PREFACE.

In presenting the present volume to the public the author deems it unnecessary to enumerate the difficulties attendant upon the preparation of a work containing information obtained from every part of the vast area of territory embraced within the United States. His chief aim has been to present a useful, convenient, and reliable book of reference for the legal profession and the business community. To this end several new subjects of importance—the law upon which is now treated of for the first time—have been added to the Digest. Among these will be found the laws of the several States relative to Insolvencies and their effect upon the rights of creditors, which, in view of the late Amendments to the U. S. Bankrupt Act and the decision of the Supreme Court in Wilson, Assignee, v. the Bank of St. Paul, have become of vast importance to the mercantile community. Then, again, the rights and liabilities of married women and the laws relating to Bills of Exchange and Promissory Notes, with the peculiar enactments of each State clearly and distinctly stated, with forms of notes given in the appendix covering the special provisions of the law.

The Digest has been prepared with the utmost care by the author, with the assistance of legal gentlemen of high character and large experience in each of the States and Territories, and contains such of the most important laws affecting the commercial community as are under State legislative control, and which differ so widely that every lawyer knows and feels the importance of having a trustworthy work of this kind at hand.

The blank legal forms and instructions for taking depositions, etc., have been revised and enlarged so as to embrace all the requisite information pertaining thereto.

The Rules of the Supreme Court of the United States are an important addition to the work.

The United States Judiciary, Jurisdiction, time and place of holding Courts, together with counties forming the United States Districts, are continued in the present edition, while the Official Directory and the State Courts have been omitted by reason of frequent changes through elections and otherwise, rendering an accurate compilation a task of extreme difficulty and of little or no value when accomplished.

The Directory of Lawyers has been compiled from official and other information, and contains only the names of Lawyers now in active practice at the Bar.

The work will, in future, be published on the last day of March in each year. Information in regard to the publication will be found on the sixth page.

The Author, in conclusion, returns his thanks to the Legal Profession for the generous support extended to the work, and particularly to those gentlemen of the Bench and Bar who so kindly furnished him with information and assistance in the preparation of the work.

April, 1875.

NOTICE TO LAWYERS.

TROW'S LEGAL DIRECTORY AND LAWYERS' RECORD will be republished on the last day of March, 1876, and each year thereafter.

All information for the work should be forwarded in January, or not later than the 15th February next.

All Lawyers who may resume practice or be admitted to the Bar prior to that date will please send me their cards, with any additional matter they may desire to have inserted.

No labor or expense will be spared on my part to keep this work accurate and reliable in every respect, feeling assured that my brethren of the legal profession will appreciate the value of a carefully prepared and trustworthy work.

The charge for the insertion of one name in caps, with date and place of admission to the Bar, public offices held, and specialty of practice, will be one dollar.

A firm name in caps, with individual record and name in caps, one dollar for each member of a firm; or, in place of the record for each individual name in caps, with three references, one dollar.

Certificates or other matter, at the rate of one dollar for every fourteen words, or fraction thereof.

All communications relating thereto, and any suggestions in relation to the work, will be kindly acknowledged, if addressed to

THE UNITED STATES LAW ASSOCIATION

Was formed in 1867, by the author of this work, who made a careful selection of lawyers throughout the United States, its object being to establish a reliable and trustworthy medium for the collection of mercantile claims and the transaction of legal business—entirely independent of the commercial agency system.

After it had been in operation some two years, a uniform rate of commissions was adopted, and subsequently a Board of Directors was chosen for each State.

A Chart, containing the names of the members of the Association, is issued in January; and a supplement, giving changes and corrections, in April, July, and October of each year.

At a meeting of the Board of Directors, held at the offices of the Association, No. 137 Broadway, New York, on the tenth day of July, 1871, the following rules and regulations were adopted for the government of the Association, a permanent organization was formed, and the officers chosen, whose names appear below.

RULES AND REGULATIONS OF THE UNITED STATES LAW ASSOCIATION.

First. The permanent organization of the United States Law Association shall consist of a President and a Board of Directors.

Second. The Board of Directors shall be composed of the members representing the principal cities or capitals of each State, District, or Territory.

Third. There shall be but one membership for each county, which membership may be held by one lawyer, or a firm of lawyers.

Fourth. There may be one regular meeting of the Board of Directors in each year, at such time and place as the President shall designate. At such meeting seven directors shall constitute a quorum for the transaction of business.

Fifth. Upon a vacancy occurring in the Board of Directors, the President shall, at his discretion, appoint the successor, selecting from the members of the Association representing other counties in the same State or District, or may appoint the director from the bar of such city or town where such vacancy occurs.

Sixth. The Director or Directors for each State shall immediately assume control of the selection and changes of membership for their respective States, and shall be responsible to the Association for the professional standing of the membership of their States or Districts.

Seventh. In selecting members to represent a county, the Director of the State or District shall have due regard to character and responsibility.

Digitized by Google

Eighth. Where a lawyer of the requisite standing for ability and integrity does not reside in a county now vacant, or where a vacancy may occur, such county shall be given by the Director to the member who may be deemed, in his opinion, most convenient or adjacent to said county, who shall transact the business for such county.

Ninth. Where two or more Directors represent a State or Territory, a division shall be made by the Directors of such State into districts, and assign to each Director the counties over which he shall have control.

Tenth. Upon complaint being made to the President of misconduct, neglect, or infringement of these rules, on the part of a member, the matter of complaint shall be referred for investigation by the President to the Director of the District, State, or Territory to which such members shall belong, and the member complained of shall have due opportunity of a hearing, either in person or by correspondence. The Directors shall be charged with a prompt investigation of any charges, and, if need be, take any legal steps necessary, and shall decide upon the question of removal of such member, and such decision shall be final, when reported to the President, who shall execute the same.

Eleventh. Upon the misconduct of a Director of the Association being reported to the President, he shall cause such matter of complaint to be thoroughly investigated, and shall afford such Director ample opportunity for explanation or denial of the matter charged, and shall decide upon the question as is provided for in the case of a member.

Twelfth. In case of a Director neglecting or refusing to perform the duties of a Director, as hereinbefore provided, he shall be deemed to have forfeited his membership, and shall be removed by the President.

Thirteenth. Upon the removal of a member for failing to remit promptly moneys collected, or infringing the rules of the Association, and refusing to make restitution, or other misconduct, all unfinished Association business in such member's or Director's hands shall be transferred by him to the successor named, without being entitled to charge for services, fees, or commission upon such business, but shall be paid any disbursements actually incurred.

Fourteenth. Upon the dismissal of a member for retaining moneys collected, or for unprofessional conduct in business of the Association, or gross and culpable neglect of the same, on the decision of the managing Directors, as hereinbefore provided, his name shall be published in italics in the succeeding supplements and chart, beneath the name of the successor, with a * opposite his name, calling attention to a foot-note at the page, stating that such member has been "Dismissed the Association."

Fifteenth. That the uniform rates of commission, and rules for the conduct of business, adopted by the Association on the 23d of July, 1869, are hereby adopted as part of the rules of the Association.

CLINTON LAW ASSOCIATION.

ARRESTS CIVIL:

As distinguished from Criminal Prosecutions, or Arrests on a Criminal Charge.

ALABAMA.—Under the constitution there can be no imprisonment for debt, or arrest in civil cases.

ARKANSAS.—The code provides that the defendant can be arrested in a civil action, upon an affidavit setting forth that the defendant is about to depart from the State with intent to defraud his creditors; has concealed or removed his property from the State, or so much thereof that the process of the court, after judgment, cannot be executed; or that the defendant has money, or securities for money, or evidence of debt in the possession of himself, or others for his use, and is about to depart from the State without leaving property therein sufficient to satisfy the claim of the plaintiff.

A defendant (except a female) may also be arrested upon a judgment founded upon a fraudulent contract.

CALIFORNIA.—The defendant may be arrested—

1st. In an action for the recovery of money or damages on a cause of action arising upon contract, express or implied, when the defendant is about to depart from the State with intent to defraud his creditors.

2d. In an action for a fine or penalty, or for money or property embezzled, or fraudulently misapplied, or converted to his own use, by a public officer, or an officer of a corporation, or an attorney, factor, broker, agent or clerk, in the course of his employment as such, or by any other person in a fiduciary capacity; or for misconduct or neglect in office, or in a professional employment, or for a wilful violation of duty.

3d. In an action to recover the possession of personal property unjustly detained, when the property, or any part thereof, has been concealed, removed, or disposed of, to prevent its being found or taken by the sheriff.

4th. When the defendant has been guilty of a fraud in contracting or incurring the obligation for which the action is brought, or in concealing or disposing of the property for the taking, detention, or conversion of which the action is brought.

5th. When the defendant has removed or disposed of his property, or is about to do so, with intent to defraud his creditors.

The order of arrest is made upon an affidavit that any of the foregoing causes of action exist. The affidavit must be either positive or upon information and belief. But before the judge issues the order, he must require of the plaintiff a written undertaking, with sureties, in an amount fixed by said judge of at least five hundred dollars, to the effect that if the arrest be wrongful, that the plaintiff will pay all damage which the defendant may sustain by reason of the arrest, and also the costs of the action.

COLORADO.—In this State imprisonment for debt is abolished.

CONNECTICUT.—Civil arrest or imprisonment for debt is practically abolished in this State.

DAKOTA TERRITORY.—A party may be arrested in an action for recovery of damages not arising on contract where the party is a non-resident of the Territory, or is about to remove therefrom.

In an action for injury to person, character, or property, or for the wrongful detention and conversion of same.

In an action for a fine or penalty; or for money received, embezzled, or fraudulently misapplied by a public officer, or an attorney, solicitor, or counsellor, or by any factor, agent, broker, or other person in a fiduciary capacity; or misconduct or neglect in office or professional employment.

In an action where the party has been guilty of a fraud in contracting the obligation; and further, where the debtor has removed or disposed of his property, or is about to do so with intent to defraud his creditors.

DELAWARE.—There is no imprisonment for debt.

DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA.—Imprisonment for debt does not exist.

FLORIDA.—Arrest in civil actions or imprisonment for debt does not exist.

GEORGIA.—Arrest in civil actions or imprisonment for debt is prohibited by the constitution.

ILLINOIS.—The constitution provides that "no person shall be imprisoned for debt, unless upon refusal to deliver up his estate for the benefit of his creditors, in such manner as shall be prescribed by law, or in cases where there is strong presumption of fraud." This provision is applicable to actions upon contracts, express or implied, and to all tort feasors, except torts originating in malice, or where malice is the gist of the action. Before commencing suit in a court of record upon a specialty, bill, or note, on a judgment in covenant and account, or on verbal contracts or assumpsits, if the plaintiff, his agent or attorney, present an affidavit to the judge or master in chancery, showing that the debt was fraudulently contracted, or obligation fraudulently incurred; that he has concealed, assigned, removed, or disposed of his property with fraudulent intent; and sufficient cause appearing, capias may issue, and the defendant be held to bail. In actions sounding in damages merely, the affidavit should show the nature and cause of action, with the substantial facts in relation thereto; and the belief that the benefit of whatever judgment may be obtained will be in danger of being lost unless the defendant is held to bail. Capias will not issue until an approved bond is filed by the plaintiff. In case of defendant's discharge, the capias stands as a summons. The debtor is discharged—1. For insufficiency of the affidavit; 2, the facts therein stated not being true; 3, for other good cause which would entitle him to a discharge on habeas corpus; and 4, by scheduling his entire estate, real and personal, and surrendering the same for the benefit of his creditors.

INDIANA.—A defendant may be arrested on civil process only when he is about to leave the State, taking with him property subject to execution, money or effects—not leaving enough to satisfy the plaintiff's demand: all of which must be supported by affidavit.

IOWA.—Imprisonment for debt is not allowed in this State; and there can be no arrest in civil causes except for contempts, and in certain cases in proceedings supplemental to execution, and then only for the purpose of examining the debtor as to the disposition of his property; and on the warrant of the court the debtor may be committed to jail from time to time, for safe-keeping, until the examination shall be concluded.

KANSAS.—Imprisonment for debt is abolished, except in cases of fraud. An affidavit must be filed showing that the defendant has removed, or commenced to remove, his property without the jurisdiction of the court, for the purpose of defrauding his creditors; or that he has commenced to convert his property into money, so that he can place it out of the reach of his creditors; or if he fraudulently conceals his property or rights of action; or when he has made an assignment, or disposed of his property with the intention of defrauding his creditors; or that he has fraudulently contracted the debt, or incurred the obligation for which the action is brought.

KENTUCKY.—A defendant may be arrested in a civil action where he is about to depart from the State, with intent to defraud his creditors; has concealed or removed his property from the State, or so much thereof that the process of the court, after judgment, cannot be satisfied; or where the defendant has money or securities for money, or evidences of debt, in the possession of himself, or of others for his use, and is about to depart from the State without leaving property therein sufficient to satisfy the plaintiff's claim. Before the order for arrest is issued, a bond in double the amount of claim must be given. Party so arrested will be discharged from arrest upon giving ten days' notice that he will take insolvent oath, and attaching to such notice a schedule of all his property subject to execution, which property is then taken into possession by sheriff.

LOUISIANA.—A debtor may be arrested, but as it is only security for the body of the debtor to answer to the suit, it is of but little practical value, for he cannot be held for the payment of the debt. The defendant may obtain his release on giving bond that he will not depart the State for the term of three months, except when arrested on a charge of fraud, when the condition of the bond shall be that, if the fraud complained of be established, the surety shall be liable for the debt, in case the debtor shall have departed from the State without leave of the court.

The creditor, in order to obtain the writ of arrest, must make affidavit that the debtor is about to leave the State without leaving in it property sufficient to satisfy the judgment he expects to obtain against him. He must also give bond to indemnify defendant if it be proven that the arrest was wrongfully obtained.

MAINE.—A defendant may be arrested in an action founded on contract, where the debt exceeds $10, and the plaintiff or his attorney makes oath that he believes that the debtor is about to depart from and reside beyond the limits of the State, with property or means exceeding the amount required for his immediate support. He may be arrested in an action founded upon tort, without oath, and for want of property, as at common law.

MARYLAND.—Civil arrests no longer prevail in this State, and imprisonment for debt has been long since abolished.

MASSACHUSETTS.—The plaintiff, or some one in his behalf, in an action of contract, may cause the arrest of the defendant on an affidavit satisfactorily proven before a magistrate:

1. That he has good cause of action, and reasonable expectation of recovering a sum amounting to twenty dollars, excluding all costs which may have accrued in any former action.

2. That he believes, and has reason to believe, that the defendant has property, not exempt from being taken in execution, which he has no intention of applying to the payment of the plaintiff's claims.

3. That he believes, and has reason to believe, that the defendant purposes leaving the State, so that execution, if obtained, could not be served on him; or that the defendant is an attorney-at-law, and the debt is for money collected by him for the plaintiff, which he unreasonably neglects to pay. When an arrest in an action for tort is authorized, the plaintiff, or some one in his behalf, must make an affidavit showing that he has good cause of action, and a reasonable expectation of receiving a sum equal at least to one-third of the damages claimed in the writ; that the defendant is likely to remove without the jurisdiction of the court, in order to prevent the service of the execution.

A judgment debtor can be arrested on an execution amounting to $20 or more, excluding all costs, upon like affidavit of the judgment creditor, or in his behalf, that he believes, and has reason to believe, that the debtor is possessed of property, not exempt from being taken on execution, and which he has no intention of applying to the payment of the plaintiff's claim; or that since the contraction of the debt, the debtor has fraudulently disposed of some part of his estate for the purpose of securing the same to his own use, or of defrauding his creditors; or that, since the contraction of the debt, the debtor has lost $100 or more in gambling, or has wilfully expended or misused his goods or estate for the purpose of enabling him to take the poor debtor's oath; or that he contracted the debt with the intention of not paying the same; or that he is an attorney-at-law, and has collected the money for the creditor, and that such attorney unreasonably neglects to pay the same.

A woman cannot be arrested on civil process except for tort; nor can any person be arrested for slander or libel in a civil action on a mesne process.

The defendant may procure bail when arrested on mesne process, and when arrested for an action of contract or on execution, may give a recognizance for his appearance to take the oath for the relief of poor debtors, or that he has no intention of leaving the State. If the magistrate, upon examination of the defendant or debtor, is satisfied of the truth of the oath to be taken, he may discharge him, and make a certificate in accordance with the facts.

MICHIGAN.—The defendant may be arrested on civil process in all cases of fraud and breach of trust for proceedings, as for contempts to enforce civil remedies, for fines, penalties, and forfeiture; also, when the plaintiff has a demand against him for money collected as a public officer, or for misconduct or neglect in his profession or office. In all cases the application for arrest must be based on an affidavit.

MINNESOTA.—Civil arrest or imprisonment for debt is not allowed in this State, except where fraud has been practised in contracting the debt.

MISSISSIPPI.—There is no arrest on civil process or imprisonment for debt in this State.

MISSOURI.—There is no imprisonment for debt in this State.

MONTANA TERRITORY. — A party may be arrested in actions arising upon contract where defendant is about to leave the Territory with intent to defraud his creditors.

Actions for wilful injury to person, character, or property.

Actions to recover personal property unjustly detained, and where defendant fraudulently contracted the obligation for which action brought.

NEBRASKA.—Civil arrests can be made before or after judgment, on filing an affidavit showing the nature and justice of the claim, with the amount thereof, and also establishing one or more of the following particulars, with a statement of the facts claimed, to justify the belief in their existence:

First. That the defendant has removed or begun to remove any of his property out of the jurisdiction of the court, with intent to defraud his creditors.

Digitized by Google

Second. That he has begun to convert his property, or a part thereof, into money, for the purpose of placing it beyond the reach of his creditors.

Third. That he has property or rights of action which he fraudulently conceals.

Fourth. That he has assigned, removed, disposed of, or has begun to dispose of his property, or a part thereof, with intent to defraud his creditors.

Fifth. That he fraudulently contracted the debt, or incurred the obligation for which the suit is to be, or has been brought.

The plaintiff is required to give a written undertaking, executed by one or more sufficient sureties, to the effect that he shall pay all damages sustained by the defendant, if the order be wrongfully obtained, not exceeding double the amount of the plaintiff's claim.

The defendant may be released from arrest either by giving bail in double the amount of the plaintiff's claim, or by depositing with the sheriff the sum sued for.

NEVADA.—A defendant may be arrested where it is made to appear by affidavit—

That he committed a fraud in incurring the obligation for which action brought.

That he has property which he conceals with intent to defraud his creditors.

NEW HAMPSHIRE. — A person may be arrested where it is made to appear—

That defendant is about to leave the State with intent to defraud his creditors.

That he has property which he fraudulently conceals from his creditors.

NEW JERSEY.—No one shall be arrested in any action founded upon contract, express or implied, except on proof made on oath or affirmation, that there is a debt or demand founded upon contracts due the plaintiff from the defendant, specifying the nature of said debt, and establishing one of the following particulars:

First. That the defendant is about to remove any of his property out of the jurisdiction of the court, with intent to defraud his creditors.

Second. That the defendant has property which he fraudulently conceals.

Third. That he has assigned, or disposed of, or is about to assign and dispose of, any of his property, with the intent to defraud his creditors.

Fourth. That the defendant fraudulently contracted the debt, or incurred the obligation respecting which suit is brought.

Upon proving any one of these facts, a capias may be issued for the arrest of the defendant.

NEW MEXICO.—Any creditor, upon making oath that he has reason to believe, and does believe, that this defendant debtor is about to abscond from the Territory, so as to endanger the collection of his debt, and by filing a bond, as is required in attachment, may sue a writ of capias. Upon this the defendant is taken and retained in custody until discharged by due course of law; but he is entitled to his discharge at any time upon giving bond and security to the sheriff or constable, that he will render himself in custody to abide the judgment, order, or decree of the court. At the return term of the writ, the defendant may deny the truth of the affidavit by answer without oath; and if such denial is sustained, the cause is thereby abated.

Also, upon execution, if the sheriff shall be able to find no property of the defendant, he may arrest him, and commit his body to jail; but the defendant may be discharged from custody at the expiration of five days from time of commitment, by rendering a schedule of his property, money, and effects under oath, and delivering it to the sheriff of the county. Such schedule, however, is not final; but the truth thereof may be tried, upon the return of the execution, by the tribunal which issued the execution, and if found to be false, the defendant may be retaken and held to answer to a charge of perjury.

NEW YORK.—Arrests in civil actions may be made on the following grounds: When the defendant has been guilty of fraud in contracting a debt or incurring the obligation for which the action is brought, or in concealing or disposing of the property, for the taking, detention, or conversion of which the action is brought, or when the action is brought, to recover damages for fraud and deceit; when the defendant has removed or disposed of his property, or is about to do so, with intent to defraud his creditors; in an action to recover the possession of personal property unjustly detained; where the property, or any part thereof, has been concealed, removed, or disposed of, so that it cannot be found or taken by the sheriff, and with the intent that it should not be so found or taken, or with the intent to deprive the plaintiff thereof; in an action for the recovery of damages (in a cause of action not arising out of contract), where the defendant is a non-resident of the State, or is about to remove therefrom, or where the action is for injury to person or character, or for injuring or wrongfully taking, detaining or converting property; in an action for a fine or penalty, or on a promise to marry, or for money received, or property embezzled or fraudulently misapplied by a public officer, or by an attorney, solicitor or counsellor, or by an officer or agent of a corporation or banking association, in the course of his employment, or for any misconduct or neglect in office or in a professional employment.

No female, however, can be arrested for any action, except for wilful injury to person, character, or property.

NORTH CAROLINA.—Civil arrests can be made in the following cases: When the defendant has committed a fraud in contracting the debt, or incurring the obligation for which the action is brought, or when the action is brought to recover damages for fraud or deceit, or the defendant has removed or disposed of his property, or is about to do so, with the intention of defrauding his creditors; in an action for the recovery of damages, on a cause of action not arising out of contract, where the defendant is a non-resident of the State, or is about to leave the State, or for an injury to person and character, or for injuring or wrongfully detaining, taking or converting property; in an action to recover personal property unjustly detained, where the property, or any part thereof, has been concealed, removed, or disposed of, so that it cannot be found or taken by the sheriff, and with the intention that it should not be found or taken, or with the intent to deprive the plaintiff of the benefit thereof.

But in no action, except for wilful injury to person, character, or property, can a female be arrested.

OHIO.—An order for the arrest of a defendant may be made on an affidavit of the plaintiff, or his authorized agent or attorney, stating the nature and amount of the plaintiff's claim, that it is just, and also establishing one or more of the following cases: That the defendant has removed, or begun to remove, any of his property out of the jurisdiction of the court, with intent to defraud his creditors; that he has begun to convert his property, or a part thereof, into money, for the purpose of placing it beyond the reach of his creditors; that he has property or rights of action which he fraudulently conceals; that he has assigned, removed, or disposed of, or has begun to dispose of his property, or a part thereof, with intent to defraud his creditors; that he has fraudulently contracted the debt, or incurred the obligation for which the suit is about to be, or has been brought. The affidavit must also contain a statement of the facts claimed to justify the belief in the existence of one or more of the above cases. The order shall not issue until the plaintiff gives bond in double the amount of his claim, with one or more sureties, that he will pay the defendant all damages he may sustain if the order be wrongfully obtained.

OREGON.—The defendant may be arrested in the following cases:

In an action for the recovery of money or damages on a cause of action arising out of contract, when the defendant is not a resident of the State, or is about to remove therefrom; or when the action is for an injury to person or character, or for injuring or wrongfully taking, detaining, or converting property. In an action for a fine or penalty, or on a promise to marry, or for money received, or property embezzled or fraudulently misapplied or converted to his own use, by a public officer, or an attorney, officer or agent of a corporation, factor, agent, or broker, or other person in a fiduciary capacity. In an action to recover the possession of any personal property unjustly detained, when the property, or any portion thereof, has been concealed, removed, or disposed of. When the defendant has been guilty of a fraud in contracting the debt or incurring the obligation for which the action is brought. When the defendant has removed or disposed of his property, or is about to do so, with intent to defraud his creditors.

No female can be arrested in any action, except for an injury to person, character, or property.

PENNSYLVANIA.—Under act of 1842 no person shall be arrested or imprisoned on any civil process issuing out of any court of this commonwealth, in any suit or proceeding instituted for the recovery of any money due upon any judgment or decree founded upon contract, or due upon any contract, express or implied, or for the recovery of any damages for the non-performance of any contract, excepting in proceedings, as for contempt, to enforce civil remedies, action for fines or penalties, or on promises to marry, on moneys collected by any public officer, or for any misconduct or neglect in office or in any professional employment. The neglect of an attorney to pay over money collected for his client is within this exception.

A plaintiff, after suit brought or judgment obtained, may have a warrant of arrest against a defendant, if the affidavit set forth, to the satisfaction of the judge, one or more of the following particulars, to wit: That the party is about to remove any of his property out of the jurisdiction of the court in which suit is brought, with intent to defraud his creditors; or that he has property (not money) which he fraudulently conceals; or that he has rights in action, or some interest in any public or corporate stock, money, or evidence of debt, which he unjustly refuses to apply to the payment of any such judgment or judgments which shall have been rendered against him, belonging to the complainant; or that he has assigned, removed, or disposed of, or is about to dispose of, any of his property, with the intent to defraud his creditors; or that he fraudulently contracted the debt or incurred the obligation respecting which suit is brought. It is immaterial whether the fraud was committed in or out of the State. It has been decided that since the passage of the bankrupt law of the United States a warrant of arrest cannot issue for any cause which would amount to an act of bankruptcy under that act. The fraudulent conversion of property by a bailee is indictable; also fraudulent insolvency; also obtaining goods or money by false representations, or the fraudulent removal or secretion of property with intent to defraud creditors. Defendant may be arrested and held to bail upon actions in torts.

RHODE ISLAND.—The defendant may be arrested when a writ of attachment has been issued against him, and the plaintiff, or some one in his behalf, makes an affidavit duly certified on such writ, that the defendant is about to remove from the State without leaving therein real or personal estate whereon service of said writ may be made by attachment sufficient to satisfy the damages laid therein; or that the defendant has committed fraud in contracting the debt upon which the action arises, or is concealing or wrongfully disposing of any of his property.

But no female can be arrested in any civil action founded on contract, by virtue of any original writ whatever.

SOUTH CAROLINA.—An order for the arrest of the defendant in a civil action may be made by the judge or the clerk of the court in which the action is brought, in the following cases:

First. In an action, ex delicto, for damages (1) where the defendant is not a resident of the State or is about to remove therefrom; or (2) where the action is for an injury to person or character; or (3) for injuring, or for wrongfully taking, detaining, or converting property.

Second. In an action for a fine or penalty, or for money received, or property embezzled or fraudulently misapplied by a public officer, or by an attorney, solicitor, or counsellor; or by an officer or agent of a corporation or banking association, in the course of his employment as such; or by a factor, broker, agent, or other person in a fiduciary capacity; or for any misconduct in office or in a professional employment.

Third. In an action to recover the possession of personal property where the same or any part thereof has been concealed, removed, or disposed of, so that it cannot be found or taken by the sheriff, and with the intent that it should not be so found or taken, or with intent to deprive the plaintiff of the benefit thereof.

Fourth. Where the defendant has been guilty of fraud in contracting the debt or incurring the obligation sued for; or in concealing or disposing of the property for the taking, detention, or conversion of which the action is brought; or when the action is brought to recover damages for fraud or deceit.

Fifth. When the defendant has removed or disposed of his property, or is about to do so, with intent to defraud his creditors.

The order may be made to accompany the summons, or at any time before judgment, when it shall appear to the proper officer, by the affidavit of the plaintiff or of any other person, that a sufficient cause of action exists, and that the case is one of those above mentioned. It must specify the amount for which defendant is to be held.

Before the order will issue, the plaintiff must file an undertaking to the effect that if the defendant recover judgment the plaintiff will pay all costs that may be awarded to defendant, and all damages which he may sustain by reason of the arrest. The undertaking must be for at least $100, and may be without sureties, if the plaintiff will annex an affidavit that he is a resident freeholder or householder, and worth double the sum of the undertaking over and above his liabilities.

The defendant may at any time before execution be discharged from arrest upon giving bail, or upon depositing with the sheriff the amount specified in the order of arrest.

No female can be arrested except in an action for a wilful injury to person, character, or property.

After judgment, if the plaintiff cannot make his debt by an execution against the property of defendant, he may have an execution against the person of defendant, provided an order of arrest was served before judgment, or provided the facts as stated in the complaint show that the case was one in which the defendant might have been arrested.

TENNESSEE.—Civil arrest or imprisonment for debt is abolished in this State.

TEXAS.—There is no imprisonment for debt or civil arrest.

UTAH TERRITORY.—A defendant may be arrested in the following cases:

1st. In an action for the recovery of money, or damages in a cause of action arising upon contract, express or implied, when defendant is about to depart from the Territory, with intent to defraud his creditors, or when the action is for libel or slander.

2d. In an action for a fine or penalty, or for money or property embezzled, or fraudulently misapplied or converted to his own use, by a public officer, or an officer of a corporation, or an attorney, factor, broker, agent, or clerk, in the course of his employment as such, or by any other person in a fiduciary capacity; or for misconduct or neglect in office or in a professional employment, or for a wilful violation of duty.

3d. In an action to recover the possession of personal property unjustly detained, when the property, or any part thereof, has been concealed, removed, or disposed of, so that it cannot be found or taken by the marshal or his deputy, or the sheriff or his deputy.

4th. When the defendant has been guilty of a fraud in contracting the debt, or incurring the obligation for which the action is brought, or in concealing or disposing of the property, for the taking, detention, or conversion of which the action is brought.

5th. When the defendant has removed or disposed of his property, or is about to do so, with the intent to defraud his creditors.

VERMONT.—No citizen of the United States can be arrested in a cause founded on a contract, unless the plaintiff, or some one in his behalf, files an affidavit with the person authorized to sign the writ, showing that he has good reason to believe, and does believe, that the defendant is about to leave the State, and has concealed, on his person or elsewhere, money or other property, exceeding in value $20, or sufficient to satisfy the debt on which the action is brought.

VIRGINIA.—Imprisonment for debt is abolished. A defendant in an action or suit can be arrested only in case the plaintiff, or some one in his behalf, files an affidavit, showing that there is probable cause for believing that the defendant is about to quit the State unless apprehended.

WASHINGTON TERRITORY.—A party may be arrested on an affidavit showing that defendant has been guilty of a fraud in contracting the debt or obligation for which the action is brought.

That he has removed, or disposed of his property, with intent to defraud his creditors, or is about to do so.

That he unjustly detains personal property.

WEST VIRGINIA.—In any civil action or suit a defendant may be arrested upon one or more of the following grounds: That he has removed, or is about to remove, any of his property out of the State, with intent to defraud his creditors. That he has converted, or is about to convert, his property, or some part thereof, into money or other securities with a like intent. That he has assigned, disposed of, or removed his property, or any part thereof, or is about to do so, with a like intent.

Digitized by Google

That he has property or rights of action which he fraudulently conceals. That he has fraudulently contracted the debt or incurred the liability for which the action or suit is brought. That he is about to leave the State and reside permanently in another State or county, without paying the debt or liability for which the action is brought.

Arrest is made upon the affidavit of the plaintiff, or some one in his behalf, with a statement of facts showing the existence of one or more of the above cases.

WISCONSIN.—A defendant may be arrested in a civil suit on the following grounds: When he has been guilty of a fraud in contracting the debt or incurring the obligation for which the action is brought, or in concealing or disposing of the property, for the taking, detention, or conversion of which the action is brought. In an action for the recovery of damages on a cause of action not arising out of contract, when the defendant is not a resident of this State, or is about to remove therefrom; or where the action is for an injury to person or character; or for injuring or wrongfully taking, detaining or converting property; and in actions to recover damages for the value of property obtained by the defendant under false pretences. In an action to recover possession of personal property unjustly detained, where the property, or any part thereof, has been concealed, removed, or disposed of, so that it cannot be found by the sheriff.

But no female can be arrested in any action, except for a wilful injury to person, character or property.

WYOMING.—An order for the arrest of a defendant may be made on an affidavit of the plaintiff, or his authorized agent or attorney, stating the nature and amount of the plaintiff's claim, that it is just, and also establishing one or more of the following cases: That the defendant has removed, or begun to remove any of his property out of the jurisdiction of the court, with intent to defraud his creditors; that he has begun to convert his property, or a part thereof, into money, for the purpose of placing it beyond the reach of his creditors; that he has property or rights of action which he fraudulently conceals; that he has assigned, removed, or disposed of, or has begun to dispose of his property, or a part thereof, with intent to defraud his creditors; that he has fraudulently contracted the debt, or incurred the obligation for which the suit is about to be, or has been brought.

The affidavit shall also contain a statement of the facts claimed to justify the belief in the existence of one or more of the above particulars.

ATTACHMENTS:

How, and upon what grounds issued.

ATTACHMENTS, by the laws of the several States, are of three kinds:

First. When it issues as a mesne or original process, and is served with a copy of the summons. The property so attached is held to await the final decision of the case, as in Connecticut.

Second. As a remedial or prohibitory process, to prevent fraudulent disposition of property, or to secure the effects of an absconding debtor, as in Alabama or Illinois.

Third. As a foreign attachment, when a debtor has property in a State of which he is not a resident, as in Delaware and Pennsylvania.

ALABAMA.—Attachments are original, ancillary, and judicial.

Original attachments issue upon affidavit of creditor or agent, setting forth that the debtor has absconded, or secretes himself so that ordinary process of law cannot be served upon him, or is about to remove his property out of the State, or has fraudulently disposed of his property, or is fraudulently disposing of his property, or that he has money, effects, or property liable to satisfy his debts, which he fraudulently withholds, or that he is a non-resident of the State;

Upon any money demand, whether the debt be due or not, the creditor executing bond in double amount of the debt, with security, and payable to defendant, or making affidavit that he is unable to give security on said bond;

Upon complying with statute, the attachment issues and property of debtor is seized, and held liable to a judgment when rendered.

Ancillary attachment is same as original, except that it issues after a suit has been commenced by summons and complaint.

Judicial attachment issues when summons has been returned not found, and plaintiff, his agent or attorney, makes affidavit that defendant avoids service of the summons.

All attachments may be executed also by summoning any person indebted to defendant to answer what he owes him. This is known as a garnishment, and is a lien upon the fund or property of defendants in hand of garnishee.

Equitable attachments issue from courts of chancery against property to which defendant has an equitable title or claim, as in like cases in courts of law.

ARKANSAS.—The plaintiff in a civil action may, at or after the commencement thereof, have an attachment against the property of the defendant in the cases and upon the grounds hereinafter stated, as security for the satisfaction of such judgment as may be recovered.

In an action for the recovery of money where the action is against—

1. A defendant, or several defendants, who, or some one of whom, is a foreign corporation, or a non-resident of the State; or,

Digitized by Google

2. Who has been absent therefrom four months; or,

3. Has departed from the State with intent to defraud his creditors; or,

4. Has left the county of his residence to avoid the service of a summons; or,

5. So conceals himself that a summons cannot be served upon him; or,

6. Is about to remove, or has removed his property, or a material part thereof, out of the State, not leaving enough therein to satisfy the plaintiff's claim, or the claim of defendant's creditors; or,

7. Has sold, conveyed, or otherwise disposed of his property, or suffered, or permitted it to be sold, with the fraudulent intent to cheat, hinder, or delay his creditors; or,

8. Is about to sell, convey, or otherwise dispose of his property, with such fraudulent intent.

Before an order of attachment can be made the plaintiff must file with the clerk the necessary bond, with good and sufficient securities, who must have property in the State, subject to execution, equal in value to the amount of the bond; and must also file an affidavit of the plaintiff, or his agent, showing the nature of the plaintiff's claim, that it is just, the amount which affiant believes the plaintiff ought to recover, and the existence of one or more of the grounds of attachment enumerated above.

An attachment will also issue against the property of defendant where suit is brought before debt is due, upon the plaintiff making an affidavit that the defendant has made, or is about to make, a fraudulent sale of his property; or is about to remove the same out of the State, with fraudulent intent to cheat, hinder, or delay his creditors.

CALIFORNIA.—The plaintiff, at the time of issuing the summons, or at any time afterward, may have the property of the defendant attached, as security for the satisfaction of any judgment that may be recovered, unless the defendant give security to pay such judgment, in the following cases:

1. In an action upon a contract, express or implied, for the direct payment of money, where the contract is made or is payable in this State, and is not secured by any mortgage or lien upon real or personal property, or any pledge of personal property; or, if originally so secured, such security has, without any act of the plaintiff, or the person to whom the security was given, become valueless.

2. In an action upon a contract, expressed or implied, against a defendant not residing in this State.

Before issuing the writ, the plaintiff is required to file an affidavit, setting forth the facts required by the statute, to entitle him to have the defendant's property attached, and that the attachment is not sought, and the action is not prosecuted to hinder, delay, or defraud any creditor of the defendant. A written undertaking must also be filed, in a sum not less than two hundred dollars, and not exceeding the amount claimed by plaintiff, with sufficient sureties to the effect that if the defendant recover judgment, the plaintiff will pay all costs and damage the defendant may sustain by reason of the attachment, not exceeding the amount specified in the undertaking.

COLORADO.—The nature and amount of indebtedness, as near as may be, must be stated. Bond must be given for double the amount payable to the defendant. Affidavit can be made by the creditor, his agent, or attorney. Grounds for attachment:

That the debtor has departed, or is about to depart, from the State, with the intention of having his effects removed from the State; or is about to remove his property from the State, to the injury of such creditor; or that such debtor conceals himself, or stands in defiance of an officer, so that process cannot be served upon him; or is not a resident of the State; or that he is converting, or is about to convert, his property into money, or otherwise dispose of his property, with the intent of placing it beyond the reach of such creditor; or that he fraudulently contracted the debt, or incurred the obligation respecting which the suit had been brought; or that the defendant is a foreign corporation; or that he has fraudulently conveyed any of his estate with intent to delay, hinder, or defraud creditors.

CONNECTICUT. — An attachment issues as a mesne process with the original summons, and the goods and chattels, lands and tenements of the defendant may be held under the attachment for sixty days after final judgment, for the levy of an execution on personal estate, or four months on real estate. If the plaintiff is a non-resident of the State, he is required to furnish a bond, executed by a resident of the State, conditioned for the payment of all damages in the event of the failure to substantiate his claim.

DAKOTA TERRITORY.—An attachment will issue in the following cases: In an action arising on contract for the recovery of money. In an action for the wrongful conversion of personal property. When debtor is a non-resident, or has absconded or concealed himself, or is about to remove his property from the Territory, or has disposed of, or is about to dispose of his property, with intent to defraud his creditors.

DELAWARE.—An attachment as an original writ or mesne process does not exist.

An attachment, however, as a remedial or prohibitory process may issue upon an affidavit made by the plaintiff, or some reputable person in his behalf, setting forth that the defendant is justly indebted to the plaintiff in a sum exceeding fifty dollars, and that he has absconded, or left the State, with the intent to defraud his creditors or to elude the service of process.

It may be issued against an inhabitant of the State upon the return of an officer of a summons or capias, issued ten days before the return day, that the defendant cannot be found. Upon the sale of property so attached, the proceeds are distributed pro rata among all his creditors. As a foreign attachment, it may also issue against a defendant who resides out of the State, having property in the State, or against a foreign corporation, upon an affidavit made by the plaintiff or some reputable person on his behalf, setting forth the sum justly indebted, and that the defendant is not a resident of the State. The proceeds of the sale of a non-resident debtor goes to the plaintiff in the attachment.

DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA.—An attachment will issue in the following cases:

Where the defendant is a non-resident, or conceals himself, or where he has disposed of, or is about to dispose of his property, with intent to defraud his creditors.

FLORIDA.—An attachment issues as a mesne process with the original summons. The party applying for the writ, or his agent or attorney, must first make oath in writing before a justice of the peace, or clerk of the circuit court, that the amount of the debt or sum demanded is actually due; and also, that he or she has reason to believe the party from whom it is due will fraudulently part with his, her, or their property before judgment can be recovered against him, her, or them (as the case may be); or is actually removing his, her, or their property out of the State of Florida, or about to remove it out of the State; or resides beyond the limits thereof, or is actually removing, or about to remove out of the State; or absconds or conceals him self or herself; or is secreting his or her property, or fraudulently disposing of the same; or is actually removing, or about to remove beyond the judicial district in which he, she, or they reside.

And the writ will issue in cases where the debt or demand will become due within nine months from the time of applying for the same, provided the party applying for the same, or his agent or attorney, shall first make oath in writing that the amount of the debt, or demand claimed and charged against the opposite party, is actually an existing debt or demand, and shall state in such affidavit the time when the same will actually become due and payable; and also that the party against whom said writ of attachment is applied for, is actually removing his or her property beyond the limits of the State, or (as the case may be) is fraudulently disposing of, or secreting the same, for the purpose of avoiding the payment of his or her just debt or demand, satisfactory proof of which shall be demanded and produced to the officer granting the attachment. When an executor or administrator resides, or has removed beyond the limits of this State, and there are assets of the testator or intestate in this State, it may be lawful for any person having a debt or demand against the estate of the deceased, to take out an attachment against such assets, upon making oath in writing, that the above debt, or sum demanded, is actually due, and that the executor or administrator (as the case may be) resides, or has removed beyond the limits of this State. Provided an attachment shall issue, if said executor or administrator shall have any legally authorized and publicly known agent in the State, service of any summons upon whom shall be as good and valid as if it had been served on the person of the said executor or administrator.

No attachment shall issue until the party applying for the same, by himself or by his agent or attorney, shall enter into bond with at least two good and sufficient securities, payable to the defendant in at least double the debt or sum demanded, conditioned to pay all costs and damages the defendant may sustain in consequence of improperly suing out said attachment.

GEORGIA.—An attachment, as an original or mesne process, does not exist, but an attachment as a remedial or prohibitory process may issue against the real or personal property of a defendant, upon affidavit made by the creditor, his agent or attorney-at-law, that the debtor resides out of the State, or is actually removing, or about to remove without the limits of the county; or absconds, or conceals himself, or resists a legal arrest; or is causing his property to be removed beyond the limits of the State. Process of attachment may also be issued in behalf of any creditor whose debt is created by the purchase of property, upon such debt becoming due, when the debtor who created such debt is in the possession of the property purchased. Whenever a debtor shall sell, or convey, or conceal his property liable for the payment of his debts, for the purpose of avoiding the payment of the same, or whenever a debtor shall threaten or prepare so to do, the judge of the superior court (no other officer) may issue an attachment upon the petition of the creditor, distinctly stating his grounds of complaint, and praying for an attachment, and supported by affidavit or testimony, if the same be within his control.

Upon any money demand, whether the debt be due or not, by executing a bond payable to the defendant, in the penal sum of double the amount of the debt, or upon making affidavit that he is unable to give bond with sufficient security; upon which attachment the goods of the defendant may be seized in like manner as under execution.

Upon an affidavit setting forth any of the foregoing grounds, an attachment may issue during the pendency of a suit, and the property be held liable in like manner.

Garnishment may issue upon said attachment against any person indebted to such debtor, at the request of the plaintiff, his agent or attorney-at-law. In such a case it is not necessary to make any further affidavit, or give an additional bond.

ILLINOIS.—In Courts of Record.—The creditor may have attachment against the property of his debtor, or one or more of several debtors, the indebtedness exceeding $20. 1. When the debtor is not a resident of the State. 2. When he conceals himself, or stands in defiance to an officer, so that he cannot be served with process. 3. When he has departed from the State, with the intention of removing his effects therefrom. 4. When he is about to depart from the State with the intention of removing his effects therefrom. 5. When he is about to remove his property from the State to the injury of his creditors. 6. When he has, within the two years preceding, fraudulently conveyed or assigned his effects, or a part thereof, to hinder or delay his creditors. 7. When he has, within the two years preceding, fraudulently concealed or disposed of his property, to hinder or delay his creditors. 8. When he is about fraudulently to conceal, assign, or otherwise dispose of his property or effects to hinder or delay his creditors. 9. Where the debt sued for was fraudulently contracted by the debtor; if the debtor's statements, his agent or attorney, which constitute the fraud, were reduced to writing and signed by him, his agent or attorney. The writ issues upon giving bond and filing the affidavit of the creditor, his agent or attorney, showing the nature and amount of the indebtedness, after allowing just credits and set-offs, and any one or more of the causes mentioned, and the defendant's residence, if known. It is sufficient to designate defendants by their reputed names, and joint defendants by separate or partnership names, or by the names and styles by which they are usually known. It may issue on a Sunday, and to any other county. Property being removed may be pursued into any county and brought back. In his defence, the debtor may avail himself of any set-off properly pleadable by the laws of the State.

In actions of debt, covenant, trespass, or assumpsit, the plaintiff having commenced by summons or capias, may at any time before judgment, on bond and affidavit as above, and for the causes there specified, have attachment in aid of the suit pending, and thereon such proceedings, as near as may be, shall be had as in original attachments. In case of scire facias, to make party to a judgment as well heretofore as hereafter (1st July, 1872) rendered, the writ may issue in aid thereof, against one or all named in the sci. fa. The writ will issue against a married woman and reach her separate property.

Courts are enjoined to construe the law most liberally for the detection of fraud.

Justices' courts have jurisdiction in attachment where the demand does not exceed $200, and the writ issues against the personal estate, goods, chattels, moneys, choses in action, credits and effects of the debtor.

INDIANA.—Attachments may issue on filing a bond and making affidavit, in the following cases, viz.:

1. Where the defendant is a foreign corporation or a non-resident of the State.

2. Where the defendant is secretly leaving, or has left the State, with intent to defraud his creditors.

3. Where the defendant conceals himself so that a summons cannot be served upon him.

4. Where the defendant is removing, or is about to remove his property, or a material part thereof out of the State, not leaving enough therein to satisfy the plaintiff's claim.

5. Where the defendant has sold, conveyed, or otherwise disposed of his property, or suffered or permitted it to be sold, with the fraudulent intent to cheat, hinder, or delay his creditors.

6. Where the defendant is about to sell, convey, or otherwise dispose of his property with such intent.

IOWA.—The plaintiff in a civil action may cause any property of the defendant, which is not exempt from execution, to be attached at the commencement or during the progress of the proceeding. If subsequent to the commencement of the action a separate petition must be filed, and in all cases the proceedings relative to the attachment are to be deemed independent of the ordinary proceedings and only auxiliary thereto.

The petition which asks an attachment must in all cases be sworn to, and must state—

1. That the defendant is a foreign corporation, or acting as such; or,

2. That he is a non-resident of the State; or,

3. That he is about to remove his property out of the State, without leaving sufficient remaining for the payment of his debts; or,

4. That he has disposed of his property, in whole or in part, with intent to defraud his creditors; or,

5. That the defendant is about to dispose of his property, with intent to defraud his creditors; or,

6. That he has absconded, so that the ordinary process cannot be served upon him; or,

7. That he is about to remove permanently out of the county, and has property therein not exempt from execution, and that he refuses to pay or secure the plaintiff; or,

8. That he is about to remove permanently out of the State, and refuses to pay or secure the debt due plaintiff; or,

9. That he is about to remove his property, or a part thereof, out of the county, with intent to defraud his creditors; or,

10. That he is about to convert his property, or a part thereof, into money, for the purpose of placing it beyond the reach of his creditors; or,

11. That he has property or rights in action which he conceals; or,

12. That the debt is due for property obtained under false pretences.

The property of a debtor may be attached previous to the time when the debt becomes due, when nothing but time is wanting to fix an absolute indebtedness, and when the petition in addition to that fact states—

1. That the defendant is about to dispose of his property, with intent to defraud his creditors; or,

2. That he is about to remove from the State, and refuses to make any arrangements for securing the payment of the debt when it falls due, and which contemplated removal was not known to the plaintiff at the time the debt was contracted; or,

3. That the defendant has disposed of his property, in whole or in part, with intent to defraud his creditors; or,

4. That the debt was incurred for property obtained under false pretences.

Before the writ can issue, the plaintiff must file with the clerk a bond for the use of the defendant, with sureties to be approved by such clerk, in a penalty double the value of the property to be attached, and in no case less than two hundred and fifty dollars in a court of record, nor less than fifty dollars in a justice's court, conditioned for the payment of all damages which the defendant may sustain by reason of the wrongful suing out of the attachment. Attachments are also effected by garnishment.

KANSAS.—An attachment as a mesne or original process does not exist.

The plaintiff in a civil action for the recovery of money, may, at or after the commencement thereof, have an attachment against the property of the defendant, and upon the grounds herein stated.

1. When the defendant is a foreign corporation or a non-resident of the State; or,

2. Has absconded, with the intent to defraud his creditors; or,

3. Has left the county of his residence to avoid the service of a summons; or,

4. So conceals himself that a summons cannot be served upon him; or,

5. Is about to remove his property, or a part thereof, out of the jurisdiction of the court, with the intent to defraud his creditors; or,

6. Is about to convert his property, or a part thereof, into money, for the purpose of placing it beyond the reach of his creditors; or,

7. Has property or rights in action which he conceals; or,

8. Has assigned, removed, or disposed of, or is about to dispose of his property, or a part thereof, with the intent to defraud his creditors.

9. Or fraudulently contracted the debt or incurred the obligation for which suit is about to be, or has been brought.

10. When the damages for which the action is brought are for injuries arising from the commission of some felony or misdemeanor, or the seduction of any female; or,

11. When the debtor has failed to pay the price or value of any article or thing delivered, which by contract he was bound to pay upon delivery, an attachment shall not be granted on the ground that the defendant is a foreign corporation or non-resident of this State, for any claim other than a debt or demand arising upon contract, judgment, or decree, unless the cause of action arose wholly within the limits of this State, which fact must be established on the trial. In order to obtain an attachment, an affidavit of the plaintiff, his agent or attorney, establishing one of the above causes of attachment, must be filed; also, an undertaking in double the amount claimed, to be approved by the clerk, must be given in all cases except against non-residents and foreign corporations.

Provision is also made by statute for attachment before a claim is due. Where a debtor has sold, conveyed, or otherwise disposed of his property, with the fraudulent intent to cheat or defraud his creditors, or to hinder or delay them in the collection of their debts, or is about to make such sale, or conveyance, or disposition of his property with such fraudulent intent, or is about to remove his property, or a material part thereof, with the intent or to the effect of cheating or defrauding his creditors, or of hindering or delaying them in the collection of their debts.

GARNISHMENT.—When the plaintiff, his agent or attorney, shall make oath in writing that any person or corporation has property of the defendant in his possession, or is indebted to him, he shall leave with such garnishee a copy of the order of attachment, with a written notice that he appear and answer, to be served personally, or by copy left at his usual place of residence. If garnishee is not a resident of county, written interrogatories to be prepared; if in the county, to appear in court for examination. A garnishee may pay money owing to defendant to sheriff or into court, and if he fails to answer, or his disclosure is not satisfactory to plaintiff, or if he fail to pay money into court, he may be proceeded against in a civil action by the plaintiff.—(Gen. Stat. § 200-219.)

KENTUCKY.—An attachment as a mesne process does not exist.

