

We trust the President will lose no time in sending a man to Cuba to look after our interests in that island. We want a statesman; a man of courage, sagacity, and prudence; one who will see that the vast interests of the American people are not sacrificed during this trouble. There is no appointment that needs our ablest representative more than Cuba.

---

---