

---

The Captain-General of Cuba officially declares that hereafter all vessels captured in Spanish waters, with men, arms, and munitions of war on board, will be treated as pirates. In the Central Department a heavy battle has been fought. The Spaniards claimed that 800 insurgents were killed; but nothing was known in Havana about the result.

---

---