As a remedial or prohibitory process the plaintiff in a civil action may at or after the commencement thereof, have an attachment against the property of the defendant, or of a garnishee, who is a person holding property of defendant, as a security for the satisfaction of such judgment as may be recovered upon filing a bond with sufficient surety, and filing an affidavit setting forth any of the following grounds:

1. In an action for the recovery of money, where the action is against a foreign corporation or a non-resident of the State, or one who has been absent therefrom four months, or has departed from the State with the intent to defraud his creditors, or has left the county of his residence to avoid the service of process, or so conceals himself that a summons cannot be served upon him, or is about to remove, or has removed his property, or a material part thereof, out of this State, not leaving enough therein to satisfy the plaintiff's claim; or has sold, conveyed, or otherwise disposed of his property, or suffered or permitted it to be sold, with the fraudulent intent to cheat, hinder, or delay his creditors; or is about to sell, convey or otherwise dispose of his property with such intent.

2. Against the debtor, before the claim is due, where the debtor (1.) has sold, conveyed, or otherwise disposed of his property, or suffered or permitted it to be sold, with the fraudulent intent to cheat or defraud his creditors, or to hinder or delay them in the collection of their debts; or (2.) is about to make such fraudulent sale, conveyance, or disposition of his property with such intent; or (3.) is about to remove his property, or a material part thereof, out of the State, with the intent or to the effect of cheating or defrauding his creditors, or of hindering or delaying them in the collection of their debts.

3. Or before or after the commencement of action, upon filing affidavit that defendant has no property in State subject to execution, or not enough to satisfy plaintiff's claim, and that plaintiff is in danger of losing his debt by the delay in securing judgment and return of no property.

LOUISIANA.—Attachment may issue in the following cases:

1. When such debtor is about leaving permanently the State, without there being a possibility, in the ordinary course of judicial proceedings, of obtaining or executing judgment against him previous to his departure, or when such debtor has already left the State permanently.

2. When such debtor resides out of the State.

3. When he conceals himself to avoid being cited and forced to answer to the suit intended to be brought against him.

4. When he has mortgaged, assigned, or disposed of, or is about to mortgage, assign, or dispose of his property, rights, or credits, or some part thereof, with intent to defraud his creditors or give an unfair preference to some of them.

5. When he has converted, or is about to convert his property into money or evidences of debt, with intent to place it beyond the reach of his creditors.

It can also be issued before the debt is due. Creditor must make oath to the requisite facts, and give bond with security to secure the defendant against any damages he may suffer by the wrongful issuance of the writ. The rights and credits of the debtor may be reached by a garnishment process to the debtor's debtor, requiring the latter to answer interrogatories respecting his indebtedness to the defendant.

Seizure under attachment, when maintained, gives a privilege or lien on the proceeds of the property attached.

MAINE.—An attachment issues as a mesne or original writ against all the defendant's estate, both real and personal, in any action in which debt or damages are recoverable; and upon such property as has been attached, a lien is created which continues for thirty days after judgment.

Attachment of realty for less than twenty dollars is not valid.

MARYLAND.—Attachment owes its existence in this State to statute law; it is generally a mere ancillary proceeding to compel an appearance. Sometimes it is a kind of quasi execution, as an attachment on judgment, which issues against the lands, goods, chattels, or credits of the defendant.

Attachment on warrant is a remedy where there is no judgment, as against non-residents or absconding debtors, in which any property or credits that can be found may be executed upon, the plaintiff taking the required affidavit.

Attachment on original process will issue upon the plaintiff filing a bond with sureties and an affidavit setting forth that the defendant is about to abscond from this State; that he has assigned, disposed of, or concealed, or is about to assign, dispose of, or conceal his property, or some portion thereof, with intent to defraud his creditors; that he fraudulently contracted the debt or incurred the obligation; or that he has removed or is about to remove his property, or some part thereof, out of the State, with intent to defraud his creditors.

Attachments on warrant and original process are very special powers under acts of assembly, and must be strictly pursued in order to give jurisdiction. Under a recent law, wages of employees, to the extent of one hundred dollars, is exempt from attachment.

MASSACHUSETTS.—All the real estate, goods, and chattels liable to be taken on execution, may be attached upon the original writ or mesne process in any action in which debt or damages are recoverable, and held as security to satisfy such judgment as the plaintiff may recover; Provided, That no attachment of lands or tenements can be made on a writ returnable before a justice of the peace or police court, unless the debt or damage demanded therein exceed twenty dollars.

Goods, effects, and credits of the defendant in the hands of a third party may be attached by trustee process.

MICHIGAN.—An attachment as a mesne process does not exist. As a remedial process it may issue on the affidavit of the plaintiff, which must show not only that the indebtedness exists, but that it is then due. The affidavit must be made on the same day the writ issues, and must state positively, and not on information and belief, that the defendant is indebted to the plaintiff, and the amount thereof over all legal set-offs, and must state that the deponent knows or has good reason to believe, First, That the defendant has absconded or is about to abscond from this State, or that he is concealed therein to the injury of his creditors. Second. That he has assigned, disposed of, or concealed, or is about to assign, dispose of or conceal any of his property with intent to defraud his creditors. Third. That he has removed, or is about to remove, any of his property out of this State, with intent to defraud his creditors. Fourth. That he fraudulently contracted the debt, or incurred the obligation for which the suit is brought. Fifth. That he is not a resident of this State, and has not been a resident therein for three months immediately preceding the time of making such affidavit. Sixth. That the defendant is a foreign corporation.

When two or more persons are jointly indebted as joint obligors, partners, or otherwise, the attachment may be issued against the separate or joint property of such joint debtors, or any of them.

MINNESOTA.—An attachment as a mesne process does not exist.

A writ of attachment may issue, upon the plaintiff, his agent or attorney, making the affidavit that the plaintiff's debt was fraudulently contracted, or that the defendant is either a foreign corporation, or not a resident of the State, or has departed therefrom as deponent verily believes, with intent to defraud or delay his creditors, or to avoid the service of a summons, or that he keeps himself concealed with like intent, or has assigned, secreted or disposed of, or is about to assign, secrete or dispose of his property with intent to delay or defraud his creditors.

Before issuance of writs, plaintiff must give bond with sureties, in an amount to be designated by the judge, conditioned that plaintiff will pay all damages and costs that may be awarded to the defendant by reason of the attachment, not exceeding penalty of bond.

MISSISSIPPI.—An attachment as a remedial process may issue, upon the creditor, his agent or attorney, filing a bond with sufficient surety, and making affidavit setting forth one or more of the following grounds:

1st. That the defendant is a foreign corporation, or is a non-resident of this State.

2d. That he has removed, or is about to remove, himself or his property out of this State.

3d. That he so absconds or conceals himself, that he cannot be served with a summons.

4th. That he has property or rights in action which he conceals and unjustly refuses to apply to the payment of his debts.

5th. That he has assigned or disposed of, or is about to dispose of or assign his property or rights in action, or some part thereof, hindering, or with intent to defraud his creditors, or give an unfair preference to some of them.

6th. That he has converted, or is about to convert his property into money, or evidences of debt, with intent to place it beyond the reach of his creditors; or,

7th. That he fraudulently contracted the debt, or incurred the obligation, for which suit has been or is about to be brought.

MISSOURI.—An attachment as a remedial or prohibitory process may issue upon the plaintiff, or his agent, filing a bond, as in other States, and making affidavit, alleging one or more of the following causes:

1st. That the defendant is not a resident of the State; 2d. That the defendant is a corporation, whose chief office or place of business is out of the State; 3d. That the defendant conceals himself, so that the ordinary process of law cannot be served upon him; 4th. That he has absconded or absented himself from his usual place of abode in this State, so that the ordinary process of law cannot be served upon him; 5th. That he is about to remove his property or effects out of this State, with intent to defraud, hinder, or delay his creditors; 6th. That he is about to remove out of the State, with intent to change his domicile; 7th. That he has fraudulently conveyed or assigned his property or effects so as to hinder or delay his creditors; 8th. That he has fraudulently concealed, removed, or disposed of his property or effects so as to hinder or delay his creditors; 9th. That he is about fraudulently to convey or assign his property or effects so as to hinder or delay his creditors; 10th. That he is about fraudulently to conceal, remove, or dispose of his property or effects so as to hinder or delay his creditors; 11th. That the debt was contracted out of this State, and the defendant has absconded or secretly removed his property to this State; 12th. That the damages for which this action is brought are for injuries arising from the commission of some felony or misdemeanor; 13th. That the debtor has failed to pay the price or value of anything delivered, which by contract he was bound to pay upon delivery; 14th. That the debt sued for was fraudulently contracted on the part of the debtor.

MONTANA TERRITORY. — An attachment may be had on an affidavit.

That defendant is departing or about to depart from the Territory, together with his effects, with intent to defraud his creditors.

NEBRASKA.—The plaintiff, in a civil action for the recovery of money, may, at or after the commencement thereof, have an attachment against the property of the defendant upon filing an affidavit showing the nature of the plaintiff's claim, that it is just the amount which the affiant believes the plaintiff ought to recover, and the existence of one of the following grounds: 1. That the defendant, or one of several defendants, is a foreign corporation or a non-resident of the State; 2. That the defendant has absconded, with intent to defraud his creditors; or, 3. Has left the county of his residence to avoid the service of a summons; or, 4. So conceals himself that a summons cannot be served upon him; or, 5. Is about to remove his property, or a part thereof, out of the jurisdiction of the Court, with the intent to defraud his creditors; or, 6. Is about to convert his property, or a part thereof, into money for the purpose of placing it beyond the reach of his creditors; or, 7. Has property or rights in action which he conceals; or, 8. Has assigned, removed, or disposed of, or is about to dispose of his property, or a part thereof, with the intent to defraud his creditors; or, 9. Fraudulently contracted the debt, or incurred the obligation for which suit is about to be or has been brought.

An attachment will not be granted on the ground that defendant is a foreign corporation, or a non-resident of this State, for any claim other than a debt or demand arising upon contract, judgment, or decree.

An undertaking must be given, except where the ground of the attachment is that the defendant is a foreign corporation or a non-resident.

NEVADA.—Upon an affidavit being made an attachment will issue when it appears thereby—

That there is an actual bona fide existing indebtedness due from defendant to plaintiff on a contract for the payment of money payable in this State unsecured; or,

That defendant is a non-resident.

NEW HAMPSHIRE.—An attachment issues as a mesne or original writ against all the defendant's property, real or personal. The attachment operates as a lien on the property, and continues for thirty days after the rendition of judgment.

NEW JERSEY.—A writ of attachment may be issued if the creditor shall first make and file an oath or affirmation that he believes that his debtor absconds from his creditors, and is not, to his knowledge or belief, a resident in this State at the time. Then a writ may issue against the rights and credits, moneys and effects, goods and chattels, lands and tenements of such debtor wherever they may be found.

The property in this State of debtors who reside out of it may be attached here.

No bond is required upon issuing the writ of attachment; but no creditor shall receive any dividend on his claim from the property attached, until he shall have entered into bond to the defendant in double the sum to be received, with condition that he shall appear to any suit that may be brought against him by the defendant within one year after the date of the bond, and shall pay unto such defendant any sum which by the judgment of the court shall appear to have been received by him, and not due or owing.

NEW MEXICO.—The writ of attachment is an original process. "Creditors whose demands amount to fifty dollars or more may sue their debtors in the district court, by attachment, in the following cases, to wit:

First. When the debtor is not a resident of, nor resides in this Territory.

Second. When the debtor has concealed himself, or absconded, or absented himself from his usual place of abode in this Territory, so that the ordinary process of law cannot be passed upon him.

Third. When the debtor is about to remove his property or effects out of this Territory; or has fraudulently concealed or disposed of his property or effects so as to defraud, hinder, or delay his creditors.

Fourth. When the debtor is about fraudulently to convey or assign, conceal or dispose of his property or effects so as to hinder, delay, or defraud his creditors.

Fifth. When the debt was contracted out of this Territory, and the debtor has absconded, or secretly removed his property or effects into the Territory, with the intent to hinder, delay, or defraud his creditors.

Sixth. When the defendant is a corporation whose principal office or place of business is out of the Territory, unless such corporation has a designated agent in the Territory, upon whom service of process may be made in suits against it.

Seventh. When the defendant has fraudulently contracted the debt, incurred the obligation, or obtained the credit from the plaintiff by false pretences respecting the matter for which the suit is brought.

Any person wishing to avail himself of this writ may do so by filing with the clerk of the court a petition setting forth cause of action and an affidavit, which may be made by the plaintiff, or some person for him, in the following form:

TERRITORY OF NEW MEXICO, }
County of ——. }

This day personally appeared before me, the undersigned clerk of the —— Court, A. B. (or C. D., agent for A. B.); and being duly sworn says, that E. F. is justly indebted to the said A. B. in the sum of —— dollars, after allowing all just offsets; and that the said E. F. is—(setting forth one of the causes of attachment).

Sworn to and subscribed before me, this — day of —, A.D. —. } A. B.; or C. D., agent for A. B.

Clerk.

A bond also is required to be executed by the plaintiff, or some responsible person as principal, and two or more securities, residents of the county in which the suit is brought, in a sum at least double the amount sworn to, payable to the Territory, conditioned that the plaintiff shall prosecute his action without delay, and with effect, and refund all sums of money that may be adjudged to be refunded to the defendant or garnishee by reason of the attachment, or any process of judgment thereon.

The defendant may contest the truth of the affidavit, and if successful, the only effect is to dissolve the attachment as the suit proceeds, as if commenced by summons.

The writ of attachment runs against the land, tenements, goods, moneys, effects, and credits of the debtor.

Debtors of the defendant may be summoned as garnishees.

Service to be had as in ordinary cases; but if defendant cannot be served, notice by publication is made effectual.

NEW YORK.—An attachment, as a mesne process, does not exist; as a remedial process, it may issue in an action for the recovery of money, on the plaintiff filing a bond or undertaking, with sufficient surety; and it must appear by affidavit, that the defendant is a foreign corporation; or that the defendant is not a resident of this State; or that the defendant has absconded or concealed himself, or is about to remove any of his property from this State; or has assigned, disposed of, or secreted, or is about to assign, dispose of, or secrete any of his property, with the intent to defraud his creditors. The plaintiff at the time of issuing the summons, or at any time afterwards, may have the property of such defendant or corporation attached as a security for the satisfaction of such judgment as the plaintiff may recover. Provided always, that, in case personal service of summons shall not have been made, a service of same by publication must be ordered by the court within thirty days after such attachment shall have been issued.

NORTH CAROLINA.—An attachment, as a mesne process, does not exist; as a remedial or prohibitory process, it may issue with the original summons, or at any subsequent time, upon the plaintiff filing a bond, with sufficient surety, and an affidavit, establishing that the action is for the recovery of money against a foreign corporation; or for the wrongful conversion of personal property; or that the defendant is not a resident of the State; or that the defendant is a fraudulent or absconding debtor.

OHIO.—An order of attachment shall be made at or after the beginning of a civil action, for the recovery of money upon an affidavit of the plaintiff, his agent or attorney, stating the nature and amount of his claim, that it is just, and the existence of one or more of the following cases: That the defendant, or one of the several defendants, is a foreign corporation, or a non-resident of this State; that the defendant has absconded with intent to defraud his creditors; or has left the county of his residence to avoid the service of a summons; or so conceals himself, that a summons cannot be served upon him; or is about to remove his property, or a part thereof, out of the jurisdiction of the court, with intent to defraud his creditors; or is about to convert his property, or a part thereof, into money, for the purpose of placing it beyond the reach of his creditors; or has property, or rights in action, which he conceals; or has assigned, removed, or disposed of, or is about to dispose of his property, or a part thereof, with intent to defraud his creditors; or has fraudulently or criminally contracted the debt, or incurred the obligation for which suit is about to be or has been brought.

An attachment will not be granted on the ground that the defendant is a foreign corporation, or a non-resident of this State, for any claim other than a debt or demand arising upon contract, judgment, or decree.

In all cases, except where the defendant is a foreign corporation, or a non-resident of the State, the plaintiff must give a bond, as in cases of civil arrests,—supra.

OREGON.—An attachment, as a mesne process, does not exist; as a remedial or prohibitory process it may be issued in any action for the recovery of money or damages at any time before judgment, by filing with the clerk of the court, an undertaking, with one or more sureties, and the plaintiff, or some one in his behalf, making and filing an affidavit, that the defendant is either a foreign corporation, or a non-resident of the State; or has departed therefrom with intent to defraud his creditors; or keeps himself concealed therein with like intent; or has removed, or is about to remove his property from the State, with intent to defraud his creditors; or has assigned, secreted, or disposed of his property with like intent; or that the debt was fraudulently contracted.

PENNSYLVANIA.—Under Act of March 17, 1869, actions by attachment may be commenced when the debt exceeds $100. Plaintiff, or some one for him, must set forth the nature and amount of the indebtedness, and that the defendant is about to remove his property out of the jurisdiction of the court, with intent to defraud his creditors; or that defendant has property, rights in action, or interest in any public or corporate stock, money, or evidences of debt, which he fraudulently conceals; or that defendant has assigned, disposed of, or removed, or is about to assign, dispose of, or remove his property, money, rights in action, interest in public or corporate stock, or evidences of debt, with intent to defraud his creditors; or that he fraudulently contracted the debt or obligation for which such claim is made. Provided, That before such attachment shall issue, the plaintiff, or some one for him, shall file a bond in double the amount claimed, with good and sufficient surety, conditioned that if he shall fail to prosecute his action with effect and recover a judgment, that he shall pay defendant all legal costs and damages which he may sustain by reason of such attachment. These proceedings may be dissolved on application to the court, or a judge thereof, by the defendant disproving plaintiff's allegations.

Act of May 8, 1874, makes it the duty of any alderman or justice of the peace, for any claims not exceeding $100, to issue an attachment against any defendant, on application of the plaintiff, in any case where, by the provisions of law now existing or hereafter to be passed, no capias can issue, upon proof by the affidavit of the plaintiff, or some other person, that defendant is a non-resident. Plaintiff must give bond with security in double the amount of claim, conditioned, that if he fail to recover a judgment for one-half his claim, he shall pay to the defendant damages for the wrongful taking of any property over and above an amount sufficient to satisfy said judgment and costs; or if he fail in his suit, to pay defendant his legal costs and all damages sustained by reason of said attachment. Constable to take possession of property unless defendant, or some person for him, enter bond same as plaintiff, that he will pay the debt if judgment is obtained, or surrender the property. No other property to be levied on by execution. Exemption law not extended to such non-resident.

Domestic Attachment.—Under Act of June 13, 1836, this writ may issue against any citizen of the State who shall have absconded from the place of his usual abode, or shall remain absent from the State, or confine himself in his own house, or conceal himself elsewhere, with the design in either case to defraud his creditors. But before such writ shall issue, a creditor of such person, or some one in his behalf, shall first be qualified to the truth of the debt, and of the facts upon which the attachment shall be founded.

It is held, in Tobin v. Trump, 7th Phila., 123, that where the debts of the defendant exceed $250, that our domestic attachment law is superseded by the Bankrupt Act of 1867, and that the courts of bankruptcy have exclusive jurisdiction.

Execution Attachment.—Under Act of June 13, 1836, after suit and judgment obtained, all debts, dividends, deposits, goods and chattels in the hands of third persons as garnishees, due, owing, or belonging to the defendant, may be attached and held to satisfy the plaintiff's judgment, except "the wages of any laborers, or salary of any person in public or private employment."

Foreign Attachment.—Under Act of June 13, 1836, this writ may issue against the real or personal estate of any person not residing within the State, and not being in the county in which such writ is issued. May issue against foreign corporations. Common carriers not to be made garnishees with respect to goods in transitu. This writ may issue against legacies, distributive shares, etc., except those of married women. Plaintiff to give refunding bond to executor, etc. Judgment may be taken by default of appearance not before the third term of court after the issuing of the writ. Every such writ against real estate binds the same against purchasers, mortgagees, and judgment creditors. After a judgment obtained, and execution issued, the plaintiff must give bond before the sale, unless he allow the property to remain unsold for a year and a day after obtaining such judgment, as that time is by law allowed the defendant, by himself or attorney, to come into court and disprove or avoid the debt recovered against him, or shall discharge the same with costs. This writ extended to actions in delicto, by Act of May 15, 1874, in all cases wherein any person being a resident shall remove out of the State after having become liable in an action ex delicto.

RHODE ISLAND.—An attachment, as a mesne or original process, may issue against the real or personal estate of the defendant, upon an affidavit of the plaintiff, or some one in his behalf, endorsed on the writ, setting forth that the plaintiff has a just claim or demand against the defendant, and that the defendant has property which he does not intend to apply to the payment of the plaintiff's claim. In a civil action the original writ may be served by attachment of either the real or personal property, or both, whether at the time of service the defendants be in the State or not. Real estate cannot be attached upon a justice's writ, unless the debt or damages claimed exceed $20.

SOUTH CAROLINA.—An attachment, as original process, does not now exist in this State. Where, however, the plaintiff's action is for the recovery of money only, or for the wrongful conversion of personal property, an attachment may issue as a provisional remedy whereby to obtain security for the satisfaction of such judgment as the plaintiff may recover in the following cases:

1. Where the defendant is a foreign corporation, or a person not a resident of the State.

2. Where the defendant has departed from the State, with intent to defraud his creditors, or to avoid the service of a summons, or keeps himself concealed therein with the like intent.

3. Where the defendant (corporation or person) has removed, or is about to remove any of his property from the State, with intent to defraud creditors.

4. Where the defendant (corporation or person) has assigned, disposed of, or secreted, or is about to assign, dispose of, or secrete any of his property with the like intent.

In such cases, the facts being made to appear by affidavit, a warrant of attachment may be issued by the judge or clerk of the court in which the action is brought, upon the filing by the plaintiff of an undertaking, with sufficient surety, to the effect that if the defendant recover judgment in the action, or the attachment be set aside by the court, the plaintiff will pay all costs that may be awarded to the defendant, and all damages which he may sustain by reason of the attachment, not exceeding the sum specified in the undertaking. This sum is fixed by the officer who grants the warrant, and must be at least $250.

The attachment is leviable upon all the property, real and personal, of the defendant; upon his books of account, debts, credits, and effects, and upon his rights or shares in the stock of any association or corporation, excepting, in all cases, property exempt by law.

The property attached continues bound for the satisfaction of the judgment for 120 days after final judgment.

Several attachments may be issued at the same time to the sheriffs of different counties.

The defendant, if he shall appear in the action, may move for a discharge of the attachment, upon his delivering an undertaking with at least two sureties, who are resident freeholders or householders, conditioned for the payment to the plaintiff of the amount of such judgment as he may recover.

This undertaking must be for double the amount of the plaintiff's claim, unless the value of the property attached be less than the amount of the claim, in which case it must be for double the value of the property attached.

TENNESSEE.—An attachment may be sued out against the property of a debtor at the beginning of a suit, on the plaintiff filing a bond with sufficient surety, and an affidavit setting forth that the defendant is about to remove, or has removed himself or property from the State; or has removed, or is removing himself out of the county, privately; or conceals himself so that the ordinary process of law cannot be served upon him; or absconds; or is concealing himself or property; or has fraudulently disposed of, or is about to fraudulently dispose of his property to defeat his creditors; or where any person owing a debt resides out of the State, and dies, leaving property in the State. An attachment may be sued out upon a debt not due for any of the above causes, except non-residence.

TEXAS.—An attachment, as a mesne process, does not exist; as a remedial or prohibitory process, it may issue at the beginning, or at any time pending a suit, on the plaintiff, his agent or attorney, filing a bond with sufficient surety, and making affidavit that the defendant is not a resident of the State; or that he is about to remove out of the State; or that he has abandoned the country; or that he secretes himself so that the ordinary process of law cannot be served upon him; or that he is about to remove his property beyond the State, or beyond the county in which the suit has been or is commenced; or that he is about to transfer or secrete, or has transferred or secreted his property, for the purpose of defrauding his creditors. The plaintiff may also garnishee any debts due to the defendant.

UTAH TERRITORY. — Our only grounds for attachment in this Territory are—1. That defendant is a non-resident. 2. That defendant has departed, or is about to depart from this Territory. 3. That defendant has removed, or is about to remove his property from this Territory, with the intent to defraud his creditors.

VERMONT.—An attachment issues, as a mesne process, with the original summons, and the goods, chattels or estate of the defendant so attached are held to respond to the judgment rendered on such process — personal property being held thirty days, and real property five calendar months from the time such judgment shall be rendered; and unless the plaintiff shall, within the time specified, take such property in execution, the same shall be discharged from such process, unless such personal property or real estate be encumbered by a prior attachment, in which case the personal property may be held thirty days, and the real estate five calendar months after the encumbrance is removed.

No writ of attachment, however, will be issued unless sufficient security be given to the defendant by way of recognizance by some person other than the plaintiff, to the satisfaction of the authority signing such writ, that the plaintiff shall prosecute his writ to effect, and shall answer all damages, if judgment be rendered against him.

VIRGINIA. — An attachment as a mesne process does not exist; as a remedial or prohibitory process it may issue, upon the plaintiff filing a bond with sufficient surety, and an affidavit showing that the defendant, or one of the defendants, is not a resident of the State; that the defendant is removing, or intends to remove, his property, or the proceeds of the sale of his property, or a material part of such property or proceeds out of this State, without leaving sufficient property in the State to satisfy the plaintiff's demands.

WASHINGTON TERRITORY.—An attachment as a mesne process does not exist; as a remedial or prohibitory process a writ of attachment may be issued in an action pending whenever the plaintiff, or any one in his behalf, gives a bond with sufficient surety, and shall make and file an affidavit setting forth that the defendant is either a foreign corporation or that he is not a resident of this Territory, or has departed therefrom with intent to delay or defraud his creditors, or to avoid the service of process, or keeps himself concealed therein with the like intent; or that he has removed, or is about to remove any of his property from the Territory, with intent to delay or defraud his creditors; or that he has assigned, secreted, or disposed of any of his property, or is about to assign, secrete, or dispose of it, with intent to delay or defraud his creditors; or that the defendant has been guilty of fraud in contracting the debt, or incurring the obligation for which the action is brought.

WEST VIRGINIA.—An attachment as a mesne process does not exist. An attachment as a remedial or prohibitory process may be issued against the property of the defendant upon giving bond with sufficient surety, and filing an affidavit setting forth any of the following grounds: That the defendant, or one of the defendants, is a foreign corporation, or is a non-resident of this State; that he has left, or is about to leave the State, with intent to defraud his creditors; that he so conceals himself that a summons cannot be served upon him; that he is moving, or is about to remove his property, or a part thereof, out of this State; that he is converting, or is about to convert, his property, or a part thereof, into money or securities, with intent to defraud his creditors; that he has property or rights of action which he conceals; that he fraudulently contracted the debt or incurred the liability for which the action or suit is brought. A foreign attachment may be issued against a foreign corporation or non-resident who has property within this State. Attachments may issue whether the debt is due or not, but not against a foreign corporation or non-resident unless due.

WISCONSIN.—An attachment as a mesne process does not exist; as a remedial or prohibitory process, any creditor may proceed by attachment against the property of his debtor, upon the plaintiff, or some one in his behalf, filing a bond with sufficient surety and setting forth one or more of the following causes: 1. That the defendant has absconded, or is about to abscond, from this State, or is concealed therein, to the injury of his creditors. 2. That he has assigned, disposed of, or concealed, or is about to assign, dispose of, or conceal any of his property, with intent to defraud his creditors. 3. That he has removed, or is about to remove any of his property out of the State, with intent to defraud his creditors. 4. That he has fraudulently contracted the debt, or incurred the obligation respecting which the action is brought. 5. That he is not a resident of the State. 6. That the defendant is a foreign corporation. 7. That the defendant has conveyed or disposed of his property, or a part thereof, with intent to defraud his creditors.

WYOMING.—The plaintiff in a civil action for the recovery of money may, at or after the commencement thereof, have an attachment in the following cases: When the defendant, or one of the several defendants, is a foreign corporation or a non-resident of this Territory; that the defendant has absconded with intent to defraud his creditors; or has left the county of his residence to avoid the service of a summons; or so conceals himself that a summons cannot be served upon him; or is about to remove his property, or a part thereof, out of the jurisdiction of the court, with intent to defraud his creditors; or is about to convert his property, or a part thereof, into money, for the purpose of placing it beyond the reach of his creditors; or has property or rights in action which he conceals; or has assigned, removed, or disposed of, or is about to dispose of his property, or a part thereof, with intent to defraud his creditors; or has fraudulently or criminally contracted the debt, or incurred the obligation for which suit is about to be or has been brought; and in all cases not exceeding two hundred and fifty dollars, in which the debt is not otherwise secured, and which has not been paid within ten days thereafter on demand.

The order issues from clerk's office when there is filed an affidavit stating—

1. The nature of plaintiff's claim.
2. That it is just.
3. The amount affiant believes plaintiff ought to recover, and the existence of one or more of the above grounds of attachment, or that affiant has good reason to believe, and does believe, one of them to exist (stating which one).

The affidavit may be made by plaintiff or his agent or attorney.

An undertaking must be filed in all cases except where defendant is a foreign corporation or non-resident.

BILLS OF EXCHANGE AND PROMISSORY NOTES.

ALABAMA.—Bills of exchange and promissory notes payable in money at a bank, or at a designated place of payment, are governed by the law merchant, or common law; but a promissory note not payable at a bank is not negotiable, and is subject to any and every defence the maker would have to a stated account. When the amount due on a note not negotiable exceeds $50, in order to charge the endorser or assignor, suit must be brought against the maker in the county of his residence, to the first court to which suit can be properly brought, after the maturity of the note. To charge an endorser or assignor on contracts not negotiable, when the sum due does not exceed $50, suit must be brought against the maker within thirty days after such contract is due or payable; or if assigned or endorsed after the same is due, within thirty days after such assignment or endorsement is made.

ARKANSAS.—Bills of exchange and promissory notes are governed by the rules of the law merchant concerning commercial and negotiable paper.

CALIFORNIA. — The presentation, endorsement, protest, notice, etc., of bills of exchange and promissory notes are governed by the civil code, the law being very nearly the same as the common law. In payment no days of grace are allowed, and as to parties, the following statute has been adopted: "Persons severally liable upon the same obligation or instrument, including the parties to bills of exchange and promissory notes, and sureties on the same or separate instruments, may all or any of them be included in the same action at the option of the plaintiff; notice of dishonor may be given by the holder, or any party to the instrument who might be compelled to pay it, and may be in any form which describes the instrument with reasonable certainty.

The apparent maturity of a bill of exchange payable at sight or on demand is: If it bear interest, one year after date; if it does not bear interest, ten days after its date, in addition to the time which would suffice, with ordinary diligence, to forward it for acceptance. The apparent maturity of a promissory note payable at sight or on demand is: If it bear interest, one year after its date; or, if it does not bear interest, six months after its date. If payable a certain time after sight or demand, that time is added to the above periods.

COLORADO.—When any foreign bill of exchange which may be drawn for any sum of money expressing that the value has been received, shall be duly presented for acceptance or payment, and protested for non-acceptance or non-payment, the drawer or endorser thereof—due notice being given of such non-acceptance or non-payment—shall pay said bill, with legal interest thereon from the time such bill ought to have been paid until paid, and ten per cent. damages in addition, together with the costs and charges of protest.

If any bill of exchange, drawn upon any person or body politic or corporate out of this State, but within the United States or her Territories, for the payment of money, and expressed to be for value received, shall be duly presented for acceptance or payment, and protested for non-acceptance or non-payment, the drawer or endorser thereof—due notice being given of such non-acceptance or non-payment—shall pay said bill, with legal interest thereon from the time such bill ought to have been paid, and ten per cent. damages in addition, together with all costs and charges of protest.

Three days' grace are allowed all bills of exchange maturing within the State.

Bills of exchange maturing on Sunday, the fourth of July, Christmas, or any day set apart by the President of the United States, or the Governor, as a day of public fasting or thanksgiving, shall be deemed to fall due the previous day.

CONNECTICUT.—The common law, or law merchant, is in force as to presentation, acceptance, endorser, protest, etc. By statute, a promissory note, to be negotiable, must be for $35 or more, for the payment of money only, and payable to a person or order, or to bearer; and any negotiable promissory note, issued since October 1st, 1865, and payable on demand, which remains unpaid four months after its date, is considered over due and dishonored after that time. It is also provided that when the third day of grace shall fall on a day appointed by the governor as a day of public fasting or thanksgiving, or upon a fourth of July, or Christmas day, or the first of January, or twenty-second day of February, the note shall be payable on the secular day next preceding such holiday; and whenever either of said days fall on Sunday, all notes payable the following Monday shall be due and payable on the Saturday preceding.

Judgment notes are not in use.

DELAWARE.—The common law, or law merchant, is in force as to presentation, endorser, notice, etc. There are no special or peculiar provisions by statute.

Bills, etc., falling due on first of January, twenty-second of February, fourth of July, Thanksgiving Day, and Christmas, are presentable the secular day before.

FLORIDA.—There are no statutory regulations in regard to presentation, protest, notice, &c., of bills of exchange and promissory notes. The principles of the common law prevail.

Damages on foreign protested bills of exchange shall be at the rate of five per cent.

GEORGIA.—The common law has so far been modified that notice of non-payment and protest for non-payment or non-acceptance is not necessary, except when the paper is made payable at a chartered bank. And, further, an accommodation endorser is considered merely as a surety. When a public holiday falls on Sunday, the Monday following is declared by statute to be such holiday, and papers falling due on either such Sunday or Monday, become due and payable on the Tuesday following. In all other respects the common law, or law merchant, is in force.

Judgment notes are not in use in this State.

ILLINOIS.—No particular form of note is required, but the writing must show an undertaking to pay a certain amount, at a time certain, and to a person named, or to bearer, or to the holder thereof. Demand notes are not considered as over due until payment has been demanded and refused. No time of payment being specified, it becomes payable on demand. A note executed by several, though joint in form, is both joint and several. It must appear on the face of the note that the party simply signed as security, if he claims to be only a security. Notes, bills, etc., cannot be assigned on a separate piece of paper, so as to vest the legal title in the assignee, the assignment must be on the note itself. If made payable to bearer, transfer may be made by delivery, and the holder maintain an action thereon in his own name. If assigned before due, to a bona-fide holder, without notice of a defence, recovery can be had from the maker; but if assigned after due, the maker may make the same defence against the assignee that might have been made against the payee. Set-off will be allowed against any assignor, assigning after due, if such set-off might have been made against such assignor while the instrument belonged to him.

An indorsement without date is presumed to have been made at the date of the instrument. A note or bill in circulation, indorsed in blank, may be filled up with the name of any bona-fide holder, who may recover in his own name. Several indorsers, indorsing separately, are severally, not jointly, liable. It is unnecessary to give notice of non-payment to charge the assignor or indorser. In order to render the assignor or indorser liable, the maker must be sued, if solvent, and if not, neither suit nor demand is necessary. Suit, when brought against the maker, must be at the first term of the court after the instrument becomes due. Natural affection is not a good consideration. Days of grace are allowed on time notes and bills. The indorsement of a note takes, generally, the securities with it. Recovery may be had on or set-off made of lost instruments, lost while belonging to the party claiming the amount due thereon, upon the claimant indemnifying the adverse party. Notes made by married women may be enforced by suit against them separately, and their separate property held liable therefor, as though unmarried.

INDIANA.—Bills of exchange are governed by the rules of common law, that is the law merchant, in every respect.

Promissory notes, payable to order or bearer, at a bank in this State, are placed upon the footing of inland bills of exchange. Promissory notes not made payable at a bank, or payable in general, are assignable, but not negotiable in the mercantile sense, so as to bind the endorser. The maker can avail himself of any defence against the assignee which would be available against the payee, provided such defence arose before the maker had notice of the assignment.

To fix the liability of an endorser of a note not payable at a bank in this State, no protest or notice is necessary; but in order to hold the endorser liable to an action upon the endorsement, the holder must proceed against the maker and obtain judgment at the first term of the court after the maturity of the note, and prosecute the defendant to insolvency, unless in cases where the maker is notoriously insolvent at the maturity of the paper, in which case the endorser may be sued in the first instance.

Judgment notes are not in use. No judgment can be confessed except upon affidavit.

IOWA.—Grace is allowed on negotiable bills or notes payable within this State, and notice of non-acceptance or non-payment, or both, of said instruments, are required according to the rules and principles of the commercial law. A demand at any time during days of grace will be sufficient to charge an endorser.

Bonds, due bills, and all instruments in writing, by which the maker promises to pay another, without words of negotiability, a sum of money, or promises to pay a sum of money in property or labor, or to pay or deliver any property or labor, or acknowledges any money, or labor, or property to be due; also instruments which in terms prohibit their assignment; also open account of sums of money due on contract, are all assignable by endorsement thereon, or by other writing, but subject to any defence or counter claim which the maker or debtor had against any assignor thereof before notice of his assignment.

The assignor of non-negotiable instruments is liable to the action of his assignee without notice.

KANSAS.—The law merchant, or common law, is in force in this State.

Six per cent. statutory damages is allowed on all protested bills or notes.

KENTUCKY.—The common law is in force, in relation to bills of exchange. The endorser of a promissory note is discharged, unless suit is brought by the holder against the maker, if unpaid, at the first court held after its maturity, and prosecutes the maker to insolvency. Protest is, therefore, valueless to bind an endorser.

Promissory notes made negotiable and payable in bank, and discounted by State or National Bank, are placed upon the footing of foreign bills of exchange, and are governed by the rules of the common law as to protest and endorsements.

A party taking up a note negotiated and discounted by a bank, has all the remedies thereon which the bank had.

LOUISIANA.—The civil law prevails, and all rights and credits are susceptible of transfer, so that the transferee, even by parol, can sue in his own name. But in addition, bills of exchange and promissory notes are governed by the law merchant, which has been adopted as a part of the law of Louisiana.

The sum for which the note or bill is given must be written. If in figures, it will require additional proof.

Damages are allowed on bills of exchange drawn or negotiated in this State, and are on those payable in foreign countries ten per centum on principal; on those payable in any other State of the United States five per centum on the principal sum.

These damages are in lieu of interest, charges of protest, and all other charges up to date of notice of non-acceptance or non-payment.

From this date interest is allowed on principal and damages. Days of public rest, first and eighth of January, twenty-second February, Mardi Gras, fourth of March, Good Friday, fourth of July, twenty-fifth of December, and all Sundays.

It is provided by statute that accommodation endorsers are bound to the holders as other endorsers are bound. A person not a party to the bill or note, who endorses it, is presumed to be a surety, and he is bound without protest. The law merchant governs as to demand, notice, and protest of inland bills of exchange and promissory notes, as well as foreign bills; yet the usual mode is to protest by a notary. A copy of a statement of the manner in which notices of protest were served, attested by two witnesses, is, by statute, evidence of the facts stated by the notary.

Except as to the fourth day of March, all promissory notes and bills of exchange fall due and are payable on the day following the third and last day of grace; if the third or last day of grace be Sunday, or a legal holiday, and if the succeeding the last day of grace be also Sunday, or a holiday, then they are payable on the day following, not a Sunday or legal holiday. In giving notice of protest, the days of public rest are not counted. If two days of public rest follow the third day of grace, then the day following is computed the first after protest. Notes and bills falling due on the fourth day of March, on the contrary, are payable on the third (second day of grace), and notice must be given as above.

MAINE.—The law merchant is in force, subject to the following statutory provisions: On any promissory note, inland bill of exchange, draft or order for the payment of money, payable in this State at a future day, or at sight, and not on demand, a grace of three days is allowed. If the third day is Sunday, a day of public fast or thanksgiving appointed by the governor and council, the fourth day of July, twenty-second day of February, Christmas day, first day of January, or thirtieth day of May, two days shall be allowed.

If the fourth day of July, or any other of said holidays is Monday, and it is the third day of grace, or is Saturday, and the following Sunday is the third day of grace, four days shall be allowed.

In an action on a promissory note payable at a place certain, either on demand, or on demand at or after a time specified therein, the plaintiff shall not recover, unless he proves a demand made at the place of payment prior to the commencement of the suit.

If A places his name upon the back of a note payable to the order of B, before endorsement, he is liable as a joint promisor.

MARYLAND.—The common law is in force in this State, in reference to the contract of endorsement. And in order to bind the endorser, commercial paper must be duly protested and notice given; and the contract binds him only when all the requirements of the law are gratified as to demand, protest, notice, etc. The only exception to the endorsers not being liable is where the consideration is for a gambling debt. Judgment notes are not in use in this State.

MASSACHUSETTS.—The common law, or law merchant, is in force as to the presentation, endorser, protest, etc., except in regard to notes payable on demand, which are governed by statute, providing that a demand must be made within sixty days from its date, in order to bind the endorser.

MICHIGAN.—The common law, or law merchant, is in force as to presentation, protest, notice, etc.

MINNESOTA.—Bills of exchange and promissory notes are governed by the provisions of the common law, or law merchant. In cases of notes payable upon demand, a demand made at any time within sixty days from the date thereof, without grace, is by statute declared to be made within reasonable time, and an endorsee becomes liable upon notice of such demand and refusal to pay. In all other respects the common law is in force.

Judgment notes are not in use.

MISSISSIPPI.—It is provided by statute "that from the 1st of October, 1871, all promissory notes, and all other writings for the payment of money, or for the payment of any other thing, may be assigned by endorsement, whether the same be payable to order or assigns or not; and the assignee or endorsee may maintain an action in his own name. In all actions on any such assigned promissory note, bill of exchange, or other writing for the payment of money or other thing, the defendant shall be allowed the benefit of all want of lawful consideration, failure of consideration, payments, discounts, and set-offs made, had, or possessed against the same, previous to notice of assignment, in the same manner as though the suit had been brought by the obligee or payee." This destroys the negotiable character of commercial paper as understood by the law merchant, and places a note upon the footing of an open account or book account. In other respects, however, the common law is in force as to presentation, notice, protest, endorsement, etc.

MISSOURI.—The common law, or law merchant, is in force as to presentation, protest, notice, etc., without any material provisions by statute.

Damages are allowed on bills of exchange expressed to be for value received, drawn, or negotiated in this State, and protested for non-acceptance or non-payment, as follows:

1. Four per cent. of the principal sum, if drawn on any person at any place within this State.

2. Ten per cent. of the principal sum, if drawn on any person at any place out of the State, but within the United States or Territories thereof.

3. Twenty per cent. of the principal sum, if drawn on any person at any place without the United States and their Territories.

NEBRASKA.—The common law, or law merchant, is in force as to presentation, protest, etc. All negotiable notes, bonds, and bills are entitled to grace.

Judgment notes are sometimes, though rarely, used.

A warrant of attorney may be given to confess judgment.

NEW HAMPSHIRE.—The common law, or law merchant, is in force as to presentation, protest, etc. It is provided by statute, that upon a promissory note payable on demand, a demand must be made before the expiration of sixty days from the date thereof, without grace. To bind the endorser, notice of dishonor must be given the same as on a note payable at a fixed time.

NEW JERSEY.—The common law, or law merchant, is in force as to presentation, protest, notice, etc. There are no provisions by statute in any manner affecting the common law liability of drawer or endorser.

NEW MEXICO.—The common law, or law merchant, governs as to presentation, protest, endorsement, notice, etc.

By statute it is provided, however, that the rate of damage to be allowed and paid upon the non-acceptance or non-payment of bills of exchange drawn or endorsed in this Territory, when damage is recoverable, shall be as follows: If the bill be drawn upon a person, at a place out of the United States, twelve per cent. upon the principal specified in the bill, with interest on the same from the time of the protest; if drawn upon a person at a place in any of the United States, or Territories thereof, six per cent. with interest.

NEW YORK.—The law merchant, or common law, is in force as to presentation, protest, notice, etc. There are no provisions by statute in any manner changing the liability of maker, drawer, or endorser.

Judgment notes are not in use, and are unknown to the statutes or customs of trade.

Bills of exchange, notes, or contracts tainted with usury, or given for a gambling consideration, are void in toto, and a defence of usury can be made in the hands of an innocent holder for value.

NORTH CAROLINA.—The general rules, or requirements of the common law, or law merchant, as to bills of exchange, are in force. When a promissory note is endorsed, the endorser by statute is liable as a surety, and is not entitled to notice of non-payment by the maker.

Judgment notes, or rather the power to enter judgment on judgment notes, are void by statute.

OHIO.—The common law, or law merchant, is in force; no provision by statutes affecting the liability of maker, drawer, or endorser exists. A power of attorney to confess judgment, attached to a note, and forming a part of the same judgment note, is not negotiable, and when the note is transferred becomes invalid, and no power whatever can be exercised indirect for the benefit of the endorsee, and he holds the note as if no such power had ever been attached to it.

OREGON.—The law merchant, or common law, is in force as to presentation, notice of protest, liability of endorser, etc.

PENNSYLVANIA. — All bills of exchange, drafts, orders, checks, promissory notes, or other instruments of writing in the form, nature, or similitude thereof, drawn or endorsed to order, are negotiable by statute; also warehouse receipts and bills of lading, unless the words "not negotiable" are plainly written or stamped upon the face thereof.

All bills of exchange or drafts drawn at sight are payable on presentation, without days of grace.

All bills of exchange, notes, checks, or other instruments negotiable by the laws of this State, and becoming payable on Christmas Day, first day of January, twenty-second day of February, Good Friday, May thirtieth (Decoration Day), fourth day of July, all fasting or thanksgiving days under proclamation of the Governor of this State, or the President of the United States, for the general cessation from business, shall be deemed to become due on the secular day next preceding the aforementioned days respectively; and when first January, twenty-second February, fourth July, twenty-fifth December, shall either of them fall on Sunday, the following Monday shall be deemed a legal holiday; and all bills of exchange, notes, checks, or other negotiable instruments falling due on said days, shall be deemed to become due on the Saturday next preceding said days.

RHODE ISLAND.—The general rules and requirements of the law merchant, as to endorser, presentation, protest, notice, etc., of bills of exchange and promissory notes, are in full force.

SOUTH CAROLINA.—The common law principles of the law merchant apply in this State to promissory notes, bills of exchange, and negotiable paper of all kinds. The statute of 3 and 4 Anne, c. 9, is in force.

The following are special statutory provisions:

1. That all bills, foreign or domestic, payable at sight, are entitled to days of grace.

2. That any bill drawn for value received and protested for non-acceptance or for non-payment, shall carry interest, at 7 per cent., from the time the same became payable.

3. That the holder of a protested bill may have an action for principal, interest, and damages, against all the parties thereto, jointly or severally.

4. That the damages on a foreign bill, drawn upon a resident in the United States, shall be 10 per cent. on the amount drawn for; if drawn upon a person resident in any other part of North America or in the West Indies, 12½ per cent.; if upon any person resident in any other part of the world, 15 per cent., and all charges incidental thereto, to which the jury may also add the difference in exchange.

Digitized by Google

5. That all protested bills, where the drawers or endorsers are dead, shall stand upon an equality with bond debts.

6. That if the notary who has made protest for non-payment of any inland bill or promissory note be dead, or do not reside in the county where suit is brought, his protest shall be received as evidence of notice.

Judgment notes are unknown to the statutes or to the customs of trade in this State.

TENNESSEE.—The law merchant is in force as to presentation, protest, and notice of non-payment. There are some peculiar statutory provisions, however, that destroy the common law rights of recovery; for instance, an acceptor of a bill, or drawer of a note, may put the holder, who has received the note before maturity, to proof as to the consideration given for the paper; and if the defendant had any defence or set-off against the original payee, he can set up the same defence in the hands of a third party, provided the holder took the paper after maturity or before maturity with notice of payor's defences. The holder of such paper can, however, recover against such drawer or maker the amount he gave for the note or draft, and legal interest upon the same. The note of a third party, whether due or not, taken as collateral security, without a new consideration for the payment of a pre-existing indebtedness, is subject to all defences on the part of the maker. A note tainted with usury, in the hands of a third party, is subject to the same defence as if in the hands of the original holder.

These provisions virtually destroy the negotiability of commercial paper.

TEXAS.—The common law is in force as to protest and notice, but the liability of drawer or endorser may also be fixed by instituting suit against the acceptor of the bill, or maker of the note, before the first term of the district court, to which suit can be brought; or to the second term, on giving sufficient reason for failure to sue to the first term, after the right of action accrued. In bills and notes for less than one hundred dollars, exclusive of interest, suit must be brought within sixty days after the right accrued.

UTAH TERRITORY. — The common law, or law merchant, prevails. No statutory provisions.

VERMONT.—The common law, or law merchant, is in force as to presentation, notice, protest, etc. No provisions by statute changing the liability of drawer, maker, or endorser are in force.

VIRGINIA.—The common law, or law merchant, in its purity, is in force, with no provisions by statute in any manner affecting the liability of drawer, acceptor, maker, or endorser.

WEST VIRGINIA. — The common law, or law merchant, is in force as to presentation, protest, notice, etc. No statute affecting the liability of the drawer, maker, or endorser exists.

WISCONSIN.—The common law, or law merchant, is in force as to presentation, endorser, protest, etc., of bills of exchange and promissory notes. There is no statute affecting the liability of the drawer, maker, or endorser.

WYOMING TERRITORY.—There is no statute in force in this Territory, which in any manner changes the common law in reference to negotiable paper.

BILLS OF SALE AND DEEDS OF TRUST.

In several States a Bill of Sale is a favorite mode of encumbering personal property; but the law regards them with suspicion, unless the possession of property passes with the bill, or the bill is recorded.

A Deed of Trust is used for the conveyance of real or personal property to a trustee, for the use therein stated, and is a favorite mode in several of the States of securing the payment of money to a creditor.

ALABAMA.—Bills of sale and deeds of trust are in frequent use in this State. All conditional bills of sale, and those that create or retain a lien on the property, must be recorded, in order to give notice of the lien. Deeds of trust are valid between the parties thereto, but are void as to third parties, unless recorded.

ARKANSAS.—Bills of sale of personal property are in use, and are valid without being recorded.

Deeds of trust are governed by the same laws as mortgages; they must be acknowledged and filed for record.

CALIFORNIA.—Bills of sale are sometimes used in the conveyance of personal property, but are of no value as evidence of transfer, so far as creditors and strangers are concerned, without a change of possession. Deeds of trust are looked upon with but little favor, and are seldom used except by corporations and savings banks, and are governed by the laws relating to other conveyances of real property.

COLORADO.—A bill of sale is unknown in this State in encumbering personal property.

CONNECTICUT.—Bills of sale are not in use. Trust deeds are used for the conveyance of land to trustees, and are governed by the law relating to other conveyance of realty.

DELAWARE.—Bills of sale and deeds of trust are in use in this State, and are governed by the principles of the common law.

FLORIDA.—Bills of sale may be made and recorded, but are not necessary to the transfer of personal property. Deeds of trust are seldom used; when used they must be duly recorded.

GEORGIA.—Bills of sale and deeds of trust are in use in this State. But every assignment or transfer by a debtor of real or personal property to any person, in trust for the benefit of creditors, when any trust or benefit is reserved to the assignor, or any person for him, is void. Yet a debtor, though insolvent, may prefer one creditor to another, and to that end he may bona fide sell, in payment of the debt, or transfer by deed of trust, his property, provided any surplus be not reserved for his own benefit, or that of any other favored creditor, to the exclusion of his other creditors. Deeds and bills of sale to personalty may be recorded in the proper office where the maker resides; but such record being permissive and not compulsory, is not constructive or implied notice to any one.

