PREFACE.

The many classes and conditions of the citizens permanent and temporary, of Jacksonville and vicinity, make a canvass for a directory difficult—more so than any one we have ever issued. The identification of the colored race was thought best to be made by the letter (A) after each name. In some few cases the name of the former master follows after the name marked (A) in parenthesis, but this will not be found generally as we found it impracticable and the information not always reliable and more often it could not be obtained at all. Besides Jacksonville proper, a canvass was made of East Jacksonville, out as far as Fairchild's saw mill, sweeping around through the woods, including Oakland School and vicinity, Springfield, Hansontown, La Villa, Brooklyn and Riverside. The names of those persons residing or doing business in either of the above localities, has the affix at the end of the line, E. J. for East Jacksonville, B. for Brooklyn, H. for Hansontown, L. V. for La Villa, R. for Riverside, S. for Springfield, showing in what particular locality the person named can be found. Where no affix is found, Jacksonville proper is implied. In these suburbs of the city, few if any persons are located on streets, as we found this also not definite, the streets not being named, or if named, no signs up and not generally identified, and if identified, the houses are not numbered. The canvass has been thoroughly and honestly done, and to those persons, if any, who believe they have cause to complain because of any error or omission, let them bear in mind that it is easy to criticize a directory, or the manner of carrying an umbrella in a gale of wind. The second, he always thinks can be carried better than the one that has hold of the handle, and like the first, is apt to believe that he can do it a great deal better than the one that has completed it, while the truth is, one is as easy as the other to one who don't know how, and bad enough for one that does. One is apt to be laughed at and found fault with in either case.

Our thanks are due to the editors, proprietors, reporters and attaches of the Florida Daily Union, Jacksonville Press, The Sun, The Semi-Tropical and Florida Agriculturist for many favorable and flattering notices of our enterprise, as well as for many personal courtesies extended to us and our representatives, Col. C. C. Codrington, editor of the Florida Agriculturist, for valuable suggestions and information previous to our coming. M. C. Jordan, Esq., for his great interest, exhibited in furthering this enterprise. John S. Adams, Esq., Post Master, and L. Worrock, Esq., for favors, and the business men and citizens generally for their patronage, and the spontaneous reception given our representatives and

JACKSONVILLE.

The city of Jacksonville which has so lately sprang into notice and so generally advertised throughout the North and West, is situated on "the beautiful St. John's," 26 miles from its mouth and 261 miles, by rail, from Savannah, Ga. It is built on level ground with a slight elevation running back from the river. The streets are wide and ornamented with the live oak shade trees and are laid out at right angles at regular intervals. The principal business street is Bay, divided into East and West Bay, with the division at Ocean street. The business blocks, which are numerous, are built of brick and contain many elegant stores, having large stocks of goods which astonish strangers with their variety. One of the principal features of the city is the hotels, of which there are many. Through the winter season when the city is full of overflowing with visitors, many private residences are impromptu hotels and boarding houses, making the statement true of a correspondent, writing to a northern paper that "every house was a boarding house and every other one a hotel." The St. James Hotel is above all others in Jacksonville, and we might safely say in Florida, the most popular and is recognized as the head centre for the northern and western visitors who sojourn in the state during the season. To come to Florida without crossing the threshold of the St. James can be compared to going to Rome without visiting St. Peters. It has accommodations for over 300 guests, and what Mr. Campbell, the proprietor, does not furnish cannot be had. It is situated on St. James Park, surrounded and ornamented with piazzas leading out from luxuriously furnished parlors, reading and reception rooms and where the guests promenade or dance to the music of a well trained orchestra engaged for each season. The hops and reunions of the St. James are one of the features of this house during the winter, attracting the elite and fashion of the permanent and temporary residents of Jacksonville.

The Moncrief House, by Messrs. Evans & Haines is a smaller house but luxuriously furnished and is very popular with the former guests of the Sea Side House, Atlantic City, N. J., also kept by Messrs. E. & H. The Moncrief is situated just off the principal street and its guests are among the elite of the country.

The Grand National is another very popular house near the depot and receives most of the temporary transient custom which together with the Metropolitan Hotel does much towards making that excellent reputation which the city has for its good hotels. The St. John's is another well kept house, well known and long established. The restaurants are numerous, Lyman's, Burrows & Co., Kopfman's European House are the largest, all of whom have hotel accommodations on the European plan. The city is well supplied with newspapers which are liberally supported. The Florida Daily Union, C. F. Mawbey & Co., Jacksonville Press, H. B. McCallum & Co., The Sun, N. K. Sawyer & Son, Florida Agriculturist, C. H. Walton & Co., Florida Baptist, H. B. McCallum & Co., and The Semi-Tropical, a monthly, by Chas. W. Blew.

The Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad connects for Cedar Keys, Fernandina and Savannah, and runs direct to Tallahassee, the capitol of the state. Ocean steamers run regularly to Charleston and Savannah, and as far up the St. John's as Palatka, 75 miles from this city, besides there are over 30 steamers which run to different parts of this and the Oclawaha river. One of the features and institutions of the city is Ambler's Banking House, where most of the visitors do their banking, and where there is a reading room containing files of the latest and principal daily and weekly newspapers throughout the United States. Facilities are also afforded for correspondence and a register is kept of the arrivals each day. Letters and packages can be sent to this city care of this bank and will be forwarded to their destination with pleasure, a want long felt and so popular is it, that it has become a necessity. A Horse Railway is nearly completed and Water Works are in contemplation. The city is growing rapidly and is destined to be still more a great commercial centre, which it is. The avenues of support which will make this city double and multiply in population in the next one or two decades, are several. The immense forests in this state of southern pine and live oak, the latter more particularly for ship building, which still remain in their virgin solitude; the trade of northern Florida and southern Georgia which is centreing here; the trade of the St. John's Ocklawaha and Indian rivers; the tourists' trade which is ready cash amounting to thousands of dollars every day for four months in the year; these with the immense agricultural and fruit productions of the state, of which this city is the principal mart, afford an unequal opportunity for Jacksonville to increase and multiply beyond the sanguine expectations of her most firm adherents.

Ex-Gov. Harrison Reed, Editor.

THE SEMI-TROPICAL comes to us from the Sunny South, away down in Florida, the State of oranges and flowers, the land of our day-dreams. Patriotic, sound and sensible, yet with a sunny, summer atmosphere about it that one would expect, with lofty ambitions, original, practical, and weighty, we predict its success.—Scientific Farmer, Boston, Mass.

This is not only a horticultural and agricultural magazine, but also possesses a high literary character that will make it welcome to persons of taste and culture.—Gardeners' Monthly, Philadelphia, Pa.

It is just the kind of magazine needed in the South, showing the advantages of climate and soil, natural resources and abundant yield, and thereby induce immigration and interest capitalists in that garden of golden fruits and ever-blooming flowers.—Kansas City Daily Times, Mo.

The paper on which it is printed is good, the typography is fine, and the articles contributed have a sterling ring to them—practicable and sensible. It deserves a place and patronage.—Home Journal, N. Y.
