

A Spanish expedition to La Guanaja, in the eastern portion of the Central Department of Cuba, has carried by assault the fortifications which the Cubans had begun to erect. But they had scarcely finished their work when they had to hurry two battalions to the relief of Puerto Principe, which is still threatened by the insurgents.

---