By act of December 12th, 1871, deeds of trust to realty, and bills of sale to personalty, may be made to secure a debt, and although the vendor takes bond for titles back to himself, upon payment of said debt, such a conveyance shall not be considered a mortgage, but confers absolute title, not subject, however, to liens or other encumbrances against the estate of the vendee, until after failure to pay the debt by the vendor, provided the debtor, if a married man, first obtains the consent of his wife to such transfer.

ILLINOIS.—Bills of sale and deeds of trust are used for personal property only, and are subject to the same rules as chattel mortgages.

INDIANA.—Bills of sale must be in writing, and recorded within ten days. Deeds of trust are seldom used, and statute forbids sales under a power of sale in the instrument, without a decree of court; and hence deeds of trust are almost out of use, except as used by railroad corporations.

IOWA.—Bills of sale are in use in this State, but when the transfer of title or ownership of property is made to depend upon any condition named therein, they must be acknowledged and recorded the same as chattel mortgages, to be valid against existing creditors or subsequent purchasers without notice. When personal property is given for security, it is usually by a chattel mortgage thereon.

Deeds of trust are legal, but are in little use. Deeds of trust on real estate can only be foreclosed by action the same as mortgages.

KANSAS.—Bills of sale and deeds of trust are not used in this State, but they are not prohibited by statute.

KENTUCKY.—There is no particular form in use of either bills of sale or deeds of trust. But no deed of trust, conveying a legal or equitable title to real or personal estate, is valid against a purchaser for a valuable consideration, with notice thereof, or against any creditor, until such deed has been acknowledged or proved and lodged for record. All bona-fide deeds of trust take effect in the order they are legally acknowledged or proved and lodged for record. In every conveyance for the benefit of creditors, the trustee or assignee must appear in the county where it has been recorded, and take an oath to faithfully execute the trust, and also give bond with good security, payable to the grantor. Any person injured by breach thereof may sue on said covenant.

Assignments, in contemplation of insolvency, and to prefer creditors, are void, and may within six months be made, by proceeding in court, to operate as a general assignment for the benefit of all the creditors.

LOUISIANA.—Bills of sale are not used. Deeds of trust are not permissible under the laws of this State.

MAINE.—Bills of sale are in use. They need not be recorded even when given as security for debt. Deeds of trust are seldom used.

No agreement that personal property bargained and delivered to another, for which a note is given, shall remain the property of the payee is valid, unless it is made and signed as a part of the note; nor when it is so made and signed in a note for more than thirty dollars, except as between the original parties to said agreement, unless it is recorded like mortgages of personal property.

MARYLAND.—The bargainee under a bill of sale has to swear that the consideration in the bill of sale is true and bona fide as set forth in the same.

Bills of sale are good between the parties thereto, but void as against third parties, unless they are recorded within twenty days in the city or county where the grantor resides, or unless the grantee is in possession. Where goods are sold by grantor in possession, subsequent purchases of goods (though the proceeds of sales of goods covered by bill of sale) are not protected by the bill of sale, which only covers goods on the premises at the time of making bill of sale.

MASSACHUSETTS.—Bills of sale and deeds of trust are good between the parties thereto, but are not valid as to third parties, unless possession is delivered; and are not good for collateral security as against third parties, unless possession is delivered and retained.

MICHIGAN.—Bills of sale are in use, but are absolutely void against the creditors of the mortgagor, and subsequent purchasers in good faith, unless the mortgagee reduces the things mortgaged to his possession; or unless the bill of sale, or a copy thereof, be filed in the office of the city or township clerk where the mortgagor resides.

Deeds of trust of real estate, for money loaned, are used, but must be recorded as other conveyances.

MINNESOTA.—Bills of sale are in use, but are void as against third parties, unless accompanied by delivery, or duly filed for record. Deeds of trust are not in use.

MISSISSIPPI.—Bills of sale are not used.

Deeds of trust are in use. They must be recorded within three months, and are void against all subsequent purchasers, for a valuable consideration, without notice, and all creditors, until delivered to the clerk to be recorded.

MISSOURI.—Bills of sale are used in the conveyance of personal property, but they are void as against creditors or subsequent purchasers, unless accompanied by change of possession, or unless acknowledged and recorded.

Deeds of trust and mortgages of personal property are subject to same rule as to possession and record as bills of sale. Sale by virtue of a power passes the title of grantor without foreclosure by suit.

NEBRASKA.—In place of bills of sale chattel mortgages are generally used, which see. Deeds of trust on personal property are governed by the same laws as chattel mortgages. Deeds of trust on real estate are simply mortgages, and must be acknowledged and recorded.

NEW HAMPSHIRE.—Bills of sale are not in use; chattel mortgages are used instead.

NEW JERSEY.—Bills of sale are not in use, chattel mortgages being used instead. Deeds of trust are seldom used, though binding when duly recorded.

NEW MEXICO.—BILLS OF SALE.—The statute makes a certificate of sale to be signed by the vendor in the presence of two witnesses a necessary part of the evidence of title upon the sale of horses, mules, cattle, sheep, goats, or hogs, which certificate must contain a description of the property sold, and the price for which it is sold.

Deeds of trust are not in use.

NEW YORK.—Bills of sale are seldom used, except in the transfer of chattels.

Deeds of trust are in use in the conveyance of real estate.

Bills of sale containing conditions which may be construed to be in the nature of a security must be treated as chattel mortgages, and governed by the statutes relating to the same.

NORTH CAROLINA.—Bills of sale are in use, and are valid when duly registered.

tate, then where the mortgagor resides; or should the mortgagor reside out of the State, then where the personal property is situate.

OHIO.—Bills of sale are governed by the same law as chattel mortgages, which see. Deeds of trust are not often used.

OREGON.—Every sale of personal property, capable of immediate delivery to the purchaser, and every assignment of such property by way of mortgage or security, or upon any condition whatever, unless the same is accompanied by an immediate delivery, and be followed by an actual continued change of possession, creates a presumption of fraud as against the creditors of the seller or assignor during his possession, or as against subsequent purchasers in good faith, and for a valuable consideration, disputable only by making it appear on the part of the person claiming under such sale or assignment, that the same was made in good faith for a sufficient consideration, and without intent to defraud such creditors or purchasers. But this presumption does not exist in the case of a mortgage duly filed or recorded as provided by law.

Deeds of trust do not exist under the law of this State.

PENNSYLVANIA.—Bills of sale are valid in this State, but the possession of the property must be surrendered to the vendee, otherwise it will not be good as to creditors. Deeds of trust are seldom used in this State, except in cases of assignments for the benefit of creditors.

RHODE ISLAND.—Bills of sale are not used as mortgages of personal property. Deeds of trust are in use; those relating to real estate must be recorded, but those relating to personal property need not be recorded.

SOUTH CAROLINA.—Bills of sale are not necessary to pass title to any kind of personal property, nor need they be recorded. Where, however, the vendor remains in possession, reserving to himself an interest, the sale, unless in writing, is void as against subsequent creditors and bona-fide purchasers. Bills of sale, with proviso for redemption, where the property is delivered to the vendee, become absolute, if not redeemed within two years after breach of proviso.

Deeds of trusts, of real or personal property, must be in writing and recorded. Estates, real and personal, held in trust, are subject to sale under execution against the cestui que trust (the person for whom the trust is held). Deeds of gift of goods and chattels in trust to the use of grantor are void. The provisions of the English statute of uses are in force in this State.

TENNESSEE.—Bills of sale are in use; they must be registered.

Deeds of trust are used, and must be recorded, otherwise they are not valid against third parties. The statute fixes no time for recording them, but they take effect from the date of registration.

TEXAS.—Bills of sale are required by statute in transfer of cattle and horses; and where controversy arises as to ownership in criminal prosecutions, the absence of bill of sale is prima facie evidence of unlawful possession. There is no form prescribed, nor mode of execution. Bills of sale are not used to secure debts; deeds of trust are generally used for that purpose.

Deeds of trust must be recorded to take effect as to third parties. Upon the death of the maker of the deed the power of sale ceases; the lien may be enforced as a mortgage through the courts having probate jurisdiction.

UTAH TERRITORY.—BILLS OF SALE AND DEEDS OF TRUST.—Bills of sale rarely used. Deeds of trust become more generally used, but must be recorded.

VERMONT.—Bills of sale are not in use. Trust deeds are used for the conveyance of both real and personal property, and must be recorded in the same manner as other deeds.

VIRGINIA.—Bills of sale are not in use. Their place is supplied by deeds of trust, conferring powers of sale on the trustee, by which deeds either real or personal property may be conveyed.

A deed of trust to be valid against creditors and subsequent purchasers for valuable consideration without notice, must be recorded in the county or corporation wherein the property is situate, within sixty days of its being duly acknowledged and certified for record.

WEST VIRGINIA.—Bills of sale are not in use. Deeds of trust upon both real and personal property are resorted to instead thereof.

WISCONSIN.—Bills of sale and deeds of trust are in use, but all deeds of gift, conveyances, and transfers or assignments, verbal or written, of goods, chattels, or things in action, made in trust for the use of the person making the same, are void as against third parties.

Unless the sale and assignment of goods and chattels be accompanied by an immediate delivery and actual and continued change of possession, the same shall be presumed to be fraudulent and void as against creditors or subsequent purchasers in good faith.

WYOMING TERRITORY.—Bills of sale are used for conveying personal property, or rather as the evidence of such conveyance.

Deeds of trust are seldom used, and are governed by the law in relation to the alienation of real property.

CHATTEL MORTGAGES.

Where in Use, and the Law Governing the Same.

ALABAMA.—Chattel mortgages are in use, but it is provided by statute that all conveyances of personal property to secure debts, or to provide indemnity, are inoperative against creditors and purchasers without notice, until recorded, unless the property is brought into this State, subject to such encumbrances, in which case four months are allowed for the registration of the conveyance; and if such property is removed to a different county from that in which the grantor resides, the conveyance must be recorded in such county within six months from the removal, or it ceases to have effect after that time against creditors or purchasers of the grantor without notice.

It is advisable to have all mortgages of real or personal property executed with powers of sale, as such powers can be executed by any person who, by assignment or otherwise, becomes entitled to the property secured.

ARKANSAS.—Chattel mortgages in this State are subject to the same laws as other mortgages. They are not a lien as to third persons until filed for record in the recorder's office.

CALIFORNIA.—Mortgages may be made upon:

1. Locomotives, engines, and the other rolling stock of a railroad.

Digitized by Google

2. Steamboat machinery, and machinery used by machinists, foundrymen, and mechanics.

3. Steam-engines and boilers.

4. Mining machinery.

5. Printing presses and material.

6. Professional libraries.

7. Instruments of a surgeon, physician, or dentist.

8. Upholstery and furniture used in hotels or boarding-houses, when mortgaged to secure the purchase money of the articles mortgaged.

9. Growing crops.

10. Vessels of more than five tons burden.

The mortgage is void as against creditors and subsequent incumbrancers or purchasers, unless it is accompanied by the affidavit of all the parties thereto, that it is made in good faith, and without design to hinder, delay, or defraud creditors, and must be acknowledged, certified, and recorded in like manner as grants of real property.

COLORADO.—Personal property can be encumbered by a chattel mortgage, and the mortgaged property can remain in the possession of the mortgagor, if it is so stipulated in the mortgage; but the day the mortgage matures, the mortgagee must take possession of the mortgaged property, to protect himself against the rights of third parties. The mortgage must be recorded as other mortgages, deeds, and deeds of trust.

CONNECTICUT.—The owner of machinery, engines, and implements situated and used in any manufacturing or mechanical establishment, or of the presses, types, cases, stereotypes or copper plates of any printing or publishing establishment, or of hay deposited in a building, may be mortgaged, with or without the real estate. Also the occupant of any dwelling-house, having a family, may mortgage the furniture used by him in housekeeping, with or without the real estate.

The mortgage shall particularly describe the articles mortgaged, and shall be executed, acknowledged, and recorded in all respects as mortgages of land. It is then good and effectual, although the mortgagor retains possession of the mortgaged property.

If the debt to secure which the mortgage is given is not paid, the property may be sold by order of the court, on the petition of the creditor.

DELAWARE. — Chattel mortgages are not in use.

FLORIDA.—Chattel mortgages are in use; but it is provided by statute that no mortgage of personal property shall be effectual or valid for any purpose whatever unless such mortgage be recorded in the office of record for the county in which the mortgaged property shall be at the time of the execution of the mortgage, unless the mortgaged property be delivered at the time of the execution of the mortgage, or within twenty days thereafter, to the mortgagee, and shall continue to remain truly and bona fide in his possession. Mortgages of personal property are admitted to record upon the same proof as real property, or by proof being made upon oath, by at least one credible person, before the recording officer, of the handwriting of the mortgagor, in cases in which there are no attesting witnesses to the mortgage.

GEORGIA.—Chattel mortgages are in use. They may embrace all personal property, even a stock of goods, or other things in bulk, but changing in specifics; in which case the lien is lost on articles disposed of by the mortgagor up to the time of purchase, and attaches on the purchases made to supply their place. A mortgage executed on personalty not within the limits of the State, but afterwards brought within this State, is held good if recorded within six months after being so brought in.

ILLINOIS. — Chattel mortgages are valid for only two years; and only then when possession of such mortgaged property is delivered to, and remains with the mortgagee, or the mortgage be acknowledged and recorded.

INDIANA. — Chattel mortgages are valid where they are acknowledged as deeds of conveyance of lands, and recorded within ten days; all others are absolutely void as to all persons other than the parties thereto.

IOWA.—No sale or mortgage of personal property where the vendor or mortgagor retains actual possession thereof is valid against existing creditors, or subsequent purchasers, without notice, unless a written instrument, conveying the same, is executed, acknowledged like conveyances of real estate, and filed for record with the recorder of the county where the holder of the property resides.

A chattel mortgage invests the mortgagee with the title of the property, which can only be defeated by a compliance with the conditions. The continued possession of chattels by the mortgagor for his own benefit after the making of the mortgage, does not render it void as against other creditors; but there may be a retention under such circumstances as will be a badge or evidence of fraud.

Chattel mortgages to secure the payment of money only, in which the time thereof is definitely fixed, may be foreclosed by the times fixed in the mortgage, or by notice and sale similar to proceedings for the sale of personal property in execution, or by action in the proper court. Deeds of trust of personal property are considered as and foreclosed like mortgages. No deed of trust, or mortgage of real estate, with power of sale, shall be foreclosed in any manner, than by action in court by equitable proceedings. Deeds of trust, however, are very little used.

KANSAS. — Chattel mortgages are used. By statute it is provided that every chattel mortgage or conveyance, intended to operate as such, which shall not be accompanied by an immediate delivery and followed by an actual and continued change of possession of the thing mortgaged, shall be absolutely void as against the creditors of the mortgagor and subsequent purchasers and mortgagees in good faith, unless the mortgage, or a true copy thereof, is forthwith filed in the office of the register of deeds in the county where the property is at the time; or if the mortgagor be a resident of this State, then of the county of which he shall at the time be a resident. And every such mortgage shall be void as against the creditors of the mortgagor, or subsequent purchasers or mortgagees in good faith after the expiration of one year from the filing of the same, unless within thirty days next preceding the expiration of such year, and each year thereafter, the mortgagee, his agent or attorney, shall make an affidavit exhibiting the interest of the mortgagee in the property at that time, and the amount yet due thereon. An affidavit must be attached to and filed with the mortgage.

KENTUCKY. — Chattel mortgages are in use, but no particular form is required. Possession must follow, or the mortgage is prima facie fraudulent against creditors. They are foreclosed in courts of chancery, or other courts having chancery jurisdiction.

LOUISIANA.—Chattel mortgages are not in use in this State. Still, a great variety of debts are secured, in a special manner, by law and by the registry in the mortgage office of the evidence of the debt. The landlord has a privilege and pledge for his rent. The pledge is not required to be recorded, because repossession of the tenant is the possession of the landlord. The vendor of movables as well as real estate has a privilege on the things for the price. The furnisher of supplies and advances to a farm or plantation has a privilege and pledge on the crops to secure repayment of such advances. The lawyer has a privilege on the judgment he obtains, and the builder for work and materials. Privileges on the crops are given laborers on farms and overseers. Servants, clerks, etc., have privileges accorded them.

The law permits a sale, with the right of redemption; but it is a real sale, and the right to redeem is forfeited by non-compliance at the time agreed upon. This contract, like the pledge, requires an actual delivery and possession by the property sold. There are two conservatory writs given by our law to preserve these rights during the pendency of the suit. They are called provisional seizure and sequestration.

MAINE. — Chattel mortgages are in use; but it is provided by statute, that no mortgages of personal property to secure the payment of more than $30 shall be valid against any other person than the parties thereto, unless possession of such property is delivered to and retained by the mortgagee, or the mortgage is recorded in the town in which the mortgagor resides; or if the mortgagor does not reside within the State, then in the town in which the property is situated.

MARYLAND. — Chattel mortgages are in use, but they are not valid against third parties, unless the mortgagee reduces the things mortgaged to his possession, or unless the mortgage is acknowledged and recorded in the city or county where the mortgagor resides, within twenty days from the date of the same.

Chattel mortgages have the same incidents as bills of sale, excepting that the one is conditional, while the other is absolute.

MASSACHUSETTS.—Chattel mortgages are in use, and it is provided that they shall be recorded on the records of the city or town where the mortgage is made, and on the records of the city or town in which he principally transacts his business or follows his trade. If the mortgagor resides without the State, his mortgage of personal property within the State shall be recorded on the records of the city or town where the property is. Unless a mortgage is so recorded within fifteen days after its date, or the property mortgaged is delivered to and retained by the mortgagee, it shall not be valid against any person other than the parties thereto; and in no case shall it be of any effect against such person prior to such record or delivery.

MICHIGAN.—Chattel mortgages are in use; but in order to be binding against creditors, the property mortgaged must be taken possession of by the mortgagee, unless the mortgage be filed for record in the office of the clerk of the township or city where the mortgagor resides. The mortgage is not valid after one year from the date of the mortgage, unless the mortgagee, or some one in his behalf, makes an affidavit stating his interest in the mortgaged property, and annexes such affidavit to the mortgage, within thirty days previous to the expiration of the year. The affidavit must be renewed every year, otherwise the mortgage ceases to be a lien on the property mortgaged as against other creditors.

MINNESOTA. — Chattel mortgages are in use, and must be acknowledged in the same manner as mortgages of real estate, and filed in the office of the town or city clerk, otherwise they are void against creditors and purchasers without notice. The validity of the mortgage continues two years from the date of filing.

A note, or contract, or evidence of indebtedness, the conditions of which are that title to the article for which the note, etc., were given remains in the vendor, may be filed as provided for chattel mortgages, and has the like effect, remaining good for one year after due date of contract.

MISSISSIPPI.—Chattel mortgages are in use, and must be registered in the county where the chattels are situated at the time the mortgage is executed. The mortgage has no effect as against creditors of and purchasers from the mortgagor, until it is filed for record. Such mortgages may contain a power of sale by the mortgagee, and a fair sale made by him under such power, will bar the equity of redemption; such power, however, is usually vested in a disinterested party as trustee.

MISSOURI. — Mortgages of personal property are in use, but are void, except as between the parties thereto, unless the property mortgaged be taken possession of by the mortgagee, or unless the mortgage be acknowledged and recorded in the county in which the mortgagor resides.

NEBRASKA.—Chattel mortgages are void as against creditors and subsequent purchasers and mortgagees in good faith, unless accompanied by an immediate delivery, and followed by an actual and continued change of possession of the things mortgaged, or unless the mortgage, or a true copy thereof, is filed and recorded in the office of the clerk of the county where the property is.

They cease to be valid as against creditors or subsequent purchasers or mortgagees in good faith, after the expiration of one year from the filing thereof, unless within thirty days next preceding the expiration of the year, a true copy of such mortgage, together with a statement exhibiting the interest of the mortgagee in the property mortgaged shall be again filed and recorded.

Upon default in the conditions of a mortgage duly recorded, it may be foreclosed by a sale of the property at public auction, after twenty days' notice of the time and place of sale has been given.

Selling or removing mortgaged property by the mortgagor, without the consent of the mortgagee, is made a felony, and punishable by imprisonment in the penitentiary for a term not exceeding ten years, and a fine not exceeding five hundred dollars.

NEW HAMPSHIRE.—Mortgages of personal property are in use, but are void, except as between the parties thereto, unless the property mortgaged be taken possession of by the mortgagee, or unless the mortgage be sworn to by both parties in the form prescribed by the statute, acknowledged and recorded in the town where the mortgagor resides.

NEW JERSEY.—Chattel mortgages are in use, but are void as against creditors and subsequent bona fide purchasers and mortgagees, unless the property be taken possession of by the mortgagee, or unless the mortgage, or a copy thereof, be filed in the office of the register, or where there is no register, in the office of the clerk of the county where the mortgagor resides.

NEW YORK.—Chattel mortgages are in use, and constitute a lien upon personal property. They must be filed in the recorder's office of the town or city where the mortgagor resides, and the time of filing the instrument determines the priority of the lien. It must be refiled by copy within thirty days previous to the expiration of one year from the filing aforesaid, in order to continue its vitality as to third parties.

NORTH CAROLINA.—Chattel mortgages to a limited extent ($300) are valid when duly registered. The form is prescribed by statute.

OHIO.—Chattel mortgages are in use, and it is required by statute that they shall be filed immediately with the clerk of the township; and within thirty days next preceding the expiration of a year from the execution thereof, they shall be refiled, with a statement of the amount due and claimed, or such mortgages shall be void as to creditors and subsequent purchasers in good faith, when the possession of the mortgaged property is left with such mortgagor; the statute does not operate when the mortgaged property remains in the possession of the mortgagee.

Chattel mortgages, or bills of sale, must be deposited with the clerk of the township in this State, where the mortgagor, if a resident of this State, and if not a resident, then with the clerk of the township where the property so mortgaged shall be at the time of the execution of such instrument.

The mortgagee, before the filing of such instrument, must enter thereon a true statement of the amount of his claim, that it is just and unpaid, verifying the same before some officer authorized to administer oaths.

OREGON.—Chattel mortgages are valid against third parties when the property is retained by the mortgagor; provided the mortgage, or a copy thereof, is deposited in the office of the county clerk. Such mortgage, however, ceases to be valid as against creditors and subsequent purchasers or mortgagors in good faith, after the expiration of one year from the filing of the same, unless within thirty days preceding the expiration of the year, an affidavit, setting forth the interest which the mortgagee has in the property, by virtue of such mortgage, is made and annexed to the instrument or copy on file. The effect of such affidavit does not continue beyond one year, when a similar affidavit must be made.

PENNSYLVANIA.—Not in use in this State.

RHODE ISLAND.—Chattel mortgages are not valid unless the mortgagee takes possession of the property, or the mortgage is recorded in the clerk's office of the town where the mortgagor resides.

SOUTH CAROLINA.—Chattel mortgages are in use, and are governed by the principles of the common law. After forfeiture, the mortgagee may take possession. In order to be valid against subsequent creditors or bona fide purchasers, they must be recorded within sixty days. If there be two or more mortgages, the one first recorded stands as the first mortgage.

TENNESSEE.—Chattel mortgages are in use. In order to be valid against third parties they must be registered. They may be registered at any time, but it is best to register them at once, as they take effect from the date of registration.

TEXAS.—Chattel mortgages are valid between the parties thereto, but void as against creditors and bona fide purchasers without notice, unless recorded in the county where the mortgagor resides.

UTAH TERRITORY — Common rules prevail; no statutes in regard thereto; rarely used except where possession goes with the mortgage.

VERMONT.—Chattel mortgages, properly speaking, are not used in this State; but machinery attached to, or used in, any shop, mill, printing office, or factory, may be mortgaged by deed, executed, acknowledged, and recorded in the same manner as deeds of real estate, and have the same effect. Mortgages of such machinery may be assigned, discharged or foreclosed, in the same manner as is provided by law concerning real estate.

VIRGINIA.—Chattel mortgages, properly speaking, do not exist by statute. Their place is supplied by deeds of trust, conferring powers of sale on the trustee, by which deeds either real or personal property may be conveyed. But if they are used, to be valid against creditors and subsequent purchasers for valuable consideration, without notice, must be recorded in the county or corporation wherein the property is situate, within sixty days of its being duly acknowledged and certified for record, when they may be enforced in a court of equity.

WEST VIRGINIA. — Any personal property may be assigned in trust, or conveyed by mortgage, by writing signed and acknowledged; but will not be valid as against creditors without actual notice, only from the time the same is duly recorded in the county where the property is.

WISCONSIN.—Chattel mortgages are valid between the parties thereto, but void as against any other person, unless possession of the mortgaged property be delivered to and retained by the mortgagee; or unless the mortgage, or a copy thereof, be filed in the office of the town clerk, where the mortgagor resides; or if he does not reside in the State, then in the town where the property is at the time of executing the mortgage.

The mortgage ceases to be valid as against creditors or subsequent purchasers, or mortgagees in good faith, after the expiration of one year from the filing thereof, unless within thirty days next preceding the expiration of the year, an affidavit is filed, setting forth the interest which the mortgagee has in such property by virtue of the mortgage. And an affidavit must be filed in this manner every year, for the mortgage to remain in force.

WYOMING TERRITORY.—Chattel mortgages are in use, and valid between the parties thereto, but void as to third parties, with or without notice, unless the same is filed with the county recorder. The validity of the mortgage expires after one year from the date of its being filed.

DECEDENTS' ESTATES.

Claims Against the Estate of Deceased Persons.

ALABAMA.—Claims against deceased persons must be presented to the representative of the deceased, or filed in the office of the probate judge, within eighteen months, or they are barred.

ARIZONA TERRITORY.—The administrator is required to publish notice to creditors, to present claims within ten months.

The claim must be presented to the administrator within the ten months from the publication of notice, and if not so presented it is barred.

The affidavit of the claimant, that all offsets and counter claims have been allowed, is required.

If the claim is allowed by the administrator, it is then presented to probate judge for his approval. If approved, it is then filed with the probate judge.

If the administrator refuses to allow the claim, the claimant has three months within which to commence suit in the district court, when the same proofs are required as in other cases. Suits cannot be commenced until the claim has been presented to the administrator and rejected by him.

ARKANSAS.—Any person may exhibit his claim against any estate, as follows: If the demand be founded on a judgment, note, or written contract, by delivering to the executor or administrator a copy of such instrument, with the assignments and credits thereon, if any, exhibiting the original, if the demand be founded on an account, by delivering a copy thereof, setting forth each item distinctly, and the credits thereon, if any.

The claimant must also append to his demand an affidavit of its justness, which affidavit may be made by himself, his agent or attorney. If made by the claimant, it shall state that nothing has been paid or delivered towards the satisfaction of the demand, except what is credited thereon, and that the sum demanded, naming it, is justly due. If made by any other person, it shall state that the affiant is acquainted with the facts sworn to, or that he has made diligent inquiry and examination, and that he verily believes nothing has been paid or delivered towards the satisfaction of the demand, except the amount credited thereon, and that the sum demanded is justly due.

Claims properly authenticated and presented to administrator for approval, are, if judgments, placed in 3d class of claims; if ordinary debts, by note, account, etc., they are placed in 4th class; the funeral expenses are 1st class; expenses of last illness, medical bills, etc., are 2d class. Each class must be paid in full before any other class is paid, commencing with the 1st class claims.

All claims not properly presented to administrator within one year from date of letters, and presented within two years, are classed in the 5th class. All claims not presented within two years are forever barred.

CALIFORNIA.—Every executor or administrator must, immediately after his appointment, cause to be published in some newspaper of the county, if there be one, if not, then in such newspaper as may be designated by the court, a notice to the creditors of the decedent, requiring all persons having claims against him to exhibit them, with the necessary vouchers, to the executor or administrator, at the place of his residence or business, to be specified in the notice; such notice must be published as often as the judge or court shall direct, but not less than once a week for four weeks. The court or judge may also direct additional notice by publication or posting.

After the notice has been given, as required by law, a copy thereof, with the affidavit of due publication, or of publication and posting, must be filed, and upon such affidavit or other testimony to the satisfaction of the court, an order or decree showing that due notice to creditors has been given, and directing that such order or decree be entered in the minutes and recorded, must be made by the court.

If a claim arising upon a contract heretofore made be not presented within the time limited in the notice, it is barred forever, except as follows: If it be not then due, or if it be contingent, it may be presented within one month after it becomes due or absolute. If it be made to appear by affidavit of the claimant, to the satisfaction of the executor or administrator, and the probate judge, that the claimant had no notice, as provided by law, by reason of being out of the State, it may be presented at any time before a decree of distribution is entered. A claim for a deficiency remaining unpaid after a sale of property of the estate mortgaged or pledged must be presented within one month after such deficiency is ascertained. All claims arising upon contracts hereafter made, whether the same be due, not due, or contingent, must be presented within the time limited in the notice; and any claim not so presented is barred forever; Provided, however, that when it is made to appear by the affidavit of the claimant, to the satisfaction of the executor or administrator and the probate judge, that the claimant had no notice, as provided by law, by reason of being out of the State, it may be presented at any time before a decree of distribution is entered.

Every claim which is due when presented to the administrator must be supported by the affidavit of the claimant, or some one in his behalf, that the amount is justly due, that no payments have been made thereon which are not credited, and that there are no offsets to the same, to the knowledge of the claimant or affiant. If the claim be not due when presented, or be contingent, the particulars of such claim must be stated; when the affidavit is made by a person other than the claimant, he must set forth in the affidavit the reasons why it is not made by the claimant. The administrator may also require vouchers or proofs to be produced in support of the claim. No holder of any claim against an estate shall maintain an action thereon unless it is first presented to the executor or administrator.

When a claim has been rejected, suit must be brought within three months after the rejection, if the claim is due; and if not due, within two months after it becomes due; and no claim can be allowed which is barred by the statute of limitations. Every executor or administrator must, at the third term of the court, after his appointment, render an account of all transactions relating to the estate; and at the end of one year he must again render a full account of all the moneys collected and debts paid, so as to show with exactness how the estate stands, when, if there is nothing farther to do in the premises, a decree of final distribution is entered, the administration of the estate closed, and the administrator discharged; but the administration continues until all the affairs of the estate are settled, without regard to the length of time that it may take. Aliens are barred from claiming, after five years from publication of notice.

COLORADO.—The administrator or executor must fix a certain day or days at a term of the probate court within six months from the time of qualifying as such administrator or executor, for the settling and adjusting all claims against such decedent, he must give notice, by publication, for four successive weeks, in some newspaper printed in the county where such administration is had, and if there is no such newspaper, then by posting the notice in five public places within such county.

At the time appointed for the adjusting of the claims, if there is no objection made by the executor or administrator, or any party interested in the estate, the claimant then swears that his claim is just and unpaid, after allowing all just credits, and the same is allowed the claimant against the estate.

Claims against estates are exhibited by filing in the probate court the account or instrument of writing, or an exemplification of the record whereon such claim is founded. Formal pleading is not required, but the issue shall be formed, heard, and determined as in actions before justices of the peace. Executors and administrators shall exhibit accounts of their administration for settlement to the court, from which the letters testamentary, or of administration, were obtained at the first term thereof, which shall happen after the expiration of six months after the date of the letters aforesaid, and in like manner every two months thereafter, or sooner if required, until the duties of their administration are fully completed. The court can order pro rata payments to be made to the several creditors, upon each and every settlement made by any executor or administrator, if such executor or administrator has not money enough to pay them in full, or in its discretion refuse to direct any payment or distribution until the expiration of one year from the issuing of letters.

All claims or demands not exhibited within one year from the taking out letters testamentary, or of administration, shall be for ever barred, unless such creditor shall find other estate of the deceased not inventoried or accounted for by the executor or administrator; in which case his claim shall be paid pro rata out of such subsequently discovered estate, saving, however, to femmes covert, persons of unsound mind, or imprisoned, or beyond seas, the term of one year after their respective disabilities be removed, to exhibit their claim.

CONNECTICUT. — The courts of probate have power to direct executors and administrators to call the creditors of the deceased to bring in their claims against his estate, within such time as the said court shall limit and appoint, not exceeding eighteen months, nor less than six months, by posting notice to that effect on the public sign-post nearest to the place where deceased last dwelt, and in the same town, and by publishing the same in some newspaper, and by such further notice as said court shall order.

If creditors neglect to exhibit their claims within such time as shall be limited, after public notice given as aforesaid, they shall be for ever debarred of their demand against such estate.

Creditors not inhabitants of the State, may exhibit their claims against any estate which has not been represented insolvent at any time within two years after publication of the notice aforesaid, and shall be entitled to payment out of the clear estate only remaining after the payment of the claims exhibited in the time limited.

When right of action shall accrue after the death of the deceased, it shall be exhibited twelve months after such right of action shall accrue, and shall be paid out of the estate remaining after the payment of the debts exhibited in the time limited.

DELAWARE. — Claims against deceased persons are paid according to grade. An oath is exacted, that nothing has been paid or delivered toward satisfaction of said debt, except as stated in the claim itself.

Executors and administrators have one year from the date of taking out letters, to settle their accounts.

Creditors must present their claims, duly attested, before bringing suit, otherwise they will fail to recover.

On application of an executor or administrator, the register shall direct all persons, by proper notice, to present their claims in due form, and any one failing to comply with this order and notice, for one year from the granting of letters, shall be debarred from participation in the estate, unless there still remain in the hands of such executor or administrator a surplus beyond the claims theretofore presented in due form.

FLORIDA. — No particular form of proof is provided by statute.

It is usual for the creditor to make affidavit, and attach to the claim for presentation, that the debt or sum demanded is due, that the same is just and correct, and that no part thereof has been paid.

If suit is brought on claim, the same proof is necessary as in other cases; but the plaintiff cannot testify in suits against executors or administrators, except as to matters on which such executor or administrator may have been examined on his own behalf.

No executor or administrator shall be compelled to pay the debts of the testator or intestate until after the expiration of six months from the taking out letters testamentary or letters of administration; and if any person shall bring any action against any executor or administrator within the aforesaid six months, the plaintiff, although he may have obtained judgment for the amount of his demand, shall not recover any costs in his suit, nor have execution on his judgment, until after the expiration of the said six months; nor shall any execution issue on any judgment rendered against the deceased in his lifetime, without being revived by scire facias, nor until after the expiration of six months aforesaid.

No legacy or distribution shall be required of any executor or administrator until the expiration of six months from the time of taking out letters testamentary or of administration; nor shall executors or administrators be compelled to pay legacies or make distribution until bond and security be given by the person entitled to the same, to refund a due proportion of any debts or demands which may afterwards appear against the estate, and all costs which may be awarded against the same. Provided, That such debt or demand shall appear within two years after granting the letters testamentary or of administration.

And all debts and demands, of whatsoever nature, against the estate of any testator or intestate, which shall not be exhibited within the said two years, shall forever afterward be barred. Provided, That the executor or administrator shall, by an advertisement, to be published once a week, for the space of four weeks, in some newspaper printed in this State, give notice to all creditors, legatees, and persons entitled to distribution, that their claims or demands will be barred at the expiration of the period aforesaid, unless exhibited within the same; saving, however, to married women, infants, persons of unsound mind, imprisoned, or beyond the limits of the United States, in the military or naval service thereof during war, the term of two years after their respective disabilities shall be removed, to exhibit their respective demands to said executors or administrators.

After all debts and legacies have been paid, the property remaining in the hands of the executor or administrator shall be distributed according to the provisions of the law regulating descents.

GEORGIA.—Every administrator must give six weeks' notice, by publication in a newspaper, for creditors of the estate to render in an account of their demands. The administrator is allowed twelve months from date of his qualification to ascertain the condition of the estate. Creditors failing to give notice of their claims within a year after such qualification, lose all right to an equal participation with creditors of equal dignity to whom distribution has been made before notice of such claims is brought to the administrator. If there are assets sufficient to pay such debts and no claims of a higher dignity are unpaid, they may be paid notwithstanding the failure to give notice.

If the estate has been distributed to heirs, without notice of an existing debt, a creditor may compel the heirs to contribute pro rata to the payment of his debt.

The administrator is required to pay the debts of the estate, wholly or in part, at the expiration of the first year from his appointment. If partial payment is made the creditors of equal dignity share pro rata. Successive dividends to creditors should be made at the end of every year until the estate is paid out. If the administrator is a creditor himself, he must share with other creditors of equal dignity.

(PRIORITY OF DEBTS.)

1. Funeral expenses.
2. Necessary expenses of administration, including provision for support of the family.
3. Unpaid taxes.

Digitized by Google

4. Debts due by the deceased as executor, administrator, guardian, or as trustee.

5. Judgments, mortgages, and other liens created during the lifetime of the deceased, according to priority of lien.

6. Debts due for rent.

7. All liquidated demands, foreign judgments, dormant judgments, bonds, or other obligations in writing.

8. Open accounts.

Claims are proven by creditors making affidavit of their correctness, and that they are unpaid, before a justice of the peace, or notary, or some one authorized to administer an oath.

An administrator cannot be sued until a year after his appointment.

ILLINOIS.—Within six months after the administrator or executor has qualified as such, a term of the probate court is selected, and a day named as adjustment day, when and where all claims, whether due or not against the estate must be presented. If not objected to the claim is allowed on the oath of the claimant. If objected to, an issue is made, and a trial had before a jury. Claims presented after adjustment day are filed with the county clerk, and the administrator or executor summoned, and unless consented to by the legal representative, a trial is had as in the preceding case. In allowing claims the entry is in the form of a judgment against the estate, and appeals are allowed from such judgments to the circuit court of the county. All claims must be exhibited to the court within two years from the issuing of letters, or be forever barred.

Claims are divided into seven classes, and if there is sufficient estate, each class is paid in full in the order indicated, commencing with the first; and if insufficient to pay the whole, the demands in any one class are to be paid pro rata. 1. Funeral expenses. 2. Widow's or children's award. 3. Expenses of last illness, not including physician's bill. 4. Debts due the common school fund. 5. Expenses of administration and physician's bill in last illness. 6. Trust funds. 7. All other debts. Administrators or executors make final settlement at the end of two years, or as soon thereafter as the nature of the estate will permit.

The widow or minor children are allowed, in all cases, exclusive of debts, charges, legacies, or bequests (except funeral expenses), as her or their exclusive property—1. Family pictures, and the apparel, jewels, and ornaments of herself and minor children. 2. School books and library, worth $100. 3. One sewing machine. 4. Necessary beds and bedding. 5. The stoves and pipe in use, and necessary cooking utensils, or $50 in money. 6. Household and kitchen furniture, worth $100. 7. One cow and calf for each four members of family. 8. Two sheep for each member of family, and the fleeces therefrom, and one horse, saddle, and bridle. 9. Provisions for the family for one year. 10. Six months' food for the above stock. 11. Three months' fuel for the family. 12. $100 worth of other property, to be selected by her or them. They may elect to take in lieu of the above, the same property or the money in place thereof, that is exempt from execution. See EXEMPTIONS. ante. Or, they may elect to take instead of the specific articles enumerated, other property at its appraised value; or the whole amount in money, or part money and part property.

INDIANA.—Claims against estates of decedents must be proved, if in the form of note, by proving genuineness of signature by a witness other than the interested party; if in the form of account, by proof that it is correct and unpaid. Executors and administrators must settle within one year, unless, for good cause shown, time is extended by the court. Claims must be presented within that time or barred.

IOWA.—Claims against an estate must be entitled in the name of the claimant against the executor, naming both the executor and the estate, and are to be clearly stated and sworn to, and filed, and ten days' notice of the hearing thereof accompanied by a copy of the claim, shall be served on one of the executors, in the manner required for commencing ordinary actions, unless the same shall have been approved by the executor, in which case they may be allowed by the clerk without notice.

If not allowed by the executor, the court may hear and allow the same, or may submit it to a jury.

Our statutes do not limit the time within which executors must settle estates of decedents, though the spirit of the law is that it should be completed at as early a date as practicable consistent with the interests of all concerned.

Property exempt from execution is also exempt, and is set apart for the widow and minor children. And for the widow and minor children under fifteen years of age, the court may, if necessary, set apart such property as it shall deem sufficient for their support for a year from the death of the intestate.

As soon as the executors are possessed of sufficient means, over and above the expenses of administration, they shall pay off the charges of the last sickness and funeral expenses, next the allowance made for the maintenance of the widow and minor children, and other demands, in the following order:

1. Debts entitled to a preference under the laws of the United States.
2. Public rates and taxes.
3. Claims filed within six months after the first publication of the notice given by the executors of their appointment.
4. All other debts.
5. Legacies.

All claims of the fourth of the above classes, not filed and proved within twelve months of the giving of the notice of appointment by the executor, are forever barred, unless the claim is pending in the district or supreme court, or unless peculiar circumstances entitle the claimant to equitable relief.

Undoubtedly this clause would grant relief from the bar wherein fraud, accident, or mistake could be shown to have delayed the filing and proof of the claim.

KANSAS.—All demands against the estate of any deceased person shall be divided into the following classes:

1. Funeral expenses.
2. Expenses of last sickness, wages of servants, and demands for medicines, medical attendance during last sickness, and expenses of administration.
3. Debts due the State.
4. Judgments rendered against deceased in his lifetime; but if any such judgment is a lien upon decedent's real estate, and the estate shall be insolvent, such judgment shall be paid without reference to classification, except as to first and second classes which shall have precedence.
5. All demands, without regard to quality, which be legally exhibited within one year after granting letters of administration.
6. All demands thus exhibited within two years after letters.
7. All demands exhibited after two and within three years.

All demands not thus exhibited within three years shall be forever barred, saving to infants, persons of unsound mind, imprisoned or absent from the United States, three years after the removal of their disabilities.

Any person may exhibit his demand by serving upon the administrator or executor a notice stating the nature and amount of his claim, with a copy of the instrument of writing or account upon which the claim is founded, and stating the time when proof will be made in probate court, which shall not be within ten days from the service of such notice. Claims are proved the same as in other cases, except that claimant cannot be a witness in his own behalf.

The executor or administrator shall, within three months from the date of his bond, sell all of the personal property which is liable to the payment of debts of decedent; and as soon as he shall ascertain that the personal property is insufficient to pay the debts and charges of administering the estate, he shall apply to the probate court for authority to sell real estate subject to the payment of debts.

Executors or administrators to make final settlement within three years.

Real estate must be appraised before sale, and may be sold on order of probate court at private sale for not less than three-fourths, and at public sale for not less than two-thirds the appraised value thereof.

KENTUCKY.—All demands against the estate of a decedent shall be verified by the written affidavit of the claimant, or, in his absence from the State, by his agent, or if dead, by his personal representative, that the demand is just, and has never, to his knowledge or belief, been paid, and that there is no offset or discount against the same, or any usury therein. If any part of the demand has been paid, or there be any offset or discount against the same, or any usury therein, the affidavit shall state the amount of the payment or usury, when the payment was made, and when the offset or discount was due. No demand shall be paid or allowed without the requisite affidavit, and no action can be brought on any claim without the above demand and affidavit, unless the proof of the same is in the power of decedent's representative, and he refuses to make the affidavit, when action may be brought without it.

All accounts must be settled by personal representative within two years of his qualification, and as often thereafter as the court may require; and he is chargeable with interest on the surplus assets in his hands after the expiration of said two years. Failure to make claim releases executor or administrator. Claimant may sue heir or distributee, or other creditors who have received payment for an equitable adjustment.

LOUISIANA.—Claims on open accounts are usually proved by the affidavit of the creditor or his agent. The executor, administrator, or curator of the vacant estate usually knows the signature of the deceased, and requires no proof of the same. There is no law requiring this preliminary proof, and all that is needed is that the representative of the estate should be satisfied of the justice of the claim. But the claim, in order to recover costs, should be presented to the administrator or executor before bringing suit. If he has no objection to it, he writes on it, "I have no objection to the payment of this claim," or something equivalent. It may then be submitted to the judge to order it to be placed among the acknowledged debts of the succession. This last is rarely done. The money of the estate is to be deposited in some bank, when it can be done. Whenever there are sufficient funds, the executor or administrator can be forced to distribute it through an account called tableau of distribution. Accounts are required by law to be filed every twelve months until the estate is settled up. All claims are good against the executors and administrators or the heirs until they are barred by prescription. (Statute of Limitations.)

MAINE.—Claims against estates of decedents require to be presented in writing to the executor or administrator, and demand for payment made within two years from the date of his appointment, and thirty days before suit is brought, if the estate is solvent.

If insolvent, oath must be made to the account, and the same passed upon by commissioners appointed for that purpose.

No time is limited for the settlement of estates, but executors and administrators must account at the close of the first year and whenever required by the judge of probate. They are liable to suit after one year from the date of their appointment, and not after two years and six months, unless new assets come to their hands.

Whether or not there is any remedy by probate proceeding for parties who have neglected to make their claim and bring their suit within the proper time is much disputed, the latter opinion favoring such remedy when assets remain undisposed of in the hands of the executor or administrator.

MARYLAND. — No claim is discharged unless first passed by the orphans' court, or unless proved.

How proved:

1. Judgments proved by copy under seal, attested by clerk of court, with creditor's oath that it has not been paid.

2. Debts on specialties are proved by the instrument itself, or certified copy, with creditor's oath as before.

3. Claim of special bail for deceased is proven by his receipt.

4. In bills of exchange, the protests, etc., must be presented.

5. In claims for rent, the lease must be produced, or depositions of witnesses, or acknowledgments of deceased in writing.

6. Proof for rent in arrears, so as to make it a preferred claim, must be as above, with the additional declaration that distress therefor might be levied.

7. Claims on open account proved by creditor's oath annexed to the account, that it is just, and has not been paid.

8. Claims out of the State must be sworn to before a notary of the place, with proof, under seal, that said notary is bona fide or genuine, from the governor, or mayor, or some magistrate.

9. Claims on bond, note, bill, or account with a factor, where principal is not in the State, may be sworn to by the factor.

10. Personal claims of administrator, besides the ordinary vouchers, must be accompanied by his certificate that the books of the deceased do not show the debt to have been paid.

Time given Executors. — Accounts to orphans' court are required within twelve months after letters of administration are issued. If not then settled, a second account is required within six months, and so on, till settled. After the estate is fully settled, the administrator is not obliged to render a new account, except in desperate cases. Upon failure to give account as above required, letters of administration may be revoked.

Manner of Closing Accounts.—The administrator must pay all just accounts, or a just proportionable part thereof. Where all the assets have been paid out, the administrator is not answerable.

Effect of Neglecting to Make Claim.— It follows, therefore, that claims exhibited after settlement may not be paid, provided the administrator shall have given public notice in the newspapers six months before the distribution.

MASSACHUSETTS.—An administrator or executor has one year after his appointment in which to collect assets, before he is liable to suits for debts against the deceased, except such as would not be affected by the insolvency of the estate. It is his duty to settle and close up the estate within two years from the date of his appointment. Claims against the estate are barred by the statute of limitations, if not sued within that time.

If the estate is insolvent, upon a representation to the court of the fact, commissioners are appointed to receive and adjudicate upon the claims; and six months from the time of their appointment is allowed them for that purpose, unless the time is extended for good cause, by a special order of the court. Claims not presented within that time are barred. No special form of proof is required.

MICHIGAN.—After administrator is appointed, the probate court appoints two commissioners to hear, and allow, or reject claims against the estate. Notice is published of their meetings, which are fixed through a period not less than six months, nor more, in the first instance, than eighteen months. In case of disallowance by the commissioners of any claim presented, an appeal lies through the probate to the circuit court for the county. The probate judge may extend the time for hearing claims, if he thinks best; or if any claimant has failed to appear within the proper time, he may, if he deems best, reserve the commission, and prolong it for three months; or he may act upon the application himself as judge.

MINNESOTA. — Commissioners are appointed by the probate court, to whom all claims against the estate must be presented within six months from their appointment, unless the time is extended by the court. Where estate is under five thousand dollars, claims must be presented to a probate judge within the same time. An affidavit should be attached to the claim that it is just and correct, and due over and above all legal off-sets. Expenses of last illness, and funeral and administration, are first paid, other debts are in the following order:

1. Debts preferred by laws of the United States.
2. Public rates and taxes.
3. Judgments according to priority.
4. Debts to other creditors pro rata.

Affidavits, in this State, may be made before judges of supreme, district, common pleas, or probate courts, or clerks of said courts, county commissioners, register of deeds, notaries public, or justices of the peace, within their respective jurisdictions; out of this State, may be made before any officer authorized to administer oaths, whose official character is certified to by a clerk of a court of record. This certificate is dispensed with in cases of notaries public having a seal of office, and commissioners for this State.

MISSOURI.—Claims against estates of deceased persons are classified as follows, and paid in the order of their classification:

1st Class. Funeral expenses.

2d Class. Expenses of last sickness, including wages of servants, medical attendance and medicines.

3d Class. All debts, including taxes due the State, or any incorporated city or town.

4th Class. Judgments of this State rendered against deceased in his lifetime, and like judgments rendered upon attachments levied on the property of the deceased during his lifetime.

If such judgments are liens on the real estate of deceased, and the estate is insolvent, they must be paid without regard to this classification.

5th Class. All demands legally exhibited within one year after the granting of the first letters on the estate.

6th Class. All demands exhibited after the expiration of one year, and before the expiration of two years from the granting of first letters.

All demands not exhibited within two years are forever barred, saving to infants, persons of unsound mind, or imprisoned and married women, two years after the removal of their liabilities.

Demands may be exhibited, either—1st, by serving upon the executor or administrator a notice in writing stating the amount and nature of the claims, with a copy of the instrument of writing or account upon which the account is founded, and the claim is considered legally exhibited from the time of serving the notice; or, 2d, by reviving or commencing an action on the demand.

Claims exhibited by service of notice and copy of claim on executor or administrator must be presented to court for allowance, within three years from letters granted.

Demands may be established:

1. By judgment, transcript of which, whether against deceased in his lifetime, or against the executor or administrator, should be filed in the probate court for classification.

2. By presenting the demand to the probate court for allowance. Notice of presentation of demands for allowance must be given ten days before the term, unless notice be received. The claimant must also make oath in open court, or file an affidavit with his claim stating that—"To the best of his knowledge and belief he has given credit to the estate for all payments and off-sets to which it is entitled, and that the balance claimed is justly due;" or an agent may make the affidavit or oath, when he had the management of the business out of which the demand originated, or had means of knowing personally the facts required to be sworn to. But the affidavit must, in such case, contain a statement of the facts which authorize the agent to make it.

This affidavit or oath cannot be received as proof of the demand.

The claimant must, in addition to this, establish his demand by legal testimony.

NEBRASKA.—The probate judge, or, if desired by the parties interested, commissioners appointed by the judge, receive, examine, adjust, and allow all claims and demands against the deceased. Claims presented, if not admitted by the executor or administrator, must be proven by the deposition or oral testimony of witnesses in the same manner as upon suit brought, no person having a direct legal interest in the result of the proceeding being allowed to testify.

