6, 1862.

The British steamer Salvador, which put in at Key West some four weeks since for repairs, left here at eight P. M., May 5, loaded or rather crowded with passengers, her destination supposed to be St. Thomas, via Naasan. During her stay at Key West she has been constantly watched by the Spanish authorities; still, notwithstanding the vigilance of the Spanish officers, the Salvador proceeded quietly and with caution down the harbor, and this morning the said officers were astounded at the news of her departure. Her passengers consisted of Cuban refugees, report says fully armed and equipped. Later reports on the streets say her real destination is Sagua la Grande, Cuba. She has been the cause of much excitement in Cuba.

The captain of the Salvador (Karlin) was the most successful blockade runner in the so-called Southern Confederacy. The Salvador is a Clyde-built steamer, very fast, able to make sixteen knots, making it difficult for a Spanish steamer to overhaul her. I am writing in haste to be in time for the mail. The foregoing are facts from which you can probably make an article for the HERALD. It remains to be seen what the effect of this sudden departure of the Salvador will produce in Havana.
