

CUBA.

Disagreement Among the Volunteers—Dulce's Course to be Examined—Proposed Arrangement with President Cespedes—News From the Seat of War Not Favorable—Quesada Pressing the Siege of Puerto Principe.

HAVANA, June 11, }
VIA KEY WEST, June 14, 1869. }

Disagreements among the leaders of the volunteers causes a quiet state of affairs and a failure of their plan to organize a colonial government.

The report that 4,000 troops are coming to disarm the volunteers is officially denied, and they are jubilant over it.

The volunteers are instituting a court of inquiry into the conduct of General Dulce, the result of which is to be sent to Spain.

It is reported that General Dulce will touch at Porto Rico to explain the situation of affairs in Cuba
to General Rojas.

The newly arrived recruits from the Basque provinces left for the scene of military operations with reluctance, claiming that the Havana volunteers should accompany them to the field. They have been promised that they shall remain in garrison at Villa Clara.

A meeting of Spaniards has been held to consider the propriety of sending a commission to President Cespedes to propose a mutual respect for and preservation of lives and property.

The recognition of the belligerent rights of the Cuban republic by Peru causes a feeling of despondency in Spanish circles here.

Affrays are occurring between the regulars and the volunteers in the interior.

The orders sending certain employes to Principe
has been revoked.

The news from the seat of war is not favorable.
General Quesada is concentrating troops and pressing closer the siege of Puerto Principe. He has recently captured one of the convoys of provisions.

A Spanish soldier, who has returned from the scene of active operations, says that the patriots kill on an average about 3,000 monthly of the Spanish forces, and that disease is also making great havoc among them.

Havana Shipping and Markets.

HAVANA, June 14, 1869.

Arrived, bark R. W. Griffiths, from Matanzas.
Sailed, steamer Liberty, for Baltimore.

The Havana markets are flat, and but little business is doing.