The probate court shall allow such time as the circumstances of the case may require, for the creditors to present their claims, which time, however, shall not be less than six nor more than eighteen months. This time may be extended as the circumstances of the case may require, provided that the whole time shall not exceed two years. On the application of a creditor who has failed to present his claim, if made within six months from the time previously limited, the court may for good cause shown, allow further time, not exceeding three months, for the examination of such claims.

Every person having a claim against a deceased person proper to be allowed, who shall not exhibit his claim within the time allowed for that purpose, shall be forever barred from receiving such demand, or from setting off the same in any action whatever.

Actions pending against a deceased person at the time of his death, may, if the cause of action survive, be prosecuted to final judgment, and the executor or administrator admitted to defend them.

The probate court shall allow time, not in the first instance exceeding eighteen months, for disposing of the estate and paying debts. This time may be extended as the circumstances of the case may require, not exceeding six months at a time, and not exceeding three years in all.

Every executor or administrator shall render a sworn account within one year from the time of his receiving letters, unless the court shall give permission to delay in consideration that the time for selling the estate and paying debts shall be extended, and he shall render such further account from time to time as the court shall demand, until the estate shall be wholly settled. He is allowed necessary expenses and commissions as follows: For the first thousand dollars, five per cent.; for all above that sum, and not exceeding $5,000, two and one-half per cent.; and for all above $5,000 one per cent. The probate judge may also grant a further allowance for extraordinary services not required of an executor or administrator in the common course of his duty.

Every executor or administrator may be cited by the probate court to render an account at any time after six months from the time of his receiving letters, when it is made to appear that there are assets in his hands which ought to be immediately paid over. If he fails to render an account within one year, as required by statute, he may be cited by the court to render such account, upon the application, under oath, of any person interested in the estate. If, after being duly cited, he shall neglect to render his account, or renders a false one, he shall be liable on his bond for all damages that may accrue, and may also be proceeded against as for a contempt.

Before the administration account of any executor or administrator shall be allowed, notice shall be given to all persons of the time and place of examining and allowing the same, and such notice may be given personally to such persons as the probate court shall judge to be interested, or by public notice under the direction of the court.

NEW HAMPSHIRE. — Claims proved by the oath of the claimant, in the form prescribed by statute, and a certificate of such oath, must be annexed to such claim.

Executors and administrators are required to present and settle an account of their administration within one year from the granting of administration; but they may file and settle subsequent accounts at any time after that, upon notice, and if they improperly delay, they may be cited before the judge of probate to settle and close up their administration by any person interested in the estate.

The administrator may present his private claim against the estate to the judge of probate for allowance at any time upon due notice. All other claims must be presented, if estate is insolvent, to the commissioner, within nine months from date of commission, but if solvent, to the administrator or executor within two years, and the same must be collected or sued within three years from the granting of administration. And all claims not thus collected or sued within three years, are barred by this special statute.

NEW JERSEY.—The executors or administrators give public notice to the creditors of the estate of decedent to bring in their demands and claims against the same, under oath, within nine months from the date of such notice; and if any creditor shall neglect to bring in and exhibit his demand or claim within the time so limited, after public notice given as required, such creditor shall be forever barred of his or her action therefor against such executors or administrators.

It shall be the duty of every executor, administrator, or trustee under a bill to state and settle his account in the surrogate's office of the proper county, within one year after his appointment, or at the first regular term of the orphan's court, after the expiration of said year.

NEW MEXICO.—Claims against estates must be presented to the probate judge, and notice given to the executor or administrator. Some proof required as in a court of common law.

Executors and administrators are required to exhibit a statement of the accounts of the administrators for settlement, with proper vouchers, to the probate court at the first term after the end of one year from the date of the letters, and at the corresponding term of such court every year thereafter until the administration is completed.

There is no time specified in which a claim should be presented; the usual practice is before the first settlement. Should a party fail to present his claim for allowance, he still would have his remedy against the heirs, legatees, or devisees, as there is no statutory bar.

NEW YORK.—The surrogate's court of the county in which the decedent may die, or leave property at the time of his death, has jurisdiction of the estate of such decedent, and in the case of an intestate, or the executor of a testator refusing to qualify as such, may, on proper application of next of kin, or a creditor, in case of neglect of next of kin to apply, appoint an administrator of the estate.

An administrator has one year in which to publish for debts due to and settle the estate, and on application to the court has six months longer, in case he has neglected to so publish.

Claims against an estate must be verified and filed with the administrator at any time before the expiration of the time stated in his published notice for debts, which must be at least six months from the date of the first publication of such notice; and in case any claim be disputed or refused of payment by the administrator, it will be barred, except as against the property of the heirs or legatees individually, unless it be prosecuted by action at law, within six months after such refusal or disputation.

The estate is closed by the order of the court to that effect, on the return and hearing of a citation to all concerned, for a final accounting, after which the proceedings can only be opened and revived on good cause shown to the court, and in which injustice or fraud must appear to have been done or perpetrated upon the rights of some of those concerned in the distribution of the estate.

NORTH CAROLINA. — When a claim against the estate of a decedent is presented to an executor or administrator, he may admit it if he think it just, or may require the affidavit of the claimant. If still not satisfied, he may, by agreement, refer it to the arbitrament of not more than three persons. If such agreement cannot be made, the debt or other claim will have to be proved on a suit in the usual manner.

Two years is the time allowed for the settlement of an estate. The settlement is to be made by filing an account current before the judge of probate. The time may be prolonged if absolutely necessary. Seven years will bar a claim when not presented within that time, if the executor or administrator has made advertisement, as it is his duty to do.

OHIO.—Affidavits should be attached to all claims against deceased parties, which affidavits may be made before any officer authorized to administer oaths, and should state that the claim is just and lawful; what payments, if any, have been made thereon, or that none have been made; what offsets, if any, exist against it, or that none exist; what security, if any, the claimant holds, or that he has none; and the time from which interest is claimed. Accounts should be itemized, and attested copies of bills of exchange, etc., should be attached.

OREGON.—Every executor or administrator must, immediately after his appointment, publish a notice thereof in some newspaper published in the county, for four successive weeks. Such notice requires all persons having claims against the estate to present them to the administrator or executor within six months from the date of such notice, with the proper vouchers. A claim not presented within six months is not barred, but it cannot be paid until the claims presented within that period have been satisfied. If a claim is not due or contingent, it must, nevertheless, be presented until administration has been completed. A claim against the estate may be presented, allowed, and paid out of any assets not otherwise appropriated or liable.

Every claim must be verified by the affidavit of the claimant, or some one on his behalf who has personal knowledge of the facts, to the effect that the amount claimed is justly due, that no payments have been made thereon except as stated, and that there is no just counter claim to the same.

There is no specified time in which estates are required to be settled.

PENNSYLVANIA.—CLAIMS.—How proven. Time given executors and administrators to settle. Manner of closing accounts, and effect of neglecting to make claim against the estate.

How proven.—If the estate be solvent, and there be sufficient personal property to pay all the debts of decedent, the executor or administrator may pay claims duly verified by affidavit. If there be insufficient personal property, and the executor or administrator apply to the orphans' court for leave to sell the real estate, the custom is for the court to appoint an auditor to make distribution of the fund, to whom all claims are produced and proven by examination under oath, or by affidavit attached to the claim. If the estate be insolvent, all claims are proven before an auditor appointed by the court for the purpose of making a pro rata distribution, either by an examination under oath in person, or by affidavit attached to the claim. Where a claim is disputed, a personal examination may be insisted upon.

Time Given.—Executors and administrators have one full year to settle their estates, and such further time as may be necessary. They cannot be compelled to pay any debt except such as are by law preferred in the order of payment to rents, until one whole year is fully elapsed from the granting of administration of the estate. The preferred claims are—funeral expenses, medicines furnished, medical attendance during last illness, and menial servants' wages, not exceeding one year.

Manner of Closing Accounts—is by filing account, duly verified by affidavit, in the office of register of wills. The executor or administrator charges himself with the personal property as appraised, and the advance, if any there be, on the sale of the same. Also with all cash or collections omitted from the inventory. He asks credit for any loss on the sale of the appraised property, for the disbursements he has made, and the expenses incidental to the settlement of the estate, and compensation for services. The effect is to show the balance of assets in executor's or administrator's hands. The administrator has nothing to do with the real estate unless the personalty be insufficient to pay the debts. These accounts must be filed in the register's office thirty days before the next stated meeting of the orphans' court, are advertised by the register, and on a day certain, commonly called orphans' court day, presented to the orphans' court for confirmation, which will be done unless there be some irregularity or overcharge in the account or exceptions filed thereto.

After confirmation of the account the executor or administrator may proceed to pay out the fund, unless the estate be insolvent, when an auditor must be appointed to make a distribution of the assets, whose report must be confirmed by the court before the executor or administrator can pay out the fund. If exceptions are filed to an account, the matter is referred to an auditor, or passed upon by the court as the exceptants may desire. In Philadelphia and some other counties the practice is to refer all accounts to auditors for distribution, or where there are exceptions filed to the account, to refer the exceptions to an auditor to pass upon the same. The account of an administrator which has been finally settled cannot be opened for correction after five years from its confirmation. After the lapse of twenty years there is a legal presumption that an account has been settled, the assets marshalled, and the money paid over; which legal presumption must be rebutted by actual proof before the same can be inquired into by the court. Where an estate is large, and there be litigation to be settled in the courts, it is customary to file a "partial" account, and from time to time "further" or "supplemental" accounts, until the executor or administrator is prepared, and then to file his "final" account.

Effect of Neglecting to make Claim against the Estate.—If there be an insufficiency of assets an auditor is appointed to make distribution, who gives public notice by advertisement, and any creditor neglecting to present and prove his claim, loses his right to a dividend.

Relations and persons concerned in intestates' estates, who shall not lay any legal claim to their respective shares of the personal estate within seven years after the decease of the intestate, shall be debarred from the same forever, unless they be within the age of twenty-one years or married, and in that event must put in their claims within seven years after coming of age or discoverture.

No debts, except such as are secured by mortgage or judgment, are liens against an intestate's estate longer than five years from his death. A creditor, who by his own laches, neglects to file his claim until after the executor or administrator has filed his account, distributed the fund, and obtained his discharge, will have to follow the fund where he may find it, at the risk of losing his claim. The creditor would be at the expense of re-administration, and a suit against the heirs who received the fund. Executors and administrators have one year to settle their accounts, and all claims should be presented to them within that time at the risk of their loss on failure so to do.

RHODE ISLAND.—There is a court of probate in each town and city in the State, which has exclusive jurisdiction over estates of deceased persons. Claims against insolvent estates are proven before commissioners appointed by the court. Claims against solvent estates, if disputed, may be proved at other courts, by actions commenced against the executor or administrator. Suits cannot be commenced against the executor or administrator within one year, or after three years after the appointment of such executor or administrator. Three years are allowed the executor or administrator to settle the estate. If claim is not made against the executor or administrator before his account is settled, the claim can nevertheless be enforced by suit against the heirs by attachment of unconveyed property of the decedent.

SOUTH CAROLINA. — Executors and administrators are allowed twelve months, reckoning from the probate of the will or grant of administration, within which to ascertain the debts due from the deceased. It is made their duty to give three weeks' notice, by advertisement, for creditors to render an account of their demands, duly attested. If any creditor neglects to render a statement of his debt within the twelve months, the executor or administrator is not liable to make good the same, but may proceed to close up the estate irrespective of such debt. It is held, however, that so long as assets remain in the hands of the executor or administrator, the creditor may reach them.

Debts are required to be paid and are preferred in the following order:

1. Funeral expenses, charges of last illness, and administration expenses.
2. Debts due to the public.
3. Judgments, mortgages, and executions—the oldest first.
4. Rent.
5. Bonds and debts by specialty.
6. Debts by simple contract.

Digitized by Google

By act of March 9, 1874, bonds and debts by specialty, and debts by simple contract, created since the passage of the act, are put on the same footing.

Executors and administrators cannot be sued for the recovery of debts, until after nine months from the death of the testator or intestate.

They are required to make returns to the probate court annually, at the first court held after January 1st of each year, showing the amounts received and disbursed during the preceding year. When the estate is closed they make a final return, and after citation may obtain letters dismissory.

TENNESSEE.—When not contested, an affidavit that the claim is just and correct is sufficient proof of it. Debts due by specialty need no proof. Two years and six months, from the date of qualification, are allowed administrators to settle their accounts, and all claims not sued on within this time are barred. An administrator cannot be sued until the expiration of six months after his qualification; and if suit is brought against him within this time, he must plead the prematurity of the suit in abatement, otherwise he will be guilty of a devastavit.

TEXAS.—Claims against estates of decedents must be presented to administrator or executor for allowance, with an affidavit attached, to the effect: That said claim is a just debt against the estate, and that the same is due and unpaid after deducting all payments, credits, and set-offs to affiant known. This affidavit must be made by the owner, his agent or attorney, before some officer having a seal of office, and generally authorized to administer oaths. If the administrator or executor allows the claim, it must then be presented to the district court, or in vacation, to the district clerk, for approval. If a claim be rejected and a claimant desires to contest the same, he must institute suit thereon within ninety days after its objection, or the claim will be barred.

All claims not presented to the administrator or executor within twelve months from the date of his qualification, will be postponed until those presented within that time are paid.

An estate cannot be closed earlier than twelve months, but may be closed at any time thereafter, whenever its condition will permit.

Administrators and executors are required to present annual accounts, which are inspected and passed upon by the court; and when the estate is ready to be closed they present a final account, which undergoes inspection by the court, and the assets of the estate are distributed under the orders of the court. The marshalling and collection of assets, as well as litigation, may, and frequently do, prevent the closing of estates for years, and no time certain is fixed within which they are compelled to be wound up.

Claims not presented before closing of administration may be recovered against the distributors of the estate, provided the same are not barred by the general law of limitation.

VERMONT—Claims against estates of deceased persons are proved before commissioners, two or three in number, who are appointed by the probate court in each estate.

The commissioners give notice by publication, by pasting up notices in public places, of the time and place when and where they will attend to taking the proofs of claims against the estate, and claimants appear and prove their claims as in any other court of justice.

A period of not more than eighteen months, nor less than six months, is allowed for the presentation and proof of these claims in the first instance.

The court has discretionary power to grant a longer time.

Digitized by Google

Appeal can be taken from the judgment of the commissioners to the county court in cases where the sum allowed or disallowed exceeds twenty dollars. Neglect to prove a claim before the commissioners till the settlement of the estate is closed bars the claimant. Executors and administrators are allowed one year to settle their estates. This time may be extended by order of the court for cause. The administrator or executor is charged with the property of the estate, and credited with payment of debts proved, and other necessary disbursements and expenses, and accounts for the balance in accordance with the order of probate court, or decree of distribution.

Debts are payable as follows:

1. Necessary funeral expenses.
2. The expenses of last sickness.
3. Taxes.
4. Debts due to the State.
5. Debts due to the United States.
6. Debts due to other creditors.

VIRGINIA.—Courts of chancery jurisdiction have cognizance of, and general supervision over, the settlement of estates.

Annual settlements of accounts of personal representatives are made, ex parte, before a commissioner in chancery, who reports to the court. The commissioner also appoints a time and place of receiving proof of claims, giving public notice thereof, adjourning from time to time, and reporting within a year. No particular mode of verifying claims is prescribed. Payments are made upon his report, when confirmed by the court. The court may order sufficient fund reserved to pay debts in full, or ratably, of which proof has been deferred. But earlier dividends are not to be disturbed in favor of claims subsequently allowed. After two years from the qualification of executor or administrator, the court, upon motion of any distributee, will order final distribution, unless cause be shown against it.

WEST VIRGINIA.—Claims against estates of decedents may be proven by affidavit of creditor. If disallowed by administrator or executor, may be sued upon. Administrators and executors are allowed one year in which to settle estate before suit can be brought. No limited time in which creditor is obliged to prove his claim only as the same may be barred by the statute of limitations. But administrators or executors are not bound beyond the amount of funds which come into their hands; may require distributee to give refunding bond when distribution is made.

WISCONSIN. — In all cases, except when there are no debts, or when the value of the whole estate, exclusive of the furniture and personal property allowed to the widow does not exceed one hundred and fifty dollars, the county court appoints, upon the application of an interested party, two or more commissioners to examine and adjust all claims against the estate of a deceased person.

The commissioners are required to give public notice of the times and places of their meetings within sixty days after their appointment, and creditors are required to present their claims for adjustment to the commissioners, the time limited for that purpose being not less than four, nor more than twelve months.

On the application of a creditor who has failed to present his claim—if such application is made within two months from the time limited—the court is allowed to extend the time for such presentation and adjustment, not exceeding one month.

Creditors failing to present their claims within the time limited are forever barred from the recovery thereof.

The commissioners are required, at the expiration of the time limited, or as soon thereafter as they shall have time to complete the hearing of the claims presented, to make a report to the county court of the claims allowed and disallowed, together with the final balance.

Two months after the time allowed to creditors to present their claims, the executor or administrator is required to render his account; whereupon the court requires him to proceed to a final settlement of the estate, unless it appears, upon due proof, that it is necessary to sell the real estate to pay the debts, or that an appeal has been taken and is pending, from the allowance of the commissioners or county judge; or that a contingent claim has been presented and allowed; or that the debts due the estate have not been settled; or that the estate would be benefitted by an extension of the time for settlement.

If the assets are not sufficient to pay the debts after paying the necessary expenses of administration, such debts are paid in the following order:

1. The necessary funeral expenses.
2. The expenses of the last sickness.
3. Debts having a preference by the laws of the United States.
4. Debts due to other creditors.

The executor is required to give notice of the time of payment of the debts, and any creditor who neglects, for the space of two years after the last publication of such notice, to demand from the executor or administrator his debt, or the dividend thereon, is forever barred from the collection of the same.

WYOMING TERRITORY.—Claims against estates of decedents must be presented to the executors or administrators within six months after date of letters testamentary, and if they are not exhibited within one year they are forever barred.

A person having a demand against an estate, may establish it by the judgment or decree of some court of record in the ordinary course of proceeding, and exhibit a copy of such judgment or decree to the probate court.

The probate court has jurisdiction to hear and determine all demands against an estate.

Appeals may be taken to the district court from the judgments of the probate courts.

All demands against the estate are divided as follows:

1. Funeral expenses and expenses of administration.
2. Expenses of the last sickness, wages of servants, and demands for medicines and medical attendance during the last sickness of the deceased.
3. Judgments rendered against the deceased in his lifetime; but if any such judgments shall be liens upon the real estate of the deceased, and the estate shall be insolvent, such judgments as are liens upon the real estate shall be paid as provided in this title, without reference to classification, except the classes of demands mentioned in the first and second subdivision of this section, shall have precedence of such judgments.
4. All demands, without regard to quality, which shall be legally exhibited against the estate within six months after the granting of the first letters on the estate.
5. All demands thus exhibited within one year after letters granted.

Demands against the estate are paid in the order in which they are classed, and no demand of one class is paid until all previous classes be satisfied, and if there is not sufficient to pay the whole of any class such demands are paid in proportion to their amount.

DESCENT OF PROPERTY.

Laws Relating to the Descent of Property, Real and Personal, of a Person Dying Intestate, or Without a Valid Will.

ARKANSAS.—The real estate of a deceased person, dying intestate, subject to the payment of his debts and the widow's dower, descends as follows:

1. To the children of the intestate, or their descendants, in equal shares.

2. If there are no children, then to the father, then to the mother. If no mother, then to the brothers and sisters or their descendants, in equal parts.

3. If there are no children or their descendants, father, mother, brothers or sisters, or their descendants, then such estate descends to the grandfather, grandmother, uncles and aunts, and their descendants, in equal parts; and so on in other cases, without end, passing to the nearest lineal ancestor.

Posthumous children inherit as if born in the lifetime of the intestate. Illegitimate children inherit on the part of the mother.

If there be no children or their descendants, father, mother, etc., the whole estate goes to the husband or wife of the intestate. If there be no such wife or husband, then the estate goes to the State.

In cases where an intestate dies leaving no descendants, if the estate comes by the father, then it ascends to the father and his heirs. But if such estate shall have come by the mother, or so much thereof as shall have come by her, ascends to the mother and her heirs. If, however, such estate be a new acquisition, it ascends to the father for his life, and then descends in remainder to the collateral kindred of the intestate, in the manner herein provided; and in default of father, then to the mother for her life, then to descend to her collateral heirs.

Personal property descends by the same rules.

ALABAMA.—The real estate of persons dying intestate descends, subject to the payments of the debts and the widow's dower, as follows:

First. To the children of the intestate or their descendants in equal parts.

Second. If there are no children or their descendants, then to the brother and sisters of the intestate or their descendants, in equal parts.

Third. If there are no children or their descendants, no brothers or sisters or their descendants, then to the father, if living, if not, to the mother.

Fourth. If there are no children or their descendants, no brother or sister or their descendants, no father or mother, then to the next of kin of the intestate, in equal degree in equal parts.

Fifth. If there are no children or their descendants, no brother or sister or their descendants, no father or mother or next of kin capable of inheriting, the whole goes to the husband or wife of the intestate, if capable of taking; and if there is no husband or wife, it escheats to the State.

No distinction is made between the whole and the half blood in the same degree, unless the inheritance came to the intestate by descent, devise, or gift from or of some one of his ancestors; in which case, all those who are not of the blood of such ancestor are excluded from the inheritance, as against those of the same degree.

Digitized by Google

When the next of kin of the intestate are incapable of inheriting from alienage, the estate descends to the nearest of kin of the intestate who is a citizen of the United States.

The personal estate of persons dying intestate as to such estate, after the payment of the debts and charges against the estate, is to be distributed in the same manner as his real estate, and according to the same rules, except that the widow, if there are no children, or but one child, is entitled to one-half; if more than one, and not more than four, to a child's part; and if more than four children, to one-fifth part.

CALIFORNIA.—The estate of a deceased person, dying intestate, if not otherwise limited by marriage contract, descends and is distributed, subject to the payment of his debts, as follows:

First. If there is a surviving husband or wife, and only one child, or the lawful issue of one child, then such estate descends in equal shares to the surviving husband or wife and child, or issue of such child. If there is a surviving husband or wife, and more than one child living, or one child living, and the lawful issue of one or more deceased children, one-third goes to the surviving husband or wife, and the remainder in equal shares to his or her children, and to the lawful issue of any deceased child, by right of representation. If there is no child of the intestate living at his or her death, the remainder goes to all of his or her lineal descendants; and if all the said descendants are in the same degree of kindred to the intestate, they share equally, otherwise they take according to the right of representation.

Second. If he or she leave no issue, the estate goes in equal shares to the surviving husband or wife, and to the intestate's father. If there is no father, then one-half goes in equal shares to the brothers and sisters of the intestate, and to the children of any deceased brother or sister by right of representation: Provided, That if he or she leaves a mother also, she takes an equal share with the brothers and sisters. If he or she leaves no issue, or husband or wife, the estate goes to his or her father.

Third. If there is no issue, nor husband nor wife, nor father, then in equal shares to the brothers and sisters of the intestate, and to the children of any deceased brother or sister by right of representation: Provided, That if he or she leaves a mother also, she takes an equal share with the brothers and sisters.

Fourth. If the intestate leave no issue, nor husband, wife, father, brother, or sister living at his or her death, the estate goes to his or her mother, to the exclusion of the issue, if any, of deceased brothers or sisters.

Fifth. If the intestate leaves a surviving husband or wife, and no issue, and no father, mother, brother, or sister, the whole estate goes to the surviving husband or wife.

Sixth. If the intestate leaves no issue, nor husband, wife, father, mother, brother, or sister, the estate goes to the next of kin, in equal degree, excepting that when there are two or more collateral kindred, in equal degree, but claiming through different ancestors, those who claim through the nearest ancestor are preferred to those claiming through an ancestor more remote: Provided, however—

Seventh. If any person dies, leaving several children, or leaving one child and the issue of one or more other children, and any such surviving child dies under age, and not having been married, all the estate that came to the deceased child by inheritance from such deceased parent, descends in equal shares to the other children of the same parent, and to the issue of any such other children who may have died, by right of representation.

Eighth. If, at the death of such child, who may have died under age, and not having been married, all the other children of his said parents also being dead, and any of them who may have left issue, the estate that came to such child by inheritance from his said parents, descends to the issue of the other children of the same parent; and if all the said issue are in the same degree of kindred to such child, they share the estate equally, otherwise they take according to the right of representation.

Ninth. If the intestate leaves no husband or wife or kindred, the estate escheats to the State.

An illegitimate child is the heir of its mother, and on the marriage of the parents of any illegitimate child, and such child being acknowledged by the father, it inherits from the father as if it had been born in wedlock. The estate of an illegitimate dying intestate, and without issue, descends to the mother and her heirs.

The degrees of kindred are computed according to the rules of the civil law, and kindred of the half-blood inherit equally with those of the whole-blood, in the same degree, unless the inheritance came to the intestate by descent, devise, or gift of an ancestor, in which case those who are not of the blood of such ancestor are excluded from such inheritance.

Any estate given by the intestate in his lifetime as advancement to any child or other lineal descendant, is to be considered as part of such intestate's estate in the distribution thereof, and the same shall be taken towards his share; but if the same exceeds the share he would otherwise have received, he is not required to refund any part thereof.

The inheritance of the husband and wife from each other apply only to the separate property of the intestate.

Inheritance or succession by "right of representation," takes place when the descendants of any deceased heir take the same share or right in the estate of another person that their parent would have taken up if living. Posthumous children are considered as living at the death of their parent.

COLORADO.—If any intestate leave a husband or wife, and children, or the descendants of any children him or her surviving, one-half of such estate shall descend to such surviving husband or wife, and the residue thereof to such surviving children and descendants of children as hereinafter limited, if such intestate leave a husband or wife and no child nor descendants of any child, then the whole of the estate of such intestate, real and personal, shall descend to and vest in such surviving husband or wife as his or her absolute estate, subject to the payment of the intestate's debts. Except in the cases above enumerated, the estate of every intestate shall descend and be distributed as follows:

First. To his children surviving, and the descendants of his children who are dead, the descendants collectively taking the share which their parent would have taken if living.

Second. If there be no children nor their descendants, then to his father, mother, brothers, and sisters, and to the descendants of brothers and sisters who are dead (the descendants collectively taking the share which their parent would have taken if living), in equal parts.

Third. If there be no children nor their descendants, nor father, mother, brothers, sisters, nor descendants of deceased brothers or sisters, nor husband nor wife living, then to the grandfather, grandmother, uncles, aunts, and their descendants (the descendants taking collectively the share of their immediate ancestors), in equal parts.

Fourth. And if none of the relatives above enumerated be living, then to the nearest lineal ancestors and their descendants (the descendants collectively taking the share of their immediate ancestor), in equal parts.

CONNECTICUT.—The estate of persons dying intestate is distributed in the following manner: One-third part of the personal estate to the wife of such intestate; and if she has not been otherwise endowed before marriage, one-third part of the real estate to her during life. All the residue of the real and personal estate is distributed in equal proportions to and amongst the children of such intestate, and the legal representatives of any such children who may be dead.

If there are no children, or any legal representatives of them, then one moiety of the personal estate is set out to the wife forever, and one-third of the real estate for the term of her life. The residue of the estate, both real and personal, except as hereinafter provided, descends to and is distributed among the brothers and sisters of the intestate, of the whole-blood, and those who legally represent them. If there be no such kindred, then to the parent or parents; and if there be no parent, then equally to the brothers and sisters of the half-blood and those who legally represent them. If there be no parent, and no brother and sister, or those who legally represent them, then equally to the next of kin, in equal degree; kindred of the whole-blood to take in preference to kindred of the half-blood, in equal degree, and no representatives to be admitted among collaterals after the representatives of brothers and sisters.

There is also a special law in this State concerning the descent of ancestoral estates, in case of the failure of lineal descendants, whereby such estate is confirmed to the branch, whether husband or wife, from whence it was derived.

DELAWARE.—The estate, real and personal, of a deceased person, dying intestate, subject to the husband's estate as tenant by courtesy, and the widow's right to dower, is applied and distributed as follows:

First. In equal shares to the children of the intestate, or to the lawful issue of such children as may be deceased.

Second. If no children, then to the brothers and sisters of the intestate, or to the issue of such as may be dead, in equal shares: Provided, That the brothers and sisters of the whole-blood, and their issue, shall be preferred to brothers and sisters of the half-blood and their issue.

Third. On failure of the above named, then to the father of the intestate.

Fourth. In case there is no father living, then to the mother.

Fifth. In failure of all the preceding, then such estate descends to the next of kin of the whole blood.

Real and personal property are distributed alike.

FLORIDA.—Real estate of intestate descends in parcenary to the male and female kindred, in the following course, namely:

First. To his children or their descendants, if any.

Second. If there be no children, nor their descendants, then to his father.

Third. If there be no father, then to mother, brothers, and sisters, and their de scendants, or such of them as there be.

Fourth. If there be no brother or sister, or their descendants, the inheritance shall be divided into moieties, one of which shall go to the paternal, the other to the maternal kindred, in the following course, namely:

Fifth. First to the grandfather.

Sixth. If there be no grandfather, then to the grandmother, uncles, and aunts on the same side, and their descendants, or such of them as there be.

Seventh. If there be no grandmother, uncles, or aunts, or their descendants, then to the great grandfathers or great grandfather, if there be but one.

Eighth. If there be no great grandfather, then to the great grandmothers or great grandmother, if there be but one, and the brothers and sisters of the grandfathers and grandmothers and their descendants, or of such of them as there be.

Ninth. And so in cases without end, passing to the nearest lineal male ancestors, and for the want of them to the lineal female ancestors, in the same degree and the descendants of such male and female ancestors, or to such of them as there may be.

Provided, however, That whenever an infant shall die without issue, having title to any real estate of inheritance by gift, devise, or descent from the father, and there be living at the death of such infant, his father, or any brother or sister of such infant, on the part of the father or paternal grandfather or grandmother of the infant, or any brother or sister of the father, or any descendant of any of them, then such estate descends and passes to the paternal kindred, without regard to the mother or other maternal kindred of such infant, in the same manner as if there had been no such mother or other maternal kindred living at the death of the infant, saving, however, to such mother any right of dower which she may have in such real estate of inheritance.

And when an infant dies without issue, having title to any real estate of inheritance derived by gift, devise, or descent from the mother, and there be living at the death of such infant, his mother, any brother or sister of such infant on the part of the mother, or the maternal grandfather or grandmother of the infant, or any brother or sister of the mother, or any descendant of any of them, then such estate shall descend and pass to the maternal kindred, without regard to the father or other paternal kindred of such infant, in the same manner as if there had been no such father or other paternal kindred living at the death of the infant, saving, however, to the father the right which he may have as tenant by the courtesy in the said estate of inheritance.

But no right in the inheritance shall occur to any person whatever, other than to children of the intestate, unless they be in being, and capable in law to take, as heirs, at the time of the intestate's death.

And when from want of issue of the intestate, and of father, mother, brothers, and sisters, and their descendants, the inheritance is before directed to go by moieties to the paternal and maternal kindred; if there should be no such kindred on the one part, the whole shall go to the other part; and if there be no kindred either on the one part or the other, the whole shall go to the wife or husband of the intestate; and if the wife or husband be dead, it shall go to his or her kindred, in the like course as if such wife or husband had survived the intestate, and then died entitled to the estate.

And in the cases before-mentioned, where the inheritance is directed to pass to the ascending and collateral kindred of the intestate, if part of such collaterals be of the whole-blood to the intestate, and the other part of the half-blood only, those of the half-blood shall inherit only half as much as those of the whole-blood; but if all be of the half-blood, they shall have whole portions, only giving to the ascendants (if there be any) double portions.

And where the children of the intestate, or his mother, brothers, and sisters, or his grandmother, uncles, and aunts, or any of his female lineal ancestors, living with the children of his deceased lineal ancestors, male or female, in the same degree, come into the partition, they shall take per capita, that is to say, by persons; and when a part of them being dead, and a part living, the issue of those dead have right to partition; such issue shall take per stirpes, or by stocks, that is to say, their share of their deceased parents.

When any of the children of the intestate has received from intestate, in his lifetime, any real or personal property as advancement, and chooses to come into partition of estate with the other parceners, such advancement shall be brought into hotchpot with the whole estate descended, and such party bringing into the hotchpot such advancement, as aforesaid, is entitled to his or their proper portion of the whole estate so descended, both real and personal; and the value of the estate so advanced, as aforesaid, shall be estimated at the time of advancement, and not at the death of the intestate.

Aliens may purchase, hold, enjoy, sell, convey, or devise, any lands and tenements in this State to the same extent, and with same right as citizens.

If a married woman die, the husband shall take the same interest in her property, and no other, which a child would take, and if the wife should die without children, then the surviving husband shall be entitled to administration, and to all her property, both real and personal.

If a man die intestate without children, his wife shall take his whole estate, real and personal, or dower, as her election, and when the husband dies intestate without children, the wife shall be his sole heir at law.

GEORGIA.—The title to real estate upon the decease of the owner thereof, dying intestate, vests immediately in his heirs at law. The personal property is vested in the administrator of his estate, for the benefit of the heirs of the intestate, subject to the payment of his debts.

Under the laws of this State the husband is the sole heir of his intestate wife, (except that on the death of a married woman, intestate, leaving a separate estate, without remainder or limitation over, which can and does take effect, who shall leave a surviving husband and child, or children, or descendants of a child or children, such separate estate shall be equally divided, share and share alike, between said husband and said offspring per capita, but the descendants of children shall take per stirpes).

If the intestate dies without children, or the descendants of children, leaving a wife, the wife is his sole heir.

If there are children, or those representing deceased children, the wife has a child's part, unless the shares exceed five in number, in which case the wife takes one-fifth part of the estate. If the wife elects to take her dower, she has no further interest in the realty.

Children stand in the first degree from the intestate, and inherit all property equally. In all questions of inheritance, posthumous children stand upon the same footing with the other children. The lineal descendants of children stand in the place of their deceased parent; and in all cases of inheritance from a lineal ancestor, the distribution is per stirpes and not per capita (that is by right of representation, and not individually).

Brothers and sisters of the intestate stand in the second degree, and inherit, if there is no widow or child, or representative of child. The half-blood on the paternal side, inherit equally with the whole-blood.

If there is no brother or sister of the whole or half-blood on the paternal side, then those of the half-blood on the maternal side inherit. The children or grandchildren of brothers and sisters deceased, represent and stand in the place of their deceased parents, but there is no representation further than this among collaterals.

The father, if living, inherits equally with brothers and sisters, and stands in the same degree. If there is no father, the mother, if living and a widow, inherits in the same manner as the father would. If the mother is not a widow, she is not entitled to any portion of such estate, unless it is that of the only or last surviving child of the mother, in which event she takes as if unmarried.

The paternal and maternal next of kin, in all degrees more remote than the foregoing, stand on an equal footing.

Uncles, aunts, and first cousins stand next in degree; they inherit equally.

The more remote degrees of heirship to an intestate's estate, than the foregoing, is determined by the rules of the laws of the English courts, as adopted and enforced prior to the 4th July, 1776.

The right of the widow to dower is confined to the lands of which the husband died seized and possessed.

Illegitimate children do not inherit from the father, unless made legitimate by petition of the father.

ILLINOIS. — The estate, both real and personal, of a person dying intestate, subject to the payment of his debts, descends to and is distributed in manner following:

First. To the children of the intestate and their descendants in equal parts, the descendants of a deceased child taking equally among them the share of their deceased parent.

Second. When there is no child of the intestate, or descendant of such child, and no widow or surviving husband, then to the parents, brothers, and sisters of the deceased, and their descendants, in equal shares, allowing to each of the parents, if living, a child's part, or to the survivor of them, if one be dead, a double portion. If there is no parent living, then to the brothers and sisters of the intestate, and their descendants.

Third. When there is a widow or surviving husband, and no child or children, or descendants of a child or children of the intestate, then one-half of the real estate, and the whole of the personal estate descends to such widow or surviving husband as an absolute estate forever.

Fourth. When there is a widow or a surviving husband, and also a child or children, or descendants of such child or children of the intestate, the widow or surviving husband receives one-third of the personal estate absolutely.

Fifth. If there is no child of the intestate, or descendant of such child, and no parent, brother, or sister, or descendant of such parent, brother, or sister, and no widow or surviving husband, then such estate descends in equal parts to the next of kin to the intestate, in equal degree (computing by the rules of the civil law). There is no representation among collaterals, except with the descendants of brothers and sisters of the intestate. There is no distinction between the kindred of the whole and the half-blood.

Sixth. If the intestate leaves a widow or surviving husband, and no kindred, then the estate of the intestate descends to such widow or surviving husband.

Seventh. If the intestate leaves no kindred, and no widow or husband, then the estate of such intestate escheats to this State.

A posthumous child of an intestate receives its just proportion of its ancestor's estate in all respects, as if it had been born in the lifetime of the father.

An illegitimate child is the heir of its mother. And in case its parents intermarry, and the father acknowledges it as his child, such child is considered legitimate, and is entitled to inherit the same as if born in wedlock.

Advancements to a child by an intestate in his lifetime, of either real or personal property, are considered as part of the intestate's estate, as regards distribution thereof among his issue, and must be taken by such child or descendant towards his or her share of the intestate's estate; but such child is not required to refund any part thereof, although it exceeds his share of the intestate's estate.

INDIANA.—The real and personal estate of any person dying intestate descends as follows:

To the children of the intestate in equal shares. If any children of such intestate have died intestate, leaving a child or children, they inherit the share which would have descended to the father or mother and grandchildren, and more remote descendants, and all other relatives of the intestate, whether lineal or collateral, inherit by the same rule: Provided, That if the intestate leaves only grandchildren, they inherit equally.

If the intestate dies without lawful issue, or their descendants alive, one-half of the estate goes to the father and mother of such intestate, as joint tenants, or to the survivor; and the other half to the brothers and sisters, and to the issue of such as may be dead, as tenants in common.

If there is neither father nor mother, the brothers and sisters of the intestate, and the descendants of such as are dead, take as tenants in common.

If there are no brothers or sisters of the intestate or their descendants, then the father and mother take the estate as joint tenants, or if either be dead, the survivor takes the same.

If there is no person entitled to take the inheritance according to the preceding rules, it descends in the following order:

If the inheritance came to the intestate by gift, devise, or descent from the paternal line, it goes to the paternal grandfather or grandmother as joint tenants, and to the survivor of them. If neither of them be living, it goes to the uncles and aunts in the paternal line, and their descendants, if any of them be dead; and if no relations be living, it goes to the next of kin in equal degrees of consanguinity among the paternal kindred. If there are none of the paternal kindred entitled to take such estate as above described, it goes to the maternal kindred in the same order.

If such estate came to the intestate by gift, devise, or descent from the maternal line, it goes to the maternal kindred in the same order; and if there are none of the maternal kindred entitled to take the estate, it goes to paternal kindred in the same order.

If the estate came to the intestate otherwise than by gift, devise, or descent, it is divided into two equal parts, one of which goes to the paternal, and the other to the maternal kindred, in the order above described; and on the failure of either line, the other takes the whole.

Kindred of the half-blood inherit equally with those of the whole-blood; but if the estate came to the intestate by gift, devise, or descent from any ancestor, those only who are of the blood of such ancestor shall inherit: Provided, That on failure of such kindred, other kindred of the half-blood shall inherit, as if they were of the whole-blood.

An estate which comes to the intestate by gift or conveyance, in consideration of love and affection, if the intestate dies without children or their descendants, reverts to the donor, if living at the intestate's death, saving to the widow or widower his or her portion: Provided, That the husband or wife shall hold a lien upon such property for any improvements they may have made thereon.

Illegitimate children inherit from the mother; and if a man marries the mother of an illegitimate child, and acknowledges it as his own, such child shall be deemed legitimate. The mother of an illegitimate child dying intestate, without issue, inherits the estate of such child, or, in case of the mother's death, her descendants take as hereinafter provided.

The estate of a person dying intestate, without kindred capable of inheriting, escheats to the State.

Tenancies by the courtesy and in dower are abolished in this State.

If a husband dies testate or intestate, leaving a widow, one-third of his estate descends to her in fee simple, free from deceased's debts: Provided, That where the real estate exceeds in value $10,000, the widow shall have one-fourth; and where the real estate exceeds $20,000, one-fifth only, as against creditors.

If the widow marries a second or any subsequent time, holding real estate by virtue of any previous marriage, such widow cannot, during such marriage, alienate such real estate; and upon the death of the widow, such real estate descends to her children by the marriage, in virtue of which such real estate came to her, if there be any.

If, upon the death of the intestate, his entire estate does not exceed in value $300, it goes to the widow, free from the deceased's debts, in trust for herself and the infant children of the deceased, while they remain infants or unmarried, with remainder over to the widow; and if there are no children, she takes the whole: Provided, If the widow shall marry again while such children remain infants and unmarried, the husband shall, within ten days, execute a bond with security to the approval of the court of common pleas, conditioned for the true and faithful application of such property, or so much thereof as the widow may have at the time of marriage, for the benefit of such children; and in default thereof, such property shall vest in the children.

If the intestate's estate is of the value of $300, or less, after payment of debts, the whole goes to the widow.

If a wife dies testate or intestate, leaving widower, one-third of her real estate descends to him, subject to its proportion of the wife's debts contracted before marriage.

If a husband dies intestate, leaving a widow and one child only, his real estate descends, one-half to his widow and one-half to the child. If he dies intestate, leaving a widow, and not exceeding two children, the personal property of such intestate is divided equally among widow and children, the widow taking equal share with one child; but if there are more than two children, the widow's share shall not be reduced below one-third of the whole.

That if a man marry a second or subsequent wife, and has by her no children, but has children by a previous wife, the real estate, which at his death descends to such wife, shall, at her death, descend to his children. If the intestate leave no child, but leaving father and mother, or either of them, then the real or personal property of such intestate descends, three-quarters to the widow or widower, and one-fourth to the father and mother jointly, or to the survivor: Provided, That if the whole amount of property does not exceed $1,000, all goes to the widow or widower.

If a husband and wife die intestate, leaving no child, and no father or mother, all goes to survivor.

A surviving wife is entitled, except when the real estate exceeds $10,000, to one-third of all real estate of which her husband may have been seized in fee simple, at any time during their marriage, and in the conveyancing of which she may not have joined; Provided, That the wife may elect to take under will of husband, if any, instead of the foregoing provision.

IOWA.—The estate of a deceased person dying intestate, after payment of his debts, and after such portions of the estate have been assigned to the widow, and to the widow and children as a homestead, as provided by law, descends, and is distributed as follows:

First. In equal shares to the children of the intestate. The issue of a deceased child taking the share to which its parent would have been entitled, if living, at the decease of the intestate.

Second. If the intestate leaves no issue, one-half of his estate goes to his parents, and the other half to his wife. If he leaves no wife, the portion which would have gone to her goes to the parents. It has been decided by the Supreme Court, that upon the death of the husband without issue, the wife takes only one-half of his estate, either as dower or by descent.

Third. If one of the parents be dead, the portions which would have gone to such deceased parent go to the surviving parent, including the portions which would have belonged to the intestate's wife had she been living.

Fourth. If both parents are dead, the portion which would have fallen to their share, by the above rules, is disposed of in the same manner as if they had outlived the intestate, and died in the possession and ownership of the portion thus falling to their share, and so on through ascending ancestors and their issue.

Fifth. If no heirs are thus to be found, the portion uninherited goes to the wife of the intestate, or her heirs, if dead, according to the rules herein stated concerning the heirs of the husband. If the intestate had more than one wife who either died or survived him in lawful wedlock, the portion shall be equally divided between the one who is living and the heirs of the deceased wife or wives, or between the heirs of all, if all are dead; such heirs taking by the right of representation.

Sixth. If there is property still remaining uninherited, it escheats to the State.

KANSAS. — After allowing to the widow and children of the deceased intestate the homestead provided by law, and after payment of his debts, the remainder of the estate, real and personal, descends, and is distributed as follows:

To the children of the intestate in equal shares; and if any of his children are dead, the heirs of such child inherit the share of the child so dying, in the same manner as though he had been living at the decease of the intestate.

If the intestate leaves no issue, the whole of his estate goes to the wife.

If he leaves neither wife nor issue, the whole of his estate goes to his parents; and if one of his parents is dead, the whole of the estate goes to the surviving parent.

If both parents are dead, such estate is disposed of in the same manner as if they, or either of them, had outlived the intestate and died in the possession and ownership of the portion thus falling to their share, or to either of them, and so on through ascending ancestors and their issue.

Posthumous children inherit in the same manner as if born in the lifetime of the intestate.

Illegitimate children inherit from the mother, and the mother from the children. They also inherit from the father whenever they have been recognized by him as his children; such recognition, however, must have been general and notorious, or else in writing. If the recognition of relationship has been mutual, the father may inherit from his illegitimate child; but the mother and her heirs take preference of the father and his heirs, of the inheritance of such intestate illegitimate.

Property given by way of advancement, by an intestate to an heir, is considered as part of the intestate's estate, so far as regards the distribution thereof, and must be taken by such heir towards his part of the estate, at the value of it at the time of its being so given to him; but if such advancement exceeds the share he would otherwise have been entitled to, he cannot be required to refund any portion thereof.

The following are the laws of descent in this State concerning the homestead allowed to the widow and children of the intestate.

If the intestate left no children, the widow is entitled to said homestead. If he left children and no widow, such children are entitled to the same.

If the intestate left a widow and children, and the widow again marries, or when all said children arrive at the age of majority, the homestead is divided, one-half in value to the widow, and the other half to the children.

If the married woman dies intestate owning a homestead in her own right, the same descends in the manner hereinbefore provided in other cases, as also does the children's share in such homestead.

The estates of dower and by courtesy are abolished. But all provisions hereinbefore made in relation to the widow of a deceased husband, are applicable to the husband of a deceased wife. Each is entitled to the same rights or portion in the estate of the other; like interests in the same manner descend to their respective heirs.

Children of the half-blood inherit equally with children of the whole-blood. Children of a deceased parent inherit, in equal portions, the share their deceased parent would have inherited if living.

The personal property of the intestate (after payment of his debts) descends to, and is distributed among the same persons, and in the same proportions as the real estate of such intestate.

KENTUCKY.—When a person, having right or title to any real estate of inheritance, dies intestate as to such estate, it descends in parcenary to his kindred, male and female, in the following course:

1. To his children and their descendants; if none, then,

2. To his father; if none, then,

3. To his mother, brothers and sisters, and their descendants; if none, then,

4. One moiety of the estate goes to the paternal and the other to the maternal kindred, in the following course: To the grandfather; if none, then to the grandmother, uncles, and aunts, and their descendants; if none, then to the great-grandfathers or great-grandfather, if there is but one; if none, then to the great-grandmothers or great-grandmother, if there is but one, and the brothers and sisters of the grandfathers and grandmothers, and their descendants; and so on in other cases without end, passing to the nearest lineal male ancestors; and for the want of them, to the nearest lineal female ancestors in the same degree, and the descendants of such male and female ancestors.

5. If there is no such kindred to one of the parents, the whole goes to the kindred of the other. If there is neither paternal nor maternal kindred, the whole goes to the husband or wife of the intestate; or if the husband or wife is dead, to his or her kindred, as if he or she had survived the intestate and died entitled to the estate.

The children of a deceased parent take per stirpes, that is to say, by representation, the share to which their deceased parent would have been entitled to if living.

Collaterals of the half-blood inherit only half as much as the whole-blood, or as ascending kindred, when they take with either.

When a person dies intestate, and without issue, having real estate of inheritance, the gift of either of his parents, such parent, if living, inherits the whole of such estate. If an infant dies without issue, having title to real estate derived by gift, devise, or descent, from one of his parents, the whole descends to that parent and his or her kindred, as before stated, if any; if none, then in like manner to the other parent and his or her kindred; but the kindred of one shall not be so excluded by the kindred of the other parent, if the latter is more remote than the grandfather, grandmother, uncles, and aunts of the intestate and their descendants.

Illegitimate children inherit and transmit on the part of the mother, and those of the same mother inherit and transmit on the part of each other as if legitimate. If the parents of an illegitimate child afterwards marry, such child or its descendants, if recognized by the husband, shall be deemed legitimate.

A child born within ten months after the death of the testate or intestate, inherits as if it were in being at the time of the death of the parent.

It is no bar to title by descent that any ancestor is or has been an alien.

Personal property, after payment of debts due by the intestate's estate, passes to the same persons and in the same proportions as realty, except as follows:

1. The personal estate of an infant is distributed as if he had died of full age.

2. An alien may be a distributee as though he were a citizen.

3. A husband inherits the whole surplus of the deceased wife's personal estate.

4. If the intestate leaves issue, his widow is entitled to one-third of his surplus personal estate; if no issue, then to one-half of such surplus.

Any woman, a citizen, who may have married, or shall marry an alien, although residing out of the United States, may take and hold real and personal estate by devise, purchase, descent or distribution; and any child of such woman, although born out of the United States, inherits, takes, and holds any real or personal property which would descend to such child if born and residing in the State.

Adultery is a forfeiture of dower; and separation by husband, and living in adultery, forfeits his claim to wife's estate.

LOUISIANA.—There is no difference between real and personal property as to the law of descent. The class of heirs on account of the nearness and nature of their relationship to the deceased, are called forced heirs. They are the legitimate children, or their descendants, and these failing, the father and mother of the deceased. The person having forced heirs cannot (unless they have done some act forfeiting their rights) deprive them by donations during his life, or by last will, of more than a certain portion of his estate.

The estate descends in case of children, grandchildren, etc., to them per stirpes.

On failure of descendants, and no brothers and sisters, the father and mother take to the exclusion of all others. If there are brothers and sisters, or their descendants, they take one-half per stirpes. But if only father or mother survive, they take three-fourths of the estate. If there be neither father nor mother, nor brothers nor sisters, and there are both maternal and paternal ascendants, the estate is divided into two equal portions, and these portions divided per capita among the ascendants of the respective lines. Where there are neither ascendants nor descendants, nor brothers nor sisters, the estate goes to the nearest of kin among the collateral relations, counting the degrees by the civil law, and those in the same degree take per capita.

On failure of the preceding relations, the husband or wife, or the acknowledged natural children, or the State takes.

If all the heirs are of full age they can take possession of the estate and present letters of administration. But by so doing they and their individual estate become bound for their pro rata of the debts due by the deceased (and no more), and can be sued at once for such virile share.

The administrator must give, in cases of administration, and the executor can be required to give, security for his faithful administration.

The wife has no dower as understood at common law, but she retakes her real and personal effects in esse, and recovers the value of those disposed of by her husband, and receives one-half of the community after the payment of debts. But if the community is insufficient to pay the debts she then becomes bound for one-half thereof. To meet this dilemma she may renounce the community and claim her parophend rights above mentioned, and she is bound for the one-half of debts of the community. If the community is less than $2,000 after paying debts, and the widow and minor children do not own in their own right to the amount of $1,000, she or they may claim in preference to creditors to make up their estate to $1,000.

If either the husband or wife die rich, leaving the other in necessitous circumstances, the survivor can claim one-fourth of the estate of the deceased. It has been held that an estate of $5,000 might be called rich.

MAINE.—The real estate of a person dying intestate, subject to the payment of debt, descends according to the following rules:

First. In equal shares to children of such intestate, and to the lawful issue of a deceased child by right of representation. If no child living at the time of the death of such intestate, to all his lineal descendants, equally, if all are of the same degree of kindred; if not, according to the right of representation.

