

GUILTY, OF COURSE.—It will be seen, by an article given elsewhere, from the Havana Boletin de la Prensa that we are the greatest of all the sinners they hear of in Cuba. We, it seems, are to blame for all the murdering that has been done there since the revolt began, because the filibusters who went down were misled to such step by us. No doubt the Boletin might go farther and say that we had a hand in making the very rebellion itself, as no doubt we did, since all rebellions of that sort depend upon the spread of intelligence among the people.