Second. If no such issue, it descends to the father of such intestate.

Third. If no such issue or father, it descends in equal shares to mother, brothers, and sisters of such intestate; and when a brother or sister is deceased, to his or her children or grandchildren by right of representation.

Fourth. If no such issue, father, brother, or sister, it descends to the mother, to the exclusion of the issue of deceased brothers and sisters.

Fifth. If no such issue, father, mother, brother, or sister, it descends to the next of kin of such intestate in equal degree. When they claim through different ancestors, to those claiming through a nearer, in preference to those claiming through an ancestor more remote.

In such case grand nephews or nieces would be excluded and the property descend wholly to nephews or nieces, the right of representation being disregarded.

Sixth. When a minor dies unmarried leaving property inherited from either of his parents, it descends to the other children of the same parent and issue of those deceased, in equal shares, if all are of the same degree of kindred; otherwise, according to the right of representation.

Seventh. If the intestate leaves no kindred it descends to the surviving husband or wife; otherwise, it escheats to the State.

The degrees of kindred are computed according to the rules of the civil law. Kindred of the half-blood inherit equally with those of the whole-blood in the same degree.

An illegitimate child born after March 24th, 1864, is the heir of parents who intermarry; and such child, born at any time, is the heir of his mother, and of a person who acknowledges himself to be his father in a writing signed in the presence of and attested by a competent witness; and if his parents intermarry and have other children before his death, or his father so acknowledges or adopts him into his family, he shall inherit from his lineal and collateral kindred; and they from him, as if legitimate, but not otherwise.

If an illegitimate child dies intestate without lawful issue, his estate descends to his mother, and if she is deceased, to his heirs at law, unless such child leaves a husband or widow, who then inherits an equal share with the mother, or with her children.

The personal estate of an intestate, except that portion assigned to the widow, after payment of debts due by his estate, descends to and is distributed among the same persons, and in the same manner, as hereinbefore provided for the distribution of real estate, subject to the following provisions:

If the intestate leaves a widow and issue, the widow takes one-third, if no issue, one-half, and if no kindred, the whole; and the widower also has the same share in his wife's estate.

A sum of money received for insurance on his life, does not constitute a part of the estate for payment of debts, when the intestate leaves a widow or issue, but descends one-third to his widow, and the re-

MARYLAND.—The real estate of a person dying intestate thereof, descends in fee simple to the kindred, male and female, of such person in the following order:

To the child or children of such intestate, and their descendants, if any, equally.

If there is no child or descendant, and the estate descended to the intestate on the part of the father, then to the father. If no father living, then to the brothers and sisters of the intestate of the blood of the father, and their descendants, equally. If no brother or sister, or descendants from such brother or sister, then to the grandfather on the part of the father. If no such grandfather living, then to the descendants of such grandfather, and their descendants, in equal degree, equally. If no descendants of such grandfather, then to the father of such grandfather; and if no such living, then to the descendants of the father of such grandfather in equal degree, and so on, passing to the next lineal male paternal ancestor; and if none such, to his descendants, in equal degree, without end. If no paternal ancestor, or descendant from such ancestor, then to the mother of the intestate. If no mother living, to her descendants in equal degree, equally. If no mother living, or descendants from such mother, then to the maternal ancestors and their descendants, in the same manner as above directed concerning the paternal ancestors and their descendants.

If the estate came to the intestate on the part of the mother, and the intestate dies without any child or descendants, then the estate goes to the mother. If no mother living, then to the brothers and sisters of the intestate of the blood of the mother, and their descendants, in equal degree, equally. If no such brother or sister, or descendant of such brother or sister, then to the grandfather on the part of the mother. If no such grandfather living, then to his descendants, in equal degree, equally. If no such descendant of such grandfather, then to the father of such grandfather; and if none such living, then to his descendants, in equal degree, and so on, passing to the next male maternal ancestor; and if none such living, to his descendants, in equal degree. If no such maternal ancestor, or descendant from any maternal ancestor, then to the father of the intestate. If no father living, to his descendants in equal degree, equally. If no father living, or descendant from the father, then to the paternal ancestors and their descendants, in the same manner as hereinbefore directed as to the maternal ancestors.

If the estate is vested in the intestate by purchase, or descended to or vested in the intestate in any other manner than as hereinbefore mentioned, and there is no child or descendant of such intestate, then the estate descends to the brothers and sisters of the intestate of the whole-blood, and their descendants, in equal degree, equally. If no brother or sister of the whole-blood, or descendant of such brother or sister, then to the brothers and sisters of the half-blood, and their descendants, in equal degree, equally. If no brother or sister of the whole-blood or half-blood, or any descendant from any such brother or sister, then to the father; and if no father living, then to the mother; and if no mother living, then to the grandfather on the part of the father; and if no such grandfather living, then to the descendants of such grandfather in equal degree, equally. If no such grandfather, or any descendant from him, then to the grandfather on the part of the mother; and if no such grandfather, then to his descendants, in equal degree, equally; and so on, without end, alternating the next male paternal ancestor and his descendants, and the next maternal ancestor and his descendants, and giving preference to the paternal ancestor and his descendants. If there are no descendants or kindred of the intestate, as aforesaid, to take the estate, then the same goes to the husband or wife, as the case may be; and if the husband or wife be dead, then to his or her kindred, in the like course as if such husband or wife had survived the intestate, and then had died entitled to the estate by purchase; and if the intestate had more husbands or wives than one, and all shall have died before the intestate, then the estate shall be equally divided among the kindred of the several husbands or wives, in equal degree, equally.

There is no distinction between brothers and sisters of the whole and half-blood, all being descendants of the same father, where the estate descended on the part of the father, nor between those descended from the mother, where the estate came on the part of the mother.

In the descending or collateral line, the child or children of a deceased parent take the share such parent would have been entitled to if living, and where there are more than one, such share is equally divided among them: Provided, That there can be no representation admitted among collaterals after brothers' and sisters' children.

Upon the marriage of the parents of illegitimate children, and such children being acknowledged by the man, they are, by virtue of such marriage and acknowledgment, thereby legitimated, and capable in law to inherit and transmit property as if born in wedlock.

Illegitimate children may inherit from their mother, or from each other, or from the descendants of each other, as if born in wedlock.

By recent act of assembly, when such illegitimate child shall die, leaving no descendants, or brothers, or sister, or descendants of such brothers and sisters, then the mother of such illegitimate child, if living, shall inherit both real and personal estate; but if the mother be dead, then the heirs at law of the mother shall inherit, as if the child or children had been born in lawful wedlock.

A child of the intestate, having received from the intestate any real estate by way of advancement, may elect to come into partition with the other parceners, on bringing such advancement into hotchpot or the common stock, with the estate descending from the intestate, otherwise he is not entitled to claim a share by descent, if there is another child unprovided for.

MASSACHUSETTS.—The real estate of a deceased person, dying intestate, descends, subject to the payment of his debts, as follows:

First. In equal shares to the children of the intestate, and the issue of any deceased child by right of representation. If there is no child of the intestate living at the death of the intestate, then to all the other lineal descendants of such intestate. If all the descendants are in the same degree of kindred to the intestate, they share the estate equally; otherwise, they take according to the right of representation.

Second. If the intestate leaves no issue, then to the father of such intestate.

Third. If there is no issue, nor father, then in equal shares to the mother, brothers, and sisters of such intestate, and to the children of any deceased brother or sister by right of representation.

Fourth. If there is no issue, father, brother, or sister, living at the death of such intestate, then to the mother of such intestate, to the exclusion of the issue, if any, of deceased brothers or sisters.

Fifth. If there is no issue, and no father, mother, brother, or sister, then to the next of kin of such intestate in equal degree; except that when there are two or more collateral kindred in equal degree, but claiming through different ancestors, those who claim through the nearest ancestor shall be preferred to those claiming through an ancestor who is more remote: Provided,

Sixth. If a person dies leaving several children, or leaving one child, and the issue of one or more others, and any such surviving child dies under age, and not having been married, all the estate that came to the deceased child by inheritance from such deceased parent, descends in equal shares to the other children of the same parent, and to the issue of any such other children who have died, by right of representation.

Seventh. If, at the death of such child, who died under age, and not having been married, all the other children of his said parent are also dead, any of them having left issue, the estate that came to such child, by inheritance from his said parent, descends to all the issue of the other children of the same parent. And if all the issue are in the same degree of kindred to the child, they shall share the estate equally; otherwise they take according to the right of representation.

Eighth. If the intestate leaves a widow and no kindred, his estate descends to his widow; and if the intestate is a married woman and leaves no kindred, her estate shall descend to her husband.

Ninth. If the intestate leaves no kindred, and no widow or husband, his or her estate escheats to the commonwealth.

The law of this State concerning the descent of personal property is as follows:

First. The widow and minor children are entitled to a certain part thereof by law.

Second. The personal estate remaining after such allowance must be applied to the payment of the debts of the deceased, with the charges of his funeral and settling his estate.

Third. The residue of the personal estate is distributed among the same persons who would be entitled to the real estate, and in the same proportion, except as is herein provided.

Fourth. If the intestate was a married woman, her husband shall be entitled to the whole of the residue.

Fifth. If there is no issue, the widow shall be entitled to the residue to the amount of five thousand dollars ($5,000), and to one-half of the excess of such residue above ten thousand dollars ($10,000).

Sixth. If there is no husband, widow, or kindred of the intestate, the whole shall escheat to the commonwealth,

MICHIGAN.—The real estate of any person dying intestate, subject to the payment of his debts, descends in the following manner:

1. In equal shares to the children of such intestate, and to the issue of any deceased child by right of representation; if there is no child of the intestate living at the decease of such intestate, then the estate descends to all his other lineal descendants; and if all the said descendants are in the same degree of kindred to the intestate, they share the estate equally; otherwise, they take according to the right of representation.

2. If such intestate leaves no issue, the estate descends to his widow during her natural life, and after her decease to his father; and if he leaves no issue or widow, his estate descends to his father.

3. If the intestate leaves no issue, nor widow, nor father, his estate descends in equal shares to his brothers and sisters, and to the children of any deceased brother or sister by right of representation: Provided, That if he leaves a mother also, she shall take an equal share with his brothers and sisters.

4. If the intestate leaves no issue, nor widow, father, brother, or sister living at his death, his estate descends to his mother, to the exclusion of the issue, if any, of deceased brothers or sisters.

5. If the intestate leaves no issue, widow, father, mother, brother, or sister, his estate descends to his next of kin in equal degree; excepting, that when there are two or more collateral kindred in equal degree, but claiming through different ancestors, those who claim through the nearest ancestor are preferred to those claiming through an ancestor more remote: Provided, however,

6. If any persons die leaving several children, or leaving one child, and the issue of one or more children, and any such surviving child dies under age, and not having been married, all the estate that came to the deceased child by inheritance from such deceased parent, descends in equal shares to the other children of the same parent, and to the issue of any such other children who have died, by right of representation.

7. If at the death of such child who dies under age, and not having been married, all the other children of his said parent are also dead, and any of them have left issue, the estate that came to said child by inheritance from his said parent, descends to all the issue of other children of the same parent, and if all the said issue are in the same degree of kindred to said child, they share the said estate equally; otherwise, they take according to the right of representation.

8. If the intestate leaves a widow and no kindred, his estate descends to such widow.

9. If the intestate leaves no widow nor kindred, his estate escheats to the people of this State, for the use of the primary school fund.

Every illegitimate child is considered as an heir of his mother, and inherits her estate in like manner as if born in lawful wedlock; but is not allowed to claim, as representing his mother, any part of the estate of any of her kindred, either lineal or collateral.

If any illegitimate child dies intestate, without lawful issue, his estate descends to his mother; if she be dead, it descends to the relatives of the intestate on the part of the mother, as if the intestate had been legitimate.

When, after the birth of an illegitimate child, his parents intermarry, and his father after the marriage acknowledges him as his child, such child is considered as legitimate to all intents and purposes.

The degrees of kindred are computed according to the rules of the civil law; and kindred of the half-blood inherit equally with those of the whole-blood in the same degree, unless the inheritance comes to the intestate by descent, devise, or gift of some one of his ancestors, in which case, all those who are not of the blood of such ancestor are excluded from such inheritance.

Any estate, real or personal, that may have been given by the intestate in his lifetime, as an advancement to any child or other lineal descendant, is considered as a part of the estate of the intestate, so far as it regards the division and distribution thereof among his issue, and is taken by such child or other descendant, towards his share of the estate of the intestate.

If the amount of such advancement exceeds the share of the heir so advanced, he is excluded from any further portion, in the division and distribution of the estate, but he is not required to refund any part of such advancement; and if the amount so received is less than his share, he is entitled to as much more as will give him his full share of the estate of the deceased.

If such advancement is made in real estate, the value thereof is, for the purpose mentioned in the preceding section, considered a part of the real estate to be divided; and if it is in personal estate, it is considered as part of the personal estate; and if in either case it exceeds the share of real or of personal estate respectively, that would have come to the heir so advanced, he shall not refund any part of it, but receives so much less out of the other part of the estate as will make his whole share equal to those of the other heirs, who are in the same degree with him.

If any child, or other lineal descendant so advanced, dies before the intestate, leaving issue, the advancement is taken into consideration in the division and distribution of the estate, and the amount thereof is allowed accordingly by the representatives of the heir so advanced, in like manner as if the advancement had been made directly to them.

Nothing hereinbefore contained affects the title of a husband as tenant by the courtesy, nor that of a widow as tenant in dower; nor does the same affect any limitation of an estate by deed or will.

Inheritance, or succession "by right of representation," takes place when the descendants of any deceased heir take the same share or right in the estate of another person that their parent would have taken if living. Posthumous children are considered as living at the death of their parents.

Personal Property.—When any person dies possessed of any personal estate, or of any right or interest therein not lawfully disposed of by his last will, the same is applied and distributed as follows:

1. The widow, if any, is allowed all her articles of apparel and ornament, and all the wearing apparel and ornaments of the deceased, the household furniture of the deceased, not exceeding in value $250; and other personal property to be selected by her, not exceeding in value $200; and this allowance is made as well when the widow waives the provision made for her in the will of her husband, as when he dies intestate.

2. The widow and children constituting the family of the deceased have such reasonable allowance out of the personal estate as the probate court shall judge necessary for their maintenance during the progress of the settlement of the estate, according to their circumstances, which, in case of an insolvent estate, shall not be longer than one year after granting administration, nor for any time after the dower and personal estate is assigned to the widow.

3. When a person dies leaving children under seven years of age, having no mother, or when the mother dies before the children arrive at the age of seven years, an allowance is made for the necessary maintenance of such children until they arrive at the age of seven years, out of such part of the personal estate, and the income of such part of the real estate as would have been assigned to their mother if she had been living.

4. If, on the return of the inventory of any intestate's estate, it appears that the value of the whole estate does not exceed the sum of $150, the probate court may, by a decree for that purpose, assign for the use and support of the widow and children of such intestate, or for the support of the children under seven years of age, if there is no widow, the whole of such estate, after the payment of the funeral charges and expenses of administration.

5. If the personal estate amounts to more than $150, and more than the allowances mentioned in the preceding subdivisions of this section, the same is applied to the payment of the debts of the deceased, with the charges of his funeral, and of settling his estate.

6. The residue, if any, of the personal estate, is distributed in the same proportions, and to the same persons, and for the same purposes as prescribed for the descent and disposition of the real estate, except that the widow, if any, is entitled to receive the same share of such residue as a child of such intestate would be entitled to.

MINNESOTA.—When any person seized of real estate or any interest therein, not having devised the same, it descends, subject to his debts, as follows:

First. In equal shares to the children of the intestate and their lawful representatives. If no children, to the lineal representatives, and not according to representation.

Second. If no issue, then to his widow during her natural life; after her decease, to his father. If no widow or issue, to his father.

Digitized by Google

Third. If no issue or father, to his widow for life, and after then to his brothers and sisters; and if a mother, she shares as a brother or sister.

Fourth. If no issue, or father or brother, mother or widow, then to next of kin in equal degree, the nearest ancestors, blood having the preference. The issue of children take the share of the ancestors. If no widow or kindred, the estate escheats to the State.

The degrees of kindred are computed according to the rule of the civil law, and half-blood equal with whole-blood, unless estate is by gift, devise, or inheritance to intestate by ancestor, then only the blood of the ancestor takes. When any one dies possessed of personal property, or right thereto, without making a will:

First. The widow takes all her articles of apparel and ornaments, and that of her husband, his household furniture, not exceeding $250, and other personal property not exceeding (to be selected by her) $200, and this with or without a will.

Second. Probate court may make reasonable allowance, for maintenance of family, out of personal property, during settlement of estate.

Third. The residue of the property goes in same channel as real estate, after debts paid.

MISSISSIPPI.—Real estate descends to intestate's children and their descendants in equal parts, the descendants of each child or grandchild taking the share of the deceased parent in equal parts among them. When there are no children of the intestate, nor descendants of such children, then the brothers and sisters of the intestate and third descendants take in equal parts, the descendants of a brother or sister of the intestate having in equal parts among them their deceased parent's share. When there are no children, or descendants of them, and no brothers or sisters, or descendants of them, then to the father, if he be living; or if not, to the mother of the intestate; or if the father and mother be living, then to each in equal portions. And if there be no children of the intestate, and no descendants of such children, and no brothers or sisters or descendants of them, nor father or mother, then the estate of such person dying intestate descends in equal parts to the next of kin, in equal degree, computing by the rules of the civil law.

There is no representation among collaterals, except with the descendants of the brothers and sisters, and uncles and aunts of the intestate. There is no distinction between the kindred of the whole and the half-blood, except that the kindred of the whole-blood, in equal degree, shall be preferred to the kindred of the half-blood, in the same degree, saving to the widow of the intestate, in all cases, her dower.

Personal property descends and is distributed in the same manner as real estate.

MISSOURI.—The real and personal estates of deceased person dying intestate descends, and is distributed in parcenary to his kindred, male and female, subject to the payment of his debts and his widow's dower, in the following course:

First. To his children or their descend ants in equal parts.

Second. If no children or their descend ants, then to their father, mother, broth ers, and sisters, and their descendants, in equal parts.

Third. If no children, father, mother, brothers, or sisters, nor their descendants, then to husband and wife.

Fourth. If no husband or wife, then to the grandfather, grandmother, uncles and aunts, and their descendants, in equal parts.

Fifth. If no children or their descendants, father, mother, brother or sister, or their descendants; husband or wife, grandfather, grandmother, uncles, aunts, nor their descendants, then to great-great-grandmothers and their descendants, and so on in other cases without end, passing to the nearest lineal ancestors, and their children and their ancestors in equal parts. If no paternal or maternal kindred capable of inheriting, the whole goes to kindred of wife or husband of intestate, as if such wife or husband had survived intestate, and then died entitled to the estate.

Posthumous children, or descendants of intestate, inherit as if born in lifetime of intestate; all others to intestate must be in being, and capable in law to take as heirs at time of intestate's death.

Collateral half-bloods inheriting take half as much as those of whole-blood.

When all lineal descendants are of equal degree of consanguinity to intestate, they take per capita; when of different degrees, part living, and children of others of equal consanguinity, such children take per stirpes.

Advancements must be brought into hotchpot when the party to whom made chooses to come into partition. Maintaining, educating, or giving money without any view to a portion or settlement in life, not deemed advancement. In making title by descent, it is no bar to a demandant that any ancestor through whom he derives his descent from the intestate, is or has been an alien.

Illegitimate children inherit from their mother, and such mother may inherit from her illegitimate child or children.

Illegitimate children legitimated by marriage of the father with their mother, and his recognizing them as his children. Issue of all marriages decreed null and void, or dissolved by divorce, legitimate.

NEBRASKA.—When a person having title to an estate, not otherwise limited by marriage contract, dies intestate as to such estate, it descends to and is distributed among the kindred of such intestate, subject to the payment of the debts due by his or her estate, as follows:

First. To the children of the intestate, equally; and if any child of the intestate shall have died in the lifetime of the intestate, leaving lawful issue, such issue take the share to which their deceased parent would have been entitled if living.

Second. If there are no children, or the descendants of such children, then the estate descends to the widow during her life; then to the intestate's father.

Third. If there is no issue, or widow, or father, then the estate goes to the brothers and sisters of the intestate.

Fourth. If there is no issue, widow, father, brother, or sister, then the estate goes to the mother of the intestate.

Fifth. In case there are none of such relations of the intestate living, then the estate goes to the next of kin of such intestate, in equal degree, equally.

Sixth. In case there are no kindred of the intestate, his estate descends to his widow.

Seventh. If the intestate leaves no kindred, nor husband or wife, the estate of such intestate escheats to the State of Nebraska.

The foregoing rules do not affect the right to tenancy by the courtesy, or dower.

Personal Estate.—The widow is allowed wearing apparel, ornaments, and household furniture to the amount of $450. Also a reasonable allowance for maintenance of herself and children during the settlement of the estate. If the estate does not exceed the value of $150, it may be assigned to the widow and children, after payment of funeral expenses and charges of administration. If it shall amount to more than $150, and more than the abovementioned allowances, it shall be applied to the payment of debts, funeral and administration charges, and the residue, if any, shall be distributed in the same proportion, to the same persons and for the same purposes as prescribed for the descent and disposition of real estate, except that the widow, if any, shall be entitled to receive the same share of such residue as a child of the intestate would be entitled to.

NEW HAMPSHIRE.—The widow of every person deceased is entitled, as dower, to a life estate in so much of the real estate of which her husband died seized, as will produce a yearly income equal to one-third of the whole yearly income thereof at the time the husband died or parted with his title. She is also entitled, as a homestead right, to a life estate in so much of the homestead of her deceased husband as is of the value of $500. In addition to her rights of dower and homestead, as aforesaid, if her husband died testate, leaving no lineal descendants, she is entitled to one-third part of all the estate remaining after payment of his debts, and the expenses of administration: Provided, no provision is made for her in his will, or she waives any such provision. If he died intestate, leaving no lineal descendants, she is entitled to one-half of all the estate remaining after the payment of debts and expenses of administration. If the husband leaves lineal descendants, and dies intestate, she is entitled, in addition to dower and homestead, to one-third part of his personal estate, after the payment of debts and expenses of administration; if he dies testate, and no provision is made for her in his will, or she waives any such provision, she is entitled to a portion of the personal estate, equal to that which a child would receive, if such estate was equally shared between the widow and the children, then surviving or leaving issue, not exceeding in any case one-third of such estate.

By an act passed at the June session, 1872, of the Legislature, if the widow waives her right of dower, and homestead, and releases the distributive share to which she may be entitled, as aforesaid, and any provision that is made for her in her husband's will, she is entitled instead thereof to one-third part of all the estate remaining after the payment of debts and expenses of administration.

The husband of every married woman holding property in her own right, in addition to his rights as tenant by the courtesy (which are the same as at common law), is entitled to the same share of the deceased wife's estate as she would be entitled to in his estate in a like case, were he dead and she living, if no provision is made for him in her will, or he waives any such provision.

The balance of the real and personal estate of the deceased, after satisfying the rights of the husband or wife, as aforesaid, descends in equal shares as follows:

1st. To the children of the deceased, and the legal representatives of them as are dead. 2d. If there is no issue, to the father, if living. 3d. If there is no issue or father, in equal shares to the mother, and to the brothers and sisters, or their representatives. 4th. To the next of kin, in equal shares. No representation is allowed among collaterals beyond the degree of brothers' and sisters' children.

If a person die under age, and unmarried, his estate derived by descent or devise from his father or mother, descends to his brothers and sisters, or their legal representatives, if any, to the exclusion of the other parent. Excepting in this case, no distinction is made between whole and half-bloods.

NEW JERSEY.—When any person dies seized of any real estate in his or her own right in feesimple, without devising the same in due form of law, leaving lawful children, such real estate descends to, and is equally inherited by, all such children of the intestate, as tenants in common, and in equal parts, without regard to sex.

The children of a person dying before their ancestor, inherit their parent's share equally, and the same law of inheritance and descent is observed in case of the death of the grandchildren, and other descendants, to the remotest degree.

Advancement of real estate by the ancestor to any of his or her issue is accounted for in the distribution of his real estate.

When a person dies without leaving lawful issue, leaving a brother or sister, or leaving a brother or brothers, and a sister or sisters of the whole-blood, the inheritance descends to such brother or sister, or to such brother or brothers, and sister or sisters, as the case may be, as tenants in common, in equal parts. And in case of the death of such brother or sister leaving children, their children will take the parent's share. And if the deceased does not leave a brother or sister of the whole-blood, or any lawful issue of any such brother or sister, leaving a father, then the inheritance goes to the father of the person so seized, in fee simple, unless the said inheritance came to the person so seized from the part of his or her mother, by descent, devise, or gift, in which case it descends as if such person so seized had survived his or her father.

And in case he dies without leaving lawful issue, and without leaving a brother or sister of the whole-blood, or any lawful issue of such brother or sister, and without leaving a father (leaving a mother), then the inheritance goes to the mother of the person so seized for life, and after her death, the same goes and descends as in case the person so dying seized, died without leaving a mother capable of inheriting the same.

And in case a person dies, without leaving lawful issue, and without leaving a brother or sister of the whole blood, or any lawful issue of any such brother or sister, and without leaving a father or mother capable of inheriting, and leaves a brother or sister of the half-blood, or a brother or brothers, sister or sisters of the half-blood, the inheritance descends to such half-blood as tenants in common, in equal parts; and the children and grandchildren of such half-blood take their deceased parent's share: Provided, That in case the said real estate came to the person so dying seized, by descent, devise, or gift of some one of his ancestors, all those who are not of the blood of such ancestor, are excluded from such inheritance.

And in case a person dies without lawful issue, and without leaving a brother or sister of the whole-blood or half-blood, or the issue of any such brother or sister, and without leaving a father or mother capable of inheriting, and leaves several persons of equal degree of consanguinity to the person so seized, the real estate descends to them as tenants in common in equal parts, however remote from the person so seized the common degree of consanguinity may be unless where such inheritance came to the said person so seized by descent, devise, or gift of some one of his or her ancestors, in which case all those who are not of the blood of such ancestors are excluded from such inheritance, if there be any person or persons in being of the blood of such ancestors capable of inheriting such real estate: Provided, That this cannot be taken or construed to bar or injure the rights or estate of a husband, as a tenant by the courtesy, or a widow's right of dower, or to make void or in any way affect any marriage settlement.

If the father die intestate, his posthumous child or children take, possess, and inherit his estate, real and personal, in the same proportion and manner as if such child or children were born in the lifetime of the father. If the father die testate, unless expressly excluded or barred by the will, his posthumous children take in the same proportion and manner as if the said father had died intestate, and the shares of such child or children shall be taken from the devisees and legatees to whom the estate is given and devised, ratably, and in proportion to their respective shares.

In making title by descent, it is no bar to a party, that any ancestor through whom he or she derives his or her descent from the intestate, is or hath been an alien.

A husband is tenant by the courtesy of his wife's real estate, in case he has by her issue, born alive, which was capable of inheriting her estate.

Distribution of Personal Property.—The surplus of the personal property, after the payment of the debts and expenses, are distributed as follows:

The husband is entitled to all the personal property left by his wife.

If the deceased leaves a widow, she is entitled to one-half, if there are no children or their descendants. If there are children or descendants, she takes one-third, and the children the remainder, equally; any child's part who has died going to his descendants. If there are no children living, but several grandchildren, they all take equally, all being of equal degree. If there are no children or their descendants, the father is next of kin, and takes all, if there is no widow, and half if there is a widow.

If there are no children, or their representatives, and no father, brothers, and sisters take equally, including the half-blood, and if they are deceased, their children take their shares.

If there is no father, the mother takes an equal share with the brothers and sisters, and their descendants; and if no brothers and sisters, all but the widow's share.

If there is a child or children of a brother or sister, and only a grandchild of another brother or sister (there being no living brother or sister), the grandchild does not take, there being no representation among collaterals after brothers' and sisters' children.

A grandfather or grandmother takes the whole, to the exclusion of uncles or aunts, and if there is both, a grandfather and grandmother living, they take equally. If no brothers or sisters are living, uncles and aunts, and brothers' and sisters' children share equally, they being all of equal degree.

Relations on the mother's and father's side of equal degree of kindred share alike; kindred by blood, and not those by marriage, take. If a child has had an estate by settlement from the deceased parent, or has had his portion advanced in whole or in part in his lifetime, then that will be taken into the calculation upon distribution of the intestate's estate, so as to make the shares of all the children equal.

NEW YORK.—Real estate of an intestate descends as follows:

1st. To his lineal descendants.

2d. To his father.

3d. To his mother.

4th. To his collateral relatives.

Subject in all cases, to the rules and regulations hereafter prescribed.

If the intestate leaves several descendants in the direct line of lineal descent, and all of equal degree of consanguinity to such intestate, the inheritance descends to such persons in equal parts, however remote from the intestate the common degree of consanguinity may be.

If any of the children of such intestate are living, and any are dead, the inheritance descends to the children who are living, and to the descendants of such children as have died; so that each child who is living, inherits such share as would descend to him or her, if all the children of the intestate who died leaving issue, had been living; and so that the descendants of each child who is dead, inherit the share which their parent would have received if living.

The rule of descent in the last paragraph, applies in every case where the descendants of the intestate, entitled to share in the inheritance, are of unequal degree of consanguinity to the intestate, so that those who are in the nearest degree of consanguinity, may take the shares which would have descended to them, had all the descendants in the same degree of consanguinity, who have died leaving issue, been living; and so that the issue of the descendants who have died, may respectively take the shares which their parents, if living, would have received.

In case the intestate dies without lawful descendants, and leaving a father, then the inheritance goes to such father, unless the inheritance came to the intestate on the part of his mother, and such mother is living; but if such mother is dead the inheritance descending on her part goes to the father for life, and the reversion to the brothers and sisters of the intestate and their descendants, according to the law of inheritance by collateral relatives hereinafter provided; if there is no such brothers or sister, or their descendants living, such inheritance descends to the father in fee.

If the intestate dies without descendants, leaving no father, or leaves a father not entitled to take under the last preceding clause, and leaving a mother, and a brother or sister, or the descendant of a brother or sister, then the inheritance descends to the mother during her life, and the reversion to such brothers and sisters of the intestate as may be living, and the descendants of such as may be dead, according to the law of inheritance hereinafter provided. If the intestate in such case leaves no brother or sister, the inheritance descends to the mother in fee.

If there is no father or mother capable of inheriting the estate, it descends, in the cases hereinafter specified, to the collateral relatives of the intestate; if there are several such relatives, all of equal degree of consanguinity to the intestate, the inheritance descends to them in equal parts, however remote from the intestate the common degree of consanguinity is.

If all the brothers and sisters of the intestate are living, the inheritance descends to such brothers and sisters, if any of them are living, and any are dead, then to the brothers and sisters, and every of them who are living, and to the descendants of such brothers and sisters as have died; so that each brother or sister who is living, may inherit the share that would have descended to him or her, if all the brothers and sisters of the intestate, who died leaving issue, had been living; and so that such descendants may inherit the share which their parent would have received if living.

The same law of inheritance, last prescribed, prevails as to the other direct lineal descendants of every brother and sister of the intestate, to the remotest degree, whenever such descendants are of unequal degrees.

If there be no heir entitled to take, as hereinbefore set forth, the inheritance, if the same came to the intestate on the part of his father, descends—

1st. To the brothers and sisters of the father of the intestate, in equal shares, if all are living.

2d. If any are living, and any have died leaving issue, then to such brothers and sisters as are living, and to the descendants of such of the said brothers and sisters as are dead.

3d. If all such brothers and sisters are dead, then to their descendants.

In all cases, the inheritance descends in the same manner, as if all such brothers and sisters had been the brothers and sisters of the intestate.

If there are no brothers and sisters, or any of them of the father of the intestate, and no descendants of such brothers and sisters, then the inheritance descends to the brothers and sisters of the mother of the intestate, and to the descendants of the said brothers and sisters as have died, or if all are dead, then to their descendants, in the same manner as if all such brothers and sisters had been the brothers and sisters of the father.

In all cases not provided for by the preceding clauses, where the inheritance comes to the intestate on the part of his mother, the same, instead of descending to the brothers and sisters of the intestate's father, and their descendants, as above prescribed, descends to the brothers and sisters of the intestate's mother, and to their descendants as directed in the last preceding clause; and if there are no such brothers and sisters, or descendants of them, then such inheritance descends to the brothers and sisters and their descendants of the intestate's father, as before prescribed.

In cases where the inheritance has not come to the intestate, on the part of either the father or the mother, the inheritance descends to the brothers and sisters of both the father and the mother of the intestate, in equal shares, and to their descendants, in the same manner as if all such brothers and sisters had been the brothers and sisters of the intestate.

In case of the death, without descendants, of an intestate's illegitimate child, the inheritance descends to his mother; if she is dead, it descends to the relatives of the intestate on the part of the mother, as if the intestate had been legitimate.

Relatives of the half-blood inherit equally with those of the whole-blood in the same degree; and the descendants of such relatives inherit in the same manner as the descendants of the whole-blood; unless the inheritance came to the intestate by descent, devise, or gift of some one of his ancestors, in which case all those who are not of the blood of such ancestor, are excluded from inheriting in such estate. In all cases not provided for by the preceding rules, the inheritance descends according to the course of common law.

Whenever an inheritance, or share of an inheritance, descends to several persons, they take as tenants in common in proportion to their respective rights.

Descendants and relatives of the intestate, begotten before his death, but born thereafter, inherit in the same manner as if born in the lifetime of the intestate. Illegitimate children, in default of lawful issue, may inherit real and personal property from their mother as if legitimate.

The estate of the husband, as tenant by courtesy, or of a widow as tenant by dower, are not affected by any of the provisions hereinbefore contained; nor do the same affect any limitation of any estate by deed or will.

Real estate held in trust for any other person, if not devised by the person for whose use it is held, descends to his heirs, according to the provisions hereinbefore contained. No person capable of inheriting under the provisions herein contained, shall be precluded from such inheritance by reason of the alienism of any ancestor of such person.

If any child of an intestate has had advanced to him, by such intestate, any real or personal estate, or both, the value thereof shall be reckoned as part of the estate of such intestate, descendible to his heirs, and to be distributed to his next of kin according to law; and if such advancement is equal or superior to the amount of the share which such child would have been entitled to receive of the real and personal estate of the deceased, as above reckoned, then such child and his descendants shall be excluded from any share in the real and personal estate of the intestate. But if such advancement is not equal to such share, such child and his descendants are entitled to receive so much only of the personal estate, and to inherit so much only of the real estate of the intestate as is sufficient to make all the shares of the children in such real and personal estate and advancement, to be equal as near as can be estimated. The value of any real or personal estate so advanced, is deemed to be that, if any, which was acknowledged by the child by an instrument in writing; otherwise, such value must be estimated according to the worth of the property when given. The maintaining or educating, or the giving of money to a child, without a view to a portion of settlement in life, is not to be deemed an advancement.

Personal Estate.—The surplus of the personal estate of the intestate, remaining after the payment of the debts due by his estate, is distributed to the widow, children, or next of kin of the intestate, in the following manner:

1. One-third part thereof to the widow, and all the residue by equal portions among the children, and such persons as legally represent such children, if any of them have died before the deceased.

2. If there are no children, nor any legal representatives of them, then one moiety of the whole surplus to be allotted to the widow, and the other moiety to be distributed to the next of kin of the deceased, entitled under the provisions herein contained.

3. If the deceased leaves a widow and no descendant, parent, brother, or sister, nephew or niece, the widow is entitled to the whole surplus; but if there is a brother or sister, nephew or niece, and no descendant or parent, the widow is entitled to a moiety of the surplus as above provided, and to the whole of the residue where it does not exceed $2,000; if the residue exceeds that sum, she receives, in addition to her moiety, $2,000; and the remainder is distributed to the brothers and sisters and their representatives.

4. If there is no widow, then the whole surplus is equally distributed to and among the children, and such as legally represent them.

5. In case there is no widow and no children, and no representatives of a child, then the whole surplus is distributed to the next of kin, in equal degree to the deceased and the legal representatives.

6. If the deceased leaves no children, and no representatives of them, and no father, and leaves a widow and a mother, the moiety not distributed to the widow to be distributed in equal shares to his mother and brothers and sisters, or the representatives of such brothers and sisters; and if there be no widow, the whole surplus to be distributed in like manner to the mother and to the brothers and sisters, or to the representatives of such brothers and sisters.

7. If the deceased leaves a father, and no child or descendant, the father takes a moiety if there is a widow, and the whole if there is no widow.

8. If the deceased leave a mother and no child, descendant, father, brother, sister, or representative of a brother or sister, the mother, if there is a widow, takes a moiety, and the whole if there is no widow. If the deceased was illegitimate, and left a mother and no child, or descendant or widow, such mother takes the whole, and is entitled to letters of administration, to the exclusion of all other persons, in pursuance of the provisions herein contained. And if the mother of such deceased is dead, the relatives of the deceased, on the part of the mother, take in the same manner as if the deceased had been legitimate, and are entitled to letters of administration in the same order.

9. Where the descendants or next of kin of the deceased, entitled to share in his estate, are in equal degree to the deceased, their shares shall be equal.

10. When such descendants or next of kin are of unequal degrees of kindred, the surplus is to be apportioned among those entitled thereto, according to their respective stocks, so that those who take in their own right receive equal shares, and those who take by representation receive the share to which the parent whom they represent, if living, would have been entitled.

11. No representation is admitted among collaterals after brothers' and sisters' children.

12. Relatives of the half-blood take equally with those of the whole-blood in the same degree, and the representatives of such relatives take in the same manner as the representatives of the whole-blood.

13. Descendants and next of kin of the deceased, begotten before his death, but born thereafter, take in the same manner as if they had been born in the lifetime of the deceased, and had survived him.

The preceding provisions respecting the distribution of personal estate do not apply to the personal estates of married women; but their husbands may demand, recover, and enjoy the same as they are entitled by the rules of common law.

NORTH CAROLINA.—The real estate of an intestate descends lineally forever, equally to all children or their descendants (when immediate ancestor is dead), without regard to age or sex of the children; but any child advanced in real estate by the intestate, is required to account in the division of the estate of the intestate for the value of such advancement at the time it was made.

Lineal descendants of any person deceased, represent their ancestor, and stand in same place as he would if living.

On failure of lineal descendants, inheritances descend to the next collateral relations who are of the blood of the ancestor from whom the estate was derived, either by descent or otherwise, subject to rules in reference to lineal descents.

On failure of lineal descendants, where estate is not derived from an ancestor, or his blood is extinct, the inheritance descends to next collateral relation of intestate, either of paternal or maternal line, subject to preceding rules.

Collateral relations of the half-blood inherit equally with those of the whole-blood: Provided, That when intestate leaves no issue capable of inheriting, nor brother or sister, nor issue of such, the inheritance vests in the father, if living, and if not, then in the mother, if alive.

No one shall be deemed heir of an intestate, unless alive at his death, or born within ten months thereafter.

In absence of all heirs, the widow is entitled.

If the person who would be entitled as heir is an alien, one who is a citizen, though his relationship is more remote, will be entitled.

In the absence of legitimate issue, the illegitimate will inherit directly from their mother, but not through her either lineally or collaterally.

Illegitimate children of same mother may inherit from each other or the descendants of each; and if dying without issue, or brother, or sister, or issue of such, the mother will be entitled.

Estate for life of another, is deemed an inheritance of the deceased owner.

Any right, title or interest in an estate is deemed a legal seisin of intestate in settling a descent.

Widow is entitled to dower as at common law.

Descent of Personal Property.—If not more than two children, the widow is entitled to one-third, and remainder goes equally to child or children or their representatives.

If more than two children, the widow shares equally with the children.

If no child or representative of a deceased child, the widow is entitled to one-half, and residue to the next of kin, in equal degree, or their representatives.

If no widow, the property is distributed equally among the children and the representatives of those dead.

If no widow, nor children, or representatives of deceased children, estate is distributed equally among next of kin of intestate who are in equal degree, and those who represent them.

If father dead, and mother living, the estate of any child dying intestate without wife or child, is distributed equally between brothers and sisters of intestate or their representative and the mother.

The rules as to advancements of personal property, and as to rights of illegitimate children, before given, in reference to descents of real estate, apply also to the distribution of personal property.

OHIO.—The real estate of an intestate descends and passes in parcenary to his or her kindred in the following course:

Where title came by descent, devise, or deed of gift:

First. To intestate's children, or their legal representatives.

Second. If no children, or legal representatives, estate vests in husband or wife, relict or intestate, during his or her natural life.

Third. If no husband or wife, relict, estate passes to and vests in brothers and sisters of intestate, who may be of the blood of the ancestor from whom the estate came, or their legal representatives, whether such brothers and sisters be of the whole or half-blood of the intestate.

Fourth. If no brothers or sisters of the intestate of the blood of the ancestor, or their legal representatives, and if estate came by deed or gift from an ancestor who may be living, the estate ascends to such ancestor.

Fifth. If ancestor is deceased, then estate passes to and vests in the children of the ancestor from whom the estate came, or their legal representatives; if no children of ancestor or their legal representatives, then estate passes to husband or wife relict of such ancestor, if a parent of the decedent, during the life of such relict, on death of such relict; or if there is no relict, estate passes to and vests in the brothers and sisters of such ancestor, or their legal representatives; and for want thereof, to the brothers and sisters of the intestate of the half-blood, or their legal representatives, though they are not of the blood of the ancestor from whom the estate came.

Sixth. If there are no such half-brothers and sisters, the estate passes to the next of kin to the intestate of the blood of the ancestors from whom the estate came, or their legal representatives.

If estate came not by descent, devise, or deed of gift, it descends and passes as follows:

First. To the children of intestate or their legal representatives.

Second. For want thereof, to husband or wife, relict of such intestate.

Third. If no relict, to brothers and sisters of the intestate of the whole blood, and their legal representatives.

Fourth. If there are none, then to the brothers and sisters of the half-blood, and their legal representatives.

Fifth. If none of the latter, the estate ascends to the father. If father is deceased, then to the mother.

Sixth. If father and mother are dead, the estate passes to the next of kin and their legal representatives, to and of the blood of the intestate.

When any person dies intestate, having title or right to any real estate or inheritance, as first hereinbefore provided, and leaves husband or wife relict, and there be no other person who, under the provisions therein contained, would be entitled to inherit the same, or an estate therein, the estate passes to and vests in the husband or wife, relict of the intestate, as an estate of inheritance; and if there is no such person, and no relict, the estate passes to and vests in the next of kin of the intestate, though not of the blood of the ancestor from whom the estate came.

Any person dying intestate, having title or right to any real estate or inheritance, whether by descent, devise, or deed of gift from any ancestor, or acquired, and there is no person entitled to inherit the same, as hereinbefore provided, then the estate passes to and vests in the children of any deceased husband or husbands, wife or wives of the intestate, whose marriage with the intestate has not been annulled prior to his, her, or their death, or their legal representatives; for want thereof, the estate passes to the brothers and sisters of any such husband or wife, or their legal representatives; for want thereof, the estate passes to the next of kin of such intestate; and if there are none such, then the estate escheats and is vested in the State of Ohio.

Distribution of Personal Estate.—If any person dies intestate, leaving any goods, chattels, or other personal estate, such goods, chattels, or other personal estate is distributed agreeably to the foregoing course, hereinbefore prescribed, as to real estate which came not by descent, devise, or deed of gift from any ancestor, saving, however, such right as any widow may have to any portion of such personal estate: Provided, That if there is no person living entitled to inherit the same, such personal estate, goods, and chattels passes to and is vested in the State of Ohio.

When any person dies intestate, leaving children, and none of them have died, leaving children or their legal representatives, the estate descends in equal proportions to the children of the intestate living at the time of his or her death.

The provisions last hereinbefore contained, apply in every case in which there are several descendants in a direct line of lineal descent, and all of equal degree of consanguinity to such intestate, whether children, grandchildren, or great-grandchildren, or of a more remote degree of consanguinity to such intestate.

If any children of intestate are living, and any dead, the estate descends to the living children, and to the legal representatives of the deceased children, in equal parts, the same as if all the children were living.

The provisions last hereinbefore mentioned, apply in all cases in which the descendants entitled to share in the estate are of unequal degree of consanguinity to the intestate, so that those who are of the nearest degree of consanguinity, take the share to which he or she would have been entitled had all the descendants in the same degree of consanguinity with him or her, who shall have died leaving issue, been living.

The provisions of the last four preceding paragraphs apply both to personal and real estate.

If any estate, real or personal, has been given by any intestate in his lifetime as an advancement to any child or children of such intestate or their descendants, it is considered and held to be part of the estate of the intestate, so far as it regards the division and distribution thereof among his or her children or their descendants, and is taken by such child or children, or their descendants, towards his or her share of the estate of the intestate.

If the amount of such advancement be equal to or exceed the share of the heir receiving the same, he is excluded from any further portion of the estate, but shall not be required to refund the excess. If the advancement be less, the heir is entitled to as much more as will give him or her a full share of the estate.

If advancement be made in real estate, the value thereof is considered as part of the real estate to be divided, and if in money or other personal estate, it is considered as part of the personal estate to be distributed. If in either case the advancement be greater than the share coming to the heir, he is not obliged to refund, but receives as much less out of the other part of the estate.

If the value of estate, real or personal, advanced, is expressed in a deed of conveyance, or in a receipt in writing, the sum specified is taken to be the value thereof.

No person who is capable of inheriting is deprived of the inheritance by reason of any of his or her ancestors having been aliens.

Illegitmate children are capable of inheriting or transmitting inheritance from and to the mother, and from and to those from whom she may inherit, or to whom she may transmit inheritance, in like manner as if born in lawful wedlock.

When a man has by a woman one or more children, and afterwards intermarries with such woman, such child or children, if acknowledged by him as his, are deemed legitimate; the issue of parents whose marriage is deemed null in law are nevertheless legitimate.

Right of dower and courtesy is not affected by this act, and surviving husbands are entitled to the estate of their deceased wives by the courtesy, whether there has been issue born during the coverture or not.

Whenever any person is hereinbefore described as living, it shall be understood to mean that he or she was living at the time of the death of the intestate from whom the estate came, and when described as having died, to mean that he or she died before such intestate.

Descendants of the intestate, begotten before his or her death, but born thereafter, in all cases inherit in the same manner as if they had been born in the lifetime of the intestate, and had survived him or her; but in no other case can any person inherit, unless living at the time of the death of the intestate.

Permanent leasehold estates, renewable forever, are subject to the same law of descent and distribution as estates in fee are subject to.

OREGON.—When any person dies, possessed of any personal property, or of any right to or interest therein, not having lawfully bequeathed the same, such personal property is applied and distributed as follows:

If the intestate leaves a widow, she is allowed all articles of her apparel and ornaments, according to the degree and estate of the intestate, and such property and provisions for the use and support of herself and minor children, as shall be ordered and allowed; and this allowance shall be made as well when the widow waives the provisions made for her in the will of her husband, as when he dies intestate.

The personal property of the intestate, remaining after such allowance, is applied to the payment of the debts of the intestate so dying, and the charges and expenses of administration as provided by law.

The residue, if any, of the personal property, is distributed among the persons who are entitled to the real property of the intestate, and in like proportions or shares, except as herein otherwise provided.

If the intestate leaves a husband, such husband is entitled to receive the whole of such residue of the personal property.

If the intestate leaves a widow and issue, such widow is entitled to receive one-half of such residue of the personal property. If the intestate leaves a widow and no issue, such widow is entitled to receive the whole of such residue of the personal property.

If there be no husband, widow, or kindred of the intestate, the whole of such residue escheats to the State of Oregon.

If the intestate leaves a widow and issue, and any of such issue shall have received an advancement from the intestate in his lifetime, the value of such advancement shall not be taken into consideration in computing the part to be given to the widow, but such widow shall be entitled to receive only the one-half of such residue after deducting the value of such advancement.

Descent of Real Property.—When any person dies seized of any real property, or any right thereto, or entitled to any interest therein, in fee-simple, or for the life of another, not having lawfully devised the same, such real property descends subject to his debts, as follows:

Digitized by Google

1. In equal shares to his children and to the issue of any deceased child by right of representation, and if there be no child of the intestate living at the time of his death, such real property shall descend to his other lineal descendants; and if all such descendants are in the same degree of kindred to the intestate, they take such real property equally; or otherwise they take according to the right of representation.

2. If the intestate leaves no lineal descendants, such real property descends to his wife, and if the intestate leaves no wife, then such real property descends to his father.

3. If the intestate leaves no lineal descendants, neither wife nor father, such real property descends in equal shares to his brothers and sisters, and to the issue of any deceased brother or sister by right of representation. But if the intestate leaves a mother also, she takes an equal share with such brothers and sisters.

4. If the intestate leaves no lineal descendants, neither wife nor father, brother or sister, living at his death, such real property descends to his mother to the exclusion of the issue of his deceased brothers or sisters.

5. If the intestate leaves no lineal descendants, neither wife nor father, mother, brother, or sister, such real property shall descend to his next of kin in equal degrees, excepting that where there are two or more collateral kindred in equal degrees, but claiming through different ancestors, those who claim through the nearest ancestor are preferred to those claiming through a more remote ancestor.

6. If the intestate leaves one or more children, and the issue of one or more deceased children, and any of such surviving children die under age, without having been married, all such real property that came to such deceased child by inheritance from such intestate, descends in equal shares to the other children of such intestate, and to the issue of any other children of such intestate, who shall have died by right of representation; but if all the other children of such intestate are also dead, and any of them have left issue, such real property so inherited by such deceased child descends to all the issue of such other children of the intestate in equal shares if they are in the same degree of kindred to such deceased child, otherwise they take by right of representation.

7. If the intestate leaves no lineal descendants or kindred, such real property shall escheat to the State of Oregon.

PENNSYLVANIA.—REAL AND PERSONAL ESTATE OF DECEDENT.—Where there is a widow and issue, she takes one-third of the realty during life, and one-third of the personalty absolutely. Where there is a widow and no issue, but collateral heirs or other kindred, she takes one-half of the realty, including the mansion house and buildings appurtenant thereto during life, and one-half of the personalty absolutely. Where the intestate leaves a husband and no issue, but collateral heirs or other kindred, he takes all the personalty, and is tenant by the courtesy of the realty; and where there is issue, the husband and children divide the personalty share and share alike. If any such child, being dead, shall leave issue, such issue shall be entitled to the share of the parent.

Real estate of a married woman, upon her decease, to descend according to the intestate laws of this State, subject to the husband's right of tenant by the courtesy, although there be no issue. Subject to these interests, the real estate shall descend and the personal estate be distributed as follows:

1. If the intestate leave children, but no other descendant, being the issue of a deceased child, the estate goes to such children.

2. If grandchildren, but no child or other descendant, being the issue of a deceased grandchild, the estate goes to such grandchildren.

3 If descendants in any other degree of consanguinity, however remote, and all in the same degree, the estate to be distributed among such descendants.

4. If descendants in different degrees, the more remote being the issue of a deceased child, grandchild, or other descendant, the estate shall descend as follows:

(a.) Each of the children shall receive such share as such child would have received if all the children of the intestate who shall then be dead, leaving issue, had been living at the death of the intestate.

(b.) Each of the grandchildren, if there be no children, in like manner, shall receive such as he or she would have received if all the other grandchildren who shall then be dead, leaving issue, had been living at the death of the intestate, and so in like manner to the remotest degree.

(c.) In every such case, the issue of such deceased child, grandchild or other descendant, shall take, by representation of their parents respectively, such share as would have descended to such parent if they had been living at the death of the intestate.

In default of issue as aforesaid, and subject also as aforesaid to the estates and interests hereinbefore given to the widow or surviving husband, the realty shall go to the father and mother during their joint lives and the survivor of them; and the personalty to them absolutely, or the survivor of them.

In default of issue as aforesaid, and subject to the estates given to the widow, husband, father, and mother, the realty and the personalty not disposed of shall go to the collateral heirs, viz.: 1. To brothers and sisters, or either, of the whole blood. 2. To nephews and nieces, per capita. 3. To brothers and sisters per capita, and brothers' and sisters' children per stirpes. 4. If neither, then the realty to descend to the descendants of the brothers and sisters of the whole blood. 5 The personalty to descend without distinction of blood.

In default of issue and brothers and sisters of the whole blood and their descendants, the realty shall go to the father and mother absolutely, or the survivor of them.

In default of the above, and father and mother, the realty shall descend to brothers and sisters of the half-blood, and their issue in like manner as brothers and sisters of the whole blood.

In default of all of the above, the realty and personalty shall go to the next of kin: Provided, There shall be no representation among collaterals after brothers' and sisters' children.

Among collaterals, when by existing laws entitled to inherit, the real and personal estate shall descend and be distributed among the grandchildren of brothers and sisters, and the children of uncles and aunts by representation; such descendants taking equally among them such share as their parent would have taken if living: Provided also, That no person who is not of the blood of the ancestors, or other relations from whom any real estate descended, or by whom it was given or devised to the intestate, shall in any of the cases before mentioned, take any estate of inheritance therein, but such real estate, subject to such life estate as may be in existence by virtue of this act, shall pass to and vest in such other persons as would be entitled by this act, if the persons not of the blood of such ancestor or other relation had never existed, or were dead at the decease of the intestate. In default of known heirs or kindred, competent as aforesaid, the real estate of such intestate shall be vested in his widow, or if such intestate were a married woman, in her surviving husband, for such estate of the intestate had therein; and in such case, the widow shall be entitled to the whole of the personal estate absolutely.

Heir at common law not to take to the exclusion of others in the same degree.

In default of heirs or kindred, estate to escheat to the State.

Descendants and relatives of intestate, begotten before his death and born thereafter, shall in all cases inherit and take in like manner as if they had been born in the lifetime of such intestate.

Whenever, by the provisions of this act, it is directed that real or personal estate shall descend to or be distributed among several persons, whether lineal or collateral heirs or kindred, standing in the same degree of consanguinity to the intestate, if there shall be only one of such degree, he shall take the whole of such estate, and if there be more than one, they shall take in equal shares, and if real estate, shall hold the same as tenants in common. The shares of the estate directed by this act to be allotted to the widow, shall be in lieu and full satisfaction of her dower at common law. Gifts intended as advancements, to be charged to the children of an intestate. Children born out of lawful wedlock not to inherit from their father, but may from their mother, and the mother from the child. The residue of the proceeds of sale of any real estate of an intestate, made by authority of law for the payment of debts, shall vest in the persons entitled by this act to such real estate, in such proportions, and for the like interests respectively, as they may have had in such real estate.

Intestate's relatives must claim within seven years, unless under age or a married woman.

May claim in seven years after becoming of age or discoverture. Nothing in this act contained, relative to a distribution of personal estate among kindred, shall be construed to extend to the personal estate of an intestate, whose domicile, at the time of his death, was out of the State. The widow or children of any decedent dying testate or intestate, may retain real or personal property belonging to said estate to the value of three hundred dollars, and the same may be claimed as a priority to any judgment or mechanic's lien, but not as against a lien for the purchase money of such real estate. This right is secured to her only by making claim to it, and her election to take under a will or under the intestate laws will not deprive her of her right to it. The rules for reckoning the degrees of consanguinity are according to the Roman civil law.

RHODE ISLAND.—The real estate of a deceased person, dying intestate, descends and passes to his kindred, in equal portions, as follows:

First. To the children of the intestate, or their descendants, if any there be.

Second. If there are no children, nor descendants of such children, then the estate goes to the father of the intestate.

Third. If there is no father, then such estate goes to the mother, brothers, and sisters of the intestate, and their descendants, or such of them as are living.

Fourth. If there is no mother, brother, or sister, or their descendants, then the estate goes in equal moieties to the paternal and maternal kindred, each in the following course:

1. To the grandfather, if any.

2. If there is no grandfather, then to the grandmother, uncles, and aunts, on the same side, and their descendants, or such of them as there are.

3. If there is no grandmother, uncle, or aunt, nor their descendants, then to the great-grandfathers, or great-grandfather, if but one.

4. If there is no great-grandfather, then to the great-grandmothers, or great-grandmother, if but one, and the brothers and sisters of the grandfathers and grandmothers and their descendants, or such of them as may be living, and so on, in other cases, without end, passing to the nearest lineal male ancestor, and for want of them, to the lineal female ancestor, in the same degree, and the descendants of such male and female ancestors, or such of them as may be living.

No right in the inheritance accrues to any persons whatsoever, other than to children of the intestate, unless such persons are in being, and capable in law to take as heirs at the time of the death of the intestate.

When the inheritance is hereinbefore directed to go by moieties to the paternal and maternal kindred, if there are no such kindred on the one part, the whole goes to the other part; and if there are no kindred, either on the one part or the other, the whole goes to the husband or wife of the intestate; and if the wife or husband are dead, it goes to his or her kindred, in the same course as if such husband or wife had survived the intestate, and then died, entitled to the estate.

The descendants of any person deceased, inherits the estate which such person would have inherited had such person survived the intestate.

When the title to any real estate of inheritance, as to which the person having such title dies intestate, came by descent, gift, or devise, from the parent or other kindred of the intestate, and such intestate die without children, such estate goes to the next of kin to the intestate, of the blood of the person from whom such estate came or descended, if any there be.

Illegitimate children are capable of inheriting or transmitting inheritance on the part of their mother, in the same manner as if they had been lawfully begotten of such mother.

Nothing contained in the above shall be construed to bar any widow of her dower in the estate of her deceased husband, or any husband of his courtesy in the estate of his deceased wife.

If any child or grandchild of the intestate has received from such intestate any real or personal estate as advancement, the amount or value thereof shall be deducted from the share of such child.

Such part of the real estate of any testator or intestate as may be assigned to his widow for her dower, shall, after her decease, be divided amongst the devisees or heirs at law of the deceased, in the same manner as the same would have been divided in case it had not been assigned to such widow for dower, as aforesaid.

If the intestate leaves no widow, nor any kindred, his estate is taken possession of, and held by the town treasurer of the town in which such real or personal property is situate, for the use of such town, until the heir, or other legal representative of such deceased person, calls for the same, to whom it shall be delivered, upon evidence being shown of his right to the same.

Personal Property.—The personal estate of the intestate, after payment of the debts due by his estate, is distributed as follows:

First. One-half part thereof to the widow of the deceased forever, if the intestate died without issue.

Second. One-third part thereof to the widow of the deceased forever, if the intestate died leaving issue.

Third. The residue to be distributed amongst the heirs of the intestate, in the same manner real estate descends and passes, as contained above, but without having any respect to the blood of the person from whom such personal estate came or descended.

SOUTH CAROLINA.—In cases of intestacy, the real estate of the intestate vests, eo instanti, in the statutory distributees, as heirs-at-law, who hold as tenants in common. The personal estate vests in the administrator, and is the primary estate for the payment of debts. The surplusage is distributable to those who are the heirs-at-law of the realty, and in the same proportions.

The kindred of the intestate who are preferred, as statutory distributees, are the following: The widow and children; the parents; the brothers and sisters of the whole blood; the children of deceased brothers and sisters of the whole blood; the brothers and sisters of the half-blood; the lineal ancestor or ancestors; the "next of kin"—this term being understood to mean those collateral kindred who stand nearest in degree to the intestate, and who are not specially provided for in the statute.

Among the kindred above enumerated, the canons of distribution cast the descent as follows:

First. If the intestate leave a widow and children, one or more, the widow takes the one-third; the remaining two-thirds vest in the children—the issue of a deceased child taking, by representation, the share of the deceased parent. In the descending line, the representation continues as far as the line extends.

Second. If the intestate leave no child or other lineal descendant, the widow takes the one-half, and the other moiety is distributable as follows:

1. To the father (or, if he be dead, the mother), and to the brothers and sisters of the whole blood—the children of the deceased brothers and sisters of the whole blood taking, by representation, the share of the deceased parent.

2. If there be no surviving parent and no surviving brother or sister of the whole blood, then to the brothers and sisters of the half-blood, and to the children of deceased brothers and sisters of the whole blood—the latter sharing per stirpes.

3. If there be surviving none of the aforementioned blood kindred, then to the lineal ancestor or ancestors.

Third. If the intestate leave no child or other lineal descendant, no parent or other lineal ancestor, no brother or sister of the whole blood or of the half-blood, and no child of a deceased brother or sister of the whole blood, the widow then takes two-thirds of the estate, and the remainder is distributable among the "next of kin," according to their degrees—those of the nearest and of the same degree taking per capita to the exclusion of those of remoter degrees.

Fourth. If the intestate leave none of the aforementioned kindred, and no "next of kin," the widow takes the whole estate.

Fifth. If the intestate leave no widow, the provision made for her is distributable in the same manner as provided for the distribution of the remainder in cases where he leaves a widow.

In the distribution of the estate of an intestate wife, provision is made for the surviving husband the same as that made for a widow in reference to the husband's estate.

Posthumous children inherit as if born in the lifetime of the father. Illegitimate children cannot inherit, even from the mother, unless by virtue of special legislation in their favor.

Children who have been advanced by a parent who afterwards dies intestate, are required to bring their advancements into hotchpot.

In the distribution of estates no distinction is made between paternal and maternal kindred; nor is any reference had to the source from which the estate came to the intestate.

The foregoing canons of distribution have reference to the net estate which remain for distribution after debts are paid. The widow has, in all cases, her election to take either dower, or her share as a statutory distributee.

Real estate is deemed assets for the payment of debts; but cannot be reached otherwise than by legal proceedings to which the heirs-at-law are made parties.

TENNESSEE.—The real estate of an intestate is inherited in the following manner, by his lineal descendants, collateral kindred, or ascendants.

First. By all the sons and daughters of the intestate, to be divided amongst them equally. And if any child of the intestate shall have died in his lifetime, the lineal descendants of such child represent the parent so dying, and are entitled to the same portion of the estate as their parent would have been entitled to if living.

Digitized by Google

If there is no issue, brothers or sisters, or their issue, and either parent is living, then such estate is inherited by the parents or parent.

Second. If the estate was acquired by the intestate, and he died without issue, his estate is inherited by his brothers and sisters of the whole and half blood, born before his death, or afterwards, to be divided amongst them equally. And if any such brother and sister died in the intestate's lifetime, leaving issue, such issue represent their deceased parent, and are entitled to the same part of the estate of their uncle or aunt as their father or mother would have been entitled to if living.

In default of brothers or sisters, or their issue, the land is inherited by the father and mother of the intestate, as tenants in common.

If both are dead, then in equal moieties, by the heirs of the father and mother, in equal degree, or representing those in equal degree of relationship to the intestate; but if such heirs, or those they represent, do not stand in equal degree of relationship to the intestate, then the heirs nearest in blood, or representing those who are nearest in blood to the intestate, take in preference to others more remote.

Third. Where the estate came to the intestate by gift, devise, or descent from a parent, or the ancestor of the parent, and he dies without issue.

If the intestate leaves brothers or sisters of the paternal issue of the half-blood, and brothers or sisters of the maternal line also, of the half-blood, then such real estate is inherited by such brothers and sisters on the part of the parent from whom the estate came, in the same manner as by brothers and sisters of the whole blood, until the line of such parent is exhausted of the half-blood, to the exclusion of the other line.

If the intestate has no brothers or sisters, then the same is inherited by the parents, if living, from whom or whose ancestors it came, in preference to the other parent.

If both parents are dead, then by heirs of the parent from whom or whose ancestor it came. The same rules of descent are observed in lineal descendants and collaterals respectively, when the lineal descendants are further removed from their ancestor than grandchildren, and when the collaterals are further removed than children of brothers and sisters.

If the intestate died, leaving no heirs-at-law capable of inheriting the real estate, it is inherited by the husband or wife in fee-simple.

When an illegitimate child dies intestate, without child or children, husband or wife, the real and personal estate of such illegitimate intestate goes to the mother of such intestate; and if there is no mother living, then equally to the brothers and sisters of such illegitimate intestate, or descendants of such brothers or sisters.

A posthumous child of a testator, born within ten calendar months after the testator's death, not provided for in his will, takes by descent such share of his estate as would have fallen to it in case of intestacy; to be contributed by the devisees and legatees in the proportion of their several bequests and legacies to the whole estate.

A child of color cannot inherit the estate of its mother's husband unless the mother or husband was a person of color.

Where any person to whom an estate, real or personal, is devised or bequeathed, dies before the testator, leaving issue living at the death of the testator, the devise or legacy shall not lapse, but takes effect as if the death of the devisee or legatee had happened immediately after the death of the testator; and the real estate devised, in such case, is vested in the issue of such deceased devisee, in the same manner as it would have vested in the original devisee, unless a contrary intention appears in the will.

If the person who would be entitled to any real estate or interest therein, is an alien, and resident of the United States, at the time of the intestate's death, and has declared, or shall within one year after said time, declare his intention of becoming a citizen of the United States, according to the Act of Congress, he shall succeed to the estate. This provision does not operate where there are kindred of the intestate of equal degree citizens of the United States, but the citizen takes the whole to the exclusion of the other.

The Personal Estate, as to which any person dies intestate, after the payment of the debts and charges against the estate, is distributed as follows:

1. To the widow and children of the intestate, or the descendants of children representing them, equally, the widow taking a child's share.

2. To the widow altogether, if there are no children or the descendants of children.

3. To the children, or their descendants, in equal parts, if there is no widow; the descendants taking in equal parts the share of their parent.

4. If no children, to the father.

5. If no father, to the mother, brothers, and sisters, or the children of such brothers and sisters representing them equally; the mother taking an equal share with each brother and sister.

6. If no brothers and sisters, or their children, exclusively to the mother; if no mother, exclusively to the brothers and sisters, or their children representing them.

7. If no mother, brother, or sister, or their children, to every of the next of kin of the intestate, who are in equal degree, equally.

There is no representations among collaterals after brothers' and sisters' children.

All advancements, whether by settlement or otherwise, in the lifetime of the deceased, or by testamentary provision, must be collated and brought into contribution in the partition and distribution of the real and personal estate of the deceased; those in real estate first in the partition of real estate, and those in personal estate in the distribution of personal estate. And should the value of advancements in real estate to a child exceed such child's share, the overplus is collated and brought into contribution in the distribution of personal estate; and should the value of such advancements in personal estate exceed the share of such child in the personal estate, then the excess is brought into contribution in the partition of the real estate.

When a power or trust is granted to a parent to bestow property, conveyed or settled by the instrument creating the power of trust, in favor of one or more of the children of such parent, any property under such power or trust to a child, must be collated and brought into contribution by such child claiming a share in the distribution of the property of the parent.

All courts having jurisdiction to partition real estate, and order distribution among heirs and distributees, have full power and authority to cause accounts to be taken, and valuation of lands to be made, so as to enforce equality of partition and distribution.

TEXAS.—When any person, having title to any estate of inheritance, real, personal, or mixed, dies intestate, as to such estate, and leaves no surviving husband or wife, it descends and passes in parcenary to his or her kindred, male and female, in the following course:

To his or her children, and descendants, if there be any.

If there be no children, nor their descendants, then to his or her father and mother in equal portions. But if only the father or mother survive the intestate, then his or her estate is divided into two equal portions, one of which passes to such survivor, and the other half passes to the brothers and sisters of the deceased, and to their descendants, or to such of them as there are; but if there are none such, then the whole estate is inherited by the surviving father or mother.

If there is neither father nor mother, then the whole of such estate passes to the brothers and sisters of the intestate, and to their descendants, or to such of them as there may be living.

If there are none of the kindred aforesaid, then the inheritance is divided into two moieties, one of which goes to the paternal and the other to the maternal kindred, in the following course:

To the grandfather and grandmother in equal portions; but if only one of these is living, then the estate is divided into two equal parts, one of which goes to such survivor, and the other goes to the descendant or descendants of such deceased grandfather or grandmother. If there is no surviving grandfather or grandmother, then the whole of such estate goes to their descendants, or to such of them as there may be living, and so on, without end, passing in like manner to nearest lineal ancestors and their descendants, or to such of them as there may be living.

When any person having title to any estate of inheritance, real, personal, or mixed, dies intestate, as to such estate, and leaves a surviving husband or wife, the estate of such intestate descends and passes as follows:

If the deceased have a child or children, or their descendants, the surviving husband or wife takes one-third of the personal estate, and the balance of such personal estate goes to the child or children of the deceased and their descendants; the surviving husband or wife is entitled to an estate for life, in one-third of the estate of the intestate, with remainder to the child or children of the intestate and their descendants.

If the deceased has no child or children, or their descendants, then the surviving husband or wife is entitled to all the personal estate of the intestate, and to one-half of the real estate of the intestate, without remainder to any person or persons, and the other half passes and is inherited according to the rules of descent and distribution as prescribed in the foregoing: Provided, however, That if the deceased has neither surviving father or mother, or surviving brothers and sisters, or their descendants, then the surviving husband or wife is entitled to the whole of the estate of such intestate, real, personal, and mixed.

In cases before mentioned, where the inheritance is directed to pass to the collateral kindred of the intestate, if part of such collaterals be of the whole-blood, and the other part of the half-blood only, of the intestate, those of the half-blood inherit only half so much as those of the whole-blood; but if all be of the half-blood, they have whole portions.

UTAH TERRITORY.—Husband or wife surviving inherit a child's portion. No divorce in this Territory. Homestead occupied by widow or any portion of the family at the father's death, to be held free to the use of the wife and family of deceased, free from all claims.

Illegitimate children and their mothers inherit in like manner from the father, whether acknowledged by him or not, Provided, it shall be made to appear to the satisfaction of the court that he was the father of such illegitimate child or children.

VERMONT.—The estate, real and personal, of a deceased person, dying intestate, subject to the payment of the debts due by his estate, descends and is distributed as follows:

First. In equal shares to the children of the intestate, or to the legal representatives of such as may be dead.

Second. If he leaves no issue, his widow is entitled to the whole of his estate forever, if the estate does not exceed in value $1,000; but if such estate exceeds that sum, then the widow is entitled to $1,000, and one-half of the remainder of the estate, the remaining part of the estate descending in the same manner as the whole would have done if the widow had not survived. If the deceased has no kindred who by law might inherit, the whole of the estate descends to the widow.

Third. If the deceased leaves no issue nor widow, the whole of his estate descends to his father.

Fourth. If he leaves no issue, nor widow, nor father, his estate descends in equal shares to his brothers and sisters, and to the legal representatives of any deceased brother or sister. If the mother is living, she is entitled to the same share as a brother or sister.

Fifth. If none of the relatives above named survive the intestate, the estate descends in equal shares to the next of kin, in equal degree; but no person is entitled, by right of representation, to the share of such next of kin who may have died.

The degrees of kindred must be computed according to the rules of the civil law. The kindred of the half-blood inherit equally with those of the whole-blood, in the same degree.

If the intestate leaves no kindred who, by law, can inherit his estate, the same escheats to the town in which it is situated, for the use of the schools in such town.

If the estate of the intestate does not exceed in value $300, the probate court may, by decree, assign such estate to the widow for the support of herself and minor children, irrespective of debts. The widow is also entitled to a homestead of the value of $500, irrespective of debts, for the use of herself and minor children.

The estate of the married woman, in case she has no issue, descends to the husband.

If the parents of an illegitimate child intermarry after the birth of such child, the child, if recognized by the father as his child, is considered legitimate to all intents and purposes, and is capable of inheriting as if born in wedlock.

VIRGINIA.—When any person having title to any real estate of inheritance, dies intestate, as to such estate, it descends and passes in parcenary to such of his kindred, male and female, as are not aliens, in the following course:

First. To the children of the intestate and their descendants.

Second. If there is no child, nor the descendant of any child, then to the father of such intestate.

Third. If there is no father, then to the mother, brothers, and sisters, and their descendants.

Fourth. If there is no mother, nor brother, nor sister, nor any descendants of either, then one moiety goes to the paternal and the other to the maternal kindred, in the following course:

Fifth. First to the grandfather of the intestate.

Sixth. If none, then to the grandmother, uncles, and aunts, and their descendants.

Seventh. If none such, then to the great-grandfathers, or great-grandfather, if there is but one.

Eighth. If none, then to the great-grandmothers, or great-grandmother, if there is but one, and the brothers and sisters of the grandfathers and grandmothers and their descendants.

Ninth. And so on, in other cases without end, passing to the nearest lineal male ancestors, and for want of them to the nearest lineal female ancestors, in the same degree, and the descendants of such male and female ancestors.

Tenth. If there is no father, mother, brother, or sister, or any descendant of either, nor any paternal kindred, the whole goes to the maternal kindred, and if there is no maternal kindred, the whole goes to the paternal kindred. If there is neither maternal nor paternal kindred, the whole goes to the husband or wife of the intestate, or if the husband or wife is dead,. to his or her kindred in the like course, as if such husband or wife had survived the intestate, and died entitled to the estate.

Eleventh. Collaterals of the half-blood inherit only half so much as those of the whole-blood. But if all the collaterals are of the half-blood, the ascending kindred (if any) have double portions.

Twelfth. Those of the nearest degree take per capita, those more remote per stirpes.

Thirteenth. The descent will not be interrupted, though one or more of the parties through whom it descends is an alien.

Fourteenth. Illegitimate children inherit and transmit inheritance on the part of the mother.

Fifteenth. Children born before marriage, if recognized by the husband, are deemed legitimate.

Sixteenth. The issues of marriages, although void or voidable, are nevertheless legitimate.

Seventeenth. A child in ventre sa mere, born in ten months after the death of the intestate, inherits as other children.

Eighteenth. The estate of an infant descends to the kindred of the parent from which it came, if any; if none, then to the kindred of the other parent.

The distribution of personal property is as follows:

Being first subject to debts, personalty descends as realty, except as follows:

First. Aliens take personalty as though citizens.

Second. The personal estate of an infant is distributed as though he were an adult.

Third. The husband takes the whole of the wife's property.

Fourth. If the intestate leaves a widow and children, the widow has one-third; if no children, one-half of the personalty of the husband, and all that remains in kind which was acquired by the marriage.

Fifth. When there is no distributee, personalty, it descends to the commonwealth.

WEST VIRGINIA.—Real estate descends and passes in parcenary to kindred (not aliens), male and female, in the following course:

First. To the children and their descendants.

Second. If there is no child, nor descendants of any child, then to the father.

Third. If no father, then to the mother, brothers, and sisters, and their descendants.

Fourth. If no mother, brother, sister, nor any descendant of either, then one moiety goes to the paternal, and the other to the maternal kindred, in the following course:

Fifth. First to the grandfather.

Sixth. If none, then to the grandmother, uncles, and aunts on the same side, and their descendants.

Seventh. If none such, then to the great-grandfathers, or great-grandfather, if there is but one.

Eighth. If none, then to the great-grandmothers, or great-grandmother, if there is but one, and the brothers and sisters of the grandfathers and grandmothers, and their descendants.

Ninth. And so on, in other cases without end, passing to the nearest lineal male ancestors, and for want of them, to the nearest lineal female ancestors, in the same degree, and the descendants of such male and female ancestors.

Digitized by Google

Tenth. If there is no father, mother, brother, or sister, nor any descendant of either, nor any paternal kindred, the whole goes to the maternal kindred; and if no maternal kindred, the whole goes to the paternal kindred.

Collaterals of half-blood inherit only half so much as those of the whole-blood.

If all collaterals are of the half-blood, the ascending kindred have double portions.

Heirs in same degree of kindred come into partition per capita. If part are alive and part dead, the issue of the deceased having right to partition, take per stirpes.

Title by descent is not affected by deriving descent from intestate through an alien ancestor.

Illegitimate children inherit from their mother as if begotten lawfully. After intermarriage of the parents of illegitimate children, and such children have been acknowledged by the father as his, they shall be considered as legitimate, the same as if they had been born in lawful wedlock.

The issue of void marriages, or those dissolved by divorce, are legitimate.

Child in ventre sa mere, born in ten months after death of intestate, may inherit as if born before.

Personal estate passes and is distributed to and among the same persons, and in same proportions, to whom and in which real estate is directed to descend except as follows:

First. Alienage is no impediment to share in distribution of personal estate.

Second. If the intestate was a married woman, and leaves children surviving, her husband will be entitled to one-third of the surplus, after paying funeral expenses and charges of administration; and if she leave no children, the husband is entitled to the whole surplus.

Third. The widow, where there are children, is entitled to one-third of the surplus aforesaid

If there are no children, the widow takes the whole.

If there is no distributee, all the personal estate of every decedent accrues to the State.

WISCONSIN.—The law of this State regulating the descent of personal and real property is as follows, viz.:

When any person dies, seized of any real estate, or any right thereto, or entitled to any interest therein, in fee simple, or for the life of another, not having lawfully devised the same, it descends, subject to the payment of his debts, in the manner following:

First. In equal shares to his children and to the lawful issue of any deceased child by right of representation; and if there is no child of the intestate living at his death, his estate descends to all his other lineal descendants; and if all the said descendants are in the same degree of kindred to the intestate, they share the estate equally; otherwise, they take according to the right of representation.

Second. If he leaves no issue, his estate, real and personal, descends to his widow; if he leaves no issue or widow, his estate, real and personal, descends to his parents, if living; and if either are not living, the survivor inherits the said estate. If the woman dies leaving no issue, her estate, real and personal, descends to her husband, if she leaves one at the time of her decease; and if she leaves, surviving her, neither issue nor husband, then her estate, real and personal, descends to her parents, if living, and if either are not living, then the surviving parent inherits the said estate.

Third. If he leaves no issue, nor widow, nor father, his estate descends, in equal shares, to his brothers and sisters, and to the children of any deceased brothers or sisters, by right of representation. Provided, That if he leaves a mother, also, she takes an equal share with his brothers and sisters.

Digitized by Google

Fourth. If the intestate leaves no issue, nor widow, nor father, and no brother or sister living at his death, his estate descends to his mother, to the exclusion of the issue, if any, of deceased brothers or sisters.

Fifth. If the intestate leaves no issue, nor widow, and no father, mother, brother, nor sister, his estate descends to his next of kin, in equal degree, excepting that when there are two or more collateral kindred in equal degree, but claiming through different ancestors, those who claim through the nearest ancestor are preferred to those who claim through an ancestor more remote. Provided, however:

Sixth. If any person dies leaving several children, or leaving one child and the issue of one or more other children, and any such surviving child dies under age, and not having been married, all the estate that came to the deceased child by inheritance from such deceased parent descends in equal shares to the other children of the same parent, and to the issue of any such other children who have died, by right of representation.

Seventh. If, at the death of such child who dies under age, and not having been married, all the other children of his said parent are also dead, and any of them have left issue, the estate that came to said child by inheritance from his said parent, descends to all the issue of other children of the same parent; and if all the said issue are in the same degree of kindred to said child, they share the said estate equally, otherwise, they take according to the right of representation.

Eighth. If the intestate leaves a widow and no kindred, his estate descends to such widow.

Ninth. If the intestate leaves no widow or kindred, his estate escheats to the people of the State, for the use of the primary school fund.

Every illegitimate child is considered as the heir of the father, if he shall be acknowledged as such by the father; in all cases the illegitimate child is the heir of its mother, but he is not allowed to claim, as representing his father and mother, any part of the estate of his or her kindred, either lineal or collateral, unless before his death such parents shall have intermarried and had other children, and his father after such marriage has acknowledged him as aforesaid, in which case all the children, as well born before as after marriage, shall be considered as brothers and sisters. In case of the death of an illegitimate child, dying intestate, without lawful issue, his estate descends to his mother, or, in case of her death, to her heirs-at-law.

When a man leaves issue, his widow is entitled to the use of the homestead during her widowhood; she is also entitled to one year's support out of her husband's personal property; she is also entitled to the clothing and ornaments of her husband, and to $200 in value of his other personal property.

WYOMING TERRITORY.—One-half of the real estate descends to the surviving husband or wife, and the residue to surviving children and descendants of children; but if deceased leaves no children or descendants of children, then the real and personal estate descends as follows:

Three-fourths to surviving husband or wife, one-fourth to the father or mother of intestate, or the survivor of them.

If, however, the estate, real and personal, does not exceed in value $10,000, the whole descends to surviving husband or wife, absolutely subject to payment of the debts of intestate. Dower and courtesy are abolished. Except in the above cases, the estate of the intestate descends as follows:

First. To his children surviving, and the descendants of his children who are dead, the descendants collectively taking the share which their parent would have taken if living.

Digitized by Google

Second. If there are no children or descendants of children, then to their father, mother, brothers, and sisters, and to descendants of brothers and sisters who are dead (the descendants collectively taking the share their parent would have taken if living), in equal parts.

Third. If there are no children, or their descendants, nor father, mother, brothers, or sisters, nor husband or wife living, then to the grandfather, grandmother, uncles, aunts, and their descendants (the descendants taking collectively the share of their immediate ancestors), in equal parts.

EVIDENCE.

Parties to an action, and interested parties, can now testify in all the States and Territories, with the single exception of Delaware,—where, however, one step in the advance has been made, by allowing the adverse party to be called as a witness. In other respects the common law rules of evidence are in force in the several States.

NEW MEXICO.—The strict rule of the common law is in force; provision is, however, made for the taking and using of depositions. And a party to a suit may avail himself of the testimony of his adversary, by annexing to his petition in answer the interrogations he wishes answered, and he or his attorney make oath that he believes the same are material to his cause in defence.

EXECUTIONS.

Lien of, and Stay of or Stay Laws.

ALABAMA.—A writ of fieri facias, or execution, is a lien only within the county in which it is received by the officer, on the lands, and personal property of the defendant, subject to levy and sale.

The execution of a bond for an appeal by which the judgment is suspended, or the execution of a bond by the defendant, upon the proper officer granting an injunction, supersedeas, or restraining order, destroys the lien created by the delivery of an execution to the sheriff.

Stay of Execution.—The defendant may at any time before execution issued, stay the issue thereof for thirty days if the judgment is for less than $20, and for sixty days if over $20, by executing in writing an undertaking to the plaintiff in double the amount of the judgment, with surety to be approved by the justice, to pay the judgment at the expiration of the stay. If not so paid, execution may issue therefor against all the parties to such undertaking.

ARKANSAS.—Execution may be issued on judgment, until the judgment is barred by the statute of limitations (ten years). The death of a plaintiff does not prevent the issue of an execution, but the names of his representatives must be joined; nor does the death of any of the defendants prevent execution against the survivors.

Execution cannot issue on judgment or decree, unless ordered by the court, until ten days after rendition thereof, and becomes a lien upon all the property of the defendant upon which levy is made.

Stay of Execution.—The defendant may, where there is no execution thereon in the hands of a collecting officer, stay any judgment or decree for money, for three months, by giving an obligation, with good surety, to be approved by the clerk, or justice of the peace, conditioned for the payment of the judgment, interest, and costs.

Any execution on a judgment or decree, which could be stayed before such execution issued, may at any time before sale of property, under the same, be stayed for three months, by the defendant giving to the officer an obligation, payable to the plaintiff, with good security for the amount thereof, interest, costs, and half commission of the officers. In all cases where the right to stay the execution exists, and is not exercised, sales under the execution shall be on a credit of three months, the purchaser giving to the plaintiff in the execution a bond and security for the payment of the sale money, bearing interest from date.

All bonds so provided to be taken have the force and effect of a judgment, on which execution may issue, which execution shall be endorsed "that no security shall be taken."

CALIFORNIA.—An execution may issue at any time within five years after judgment, from which time it is barred.

Stay of Execution.—The court in which an action has been tried, may, in its discretion, grant a stay of proceedings. But there are no stay laws.

COLORADO.—Execution must issue within one year from the rendition of judgment, to keep lien good.

CONNECTICUT. — An execution must be levied within sixty days after final judgment on personal estate, and within four months when real estate is attached. A levy of execution properly made vests in the plaintiff the first title to the property levied upon, and the lien thus acquired is good against everything but insolvent and bankruptcy proceedings.

Stay of Execution.—Where the estate of a deceased person is represented as insolvent no suit can be brought against the executor or administrator except in favor of the State, or for the expenses of last illness and funeral, and if judgment shall have been rendered before the estate is represented insolvent, execution is stayed, and the creditor exhibits his claim to the commissioners of the estate, and takes his proportion. Stay of execution is also granted in process of foreign attachment, where the debt due from the garnishee to the principal debtor is not yet payable.

DELAWARE. — Before real estate can be levied upon, personal property must be first exhausted; such personal property is bound for sixty days after the writ comes into the sheriff's hands, and an actual levy is made. The lien thus created remains in force for three years. After exhausting the personalty the real estate may be sold if the debt and costs amount to more than seven years' rent of the property. But if less, then the real estate may be taken and held by the plaintiff till the debt is satisfied under an eligit.

Stay of Execution.—An execution may be stayed for six months on a judgment rendered in default of affidavit of defence, provided security be given within twenty days after judgment.

FLORIDA.—Executions are a lien on personal property from the time of their delivery to the sheriff. Property may be sold under execution on the first Monday of each month throughout the year. The real estate, as well as the personal estate, may be taken in execution.

Stay of Execution.—There are no stay laws in this State.

GEORGIA.—Executions may issue on judgment at any time, until the judgment becomes void by reason of lapse of time under the limitation laws. All property of the defendant, both real and personal, may be levied upon. The mere issuing of an execution has no effect. It is, however, incident to executions that a return of a levy or nulla bona, or no goods entered thereon by the sheriff or other officer authorized to execute and return the same, interrupts the statute of limitations on the judgment, which runs anew from the date of such entry.

Stay of Execution.—Executions may be stayed for sixty days from adjournment of the court at which judgment was obtained, upon the defendant giving bond, with sufficient security, for the payment of such judgment within said time; if he fail to pay said judgment, execution may then issue against such defendant and his security, without further proceedings.

ILLINOIS.—An execution from a justice of the peace regularly issues twenty days after rendition of judgment. Upon oath that there is danger the debt will be lost, it may be issued instanter. It reaches personal property only. It is valid for seventy days from date. It is a lien on the personal property of the defendant from the hour it is put into the hands of the constable, but not beyond the limits of the county. Upon its return nulla bona or no goods, the plaintiff may (1.) Have another execution to the same county; (2.) Have an execution to any other county; (3.) Garnishee any person who is indebted to or holds property of the defendant; or (4.) May file a transcript of the justice's docket in the office of the circuit clerk, upon which an execution will be issued by that clerk, and such execution will reach real property, and becomes a lien thereon from the time of the filing of the transcript. It is said that a judgment before a justice is never barred by lapse of time.

An execution from the circuit court is usually issued as soon after the term closes as the clerk can make up his records; but upon affidavit that there is danger the debt will be lost, the execution may issue instanter on the rendition of the judgment. It becomes a lien on all the personal property of the defendant from the time of its delivery to the sheriff. A judgment in the circuit and county courts is a lien on all real estate from the time it was rendered, provided an execution is issued thereon within a year and a day.

If the defendant has property, either real or personal, out of the county where judgment is rendered, an execution may be directed to the sheriff of the county where it is located. The order in which property must be taken on execution, is —1. Unencumbered real estate. 2. Land on which the defendant resides. 3. His personal property.

All real estate sold on execution is subject to redemption under the following provisions: If the debtor shall, within twelve months from the time of such sale, pay to the purchaser of such real estate, or to the sheriff for the benefit of the purchaser, the sum of money paid therefor, with interest thereon at the rate of ten per cent. per annum from the time of the sale. Any judgment-creditor may, at any time, after the expiration of twelve months and before the expiration of fifteen months, redeem the land so sold upon paying to the sheriff the amount of money for which such premises have been sold, with ten per centum per annum interest from the date of such sale, for the use of the purchaser thereof; upon which the same shall be again advertised and offered for sale. At such resale the judgment-creditor shall be considered to have bid the amount of said redemption money paid by him, and interest from the date of such redemption until day of sale; and if no higher bid shall be made, the judgment-creditor is declared to be the purchaser thereof. But if a higher bid is made, the excess is applied as a credit on the execution.

The land may again be redeemed as long as any judgment-creditor is disposed to redeem it as above; but after the lapse of sixty days without redemption, the property shall be conveyed to the last purchaser.

Stay of Execution.—There are no stay laws.

INDIANA.—Executions may issue at any time within five years after rendition of judgment; leave of court must be obtained after that time. Executions from a court of record may be issued to any county in the State.

They operate as a lien from the time of their delivery to the sheriff upon personal property of the defendant in the county. In cases where execution is issued to another county than the one in which judgment is rendered, it operates also as a lien upon real estate from the time of its levy.

Property sold on execution, unless otherwise directed by the judgment, must be sold for at least two-thirds of its appraised value. In cases of several liens upon one property, the first levy has the preference.

Stay of Execution.—Executions can be stayed upon the defendant giving security, freehold, as follows: If the judgment does not exceed $6, for thirty days; not exceeding $12, for sixty days; not exceeding $20, for ninety days; not exceeding $40, for one hundred and twenty days; not exceeding $100, for one hundred and fifty days; and exceeding $100, for one hundred and eighty days.

IOWA.—Executions may issue at any time before the judgment is barred by the statute of limitation, and if from a court of record, may issue into any county which the party ordering may direct.

The filing of a transcript of judgment in any county creates a lien upon the property of the defendant in the county where filed.

Real property is sold on four weeks' notice, and personal on three weeks, and all sales are at public outcry to the highest bidder.

Personal property must be appraised and sold for two-thirds its appraised value; but if offered for three successive days at the same place and hour as advertised, and is unsold, it may be sold at one-half of its appraised value.

Real property is sold subject to one years' redemption by the debtor, which right is exclusively the debtor's for the first six months. If no redemption is made by him during that period, any creditor of the defendant whose demand is a lien upon such real estate, may redeem the same at any time within nine months of the day of sale.

Stay.—On all judgments for the recovery of money except those rendered in any court on an appeal or writ of error thereto, or against any officer, person, or corporation, or the sureties of any of them for money received in a fiduciary capacity, or for the breach of any official duty, there may be a stay of execution, if the defendant therein shall, within ten days from the entry of judgment, procure one or more sufficient freehold sureties to enter into a bond for the payment of the judgment, interest, and costs, as follows: For sums not exceeding one hundred dollars, inclusive of costs, three months, and for all sums exceeding one hundred dollars, six months.

Judgments which are stayed draw interest at ten per cent. No appeal is allowed after stay is taken, and no stay is allowed in a judgment obtained by a laboring man or mechanic for his wages.

KANSAS.—An execution may issue upon a judgment immediately after the rendition thereof, or at any time within five years, after which time it ceases to operate as a lien upon the debtor's real estate. An execution from a justice's court may be issued at any time within five years from the date of the judgment, or last execution. But if issued within ten days from the date of judgment, it will be returned, if the case is within that time appealed, taken up on error, docketed in the district court, or bail been given for stay of execution. An execution from the district court of one county, may be issued to, and become a lien upon the property of the defendant in any other county in this State. They become liens upon his property, real or personal, only from the time of the seizure thereof.

Executions issuing from courts of record, as follows: Those against the property of the defendant; those against his person; those where property has been fraudulently withheld, demanding the same to be delivered up; and also those in special cases. The special executions are made returnable at such time as the court shall fix, but other executions are made returnable within sixty days from the time they are issued. Justices' executions are returnable within thirty days from the time of their delivery to the constable.

Executions must first be levied against the personal estate of the debtor, and if none, or if not sufficient to satisfy the execution, they may then be levied against his real estate.

Upon the sale of the debtor's real estate under the execution, the same must have been previously valued by three disinterested householders, residents of the county where such real estate is situate, and the same cannot be sold unless it realizes at least two-thirds of such valuation.

Stay of Execution.—Unless a bond for supersedeas is filed, and the case is re-removed to the Supreme Court, there can be no stay of execution from the district court of this State. A stay of execution may be had in the justice's court by giving bail, as follows: On $20 and less, thirty days; on $20 and under $50, for sixty days; on $50 and under $100, for ninety days; over $100, for one hundred and twenty days.

KENTUCKY. — Executions issued from the circuit courts within ten days, also the justices' and county courts within ten days, and from Louisville chancery court within fifteen days from judgment being rendered, and are made returnable not under thirty or over ninety days from the date thereof. They create a lien on the estate of the defendant only from the time they are placed in the hands of the proper officer to execute; and where there are several judgments against the same defendant, they are executed in the order in which the officer receives the executions.

Executions issued from the justices' courts, are only against the personal property of the debtor.

Stay of Execution.—An execution may be stayed at any time before sale, for three months, upon the defendant executing a bond with sufficient securities for the amount of such execution, including interest, cost, and half commission, payable to the plaintiff.

LOUISIANA.—Execution may issue at any time after a judgment has become final, or the delay for a suspension appeal has expired. It is a lien upon personal property after seizure by the sheriff, and only upon so much as is actually seized. The property, real or personal, levied upon, must be appraised, and at the sale under execution must realize at least two-thirds of its appraised value. If it cannot be so sold at such sale for cash, it may be sold at the expiration of fifteen days from such first sale day, on a credit of twelve months, to the highest and best bidder, who must give bond, with security, for the payment of the purchase money, with interest; and should he fail to pay the same at the maturity of the bond, execution may issue against him.

Rights and credits due the debtor can be seized and made available through a process analogous to garnishment.

Stay of Execution.—There are no stay laws.

MAINE.—Executions may be issued on a judgment after twenty-four hours, and within one year from its rendition. They are returnable within three months from the date thereof. An alias or plunes execution may be issued within three years from the day of the return of the preceding execution.

The stay of execution does not exist, except in cases where property of non-residents or absentees has been attached; in which case, if no personal service has been obtained, execution is stayed for one year, unless plaintiff gives bond.

A party has a right to a writ of review in many cases, and to a stay of proceedings, or a writ of supersedeas, upon the filing of his petition for the writ of review. Interest upon the judgment will then run at fifteen per cent.

MARYLAND.—As a general rule all executions are issuable at the will of the party in whose favor final judgment has been rendered, upon his written order or that of his attorney, filed with the clerk. This right may be lost by lapse of time or death of parties. It can then only be regained by a fiat or new judgment, grounded on the whole by scire facias.

The right to issue execution is sometimes delayed by stay, by supersedeas, or by injunction. A stay is a time in which no execution can be had; it may exist by agreement of parties, or by operation of law. Thus judgments rendered at the second term after the defendant has been summoned, are entitled to a stay of execution until the first Thursday of the ensuing term, with the privilege of superseding the same at any time within two months after the expiration of the stay, by appeal or suing out a writ of error.

In the city of Baltimore executions may be issued immediately after a final judgment. A judgment may be superseded by force of an appeal, or writ of error, or by judgment confessed, with security, to be paid at a limited time. Executions may be stayed by injunction issuing out of courts of equity. Executions may issue within three years after judgments, after which time they must be renewed by scire facias. So soon as the writ of execution is in the hands of the sheriff it binds all the personal property of the defendant, excepting the tools of mechanics or implements of labor actually in use, and personal property of the value of one hundred dollars.

MASSACHUSETTS.—An execution may be issued, after the lapse of twenty-four hours from the rendering of the judgment, at any time within one year from the date thereof.

Executions run against all property, both real and personal, of the debtor, and if the amount sought to be recovered is over $20, exclusive of costs, against the body of the debtor.

Stay of Execution.—There are no stay laws. In special cases, however, a party has a right of a writ of error or writ of review.

MICHIGAN.—Execution may issue, upon a judgment rendered in the circuit court, immediately. They may be made returnable on the first Tuesday of any month, or any day in term; but sixty days must intervene between the issuing and return of the writ.

When an execution is issued against the property of any person, his goods and chattels, lands and tenements, levied upon by virtue thereof, are bound from the time of such levy; and the first execution delivered to the officer has preference, notwithstanding a levy may be first made under another execution.

Stay of Execution.—The execution is not stayed or superseded by a writ of error brought to obtain a reversal of the judgment in the Supreme Court, unless the plaintiff in error shall give bond to the defendant in error, with two sufficient sureties, or three sufficient sureties without the plaintiff in error, conditioned to prosecute the writ to effect, and to satisfy such judgment as may be rendered against him thereon.

In the justices' courts execution may be stayed for four months when the debt does not exceed $50, and for six months when the debt exceeds $50, exclusive of costs; the time to be reckoned from the commencement of the action.

MINNESOTA.—Executions may issue any time after judgment, and within ten years from the rendition thereof; they are made returnable in sixty days. Upon filing a transcript of the judgment in any other county where the defendant has property, it becomes a lien upon such property. Ten days' notice is required previous to the sale of personal property, and six week's notice prior to the sale of real estate. The debtor may redeem his real estate, sold under execution, at any time within a year from day of sale.

Stay of Execution.—There is no stay of execution from the district courts. Execution from the justices' courts is stayed ten days from rendition of judgment, during which time, upon the debtor filing a bond, with approved security, conditioned for payment of judgment with twelve per cent. interest, execution may be furthered stayed when the amount does not exceed $10 for one month; over $10 and not exceeding $25 for two months; over $25 and not exceeding $50 for three months; over $50 and not exceeding $75 for four months; exceeding $75 for six months.

MISSISSIPPI.—Executions are issued upon all judgments rendered in this State within twenty days after the adjournment of the court. They may issue at any time within a year and a day from the rendition of judgment, or within a year and a day from stay of execution, should such stay be ordered by the court. Writs of execution from the circuit courts are issued in the same manner as original process, and are made returnable on the first day of the next term of the court, but there must be at least thirty days between the issue and return thereof; and in case there is not thirty days between the issue of such execution and the first day of the next term, then it shall be returnable on the first day of the following term. Where there is no judgment lien, writs of execution bind the property of the defendant only from the time of the delivery thereof to the officer to be executed; and in case two or more writs are delivered against the same person on the same day, that which was first received by the officer shall be first satisfied. The personal property of the debtor shall be first levied upon, but if not sufficient to satisfy the judgment, then the real estate.

Stay of Execution.—There are no stay laws for judgments rendered in the circuit courts; but executions issued from the justices' courts may be stayed for any time not exceeding sixty days, upon the debtor giving bond, with sufficient security.

MISSOURI.—Executions may issue upon a judgment at any time within ten years from the rendition of such judgment, against the goods, chattels, and real estate of the party against whom the judgment, order, or decree is rendered. They may be directed to and executed in any county of this State, and may issue at the same time to different counties. No execution prior to the levy thereof shall be a lien on any property, real or personal, to which the lien of the judgment, order, or decree does not extend.

A judgment-debtor may elect what property, real or personal, shall be sold to satisfy the execution.

He may retain possession of the personal property levied upon until the day of sale by giving bond in favor of the plaintiff in double the value of the property, conditioned for the delivery thereof at the time and place of sale. If the property is not delivered according to the condition of the bond, the levy remains a lien upon such property into whosesoever possession the same may have passed. The obligee named in such bond may have judgment of the debt, and his sureties, after condition broken, on the first or any succeeding day of the term to which the execution is returnable, then may bring suit on such bond.

Stay of Execution.— Executions can only be stayed upon petition.

NEBRASKA.—Executions may issue at any time after judgment, and are made returnable in sixty days. They are a lien on the personal property of the debtor from the date of levy. They may be directed to and executed in any county of the State, and may issue at the same time to different counties.

The execution must be first levied upon the personal estate, but if insufficient, it may then be levied upon the real estate. The execution is not a lien upon any property, real or personal, to which the lien of the judgment does not extend prior to the levy thereof.

There is no redemption of property sold under execution. Upon the sale being confirmed, the title becomes absolutely vested in the purchaser.

Stay of Execution.—Upon the debtor giving sufficient security, within twenty days after rendition of judgment in the district court, execution may be stayed for the period of one year. Stay may be had upon justices' judgments, upon giving security, as follows: When the debt is $5 and under, for sixty days; $50 and under, for ninety days; $100 and under, for six months.

NEW HAMPSHIRE.—Under the laws of this State an execution is not a lien upon the property of the judgment-debtor until a levy has been made thereon, except in cases of attachment, where the property is held for thirty days after the rendition of judgment. Execution may be issued twenty-four hours after judgment is rendered.

Stay of Execution.—There are no stay laws in this State.

NEW JERSEY.—Execution is not a lien on the personal property of a judgment-debtor until a levy has been made thereon.

Stay of Execution.—A stay of execution is allowed only when the judgment has been rendered by a justice of the peace, and may be as follows: If less than $15, one month; if over $15 and under $60, three months; if over $60, six months.

NEW MEXICO.—Execution must issue within a year and a day, and when one execution has issued and been duly returned another may issue as of course at any time. But if execution is not issued within a year and a day from rendition of judgment, recourse must be had to scire facias.

Execution runs against the goods, chattels, lands, and the body of the defendant (see arrest), and may be issued to the sheriff of any county, and made returnable within sixty days from time of receipt by sheriff.

No execution shall issue against any security or any promissory note, bond, bond for costs, appeal bond, or other obligation for the payment of money, or property, until execution shall have been first issued against the principal of such note, bond, etc., and levied upon all the real estate or property of such principal to be found within the jurisdiction of the court when judgment was rendered, unless the plaintiff shall first file in the court an affidavit in relation to such security or securities, similar to that required by law, before issuing the writ of attachment.

No real estate can be sold for less than two-thirds of its appraised value.

NEW YORK.—An execution may be issued at any time within five years after judgment rendered; if not until after that time, leave of court must first be obtained. Personal property is bound from the time of the delivery and levy of the execution to a sheriff or other proper officer of the county where the same is situated, except against mortgagees and bona fide purchasers without notice.

Stay of Execution.—There are no stay laws; but an execution may be stayed by order of the court on good cause shown by affidavit, and may, in its discretion, require, as a condition the giving security by bond, or payment of money into court.

NORTH CAROLINA.—As to liens on real estate see judgments. Executions are a lien on personal estate from their teste, except executions issued by a justice of the peace, which bind only from the levy.

Stay of Execution—is allowed on execution issued by a justice of the peace, security being given for the same.

OHIO.—Execution may issue at any time after judgment, if the judgment be not dormant, and may issue from the county where judgment is rendered to any other county in the State. The levy of execution does not vary the lien created by the judgment in the county where judgment is rendered. See Judgments. Lands out of the county, but within the State, and goods and chattels, are bound from the time execution is levied on them. Execution is returnable in sixty days.

Stay of Execution.—A stay of execution can only be granted when the judgment was rendered by a justice of the peace, and is as follows: If the amount is $5 or under, sixty days; if over $5 and under $20, ninety days; if over $20 and under $50, one hundred and fifty days; if $50 or over, two hundred and forty days. Execution is returnable in thirty days.

OREGON.—The party in whose favor a judgment is given which requires the payment of money, or the delivery of real or personal property, may at any time after the entry thereof have a writ of execution issued for its enforcement.

There are three kinds of executions; one against the property of the judgment-debtor, another against his person, and the third for the delivery of real or personal property.

In the circuit courts and county courts executions are returnable in sixty days, and in justices' courts in thirty days.

Stay of Execution.—In the circuit or county court there is no stay of execution except pending an appeal.

In justices' court execution may be stayed for thirty days upon filing bond.

PENNSYLVANIA.—Execution may issue at any time within five years of rendition of judgment, if stay of execution is not taken. Stay of execution may be taken by any defendant claiming freehold; that is, any defendant whose real estate is unencumbered; if encumbered, bail must be entered. Before justices of the peace stay is allowed on sums not less than five dollars and thirty-three cents, nor more than twenty dollars, for three months; not less than twenty dollars, nor more than sixty dollars for six months; not less than sixty dollars, nor more than one hundred dollars for nine months.

Before courts of record, stay of execution is allowed where the amount does not exceed two hundred dollars, for six months; if not less than two hundred dollars, nor more than five hundred dollars, for nine months; if over five hundred dollars, for twelve months. Execution becomes a lien on all of defendant's personal property within the county where it is issued as soon as placed in the sheriff's hands or left at his office.

Personal property must be absorbed before real estate can be reached.

If the rents, issues, and profits of real estate will pay all the liens against it, with interest, taxes, and costs, within seven years, it cannot be sold, but must be assessed on annual rental of an amount sufficient to pay all the liens. If assessed on rental, the plaintiff may take the real estate, and account for the annual rental until the debts are paid; or he may allow the defendant to hold the same, and pay in half-yearly installments. If defendant fails to pay the rental within six months, and thirty days after notice, the real estate may be sold the same as though it had been condemned. The right of inquisition and condemnation may be waived by the defendant, and his real estate sold on execution. By act of May 14, 1874, no stay of execution shall be allowed on any judgment for one hundred dollars or less, when the same has been recovered for wages of manual labor. No stay of execution is allowed in actions of debt and scire facias upon judgments, and actions of scire facias on mortgages, nor judgments entered on warrant of attorney. Before justices of the peace the stay must be taken within twenty days from date of judgment. Before courts of record the stay must be taken within thirty days from date of judgment.

RHODE ISLAND. — An execution in this State is not a lien on real or personal estate, unless enforced by a levy.

Stay of Execution.—An execution may be stayed for cause shown, until further order, by the supreme and common pleas courts. But there are no stay laws.

SOUTH CAROLINA. — By recent amendments to the code of this State (1873) an execution may issue upon any judgment or decree within three years from the entry thereof; and when issued, it has active energy for the period of five years from its lodgment, and until the regular term of the court, which shall follow after the expiration of the five years.

Neither final judgments nor executions of themselves create a lien upon personal property. Such lien can only be acquired by actual levy, in which case it continues for the period of four months from the date of levy, and may be renewed from time to time, with like effect, during the period of active energy. After that period the execution cannot be renewed otherwise than by service of summons of renewal upon the defendant.

There are no stay laws now in force in this Stats.

TENNESSEE. — An execution may be issued while the court is in session, or after adjournment, upon sufficient cause shown against the debtor's property, real or personal. The real property cannot be sold, however, until the personal is exhausted. The defendant has the privilege of having the real estate sold first.

An execution may be issued at any time within seven years after rendition of judgment, except in case of death of the defendant. In case of death, the judgment may be revived against the personal representatives of the decedent, by a writ of scire facias. The execution binds the personal property of the judgment-debtor from the time it is issued till the next term of court.

Stay of Execution.—Stay of execution is only allowed when judgment has been rendered by a justice of the peace, and then for eight months, if security be filed and approved, without regard, however, to the amount of judgment debt.

TEXAS.—EXECUTIONS.—From and after the rising of every court it shall be the duty of the clerk to tax the costs of suit in every case incurred by the successful party, and issue execution, endorsing thereon the several items contained in the bill of costs. After twenty days from the date of final judgment rendered in the district court of any county where the term continues until the business is disposed of, or for a longer term than three weeks, and from the time of overruling motions for new trial, or motion in arrest of judgment therein, and if no supersedeas bond for appeal or writ of error has been filed and approved, execution may be then issued. The personal property of a judgment debtor is not bound unless enforced by a levy. There is no lien on personal property by virtue of execution without levy.

Stay of Execution.—In justices' courts only defendant may, within ten days from entry of original judgment, apply to the justice and have judgment stayed for three months upon giving good security for payment of judgment, interest, and costs, which security the justice must approve.

UTAH TERRITORY.—No stay now in this Territory after judgment.

VERMONT.—Personal property attached on mesne procéss, shall be held to respond to the judgment rendered on such process, thirty days from the time such judgment shall be rendered; and unless the plaintiff shall, within thirty days from the time of rendering final judgment take such property in execution, the same shall be discharged from such process, and real estate attached on such process shall be held five calendar months after the rendition of final judgment, unless such personal property or real estate are encumbered by a prior attachment, in which case such personal property may be held thirty days, and the real estate five calendar months after such is removed. There are no stay laws in force.

VIRGINIA.—A writ of fieri facias, or execution, is a lien from the time of its delivery to the sheriff or other officer to be executed, upon all the personal property of the judgment-debtor, except such as is exempt by law, and may be levied on the current money and bank notes, as well as on the goods and chattels of the judgment-debtor.

Stay of Execution.—A stay of execution is only granted when a party desires time to perfect an appeal, and is generally for thirty days.

WEST VIRGINIA. — An execution upon a judgment or decree, is a lien upon all the personal estate of the debtor, although not levied, and may be issued after the close of the term. Persons who purchase such estate without notice are protected.

Stay of Execution.—Stay of execution is only allowed when judgment has been obtained in a justice's court.

WISCONSIN.—An execution may be issued within five years after the rendition of the judgment, and an alias execution may be issued at any time thereafter within twenty years. But in cases where no execution has been issued within five years, execution can only be issued on leave granted by a court, or court commissioner.

Personal property is not bound by a judgment until execution is levied, and the personal property must first be exhausted before the real estate of the judgment-debtor can be levied on.

Stay of Execution.—There is no stay of execution upon judgment recovered in a court of record except by injunction.

The execution upon a judgment by a justice of the peace may be stayed upon giving sufficient security, as follows:

If the judgment be for a sum exceeding $10 exclusive of costs, one month; if above $10 and not exceeding $30, two months; if above $30 and not exceeding $50, three months; if above $50, four months.

WYOMING.—An execution issues any time within five years after rendition of judgment. All real and personal estate of the judgment-debtor not exempt is liable to seizure on execution.

There is no stay of execution.

EXEMPTIONS.

ing the homestead, and $1,000 worth of personal property.

ARKANSAS.—SEC. I. The personal property of any resident of this State, who is married or the head of a family, in specific articles to be selected by such resident, not exceeding in value the sum of two hundred dollars, in addition to his or her wearing apparel, shall be exempt from seizure on attachment or sale under execution or other process from any court issued for the collection of any debt by contract; Provided, That no personal property shall be exempt from execution for debts contracted for the purchase money therefor while in the hands of the vendee:

SEC. 2. The personal property of any resident of this State, who is married or the head of a family, in specific articles to be selected by such resident, not exceeding in value the sum of five hundred dollars in addition to his or her wearing apparel, and that of his or her family, shall be exempt from seizure on attachment or sale on execution or other process from any court, on debt by contract.

SEC. 3. The homestead of any resident of this State, who is married or the head of a family, shall not be subject to the lien of any judgment or decree of any court, or to sale under execution or other process thereon except such as may be rendered for the purchase money or for specific liens, laborer's or mechanic's liens for improving the same, or for taxes, or against executors, administrators, guardians, receivers, attorneys, for moneys collected by them, and other trustees of an express trust, for moneys due from them in their fiduciary capacity.

SEC. 4. The homestead outside any city, town, or village, owned and occupied as a residence, shall consist of not exceeding one hundred and sixty acres of land, with the improvements thereon to be selected by the owner, Provided the same shall not exceed in value the sum of twenty-five hundred dollars; and in no event shall the homestead be reduced to less than eighty acres without regard to value.

SEC. 5. The homestead in any city, town, or village, owned and occupied as a residence, shall consist of not exceeding one acre of land, with the improvements thereon, to be selected by the owner, provided the same shall not exceed in value twenty-five hundred dollars, and in no event shall such homestead be reduced to less than one-quarter of an acre, without regard to value.

The above exemptions apply only to debts contracted since the adoption of present Constitution (Oct. 31, 1874). To all debts contracted previously, the exemptions of the Constitution of 1868 apply. That allowed any resident of the State $2,000 worth of personal property, and a homestead worth $5,000.

and $1000 in personalty against all debts, except taxes, money borrowed and expended in the improvement of such property, purchase money of the same, labor done thereon, materials furnished therefor, or removal of incumbrances thereon. Such property, when set apart, shall be for the use of such family, or minors; nor can the husband encumber or alienate the same, without being joined therein by the wife, which must be approved by the court or ordinary.

ILLINOIS.—The following property, owned by the debtor, is exempt from sale under execution, writ of attachment, and distress for rent: 1. The necessary wearing apparel of every person. 2. One sewing machine. 3. The furniture, tools, and implements necessary to carry on his or her business or trade, worth not exceeding $100. 4. Materials and stock procured and necessary for carrying on the trade or business, and intended to be wrought therein, worth not exceeding $100. 5. The implements or library of any professional person, worth not exceeding $100.

And in addition to the above, when the debtor is the head of a family, the following: 1. Necessary beds, bedsteads, and bedding, two stoves and pipe. 2. Necessary household furniture, worth not exceeding $100. 3. One cow and calf, and two swine. 4. One yoke of oxen, or two horses in lieu thereof, used by the debtor in supporting his family, worth not exceeding $200; and the harness therefor, worth not exceeding $40. 5. Necessary provisions and fuel for the family for three months, and necessary food for exempted stock for three months. 6. The bibles, school books, and family pictures. 7. The family library. 8. Cemetery lots and tombs for repositories for the dead. 9. One hundred dollars worth of other property suited to the condition in life and selected by the debtor.

This exemption as to personal property to continue while the family, or any of them, are removing from one place of residence in the State to another.

A farm or lot of land and the buildings thereon, to the value of $1,000, owned or rightly possessed and occupied as a residence by the debtor, being a householder and having a family, are exempt from sale for debts contracted subsequent to July 4th, 1851, and from the laws of conveyance, descent, and devise. The exemption continues, after the death of the householder, for the benefit of the surviving husband or wife, while occupied as a residence, and of the children until the youngest becomes twenty-one years of age. This exemption does not extend to sales for non-payment of taxes or assessments, or for debts or liabilities incurred for the purchase or improvement thereof. Money received as insurance on exempted buildings destroyed, is exempt the same as the buildings were.

INDIANA.—Under the exemption laws of this State, $300 worth of property, real or personal, is exempt to a resident householder against an execution. The property to be exempted may be selected by the debtor.

IOWA.—If the debtor is a resident of this State, and is the head of a family, the following property is exempt from execution: All wearing apparel of himself and family kept for actual use, and suitable to their condition, and the trunks or other receptacles necessary to contain the same; one musket or rifle, and shotgun; all private libraries, family bibles, portraits, pictures, musical instruments, and paintings, not kept for the purpose of sale; a seat or pew occupied by the debtor or his family in any house of public worship; an interest in a public or private burying-ground, not exceeding one acre for any defendant; two cows and calf; one horse, unless a horse is exempt, as hereinafter provided; fifty sheep and the wool therefrom, and the materials manufactured from such wool; six stands of bees, five hogs, and all pigs under six months; the necessary food for all animals exempt from execution for six months; all flax raised by the defendant on not exceeding one acre of ground, and the manufactures therefrom; one bedstead and the necessary bedding for every two in the family; all cloth manufactured by the defendant, not exceeding one hundred yards in quantity; household and kitchen furniture not exceeding two hundred dollars in value; all spinning-wheels and looms; one sewing-machine and other instruments of domestic labor, kept for actual use; the necessary provisions and fuel for the use of the family for six months; the proper tools, instruments, or books of the debtor, if a farmer, mechanic, surveyor, clergyman, lawyer, physician, teacher, or professor; the horses, or team, consisting of not more than two horses or mules, or two yoke of cattle, and the wagon or other vehicle, with the proper harness or tackle by the use of which the debtor, if a physician, public officer, farmer, teamster, or other laborer, habitually earns his living; and to the debtor, if a printer, there shall also be exempt a printing-press and the types, furniture, and material necessary for the use of such printing-press and a newspaper office connected therewith—not to exceed, in all, the value of twelve hundred dollars.

The earnings of such debtor for his personal services or those of his family, at any time within ninety days next preceding the levy, are also exempt from execution and attachment.

To an unmarried person not the head of a family, and to non-residents, there is exempt their own ordinary wearing apparel and trunk necessary to contain the same. Where the debtor, if the head of a family, has started to leave the State, he shall have exempt only the ordinary wearing apparel of himself and family, and such other property, in addition, as he may select, in all not exceeding seventy-five dollars in value.

None of the exemptions provided for shall be allowed against an execution issued for the purchase-money of the property claimed to be exempt, and on which such execution is levied.

The homestead of every family, whether owned by husband or wife, is exempt from judicial sale, not, however, against debts contracted before the purchase and occupation thereof. If within a town-plat it must not exceed one-half acre in extent, and if not within such plat it must not embrace, in the aggregate, more than forty acres; but when so limited, if it does not, in either case, exceed five hundred dollars, it may be enlarged till its value reaches that amount.

KANSAS.—SEC. 1. A homestead to the extent of one hundred and sixty acres of farming land, or of one acre within the limits of an incorporated town or city, occupied as a residence by the family of the owner, together with all the improvements on the same, shall be exempt from forced sale under any process of law, and shall not be alienated without the joint consent of husband and wife, when that relation exists; but no property shall be exempt from sale for taxes, or for the payment of obligations contracted for the purchase of said premises, or for the erection of improvements thereon: Provided, The provisions of this section shall not apply to any process of law obtained by virtue of a lien given by the consent of both husband and wife.

SEC. 2. Whenever any levy shall be made upon the lands or tenements of a householder, whose homestead has not been selected and set apart, such householder, his wife, agent, or attorney, may notify the officer in writing at the time of making such levy, or at any time before the sale, of what he regards as his homestead with a description thereof, and the remainder alone shall be subject to sale under such levy.

SEC. 3. Every person residing in this State, and being the head of a family, shall have exempt from seizure and sale upon any attachment, execution, or other process issued from any court in this State the following articles of personal property: First. The family bible, school books, and family library. Second. Family pictures and musical instruments used by the family. Third. A seat or pew in any church or place of public worship, and a lot in any burial-ground. Fourth. All the wearing apparel of the debtor and his family; all beds, bedstead, and bedding used by the debtor and his family; one cooking-stove and appendages, and all other stoves and appendages necessary for the use of the debtor and his family; one sewing-machine; all spinning-wheels and looms, and all other implements of industry, and all other household furniture not herein enumerated not exceeding in value five hundred dollars. Fifth. Two cows, ten hogs, one yoke of oxen, and one horse or mule, or, in lieu of one yoke of oxen and one horse or mule, a span of horses or mules; twenty sheep, and the wool from the same, either in the raw material or manufactured into yarn or cloth. Sixth. The necessary food for the support of the stock mentioned in this section for one year, either provided or growing, or both, as the debtor may choose; also, one wagon, cart, or dray; two plows, one drag, and other farming utensils, including harness and tackle for teams, not exceeding in value three hundred dollars. Seventh. The grain, meat, vegetables, groceries, and other provisions on hand necessary for the support of the debtor and his family for one year, and also all the fuel on hand necessary for their use for one year. Eighth. The necessary tools and implements of any mechanic, miner, or other person, used and kept for the purpose of carrying on his trade or business, and in addition thereto, stock-in-trade, not exceeding four hundred dollars in value. Ninth. The library implements and office furniture of any professional man.

SEC. 4. The following property only shall be exempt from attachment and execution, when owned by any person residing in this State, other than the head of a family: First. The wearing apparel of the debtor. Second. A seat or pew in any church or place of public worship, and a lot in any burial-ground. Third. The necessary tools and instruments of any mechanic, miner, or other person used and kept for the purpose of carrying on his trade or business. And in addition thereto, stock-in-trade, as provided in the last section. Fourth. The library, implements, and office furniture of any professional man.

SEC. 5. Nothing in this act shall be construed as exempting any personal property from taxation or sale for taxes under the laws of this State.

SEC. 6. None of the personal property mentioned in this act shall be exempt from attachment or execution for the wages of any clerk, mechanic, laborer, or servant.

KENTUCKY.—The following property is exempt from execution under any process of law: One work-beast or yoke of oxen, one plow or gear, one axe, one hoe, two cows and calves; household and kitchen furniture, to the value of $100, necessary for family use; on all liabilities created subsequent to February 1st, 1860, so much land, including the dwelling house and appurtenances owned by the debtor, which does not exceed in value $1,000; the libraries of clergymen, lawyers, physicians and surgeons, and their instruments, to the amount of $500.

LOUISIANA.—The sheriff or constable cannot seize the linen and clothes belonging to the debtor or his wife, nor his months old; and if the debtor be in the business of agriculture, a yoke of oxen, or in lieu thereof, one pair of horses, ten sheep and the wool therefrom, either raw or manufactured; necessary food for stock for three months; one wagon, cart, or dray, two plows and one drag; gearing for team and other farming implements, not exceeding $50 in value. The debtor is also entitled to necessary provisions and fuel for six months' support of himself and family. The tools and instruments of any mechanic, miner, or other person, kept for the purpose of carrying on his trade or business, and the library and implements of a professional man, are also exempt.

But no property is exempt from execution or attachment for clerk's, laborer's, or mechanic's wages, or for money due and owing by any attorney-at-law; for money or other valuable consideration received by said attorney for any person or persons.

NEW HAMPSHIRE.—Under the exemption laws of this State, the following property, real and personal, is exempt from sale on execution:

All necessary wearing apparel of debtor and his family; beds and bedding for family use; and household furniture not to exceed in value $100; one cow, two hogs; mechanics' tools to the value of $100; six sheep and their fleeces; cooking stove and utensils, provisions and fuel, to the value of $50; books and library of the value of $200; and beasts of the plow, not exceeding a yoke of oxen, or a horse and four tons of hay.

The homestead of a householder, not exceeding in value $500, is exempt from execution on any cause of action which accrued since January 1st, 1852.

NEW JERSEY.—Goods and chattels to the value of $400, to a debtor, having a family, and in assignments by debtors for the benefit of their creditors, are exempted from sale on execution in this State. Also, the house and lot occupied as a residence and owned by the debtor, being a householder and having a family, not exceeding in value $1,000, is exempt; but the conveyance of the same must show that it is designed to be held as a homestead under the act.

NEW MEXICO. — Exemption.—A homestead in favor of the head of a family, and upon which he or she may be residing, is exempt from execution when not exceeding $1,000 in value. But in case the premises be worth more than $1,000, it is lawful for the officer to advertise and sell the same, and out of the proceeds pay to the debtor $1,000, which sum shall be exempt from execution for one year, and the excess is to be applied in satisfaction of the execution: Provided, If the premises do not bring more than $1,000, there shall be no sale. There is also exempt the clothing, beds and bed-clothing necessary for the use of the family, and firewood sufficient for thirty days, when actually provided and intended therefor; also, the bibles, hymn books, testaments, school books used by the family, and family pictures and religious pictures; also, any quantity of provisions actually provided and intended for the subsistence of the family, not exceeding $25 in value, and kitchen and household furniture of not more than $10 in value, all to be selected by the debtor; also, all tools and implements belonging to the debtor, whether agricultural or mechanical, that may be necessary to enable him to carry on his business, to be selected by him, and not to exceed $20 in value.

NEW YORK.—It is provided by statute that the following property, when owned by any person being a householder, shall be exempt from levy and sale under any execution:

All spinning wheels, weaving looms, and stoves used in any dwelling house; and one sewing machine, family bible, pictures, and school books used by the debtor's family, and other books not to exceed $50 in value. Ten sheep with their fleeces and the yarn or cloth manufactured from the same, one cow, two swine, and the necessary food for such stock, all necessary pork, beef, fish, flour, and vegetables, and fuel necessary for the use of the debtor's family for sixty days; all necessary wearing apparel, beds and bedding, necessary cooking utensils, tools and implements of a mechanic, necessary for carrying on his trade, not to exceed $25 in value. In addition to the above necessary household furniture and working tools, and team owned by any person being a householder or having a family for which he provides, not to exceed in value $250, and the necessary food for such team for ninety days, but such exemption does not extend to any execution issued on a demand for the purchase money of such furniture, tools, team, or food for the same, nor for any judgment rendered for work and labor performed in a family as a domestic.

Real estate, consisting of a lot and residence thereon, of the value of $1,000, when the same is set apart as a homestead, in pursuance of the statute in such case made and provided.

NORTH CAROLINA.—Under the exemption laws of this State, there is exempt from sale on execution, personal property not to exceed $500 in value, and a homestead not to exceed in value in any case $1,000; no property, however, is exempt from sale for payment of taxes, nor for the purchase money thereof.

OHIO.—The following property is exempt from sale on execution on any judgment or decree rendered:

Wearing apparel of family, beds, bedsteads, and bedding necessary for the use of the debtor's family, one stove and pipe, fuel for sixty days, one cow, two swine, or the pork therefrom, six sheep, the wool therefrom and the cloth and articles manufactured from the wool, and sufficient food for the exempt stock for sixty days. If the debtor owns no cow, swine, or sheep, he may have set apart in lieu thereof, furniture to the value of $31; all family bibles, books, and pictures, provisions to the value of $40, household and kitchen furniture to the value of $30. Tools and implements necessary for carrying on the trade of the debtor, to the value of $50.

The family homestead of each head of a family under the present law of this State, is exempt from sale on execution on any judgment or decree rendered on any cause of action accruing since April 9th, 1869, provided the homestead does not exceed $1,000 in value.

A homestead of the value of $500, is exempt from sale on execution on any judgment, etc., rendered on any cause of action which accrued prior to April 9th, 1869.

When the judgment debtor is a resident of Ohio, and the head of a family, and is not the owner of a homestead, he is entitled to select or have selected further personal property to the amount of $500 as exempt.

OREGON.—The following personal property, is exempt from sale under an execution, except when the cause of action was for the purchase price of the same:

Books, pictures, and musical instruments to the value of $75, wearing apparel to the value of $100, and if a householder, $50 for each member of the family; tools, implements, apparatus, team, vehicle, harness, or library when necessary in the occupation or profession of the debtor, to the value of $400.

If the judgment-debtor be a householder, ten sheep with one year's fleece, two cows, five swine, household goods, furniture and utensils, not to exceed in value $300; the seat or pew occupied by the debtor or his family in any place of public worship; also, the property of the State and municipal corporation.

PENNSYLVANIA.—Property exempt from levy and sale under an execution.

Act of April 9, 1849, exempts property of the value of three hundred dollars, exclusive of wearing apparel, bibles, and school books of the family from levy and sale, and distress for rent. The right to the exemption may be waived in any note or judgment. The exemption must be claimed on execution.

Act of April 17, 1869.—Sewing machines of seamstresses exempt from levy and sale and distress for rent.

Act of March 4, 1870.—All sewing machines owned by private families, are exempt from levy and sale. A mortgagor not entitled to the exemption as against the mortgagee, whether the judgment be obtained on the mortgage or the accompanying bond; neither is the defendant in an action of tort.

RHODE ISLAND.—The exemptions in this State from sale on execution are: Household furniture and family stores of a housekeeper, provided they do not exceed $200 in value; all the necessary wearing apparel of the debtor and his family; one cow and hog; and the tools or implements of the trade or profession of the debtor to the value of $50.

SOUTH CAROLINA.—By the Constitution, the following property is exempt from attachment, levy, or sale: The family homestead and lands appurtenant, not to exceed in value $1,000; the yearly product thereof; household furniture, beds, and bedding, family library, arms, carts, wagons, farming implements, tools, neat cattle, work animals, swine, goats, and sheep, not to exceed in aggregate value $500; also, all wearing apparel. Such property is not exempt as against taxes or obligations for the purchase of the homestead, or for the erection of improvements thereon; nor are the yearly products exempt from obligations contracted in the production of the same.

By statute, the one-third of the annual products of agricultural laborers, mechanics, artisans, tradesmen of every description, and of the yearly proceeds of every person of every avocation, without regard to valuation, character, or condition of products or earnings, is also exempt, except as against taxes.

TENNESSEE.—The following property under the exemption laws of this State, are exempt from execution, seizure, or attachment in the hands of heads of families: Necessary household and kitchen furniture for the use of the debtor and his family; two cows and calves; and if the family consist of six or more persons, three cows, or cows and calves; two horses or two mules, or one horse and mule, or one horse or mule, and one yoke of oxen; one ox cart, yoke, ring, staple, and log chain; one two-horse or one-horse wagon, worth at most $75, and harness; one man's saddle, one woman's saddle, two riding bridles, 25 bbls. corn, 20 bus. wheat, 500 bundles oats, 500 bundles fodder, 1 stack hay, worth at most $20. If family less than six persons, 1,000 lbs. pork, or 600 lbs. bacon; poultry and fowls to value of $25; a home-made carpet, 6 cords of wood, or 100 bus. of coal; one sewing machine. If head of family engaged in agriculture, 2 plows, 2 hoes, 1 grubbing hoe, 1 cutting knife, 1 harvest cradle, 1 set plow gears, 1 pitchfork, 1 rake, 3 iron wedges, 5 sheep, and 10 stock hogs; 1 set of mechanic's tools of each mechanic, one gun, 50 lbs. picked cotton, and 25 lbs. wool, and enough upper and sole leather to make winter shoes for the family. To each mechanic, who is the head of a family, $50 worth of lumber or material.

The personalty amounts to from $1,200 to $2,000.

A homestead worth $1,000.

TEXAS.—The following property is exempt, under the laws of this State, from sale under an execution: All household and kitchen furniture, all implements of husbandry, all tools and apparatus belonging to any trade or profession, and all books belonging to private or public libraries, five milch cows and calves, two yoke of work oxen, two horses, and one wagon, one carriage or buggy, one gun, twenty hogs, twenty head of sheep, all provisions and forage on hand for home consumption, all saddles, bridles, and harness necessary for the use of the family; and to every citizen not the head of a family, one horse, bridle, and saddle; all wearing apparel, all tools, apparatus, and books belonging to his private library.

The homestead of a family, not to exceed two hundred acres of land (not included in a city, town, or village); or any city, town, or village lots, not to exceed $5,000 in value, are not subject to forced sale for debts, except for purchase money thereof, taxes, or labor, and materials expended thereon.

UTAH TERRITORY.—A homestead, not to exceed $1,000, $250 for each individual member of the family. Also, personalty, as in New York.

VERMONT.—The following property is exempt from attachment and execution in this State:

Wearing apparel, bedding, arms, tools, and articles of household furniture necessary for the debtor and his family; one sewing machine, one cow, the best swine, or the meat of one swine, ten sheep, and one year's product of such sheep, in wool, yarn, or cloth; necessary forage for ten sheep and a cow for one winter; ten cords of firewood, twenty bushels of potatoes, all growing crops, ten bushels of grain, one barrel of flour, three swarms of bees and hives, with the honey; two hundred pounds of sugar; school books and bibles, and other books in family use; live poultry not to exceed $10 in value; the library and professional instruments of physicians, clergymen, or lawyers, not to exceed $200 in value; one yoke of oxen or steers, with necessary forage for winter.

The homestead of every housekeeper or head of a family, consisting of a dwelling-house, out-buildings, and the land used in connection therewith, not to exceed $500 in value, used or kept by such housekeeper or head of a family as a homestead is, with the rents, issues, and products thereof, exempt from execution and attachment, except for taxes assessed, or for a cause of action existing at time of recording deed designating such land or place as a homestead.

VIRGINIA.—A householder and head of a family has exempt from distress or levy one cow, one horse, one sewing machine, and necessary household furniture, as specified in detail by the statute; and if engaged in agriculture, one yoke of oxen or one pair of horses or mules, with necessary agricultural implements, similarly specified. In case of a mechanic, his tools, not exceeding $100 in value, are also exempt. Every householder or head of a family is also entitled, in addition to the above, to an exemption of his real and personal property, or either, to the value of not exceeding two thousand dollars, to be selected by him. But such exemption shall not extend to any debt in the following cases: For the purchase price of said property; for services rendered by a laboring person or mechanic; for liabilities incurred by any public officer. The following, or equivalent words, in a note, bond, or other contract, are sufficient to operate as a waiver of this homestead exemption:

"I hereby waive the benefit of my homestead exemption as to this debt, obligation, or contract."

WEST VIRGINIA.—Under the exemption laws of this State a debtor is entitled to $200 worth of personal estate exempt from execution or other process of law, except when the cause is for work or labor performed in a family as a domestic, or for the purchase money thereof, or for taxes.

WISCONSIN.—The property exempt in this State from sale under an execution is as follows:

Family pictures, school-books, bible or library; wearing apparel of debtor and his family; household and kitchen furniture to the value of $200; two cows, ten swine, one yoke of oxen and a horse, or in lieu of them, a span of horses, ten sheep, and the wool therefrom, either as raw material or manufactured into yarn or cloth; necessary food for the stock mentioned for one year. One wagon, cart, or dray, one sleigh, plough, drag, and other farming utensils, including tackle for team to the value of $50; provisions and fuel for one year's consumption. Tools and implements, or stock-in-trade, of any mechanic, miner, or other person, used and kept for the purpose of carrying on his trade, to the value of $200; the library and implements of any professional man to the value of $200.

A homestead consisting of not more than forty acres of land, with the dwelling house thereon and its appurtenances, not included in any town plot, city, or village, or if situated within a town plot, city, or village, the same cannot exceed one quarter of an acre in extent, is exempt from forced sale, except when the cause of action upon which judgment is rendered was for any mechanic's or laborer's lien, or any lawfully obtained mortgage.

WYOMING TERRITORY.—Personal property not exceeding in value $250 is exempt from seizure and sale under the laws of this Territory. The homestead of the judgment-debtor, actually occupied by him as such, if its value does not exceed $1,500, is also exempt from seizure and sale under any process of law.

INSOLVENT AND ASSIGNMENT LAWS.

ARIZONA TERRITORY.—There are no insolvent or assignment laws in this Territory.

ARKANSAS.—State law obsolete, the national bankrupt law taking its place in practice.

CALIFORNIA.—An insolvent debtor may, in good faith, execute an assignment of property to one or more assignees in trust, for the satisfaction of his creditors; subject, however, to the law relative to trusts, and to fraudulent transfers. And a person residing in another State or county may, in good faith, and without intent to evade the laws of this State, make a transfer of property situated within it. And a person within this State, although insolvent, may make a transfer to a particular creditor for the purpose of paying or securing the whole or a part of a debt owing to such creditor, whether in his own right or the right of another. An assignment for the benefit of creditors may provide for any subsisting liability of the assignor which he might lawfully pay, whether absolute or contingent.

Any person may make an assignment of his property to his creditors, either with or without their consent, and be thereby forever discharged from all his debts and liabilities. However, the insolvent laws are but little used since the bankrupt laws of the United States were passed.

COLORADO.—No insolvent laws.

CONNECTICUT.—Debtor is entitled to absolute discharge, if upon final settlement the estate shall pay seventy per cent. or more on the claims allowed against said estate, and on receiving certificate to that effect shall be absolutely and wholly discharged from all his debts, founded on contract which shall have been actually proved against said estate, except such as may have accrued against him by reason of any breach of trust or fraud.

No claim shall be allowed by the commissioners which shall not have been exhibited to them within the time limited.

If estate does not pay seventy per cent., and debtor obtains discharge, dividends received by creditors apply on claims, and balance of claim is good against debtor.

DELAWARE.—Any resident for a year of this State, being imprisoned for debt, may make application to the superior court to be released. The petition shall set forth the cause of imprisonment, his insolvency, account of his real and personal property, debts, credits, etc. The petition being preferred, the court shall summon his creditors to show cause why he should not be released on assigning his property for the benefit of his creditors.

Any creditor of not less than fifty dollars, may file an allegation of fraud which shall be tried by jury. If fraud shall appear, the petition may be dismissed.

The debtor obtains his discharge on assigning over all his property, if no fraud appears, but he is still bound to persons who were not summoned. If any debt due or existing shall not be fully satisfied, it may be recovered out of any estate the petitioner may afterwards acquire. No proceedings under insolvent laws shall affect prior liens.

NOTE. — Proceedings under insolvent laws are very rare.

FLORIDA.—There are no insolvent laws in this State, except such as relate to insolvent estates of decedents.

GEORGIA.—There are no insolvent laws in this State. Insolvents are sufficiently protected by the homestead and exemptions allowed by law.

Creditors may become parties to a deed of assignment of debtor's assets, and of course those consenting are bound by the dividend paid; but there is no provision in the law of this State for assignments generally in favor of creditors.

A debtor can prefer certain of his creditors and make an assignment in their favor; but other creditors can still sue, attach, or levy upon the assets so assigned, as the nature of their demands may warrant notwithstanding such assignment.

ILLINOIS.—A debtor acting honestly and surrendering his property in execution, is free from molestation. If, for any of the causes specified in ARRESTS (ante), he is under arrest or imprisoned, he may discharge himself therefrom by applying to the county court and offering a full, fair and complete schedule of all his estate of every nature and description, together with a true and perfect account of all debts and accounts then owing, subscribed and sworn to by him. Any creditor may contest the schedule, and examine the debtor and call witnesses. The court being satisfied of the fairness and correctness of the schedule, causes the specific property exempt from execution (see EXEMPTIONS, ante), to be set apart to the debtor, and by indorsement on the schedule transfers to an assignee the title of the debtor therein, for the benefit of the creditors, whereupon the debtor is discharged from arrest, and from all liability as to debts so scheduled. The creditor files his claim with the county clerk, verified by the affidavit of some one knowing the facts, that the amount is justly due after allowing all payments and offsets, and no interested person contesting, the claim is allowed. Any creditor within one year, upon petition to the court, may re-examine the debtor as to the correctness of the schedule. Within eighteen months the assignee makes final settlement and dividend of the assets in his hands. Appeals are allowed to the circuit court on final orders and judgments of the county court under the act. The debtor's discharge, as to debts scheduled, appears to be final, and in the absence of fraud or deceit is unaffected by an acceptance or refusal of dividends by creditors. Before a debtor can be imprisoned, the creditor in the writ must advance the jail fees weekly, and upon failure the debtor is at once discharged from arrest simply. The debtor, not being entitled to a discharge under the act, and the plaintiff being willing to advance the jail fees, the latter may have his debt satisfied by imprisonment, at the rate of $1.50 per day.

Assignments.—A debtor may prefer one creditor, pay him fully, and leave nothing for others equally meritorious. If in failing circumstances, he may make an assignment for the benefit of his creditors, and if fairly and honestly done, the title to his property vests in the assignee. No preference being made by him, the creditors have an equitable lien for their pro rata proportions. The assignee takes all the rights of the debtor in the property, and receives it with all its burdens; and the assignee's acts within the scope of his authority, bind debtor, creditor, and himself. A failing debtor may prefer one or more of his creditors, by deed of assignment, if properly executed and without fraud, but it will be subject to rigid scrutiny.

INDIANA. — Assignments may be general or partial, and creditors may be preferred, in the absence of fraud. No discharge granted to debtor unless payment be made in full.

IOWA. — Debtors can make assignments for the benefit of their creditors, but the statutes provide for no discharge. And if the assignment is a general one, all preferences are prohibited and are void. But the insolvent debtor has the right to make payment of the claims of part of his creditors, to the exclusion of others; or to secure the claims of part without providing that other creditors shall participate in the benefits of the security. All his property may be given in payment or security to one of his creditors, and the transaction will not be considered fraudulent or void because in contravention of the provisions of our statutes, which requires all general assignments made in contemplation of insolvency to be for the benefit of all the creditors of the insolvent.

KANSAS.—There is no law in this State on the subject of insolvency.

A debtor may assign all his property (not exempt from levy and sale on execution) for the benefit of all his creditors. The deed of assignment must be certified and acknowledged, and recorded in the office of the register of deeds of the county in which the debtor resides or does business. And within thirty days from date of assignment the assignee must file a schedule, duly verified, of all the effects and things assigned in the office of the clerk of the district court of the county where the deed is recorded.

There is no provision made for the discharge of the debtor; but the assignment ties up and appropriates all of the debtor's property to the payment of his debts pro rata.

KENTUCKY.—Any person taken or charged in execution, may by petition, after ten days' notice, with a schedule of the property he intends to surrender, served on adverse party, apply for a discharge to two justices of the peace, or the presiding judge of the county, or the police judge of the county town, who may discharge him on his appearance before him or them, on his delivering to them under oath a schedule of his effects, which become assets in the hands of the sheriff of the county for the benefit of his execution creditors. Effects exempt from execution not included as such assets. The provisions of the act extend to a person imprisoned by order of a court of chancery to compel the payment of money under a judgment of such court. An execution may issue after the discharge of a prisoner for the unsatisfied portion of a creditor's judgment. No revival of the judgment necessary. Sales, mortgages, or assignments made by debtors and judgments suffered by defendants, or any act or device done or resorted to by a debtor in contemplation of insolvency operate as an assignment of all debtor's property for the benefit of his creditors. The debtor cannot in any way, under State laws, obtain his discharge. Failure to prove a claim no bar to future action. If creditor did not prove claim before assignee, the assignee is discharged; but creditor may sue other distributees for equitable division, and secure from them a pro rata share of the amount paid to them from insolvent's estate.

In accepting dividend creditor is only required to credit amount on debt.

LOUISIANA.—The Insolvent and Assignment Laws.—Voluntary extra judicial assignments of property to creditors, or to give preference to creditors, are void.

The laws on the subject of insolvency are of civil law origin, and in the main the cessio bonorum of that system. The debtor, by a formal judicial surrender of his property to his creditors, is discharged from his debts. This binds all—all citizens of the State, and such foreign creditors as come in and receive their share of the proceeds, under the tableau of distribution and decree thereon.

If the debtor subsequently comes to another fortune, he can be compelled to make a second surrender of all except a competence (beneficium competentiæ), unless a majority of creditors in number and amount have agreed to his absolute discharge. The estate surrendered is managed by syndic appointed by votes of the creditors. A creditor notified of the proceedings and residing in the State is barred whether he proves his debt or not. Not so as to non-residents, who, if they do not prove their debts or accept a dividend, are not bound.

There is another proceeding called respite. A debtor who is embarrassed may, by suit, call upon his creditor to show cause why further time, not exceeding three years, should not be granted to him. A majority of the creditors can grant an extension of time, not exceeding three years, and it binds the others. If they refuse the debtor's proposal, a surrender to his creditors takes place, is ipso facto, and they appoint a syndic to take charge of and sell the property and pay the debts.

Mortgage and privileged creditors are not bound by the proceedings for a respite.

MAINE.—The assignment must convey all the debtor's estate, except what is exempt from attachment and be for the benefit of all creditors becoming parties thereto. A release may be inserted, which shall forever discharge the assignor from the claims of the creditors becoming parties thereto. If the creditor does not become a party, the assignment has no other effect upon his rights than to prevent an attachment.

The aid of the law has not been frequently invoked since the passage of the bankrupt act.

MARYLAND.—Insolvent Laws.—The insolvent must give three months notice before the day appointed by court for interrogatories, etc.

If the creditors shall fail to make allegations, or if the insolvent shall answer satisfactorily, the court shall discharge the insolvent from all debts and contracts, including liabilities as endorser, or surety, or joint-contractor; but no other endorser or surety is hereby released.

After the petition of insolvency is filed, no lien by fieri facias or attachment can obtain; but if there be any property or debts not mentioned in the schedule, it may be taken under a fieri facias. A creditor will hereby obtain, not the property itself, but priority of lien thereon.

Provision is not made for creditors who have failed to prove their claims.

Assignments.—Assignees of judgment, bonds, legacies, or any choses in action may maintain action in the same manner as the assignor.

An assignee, as defendant, may make defense in all respects as the assignor.

If a legal plaintiff in any suit for the use of another die, then his representative may prosecute as if he had not died.

If a surety or endorser pay or tender money on a bond or bill of exchange, he shall be entitled to an assignment of the bond or bill, and may have action against the debtor.

In judgment against the principal, if the surety pay the money, he shall have an assignment of the judgment.

If judgment be against several securities, and one pay the whole, he alone shall have assignment of judgment; only, no defendant shall be hereby debarred of remedy by audita querela, or other equitable proceedings.

An assignee of a bond, etc., may have action in his own name against the obligor; and, if he cannot be found, then against the obligee, unless the said assignee be a surety therein; and if through the fault or negligence of the assignee, the debt be lost, then the assignor shall not be liable. Upon default of the obligor, the obligee must swear before a magistrate that he has not received the money, before any action in the assignee's name can be had.

The operation and effect of the bankrupt laws have rendered proceedings under the State insolvent laws almost inoperative. It is a very general practice in this State for debtors to make assignments, or deeds of trust, of all their property for the benefit of such creditors as will release and take a dividend under the distribution of assets.

Trustees file the deed, give bond, sell debtor's property, collect all assets, and distribute the fund among all who file their claims under the orders of our equity courts.

Those creditors who fail or refuse to come in and share the dividends, have no interest in the trust estate. Deeds of trust usually provide a given time in which creditors shall file their claims or otherwise they are excluded. This is the most speedy and economical mode of settling insolvent debtors' estates.

Of course, in case of an adjudication, bankrupt proceedings will swallow trust estates.

MASSACHUSETTS.—There is an insolvent law very similar in its provisions to the United States bankrupt law previous to the recent amendments. Debtor obtains his discharge provided he pays fifty per cent. upon his indebtedness, and complies with all the provisions of the statute; or, irrespective of the dividend, if he files the written consent of a majority in number and value of his creditors. This discharge bars all claims of creditors residing in the State, whether they prove their claims or accept a dividend or not. Claims of creditors residing out of the State are barred by a discharge if proved against the insolvent's estate, but not otherwise.

MICHIGAN.—Any and every insolvent debtor may be disharged from his debts in the manner provided for by Chap. CCXXXI. of Compiled Laws of 1873.

This chapter requires a petition, under oath, setting forth a true statement of creditors and their places of residence, the sum owing to each, and the nature and character of the demand, the consideration of the debt, and statement of all security where such has been given and a full and true inventory of all his estate, real and personal, and of all books, vouchers, and securities, and asking for an order from the judicial officer to whom the petition is addressed, directing creditors to show cause why the insolvent should not make an assignment of his estate and be discharged from his debts. Notice of this application is to be given to each creditor, and a hearing had on the day assigned, when the insolvent may be examined under oath if desired by any creditor. If it appear that the applicant for discharge has, in contemplation of this proceeding, given a preference to any antecedent creditor, he shall not be entitled to a discharge; but if all be found regular and honest on the part of the applicant, an assignment will be ordered to such person as the creditors may nominate or the judge direct; and upon the certificate of the assignee that this been done, the debtor shall receive his discharge, and such discharge shall release the debtor from all debts of creditors uniting in the petition, or who shall have accepted a dividend from the estate of the insolvent; and such discharge may be pleaded under notice given with general issue in bar of all such claims. But such discharge shall be void in case of fraud practiced by the petitioner, in any of the modes specified in the statute, as to suppression or concealment of property, or fraudulent reporting of indebtedness, etc.

MINNESOTA.—We have no general law applicable to assignments for benefit of creditors, in regard to debtors obtaining a discharge under such assignment. Participation in such assignments, by accepting dividend, does not release the debtor, unless there is a special agreement to that effect. A discharge in such cases is a matter of negotiation between the parties, and is usually granted where debtor has acted in good faith.

MISSOURI.—Voluntary assignments of lands, tenements, goods, chattels, effects, and credits made by a debtor to any person in trust for his creditors, inures to the benefit of creditors of the assignor in proportion to their respective claims.

Assignments are acknowledged and recorded as in cases wherein real estate is conveyed.

The administration of an estate assigned for benefit of creditors, is under the eye of the circuit court, and subject to its direction.

A sworn inventory is required to be filed in the office of the clerk of such court, showing all property and effects, so far as they have been discovered. A sworn appraisement of the property so inventoried, made by two or more disinterested persons appointed by the court, must also be filed in court, and at the time of filing such appraisement, and before entering on his active duties, the assignor must give bond, with at least two sufficient sureties, to be approved by the court, or judge, or clerk thereof in vacation, in double the value of the estate as per appraisement.

The assignor is required, within six months after the assignment, to appoint a day and place for the adjustment and allowance of demands against the estate of the assignor.

Payment of demands allowed is required to be made by the assignor as soon after allowance as practicable, and within one month thereafter.

The action of the assignor may be re viewed by the circuit court on appeal taken.

The effect, as well as object of the law governing voluntary assignments, is to secure an equitable distribution of the estate of the assignor.

Digitized by Google

Creditors failing to prove their demands are simply debarred from any benefit of the estate assigned, but have their right of action unimpaired. Creditors receiving distribution may still have their action at law for any unpaid balance.

NEBRASKA.—The common law relative to assignments for the benefit of creditors is in force, and there are no statutes changing the rights or liabilities of an insolvent debtor or his creditors.

NEW HAMPSHIRE.—An assignment by a debtor of all his property for the benefit of all his creditors, when properly sworn to as the statute prescribes, is effectual to pass to the assignee all the debtor's property which is to be divided among his creditors in proportion to their claims. All creditors are presumed to assent to the assignment unless they expressly dissent within thirty days after notice. Suits by assenting creditors are discontinued, and claim and costs are allowed against debtor, and the estate is to be divided in the end, pro rata, among the assenting creditors. Those creditors who dissent take no benefit under the assignment.

Debtor does not get a full discharge upon any debt.

The assignee is required to give bond, and he then goes on under the assignment, and settles the debtor's affairs, very much as he would settle an insolvent estate.

NEW MEXICO.—There is no statute on the subject. It is presumed that the doctrines of the Mexican law, as it existed at the time of the acquisition of this Territory, ought to govern.

NEW JERSEY.—Every assignment made by a debtor or debtors of his or her estate, real or personal, or both, in trust to assignee or assignees, shall be for the equal benefit of such creditors, in proportion to their several demands.

The assignee must give three months' notice of the assignment; and if any creditor shall not exhibit his claim within the term of three months, as aforesaid, such claim shall be barred of a dividend. The debtor is not discharged from his liability to such of his creditors who may not choose to exhibit their claims, either in regard to the persons of such debtors, or to any estate not assigned; but with respect to the creditors who shall come in under said assignment and exhibit their demands, as aforesaid, they shall be wholly barred from having afterwards any action or suit at law or equity against such debtors or their representatives.

NEW YORK.—In this State there is a statute for the benefit of the insolvent debtor, known by the familiar title of the "Two-third Act," under which the debtor may be discharged from his indebtedness by making an assignment of what estate he may have, and obtain the consent in writing of two-thirds of his creditors in number, that an order be entered by the court, decreeing his discharge from all liabilities. But the remedy is seldom resorted to, and is only used when the utter insolvency of the debtor is so patent that to keep the load of his misfortunes upon his shoulders only serves to add to its burden, with no benefit to either the creditor or debtor.

Assignment.—A statute exists which authorizes the assignment by a person unable to pay his debts, for the benefit of all his creditors, but without preference.

It must be in form approved by the practice under the statute, and must be executed by signature and acknowledgment of debtor, and the acceptance duly acknowledged by the assignee, and filed in the county clerk's office of the county in which the debtor resides.

The debtor has twenty days in which to file in the same office schedules showing his assets and liabilities; and the assignee has ten days in which to file in such office, duly approved by the county judge, a bond for the security of the creditors for the faithful performance of his trust; and until the same has been so filed, the assignee cannot take possession of or convert to the purpose of the trust any of the property mentioned in the assignment.

The schedule of liabilities should contain all his creditors, each of whom is entitled to a pro rata payment whether they prove their demands or not; and they will be bound by a tender of such payment or dividend to its extent, and entitled to judgment for the balance up to the full amount of original indebtedness.

The debtor is not entitled to a discharge unless accorded by the creditors on consent, any one of whom may withhold his until he be paid in full.

The acceptance of a pro rata payment does not release the balance of the demand.

The assignee may be discharged from his trust after the expiration of one year from the filing of the assignment, on his, or the application of either of his sureties, and the effect of his discharge will be to release his sureties on the bond.

Since the recent amendments of the United States bankrupt law, proceedings under this statute have been much resorted to in the adjustment of the affairs of embarrassed debtors, and seems to be well adapted for the mutual benefit of all concerned.

NORTH CAROLINA. — Insolvents may get a discharge by filing a petition and rendering a schedule, upon which the property is assigned to a trustee for the benefit of the creditors. If no fraud is suggested, the insolvent gets a discharge as to his person, but not as to any after-acquired property; that is, the debt is not discharged. No creditor is bound by the discharge who is not notified. If fraud be suggested and found true, the debtor will be imprisoned until he makes a full and fair surrender.

OHIO.—When any person makes an assignment for the benefit of creditors, the assignee must, within ten days, and before disposing of any of the property, file the deed of assignment in the probate court of the county where the assignor resided, and give bond, with sureties, to the satisfaction of the probate judge for the faithful performance of his duties as assignee; and must, within thirty days, file in court an inventory under oath of all the property of the assignor that has come to his knowledge, and a schedule of the liabilities of the assignor; and the property must be appraised by three disinterested persons, appointed by the probate judge, and sworn to a faithful performance of their duty.

The assignee must then proceed, under the order of the probate judge, to convert the property of the assignor into money, and must also give notice of his appointment as assignee in some newspaper of general circulation in the county.

Creditors have six months in which to present their claims, which must be sworn to.

At the expiration of eight months, and sooner if practicable, the assignee may, under the order of the probate judge, declare a dividend out of the assets, of which he shall give notice as of his appointment; and if there be any unfinished business he may, upon a proper showing, have additional time to close up the estate.

The claims of operatives for labor performed within six months immediately preceding the assignment to an amount not exceeding one hundred dollars for each one to be paid in full.

Before declaring a dividend, the assignee may be allowed, in full, for ordinary services, the following commissions on monies collected and accounted for, to wit: six per cent. on the first one thousand; four per cent. on the excess to five thousand; two per cent. on the excess of five thousand; and upon a proper showing by an itemized bill, supported by affidavit, the court will make an allowance for extraordinary services or expenses, and for counsel fees.

If creditors whose claims amount to one thousand dollars, shall petition the court for permission to elect an assignee, the court shall cause all the creditors to be notified by written or printed notices of a day when the creditors will meet at the court-room for such an election, and on the day named, if creditors representing fifty per cent. of the debts shall appear in person, or by attorney, they may proceed to an election, and a majority in number and value shall elect. And the election shall be evidenced in writing, signed by the creditors, and filed in court; and thereupon, if the assignee so elected appear in court within ten days, and give bond he shall succeed to the rights of the former assignee. The court may, at any time, for cause, remove an assignee, and appoint another one.

OREGON.—There is no statute law on the subject of insolvents and assignments.

The common law is in force.

PENNSYLVANIA. — OF INSOLVENTS.—The effect of the insolvent law is to discharge a debtor from prison, who, having resided in the State six months, or been in jail three months, makes his application for his discharge, and gives a bond with surety to the plaintiff, approved by the Court of Common Pleas, that he will present his petition to the next term of the said court, for the benefit of the insolvent laws, etc. The insolvent's petition must be presented to the next term of court, and contain a statement of his property, debts, and cause of insolvency. The court then fixes a time for hearing, of which fifteen days' notice must be given to creditors. At the hearing, the petitioner shall exhibit a just and true account of his debts, credits, and estates, and produce all books and papers in his possession, and answer all questions put to him, and shall satisfy the court that he has not concealed any of his property. If upon examination, there shall not arise a strong presumption of fraud, he is entitled to his discharge from prison, after which he declares on oath that he will deliver up and transfer to trustees all his property for the benefit of creditors; and upon the making of the assignment, the court will decree his discharge.

The effect of the discharge is a release from imprisonment, unless he be in custody or confinement at the time of such order, by virtue of process issued on any judgment obtained in an action founded upon actual force, or upon actual fraud, or deceit, or an action for libel or slander, malicious prosecution or conspiracy, action for seduction or crim. con., where the damages found by the jury exceed one hundred dollars.

If the petitioner be arrested on such process, he must remain in prison at least sixty days. Where the court shall direct personal service to be given the creditors, the petitioner's discharge shall not affect the rights and proceedings of those who have not received personal notice. Petitioner's discharge in another county than his residence, not to protect him from arrest or imprisonment for any debt, unless owing to the party at whose suit he was arrested. Petitioner's discharge not to release any other person from any debt to which he was subject. Petitioner entitled to the benefit of the exemption laws (which see). On satisfaction of creditors, property to be restored to debtor after acquired property liable to insolvent's debts. Court may decree exemption from execution for seven years, on a consent of a majority in number and value of creditors.

As to criminal proceedings against insolvents, see article "ARREST."

Of assignments for the benefit of creditors.—Deed of assignment to be recorded within thirty days, otherwise invalid.

Digitized by Google

Assignees to file inventory of the estate and effects of the assignee within thirty days. Estate and effects to be appraised under oath, by at least two appraisers appointed by the court, or any judge thereof. Assignees to file bond in double amount of the appraisement.

Preferment in assignments void, except for wages amounting to not more than $200.

Assignor may elect to retain property of the value of $300.

It is customary to allow an assignee one year's time to settle his trust. No time is fixed by statute. After an assignee's account is filed and confirmed by the court, the balance in his hands, after paying expenses, etc., is referred by the court to an auditor for distribution pro rata among all the creditors of the assignor who appear and prove their claims. . Failure of a creditor to appear before the auditor and prove his claim, loses his right only to a dividend. The effect of proving a claim and accepting a dividend is to give credit on the claim for the amount received. It does not discharge the balance of the debt, but the same may be sued on, and judgment obtained, and any after-acquired property seized and taken on execution to satisfy the judgment.

RHODE ISLAND.—There is no insolvent law in this State in force. The bankrupt law is in force here, and has fully taken the place of our former insolvent law.

We have no law against assignments; neither is there any in favor of them. An assignment will hold here unless bankruptcy proceedings are commenced; and creditors who do not release, are not affected by the assignment.

SOUTH CAROLINA. — A debtor who is under an arrest, not consented to or procured by himself, may obtain a discharge by the surrender of his estate in satisfaction of the debts wherewith he stands charged. To this end he exhibits his petition to the court of common pleas of the county wherein he is confined, setting forth the causes of his imprisonment, with a full and particular schedule of his estate and effects. Upon such petition the creditors—as well those at whose suit he is held as all others—are summoned by notice published for three months, to appear in the court on a day appointed, and to show cause against his discharge. If no sufficient cause be shown, the insolvent debtors' oath is administered to the petitioner in open court; and upon his examination, if the same be satisfactory, the court causes an assignment to be made of the estate and effects of the debtor, either to the creditor at whose suit the arrest was made, or to such other person as the court may appoint, first setting aside to the debtor's use such articles of property as are by law exempt. He is thereupon discharged. The assignment operates to vest in the assignee all of the estate of the debtor, whether included in his schedule or not. A discharge so obtained is held by the courts to be a complete discharge—(1) from all existing judgments; (2) from all claims upon which suits are pending at the time of the discharge; and (3) from the claims of all other creditors who accept a dividend of the assigned estate. Those creditors who do not accept a dividend are prohibited to sue the debtor for any antecedent debt for twelve months after the discharge. In the distribution of the assigned assets, judgments, executions, and mortgages are preferred to the extent of their respective liens. The balances unsatisfied by the liens, come in for payment ratably with all other debts.

Assignment.—The right of a debtor to make an assignment of his estate for the benefit of his creditors is not controlled by statute. By such assignments he may prefer one creditor to another, may prescribe terms for their acceptance, and may require a release in full as the condition of receiving a dividend. In the exercise, however, of this right, the debtor is held by the courts to a very strict rule of good faith.

The provisions of the statute law are directed mainly to securing to the creditors a participation in the administration of the assignment. To this end, it is made the duty of the assignee of the debtor, within ten days after the execution of the deed, to call together the creditors, who, when assembled, are authorized to appoint an agent or agents equal in number to the assignees. The agent or agents so appointed act jointly with the assignee or assignees in the administration of the trust. Should the creditors, after being called together, refuse or neglect, within ten days thereafter, to appoint an agent, the assignee may proceed to execute the provisions of the assignment, without the concurrence of the creditors. Should the assignee delay, neglect, or refuse to assemble the creditors within the ten days prescribed, the creditors may, of their own motion, meet and appoint an agent, who may, on application to and by order of the court of common pleas, divest the assignee of the property assigned, and act without his concurrence; and in such case, all prior acts of the assignee are declared void. The assignee and agent are required to submit to the creditors, every three months, a statement of their proceedings; and they are subject to be directed by the creditors in all matters pertaining to the administration of the trust.

TENNESSEE.—A debtor may assign his property for the benefit of all his creditors, or for the benefit of any one or more of them. He may prefer any creditor or creditors, as he pleases, provided there is no mala fides.

The debtor can, in no event, get a discharge from his debts, except by payment. In fact there is no insolvent law in this State.

TEXAS.—We have no special enactments. The general acts of Congress are all that we are governed by. Debtor may prefer creditors in voluntary assignment, but whole transaction is set aside in case debtor is thrown into involuntary bankruptcy.

VERMONT.—This State has no insolvent laws, except as to estates of deceased persons. Assignment can be made by a debtor of property both real and personal for the benefit of all his creditors. The assignee is required to give bond to the probate court for the faithful execution of his trust. There is no provision for the assignment of property for the benefit of certain specified creditors; nor is there any provision for the discharge of debtors without payment in full.

VIRGINIA.—There are no statutes in Virginia regulating insolvency, or prescribing any release of insolvents from liabilities incurred.

WEST VIRGINIA. — Debtor may make assignment in favor of all of his creditors, or may prefer creditors. Does not obtain any discharge unless by special terms of assignment and assent of creditors in writing, or by accepting dividend under the same. Unless by special agreement, creditor may take dividend under an assignment, and hold his claim valid against the debtor for balance.

WISCONSIN. — The so-called insolvent laws of this State have been superseded by the general bankrupt law of the United States.

A debtor may assign his assets to a third person in trust for the benefit of all his creditors. The assignee must be a resident of the State, and must give bonds, with two or more sufficient securities, in a sum not less than the nominal value of the assignor's assets, conditioned that he shall faithfully discharge the trusts reposed in him, and shall account for and pay over to the creditors of the assignor all moneys that shall come into his hands from the effects of the assignor, after deducting the necessary expenses of the assignment.

The bond must be executed to the county judge, or court commissioners of the county in which the assignor resides, and with a copy of the assignment must be, immediately after the execution of the bond, filed in the office of the clerk of the circuit court of said county.

Such an assignment does not discharge the debtor, and the acceptance of a dividend does not release the balance of a claim.

WYOMING TERRITORY. — No statute law on subject of insolvents and assignments.

INTEREST:

Legal Rate of.—Usury Laws are not in force except where named.

ALABAMA.—EIGHT PER CENT.—The legal interest is eight per cent. The principal only can be collected on usurious contracts, and the defendant recovers full costs.

ARKANSAS.—SIX PER CENT.—The legal interest is six per cent.; but the Constitution provides that no law limiting the rate of interest for which individuals contract, shall ever be passed.

CALIFORNIA.—TEN PER CENT.—The legal rate of interest is ten per cent. on all promissory notes, open accounts, etc., until judgment be recovered. After judgment the legal rate is seven per cent. Parties, however, may contract for any amount of interest.

COLORADO.—The legal rate of interest is ten per cent. per annum. There being no usury laws, parties can contract for any rate they may agree upon.

CONNECTICUT.—SEVEN PER CENT. —The legal rate of interest is seven per cent. By an act of the General Assembly, approved July 2d, 1872, it is lawful to contract to pay or reserve any discount, at any rate, and to contract for payment and receipt of any rate of interest: Provided, however, that no greater rate of interest than seven per cent. per annum shall be recovered in any action, except when the agreement to pay such greater rate of interest is in writing. This act does not affect any existing contract or suit pending at the time of its approval.

DELAWARE.—SIX PER CENT.—The legal rate of interest is six per cent, and if any person shall take more than six dollars for the use of one hundred, and in that proportion, he shall forfeit and pay to any one suing for the same a sum equal to the money lent, one half for the use of the person so suing, and the other half for the use of the State.

FLORIDA.—EIGHT PER CENT.—The legal rate of interest is eight per cent., but money may be loaned at any rate of interest. No usury laws in force.

GEORGIA.—The legal rate of interest is seven per cent.; but whenever the parties to any note, bond, or bill, or other contract or evidence of indebtedness which bears interest, agree upon any other rate of interest, whether the same be more or less than seven per cent. per annum, and insert the amount or rate of interest so agreed upon in the written contract, the same is legal and valid to all intents and purposes, and it is the duty of the courts of this State to enforce such contracts.

ILLINOIS.—SIX PER CENT.—The legal rate of interest is six per cent., but it is lawful for parties to contract for ten per cent. per annum.

Where a greater rate of interest is contracted for, the principal only can be recovered. Contracts made in this State and payable abroad, are governed by the laws of this State. In computations, a month to mean a calendar month; a year, twelve calendar months, and a day one thirtieth of a month. Corporations cannot interpose the defence of usury.

INDIANA.—SIX PER CENT.—The legal rate of interest is six per cent. per annum, but ten per cent. may be taken if the party to be charged shall sign a written agreement to that effect. The rate of interest can, in no case, exceed ten per cent. per annum, but it may be taken yearly, or for any shorter period in advance. All interest exceeding ten per cent. per annum is deemed usurious and illegal, as to the excess only; and in any action upon a contract affected by such usury, such excess may be recouped by the defendant.

IOWA.—The legal rate is six per cent. per annum on money due by express contract; on money after the same becomes due; on money lent; on money received to the use of another, and retained beyond a reasonable time without the owner's consent, express or implied; on money due on the settlement of matured accounts from the day the balance is ascertained, and on money due on open accounts after six months from the date of the last item. But in each of the above cases the parties may contract in writing for ten per cent.

Money due on judgments and decrees of court draws six per cent., unless a different rate is fixed in the contract.

All judgments stayed draw ten per cent. A greater per cent. than authorized by law is usurious, and the plaintiff in such cases recovers only the principal sum, without interest or costs; and such usurious contract works a forfeiture on ten cents on the hundred by the year upon the amount of the contract, to the school-fund of the county in which the suit is brought; and for such forfeiture judgment shall be rendered against the defendant.

KANSAS.—SEVEN PER CENT.—The legal rate of interest is seven per cent. per annum, but a contract to pay any rate of interest not exceeding twelve per cent. is valid. Usury will entail the forfeiture of all interest above twelve per cent. When no interest is specified in a contract on which judgment has been obtained, the judgment will bear interest at the rate of seven per cent. per annum; but should the contract specify the interest it bears, the judgment will bear the same rate of interest, Provided it does not exceed twelve per cent.

KENTUCKY.—SIX PER CENT.—The legal rate of interest is six per cent. per annum. Where no rate is mentioned on contracts reduced to writing, ten per cent. per annum is permitted.

After the death of an obligor only legal interest is allowed on contracts, or after the contract matures. If any rate of interest exceeding ten per cent. per annum be charged the whole interest will be forfeited.

LOUISIANA.—FIVE PER CENT.—The legal rate of interest is five per cent. A contract to pay eight per cent. is valid; and a higher rate may be stipulated for, if embodied on the face of the obligation, or if it be collected by way of discount. It is, however, expressly enacted that any rate higher than eight per cent. after the maturity of any obligation is illegal, and any contract to this effect will forfeit the entire amount of the interest.

MAINE.—SIX PER CENT.—The legal rate of interest is six per cent., but parties may contract in writing for any rate of interest. In the absence of any agreement in writing the legal rate is six per cent.

MARYLAND.—SIX PER CENT.—The legal rate of interest is six per cent. per annum. Contracts stipulating for interest greater than six per cent. are usurious, and the excess cannot be collected. Mortgagors alleging usurious interest, must tender principal sum, with legal interest due, before a court of equity will grant relief against proceedings of foreclosure.

MASSACHUSETTS.—SIX PER CENT.—The legal rate of interest is six per cent. Any rate of interest, however, may be contracted for, but no greater rate than six per cent. can be recovered unless the agreement is in writing.

MICHIGAN.—SEVEN PER CENT.—The legal rate of interest is seven per cent. Parties, however, may contract for ten per cent. per annum. Interest at a higher rate than ten per cent. cannot be collected; but in case it should have been voluntarily paid, the excess cannot be recovered. On usurious contracts, judgment is given only for the principal sum due, with the legal interest (seven per cent.).

MINNESOTA.—SEVEN PER CENT.—The legal rate of interest is seven per cent. per annum on accounts and notes or bills of exchange, and all other demands after due. The parties may agree to a rate of interest not exceeding twelve per cent. per annum by contract in writing to that effect. If a greater rate of interest than twelve per cent. is contracted for, such contract is invalid for the excess. The statute contains a provision as follows: "All contracts shall bear the same rate of interest after they become due as before, if it clearly appears therefrom that such was the intention of the parties."

Under this peculiar phraseology, the courts of this State hold that a note promising to pay at a future time twelve per cent. per annum interest on a given sum from date, and not containing words clearly indicating that such rate of interest was to continue after maturity, will only draw seven per cent. per annum after due. Some such words as "until paid," "before and after maturity," seem to be essential to continue the rate of interest at twelve per cent.

MISSISSIPPI.—SIX PER CENT.—The legal rate of interest is six per cent., but parties may contract in writing for any sum not exceeding ten per cent. Should a higher rate than ten per cent. be agreed upon, judgment will be given for the principal sum due and the legal rate of interest only.

MISSOURI.—SIX PER CENT.—The legal rate of interest is six per cent. per annum, but parties may contract in writing for any rate not exceeding ten per cent. They may also contract in writing for the payment of interest upon interest, but the interest cannot be compounded oftener than once in a year.

If in any suit on contract, of whatever kind, the defendant show in his answer that a greater rate of interest than ten per cent. was agreed for in said contract, and the verdict sustain said answer, interest at the rate of ten per cent. shall be set apart to the use of the common school fund of the county in which such suit is brought.

NEBRASKA.—TEN PER CENT.—Regular rate of interest, ten per cent. per annum; may be twelve by contract. Usury involves forfeiture of all interest and costs of suit. A judgment rendered upon a contract will bear the interest agreed upon by the parties.

NEW HAMPSHIRE.—SIX PER CENT.—The legal rate of interest is six per cent. per annum, unless a lower rate is specified. The penalty for receiving interest at a higher rate is the forfeiture of three times the sum received in excess of six per cent. to any person who will sue therefor. Contracts in which usurious interest is stipulated for are not void, but only the principal sum loaned, with interest at the rate of six per cent. per annum, can be recovered.

NEW JERSEY.—SEVEN PER CENT.—The legal rate of interest is seven per cent. per annum. When a higher rate of interest shall be received or taken than is allowed by the law of the place where the contract was made, or is to be performed, the amount of value actually lent, without interest or costs of suit, may be received, and no more; and if any premium or illegal interest shall have been paid to the lender, the sum or sums so paid shall be deducted from the amount that may be due as aforesaid, and recovery had for the balance only.

NEW MEXICO.—Rate of interest is whatever the agreement of the parties may make it. But when no rate is fixed, six per cent. is the amount allowed by law. Open running accounts bear interest at six per cent. from the date of the last item.

NEW YORK.—SEVEN PER CENT.—The legal rate of interest is seven per cent. per annum, and a person paying a greater rate of interest may recover the excess in an action brought within a year. Should he not bring the suit within the year, the overseer of the poor of the town, or county superintendent of the poor, may, within three years thereafter, bring an action to recover it. All contracts and securities (except bottomry and respondentia bonds and contracts), and all deposits of goods, etc., whereby a greater rate than seven per cent. is taken, are absolutely void. Corporations, and joint-stock companies having the power of a corporation, cannot (by an act passed in 1850) interpose the defence of usury.

By an act passed April 9th, 1870, banking associations, organized under the laws of this State are forbidden to receive a greater rate than seven per cent.; and to take a greater rate entails the forfeiture of claim and interest; and if it has been paid, the person paying it can recover twice the amount so paid.

NORTH CAROLINA.—SIX PER CENT.—The legal rate of interest is six per cent. Parties, however, may stipulate to pay eight per cent. for borrowed money. Usury will entail the forfeiture of all the interest.

OHIO.—SIX PER CENT.—The legal rate of interest is six per cent. per annum, but parties may contract to pay eight per cent. All contracts for the payment of a higher rate of interest are illegal, though such a contract does not entail the forfeiture of the principal, which can be recovered, with six per cent. interest thereon.

OREGON.—The legal rate of interest is ten per cent. per annum; but on contracts interest at the rate of one per cent. per month may be charged by express agreement of the parties, and no more.

Usury entails the forfeiture of the principal sum, without interest, to the school fund of the county in which the suit is brought.

PENNSYLVANIA.—Act of May 28, 1858, fixes the legal rate of interest at six per cent., unless contracted for at less rates.

Excessive interest not recoverable by law. Debtor may deduct amount beyond six per cent. paid, from debt.

Excessive interest paid, not recoverable back, unless sued for within six months.

Negotiable paper taken bona fide in the usual course of business, not to be affected in the hands of holders.

Commission merchants and agents of non-residents may enter into agreement to pay seven per cent. on balances in their hands on money realized on sale of goods consigned to them, or to receive seven per cent. for money advanced on consignments.

RHODE ISLAND.—SIX PER CENT.—The legal rate of interest is six per cent., but any rate may be stipulated for between the parties to the agreement.

SOUTH CAROLINA. — SEVEN PER CENT.—The legal rate of interest is seven per cent. Parties, however, may contract in writing for any amount. Open accounts do not bear interest without express agreement. The usury laws have been repealed.

TENNESSEE.—SIX PER CENT.—The legal rate of interest is six per cent. per annum, but parties may contract on the face of the paper for any rate not exceeding ten per cent. The usury laws are in force on all contracts stipulating for a greater rate of interest than ten per cent.

TEXAS.—EIGHT PER CENT.—Legal interest, in the absence of contract fixing the rate, is eight per cent. Open accounts draw interest in the absence of special agreement, from the first day of January after they are contracted. All usury laws are abolished; and there is no prohibition by statute of any rate of interest to which parties may agree.

UTAH TERRITORY.—Legal rate ten per cent. Parties may contract for any rate.

VERMONT.—SIX PER CENT.—The legal rate of interest is six per cent. per annum. Should a greater rate than six per cent. be paid, the excess can be recovered.

VIRGINIA.—The legal rate is six per cent.

The penalty for usury is the forfeiture of all interest. Judgments on usurious contracts are given for the principal sum only.

WEST VIRGINIA.—SIX PER CENT.—The legal rate of interest is six per cent. If usury be pleaded, the excess cannot be recovered.

WISCONSIN.—SEVEN PER CENT.—The legal rate of interest is seven per cent. per annum, but a contract in writing for any rate not exceeding ten per cent. is valid. If parties agree for the payment of a rate of interest exceeding ten per cent. the contract is usurious, and all interest is forfeited.

WYOMING TERRITORY.—TWELVE PER CENT.— The legal rate of interest is twelve per cent. per annum, but any rate agreed upon is lawful. Judgments draw interest at the rate of twelve per cent. per annum.

JUDGMENTS:

Lien of, and Effect of.

ALABAMA.—Judgments of courts of record are liens on all the property of the defendants, which is subject to levy and sale.

When execution has been issued on a judgment within a year after its rendition, and has not been returned satisfied, another execution may be issued, at any time within ten years after the test, or date of the last, without a revival of the judgment.

ARKANSAS. — Judgments and decrees, rendered in a circuit court, are liens on the real estate of the defendant, situated in the county for which the court is held. Judgments of a justice of the peace become a lien on the real estate of the defendant, by filing a transcript of such judgment with the clerk of the circuit court.

CALIFORNIA.—Judgments rendered in the district court are liens upon the property of the defendant, in the county where judgment was rendered. A transcript of the judgment may be filed in any other county, when it becomes a lien, upon any property of the debtor in such county. Judgments of justices of the peace become a lien on the property of the defendant upon a transcript of the judgment being filed in the office of the county recorder.

COLORADO.—A judgment rendered in any court of record becomes a lien from the date of filing an abstract in the office of the recorder, upon all the real estate of the defendant in the county of said recorder, and not otherwise.

CONNECT CUT.—A judgment is conclusive on all parties unless an appeal is taken to a higher court, when the judgment can be appealed against; or when taken up by motion or writ of error, or motion for a new trial. The statute of limitations does not run against a judgment, but survives so long as the debtor lives, and is a claim against his estate upon his decease.

Property attached on mesne process is held in the hands of the officer, subject to the judgment lien for a space of sixty days after final judgment; and where a case is taken up by motion or writ of error to a higher court, and a stay of execution granted, the time during which the execution is stayed is not computed to make up the sixty days.

DELAWARE.—A judgment is a lien upon the real estate of the defendant, in the county for which such judgment is rendered. Judgments of a justice of the peace become a lien on the real estate of a defendant, if a transcript of an execution returned "nulla bona"— no goods — be filed in the superior court. Also where a freehold defendant pleads his freehold, a transcript may be filed to bind his real estate. A testatum fi. fa. will bind the real estate in the county to which it is issued, on being entered of record in the judgment docket.

FLORIDA.—A judgment is a lien upon the real estate of the defendant, in the county in which such judgment is rendered. If the judgment be recorded in any other county, it becomes a lien on any real estate of the defendant in such county.

No judgment rendered, or execution issued by any justice of the peace shall be a lien upon any property until such judgment shall have been made a matter of record in the clerk's office of the county, in which such judgment may be rendered; which entry and record shall in all be made within ten days after the rendition of such judgment.

Judgment from other States are of no force except as evidence of indebtedness before the courts of this State, when authenticated by the attestation of the clerk or prothonotary of the court from which it emanated, with the seal of such court annexed.

GEORGIA.—A judgment, from date of rendition, prevents the defendant from alienating or disposing of his property, and operates as a lien upon all his property, both real and personal, wherever situated in the State, except promissory notes, bills, accounts, contracts, and other rights in action. All judgments obtained at the same term of a court are held to be of equal date. Lien of a judgment is lost when property of the defendant has been bona fide, and for a valuable consideration sold, and the purchaser has been in possession for four years, if real property, and two years if personal property.

ILLINOIS.— A judgment is a lien upon the real estate of the debtor in the county where rendered, from the time of its rendition in a court of record, and upon personal property from the hour the execution is placed in the hands of the sheriff. The lien is good and valid for seven years if execution issues within one year. After seven, and within twenty years, judgments may be revived by scire facias. It draws interest from the time it is rendered at six per cent.

A judgment before a justice of the peace is never barred by time, it is said. Execution issues thereon in twenty days. It becomes a lien on personal property from the hour the execution is placed in the hands of the officer, and on real estate from the time of the filing, in the office of the circuit clerk, of a transcript of the judgment.

INDIANA. — Judgments are a lien upon the real estate of the defendant in the county where rendered, or where a transcript of the judgment has been filed in the office of the clerk, and remains a lien for ten years, and may be revived for ten years further. Judgments in the federal courts are a lien upon the real estate of the defendant throughout the State.

IOWA.—Judgments of courts of record are liens upon the real estate of the defendant in the county where rendered, and they become liens in any county by filing a transcript thereof in such county. They attach to subsequent acquired property, and continue liens for ten years.

KANSAS.—A judgment of a court of record is a lien on the real estate of the defendant within the county in which the judgment is rendered, and in any other county, by filing a certified copy of the judgment, in the office of the district court of such county. Judgments of justices of the peace also become liens by filing a transcript of the judgment in the office of the district court.

Such judgment remains a lien for five years from its date or the date of the last execution issued thereon.

KENTUCKY.—In this State a judgment is a lien upon the real estate of the defendant from the time the same is placed in hands of the officer, and only while in the hands of the officer. If returned from any cause by officer the lien ceases.

LOUISIANA.—A judgment recorded in the office of the recorder of mortgages is a judicial mortgage upon all lands of the debtor in the parish (county) where it is recorded. The judicial mortgage of our law might be compared to the lien of the common law. It gives the right to be paid out of the proceeds of the lands in preference to any junior mortgages; but sometimes it is defeated, in whole or in part, by certain privileges which, though even junior in date, are superior to mortgages in their nature.

MAINE.—Judgments are not a lien unless property has been attached on mesne process; and if a levy of execution is not made within thirty days of the rendition of judgment, the attachment is dissolved.

MARYLAND.—A judgment is a lien upon the real estate of the defendant. It also binds the leasehold interest under a recent act of Assembly, which is as follows: "Every judgment hereafter to be rendered by any of the courts of law of this State, shall be and constitute a lien to the amount and from the date thereof, upon all leaseholds, interests, and terms of years, of the defendants in lands, except leases from year to year, and leases for terms of not more than five years, and not renewable; to the same extent and effect as liens are now created by judgment upon real estate."

A judgment is no lien upon personal property until the issuing of execution, when it immediately becomes a lien.

MASSACHUSETTS. — Judgments are not a lien unless property has been attached on mesne process; and if a levy of execution is not made within thirty days of the rendition of judgment, the attachment is dissolved.

MICHIGAN.—Judgments are not a lien upon the property of the judgment-debtor, until execution has been issued thereon and a levy made.

MINNESOTA.—Judgments continue in force, and are not barred by the limitation laws, until the expiration of ten years from the time of docketing. They are a lien on all real estate of the judgment-debtor, for that of length of time. Redemption is allowed from a sale of real estate under execution issued on a judgment, to the judgment-debtor, his heirs, or assigns, at any time within one year from the day of sale.

MISSISSIPPI.—A judgment is a lien upon the property of the defendant, in the county wherein the judgment is rendered. By filing a transcript of the judgment in other counties, it becomes a lien upon the property of the defendant situated in such counties.

MISSOURI.—A judgment of a court of record is a lien upon the real estate of the defendant, in the county in which such judgment is rendered. By filing a transcript of the judgment, in the office of the clerk of the circuit court of any county, the judgment becomes a lien upon the real estate of the defendant situated within such county.

Judgments of justices of the peace become a lien upon the real estate of the defendant by filing a transcript of the judgment in the office of the clerk of the circuit court. Liens continue for three years, and may be revived for two years more.

NEBRASKA.—Judgments are liens upon all the real estate belonging to a debtor, in the county where judgment was rendered. A judgment loses preference over subsequent judgment-creditors in one year, unless execution be issued within that time, and becomes dormant in five years, unless execution has been sued out.

NEW HAMPSHIRE.—A judgment is not, in this State, a lien upon the property of the defendant.

NEW JERSEY.—A judgment will keep the claim sued upon from being outlawed, for twenty years, and is a lien from its date upon the real estate owned by the defendant, and all that he may afterwards acquire, as long as the judgment is in force. To make it take effect on personal property, execution must issue and a levy be made.

NEW MEXICO.—Judgments in the district court become a lien on all real property situate in the county where the judgment is obtained, from the date that the same is docketed; and upon filing a transcript of the docket of such judgment, with the clerk of the probate court (ex officio recorder) of any other county, the judgment becomes a lien upon any real estate of the debtor situate in such county.

NEW YORK.—A judgment is a lien upon all the real estate owned by a defendant at the time of its docketing in the county clerk's office in which such estate is located, and continues to be such for ten years thereafter. The lien has priority in the order of its docketing.

NORTH CAROLINA.—A judgment of the superior court is a lien on the real estate of the defendant in the county in which it has been rendered, after having been docketed in the office of the clerk of the superior court. By filing a transcript of the judgment in the office of the clerk of the superior court in any county, it becomes a lien on the defendant's real estate in such county.

OHIO.—A judgment is a lien upon the real estate of the judgment-debtor within the county for which the judgment is entered, from the first day of the term at which the judgment was rendered; but judgments by confession, and judgments rendered at the same term in which the action was begun, are a lien only from the day on which such judgments were rendered. If execution be not issued upon any judgment within five years, the same becomes dormant. It may, however, be revived by affidavit, that one or both of the parties has deceased after judgment, or that the defendant is a non-resident, and by giving notice to the defendant to show cause why judgment shall not be revived against him.

A judgment upon which an execution is not issued and levied within a year after its rendition, unless delayed by some proceeding of the opposite party, loses its lien against the bona fide judgment creditors, who obtain a lien.

Judgments of justices of the peace become liens upon the real estate of the judgment-debtor by filing a transcript of the judgment in the court of common pleas.

OREGON.—A judgment when entered becomes a lien upon the real estate owned by the defendant, at the time of the entry, and such as he may subsequently acquire. The lien continues for ten years.

PENNSYLVANIA.—Judgment, to be a lien, must be entered in a court of record (the prothonotary's office), where it remains a lien upon all the real estate of the defendant within the county, for five years. Is also a lien on every kind of equitable interest in land and every vested right in the debtor, but is not a lien upon after-acquired real estate, unless revived to cover the same. Must be revived every five years to continue the lien. Is not a lien on personal property.

Judgments obtained before justices of the peace may be made liens upon real estate, by filing a transcript of the judgment in the court of common pleas (the prothonotary's office); but execution on these cannot be issued, unless an execution be first issued by the justice before whom the judgment was obtained, and returned "no goods."

RHODE ISLAND.—In this State a judgment is not a lien upon the real estate of a debtor.

SOUTH CAROLINA.—By recent amendments to the code in this State (1873,) a final judgment constitutes a lien upon the real estate of the judgment-debtor in the county where the same is entered, for the period of ten years from the date of entry. A like lien can be acquired upon real estate in any other county by filing a transcript of the judgment in the office of the clerk of the court of common pleas of such county.

TENNESSEE.—A judgment in any court of record, is a lien on the real estate of the debtor in every county of the State, if the judgment is rendered in the county in which he resides; but when a judgment is rendered in any other county than the one in which he resides, it is necessary that a certified copy of the same be registered in the county where he resides, in order to make it become a lien on all his lands in every county of the State. The lien is lost unless execution is taken out and the land sold within twelve months after the rendition of the judgment or decree.

TEXAS.—Judgments of courts of record are liens upon all the real estate of the defendant in the county where rendered. The lien may be extended to other counties, by recording the judgment in such other counties. Judgments do not become dormant save when intervals of ten years occur between issuance of executions, or when execution is not issued within one year from rendition of judgment.

UTAH TERRITORY.—Judgments are liens on any real estate of the debtor in the county where the same is rendered. A transcript, when filed in another county recorder's office, renders such judgment a lien in such other county. Judgment continues a lien for two years from its date of rendition. Judgment of a justice of the peace becomes a lien by filing a transcript thereof with the county recorder.

VERMONT.—A judgment is not a lien upon the real estate of the defendant, but "personal property, attached on mesne process, shall be held to respond to the judgment rendered on such process thirty days from the time such judgment shall be rendered; and unless the plaintiff shall, within thirty days from the time of rendering final judgment, take such property in execution, the same shall be discharged from such process; and real estate attached on such process, shall be held five calendar months after the rendition of final judgment, and no longer, unless such personal property or real estate shall be encumbered by a prior attachment, in which case such personal property shall be held thirty days, and such real estate five calendar months after such encumbrance is removed.

VIRGINIA.—A judgment is a lien on all real estate held by a debtor or to which he is entitled. In order to be such lien as against a purchaser for a valuable consideration without notice, it must be docketed in the county or corporation where the real estate is, either within sixty days of the date of judgment or fifteen days before conveyance to purchaser.

WEST VIRGINIA.—A judgment is a lien on all the real estate held by the debtor, but as against a purchaser for a valuable consideration, it is not a lien unless the judgment be docketed in the county where such property is situated, within ninety days next after the date of such judgment.

WISCONSIN.—A judgment of the circuit court is a lien upon the property of the defendant, within the county where the judgment is rendered, from the time it is docketed in the clerk's office. By filing a transcript of the judgment in the office of the clerk of the circuit court of any county, it becomes a lien upon the property of the judgment-debtor in such county.

ment-debtor in any county, if a transcript of the judgment be docketed in the office of the clerk of the circuit court for such county.

WYOMING TERRITORY.—Judgments of courts of record are liens upon the real estate of the judgment-debtor, from the first day of the term in which they are rendered; but judgment by confession and judgments rendered at the same term at which the action is commenced, bind lands only from the day on which they are rendered. If execution is not sued out in five years from date of judgment it becomes dormant, and ceases to operate as a lien.

LIMITATION OF ACTIONS.

ALABAMA.—Actions on an open or unliquidated account must be commenced within three years after the cause of action accrued.

Actions of debt founded on contract; for arrears of rent; on parole, demise, and of account, trespass, detinue, trover, and replevin, for taking goods and chattels, must be commenced within six years after the causes of action accrued.

Actions for the recovery of real property, or upon a judgment recovered in any court of record, must be commenced within twenty years after the causes of action arose.

Actions founded upon a contract, or instrument under seal, must be commenced before ten years have elapsed since the cause of action arose.

The time during which the defendant is absent from the State is not computed.

ARKANSAS.—All actions of debt founded on contract or liability, not in writing; all actions of account and the like founded on any contract or liability, express or implied; all actions for injuring goods or chattels, must be brought within three years from the time the cause of action accrued.

Actions on promissory notes, and other instruments in writing not under seal, must be commenced within five years after the cause of action accrued and not after.

Actions on bonds, writings under seal, and judgments and decrees, must be commenced within ten years from the time the cause of action accrued.

Actions of replevin for wrongfully taking goods and chattels, must be brought within one year from the time the cause of action arose.

The constitution of 1868 provides that private seals are abolished, and that no distinction shall exist between sealed and unsealed instruments concerning contracts between individuals.

QUÆRE.—Does this constitutional provision extend the time of limitation on promissory notes to ten years, or limit sealed instruments to five years?

CALIFORNIA.—The periods prescribed for the commencement of actions other than for the recovery of real property, are as follows:

Within five years, an action upon a judgment or decree of any court of the United States, or of any State within the United States, or an action for mesne profits of real property. Within four years: an action upon a contract, obligation, or liability, founded upon an instrument in writing executed in this State. Within three years: an action upon a liability created by statute other than a penalty or forfeiture; an action for trespass upon real property; an action for taking, detaining, or injuring any goods or chattels, including actions for the specific recovery of personal property; an action for relief on the ground of fraud or mistake, the cause of action in such case not to be deemed to have accrued until the discovery, by the aggrieved party, of the facts constituting the fraud or mistake. Within two years: an action upon a contract, obligation, or liability, not founded on an instrument in writing, or founded upon an instrument of writing executed without the State; an action against a sheriff, coroner, or constable, upon a liability incurred by the doing of an act in his official capacity, and in virtue of his office, or by the omission of an official duty, including the non-payment of money collected upon an execution. But this subdivision does not apply to an action for an escape; an action to recover damages for the death of one caused by the wrongful act or neglect of another. Within one year: an action upon a statute for a penalty or forfeiture, where the action is given to an individual, or to an individual and the State, except where the statute imposing it prescribes a different limitation; an action upon a statute for a forfeiture or penalty to the people of this State; an action for libel, slander, assault, battery, false imprisonment, or seduction; an action against a sheriff or other officer for the escape of a prisoner arrested or imprisoned on civil process; an action against a municipal corporation for damages for injuries to property caused by a mob or riot. Within six months, an action against an officer, or officer de facto, to recover any goods, wares, merchandise, or other property seized by any such officer in his official capacity as tax collector, or to recover the price or value of any goods, wares, merchandise, or other personal property so seized; or for damages for the seizure, detention, sale of, or injury to any goods, wares, merchandise, or other personal property seized; or for damages done to any person or property in making any such seizure, or to recover stock sold for any delinquent assessment, as provided by law. Within five years: to recover the possession of real property. But to actions brought to recover money or other property deposited with any bank, banker, trust company, or savings and loan society, there is no limitation.

COLORADO.—Bonds, bills, notes, accounts, etc., are barred after six years, when the cause of action accrued within the State, and after two years, if out of the State, except sealed instruments, judgments, and decrees of courts, which are barred after three years.

Limitation commences to run from the time the right of action accrues, and not from the date of the instrument when in writing.

Relief on the ground of fraud is barred after three years from the time of its discovery by the defrauded party.

CONNECTICUT. — Actions of account, debt on book account, simple contract, and assumpsit on implied promise, or on contract not under seal (except promissory notes non-negotiable) and trespass on the case, must be brought within six years. Actions on contract under seal, and on promissory notes not negotiable, must be brought within seventeen years.

Actions for entry on land must be brought within fifteen years from the time the right of such entry accrued.

Time of absence from the State is not computed.

DELAWARE.—Actions on book account, trespass, replevin, detinue, debts not founded on specialty, must be brought within three years from the time the action accrued.

Actions on promissory notes, bills of exchange and acknowledgments under hand of a debtor must be commenced within six years after the cause of action arose.

MARRIED WOMEN:

Rights and Liabilities of, and where she may conduct business separate and apart from her Husband.

ALABAMA.—Under the laws of Alabama, a married woman cannot conduct business separate and apart from her husband, neither can she be sued on her individual note. She cannot sell her separate estate for any purposes except two: Reinvestment, and support and maintenance of herself and children. Her estate is liable for the necessaries for the family, and if suit therefor is brought against a husband and execution is not satisfied, her separate estate may be sold by order of the court. The husband is not liable for the debts of the wife before marriage, but she may be sued alone, and her separate estate is liable to the satisfaction thereof, as if she were an unmarried woman.

ARKANSAS.—Married women have the same absolute and unqualified right in property of every description, whenever acquired as single women, and the same is not liable for the debts or contracts of the husband. A married woman may also devise and bequeath her property the same as if single.

CALIFORNIA.—Before a married woman can conduct business separate and apart from her husband, and sue and be sued without joining her husband, she must publish notice for four weeks of her intention to apply to the district court for an order to permit her to carry on business in her own name and on her own account, the business being specially mentioned and described. The applicant must make oath that the application is made in good faith, for the purpose of enabling her to support herself and children (if she has any minor children), and not with any view to defraud, delay, or hinder any creditor or creditors of her husband; and that not more than $500 has come, either directly or indirectly from her husband. A copy of the oath and order are recorded on the county records. Any married woman availing herself of the benefit of the act is responsible for the maintenance of her children. She can also sue and be sued without joining her husband, and he is not responsible, by virtue of his relation as husband, to her business creditors for debts contracted by her.

When a married woman (not a sole trader) is a party, her husband must be joined with her, except in the following cases: 1. When the action concerns her separate property, she may sue alone. 2. When the action is between herself and her husband, she may sue and be sued alone. If husband and wife be sued together, she may defend her own right.

COLORADO.—Any married woman can sell her real estate and personal property without the consent of her husband, and enter into any contract in reference to the same, as if she was sole, and can sue and be sued in all matters, as if she was sole; and any married woman may make a will, but she cannot bequeath away from her husband more than one-half of her property, both personal and real, without his consent in writing; and no married man can deprive his wife of over one-half of his property by will.

CONNECTICUT.—A married woman cannot conduct business separate and apart from her husband unless she has been abandoned by him, in which case she may carry on business, sue and be sued, in all respects as if unmarried.

A married woman holds real estate to her separate use, but cannot convey the same unless her husband joins in the deed. In property conveyed to her no mention of the husband is necessary, though it is sometimes done.

The personal estate of a married woman is held by the husband as trustee for the wife, and he is entitled to receive the rents, profits, and interests, and the same are not liable to be taken for the debts of the husband, except those contracted for the support of the wife and her children, after the estate has vested in the husband. No transfer of said estate by the husband is valid unless the wife (or in case of her death, those in whom the estate shall have vested), join in a written conveyance. The wife may, by application to the court of probate, call the husband to account, and the said court may require bonds, or remove the husband from being trustee for cause, and appoint another trustee in his stead. Policies of insurance for the benefit of the wife, whether made by the husband or any other person, inure to her sole and separate use against the claims by creditors or the representatives of the deceased husband; but this law does not apply where the annual premium is over $300, unless the same is paid out of the separate estate of the wife. A married woman is liable to be sued, and her property taken, as if she were unmarried, for debts contracted by her before marriage, and the husband is not liable on such debts, but must be cited to defend if the wife is sued. By a recent statute it is provided that, whenever a married woman shall carry on business, and shall incur any debt or obligation on account of the same, or shall execute any promissory note or other instrument in writing, either alone or jointly with her husband, for the benefit of her sole estate, or for the benefit of the joint estate of herself and husband, she shall be liable for such debt or obligation, and upon such note or instrument, and may be sued either alone or jointly with her husband, and her property may be taken in attachment and execution as if she were unmarried.

DELAWARE.—Debts contracted before marriage by the wife, or after by her authority are a charge against her personal property, and a judgment therefor may be recovered against her in her name.

The real and personal property of any female shall be her sole and separate property and the rents, etc., not subject to the husband nor liable for his debts.

Any married woman may receive the wages of her labor, maintain an action therefor in her own name, and hold them in her own right against her husband or any other person.

May sue or be sued separately or jointly with the husband, but the husband cannot sue alone for his wife's debts.

She may make a will with the written consent of her husband, duly attested, but such will shall not affect the rights of the husband as tenant by the courtesy; and if she die intestate, her property, both real and personal, shall descend to her heirs as now provided by law.

A marriage contract determines what rights each shall have in the other's estates during marriage and after its dissolution by death. If any married woman die intestate, without lawful issue, her husband holds half of her real estate during his life. Any woman may release to her husband the right to control her property, and may, in writing, revoke the same.

FLORIDA.—A married woman cannot conduct business separate and apart from her husband; nor can she sue and be sued; but must be joined with her husband.

All property, both real and personal, of the wife, owned by her before marriage, or acquired afterwards by gift, devise, descent or purchase, shall be her separate property and not liable for the debts of her husband, and her title to such property shall continue separate, independent and beyond the control of her husband, notwithstanding her coverture.

The husband and wife shall join in all sales, transfers, and conveyances of the property of the wife, and the real estate of the wife shall only be conveyed by the joint deed of the husband and wife, duly attested, authenticated and admitted to record, according to the laws of Florida regulating conveyances of real property.

The husband shall not be held or deemed liable to pay the debts of his wife contracted prior to marriage, but the property of the wife shall be subject thereto. All property, real and personal, which shall belong to the wife at the time of her marriage, or which she may acquire in any of the modes above mentioned, shall be inventoried and recorded in the circuit court clerk's office of the county in which such property is situated, within six months after such marriage, or after such property shall be acquired by her, at the peril of becoming liable for her husband's debts; but any omission to make such inventory and record shall in no case confer any rights upon her husband.

GEORGIA.—The wife by consent of her husband, evinced by notice for one month, published in a public gazette, may become a free trader, and can sue and be sued in the same manner as if she were a single woman.

All the property of the wife at the time of marriage, or which she acquires, inherits or receives by donation during coverture, vests in and belongs to her, free from the debts, default, or contract of the husband, and may be administered to by her as a single woman.

ILLINOIS.—A married woman may, in all cases, sue and be sued without joining her husband, and an attachment or judgment enforced against her, as if she were single. Being sued together, the wife may defend her own right. In case of desertion, the wife may prosecute or defend in his name. Is alone liable for civil injuries inflicted by her. The husband nor wife is liable for the separate debts of the other, before or after marriage. Contracts may be made with and enforced against her, as if single; but she cannot enter into partnership without his consent. Absolute control over her own earnings. She may own in her own right any species of property obtained by descent, gift, or purchase, and manage, sell, and convey it as if single. Such sale and transfer between the husband and wife, and while living together, is good as against third persons, if made in writing, and acknowledged and recorded like chattel mortgages. The husband or wife may sue the other for property wrongfully obtained and retained. Wife may manage, encumber, sell, and convey the property of the husband, if he has abandoned her, or is imprisoned in the penitentiary. Wife may act as the attorney in fact of her husband. The family expenses, and the education of the children, are chargeable upon the property of both husband and wife, and they may be sued jointly or separately therefor.

INDIANA.—A married woman, as a sole trader, cannot bind herself upon her contracts for goods in the ordinary way; but she may make contracts concerning her separate realty, as if she were a single woman, and the courts will uphold and sustain them. At the same time she is not held liable in a personal action to be enforced by a personal judgment upon her contracts, but they are to be enforced by a decision in equity for the satisfaction of the same by appropriating the rents and profits, or by a sale of the property itself in a proper case.

Real estate held by a married woman, and personal estate held at the marriage or afterwards acquired by gift or bequest, are held to the separate use of such married woman, and are not subject to the debts of the husband.

A married woman may convey or encumber her real estate by joining in a deed with her husband.

IOWA.—Married women may own and dispose of property to the same extent and in the same manner that the husband can, property belonging to him.

But in cases of property owned by either, the other has no such interest therein as can be the subject of a contract between them, or such an interest as will make it subject to the contracts or liabilities of either not the owner of the property, except as hereinafter named.

The husband is not liable for civil injuries committed by the wife, except in cases where a joint liability would arise if the marriage did not exist.

Conveyances to each other are valid.

In cases of abandonment or imprisonment for one year, the husband or wife, as the case may be, can be authorized by the court, on petition, to manage, control, sell, or incumber the property of the husband or wife for the support and maintenance of the family and for the purpose of paying debts.

The wife may receive the wages for her personal labor and maintain an action therefor in her own name, and hold the same in her own right, and she may prosecute or defend actions at law or equity for the protection of her rights and property as if unmarried.

Neither husband or wife is liable for the debts of the other, nor are the wages, earnings, or property of either, nor is the rent or income of such property liable for the separate debts of the other, except for the expenses of the family and the education of the children, which are chargeable upon the property of both husband or wife, or either of them, and for these they may be sued jointly or separately.

Contracts may be made by a wife and liabilities incurred and the same enforced against her as if she was unmarried.

The wife takes one-third in value of all the legal or equitable estates in real property possessed by the husband at any time during marriage which have not been sold on execution or any other judicial sale, and to which the wife has made no relinquishment of her right, shall be set apart as her property in fee simple, if she survive him.

The husband takes the same share in the property of the deceased wife.

KANSAS.—A married woman can conduct business separate and apart from her husband, and can sue and be sued as if she were a single woman. The real and personal property owned by her at the time of her marriage, with the profits and proceeds arising therefrom, together with any property coming to her by descent, devise, or bequest, or as the gift of any person except her husband, remains her sole and separate property, and cannot be disposed of by her husband, nor is it liable for his debts.

KENTUCKY.—A married woman may act as if she were single where the husband abandons her and lives separately and apart from her, or abandons her and leaves the State without making sufficient provision for her maintenance, or where he is confined in the penitentiary for an unexpired term of more than one year. She may also be empowered to act in this capacity by a decree granted by a court having chancery jurisdiction within the county of their residence in this State, on the joint petition of husband and wife.

Property of any kind may be settled upon a married woman as her own separate estate, free from the control and management of her husband, and from his debts and liabilities. And if the same be settled by deed or devise, she can hold it either with or without the intervention of a trustee. She can dispose of her separate estate only in the manner directed in the instrument conveying it to her. Her separate estate is liable for her own debts and responsibilities contracted or incurred before marriage, and for such as are contracted after marriage for necessaries for herself or any member of her family (her husband included) as shall be evidenced by writing signed by herself and husband. After the death of her husband, the wife is entitled to dower of one-third of his real estate, unless such dower right has been relinquished, forfeited, or barred; and if such husband dies intestate, and leaves issue, she is entitled to one-third of his personal estate, and if no issue, then to one-half.

LOUISIANA.—A married woman is considered a public merchant if she carries on a separate trade, in which case she can obligate herself in anything relating to her trade. Her husband is also bound when there is a community of property.

The separate property of a married woman cannot be disposed of by the husband without her consent, and she can manage it by herself unless there is a marriage contract to the contrary.

A partnership exists in all property acquired during marriage, but the parties may limit it, or agree that it shall not exist; in which case there are provisions preserving to the wife the administration and enjoyment of her property, and the power of alienating it as if paraphernal, without reference to the expenses of the marriage and liability of the husband. This partnership consists of the profits of all the effects of which the husband has the administration and enjoyment, either of right or in fact; of the produce of the reciprocal industry and labor of both husband and wife; and of the estates which they may acquire during marriage, either by donations made jointly to them both, or by purchase, or in any similar way, even though the purchase be in the name of one, and not of both. Debts contracted during marriage enter into this partnership, and must be acquitted out of the common fund; but those contracted before marriage, out of individual effects.

MAINE.—Married women may conduct business, sue and be sued alone, in the same manner as unmarried women, or jointly with their husbands. When a married women comes from any other State or country, and remains in this State, without living with her husband, she may make contracts, dispose of property, sue and be sued, as if unmarried. When her husband comes and claims his marital rights, contracts and suits are affected the same as if they were then first married.

A married woman, of any age, may own in her own right, real and personal estate acquired by descent, gift, or purchase, and may manage, sell, convey, and devise the same by will, without the joinder or assent of her husband; but real estate, directly or indirectly conveyed to her by her husband, or paid for by him, or given or devised to her by his relatives, cannot be conveyed by her without the joinder of her husband in such conveyance, except real estate conveyed to her as security, or in payment of a bona fide debt actually due her from her husband. When payment was made for property conveyed to her from the property of her husband, or it was conveyed by him to her without a valuable consideration paid therefor, it may be taken as the property of her husband to pay his debts contracted before such purchase.

A woman having property is not deprived of any part of it by her marriage, since the act, approved March 22d, 1844, was in force; and a husband, by marriage since that time, acquires no right to any property of his wife. His rights acquired before that time are not affected by the provision of this chapter—a married woman may release to her husband the right to control her property, or any part of it, and to dispose of the income thereof for their mutual benefit, and may in writing revoke the same.

A husband married since April 26th, 1852, is not liable for the debts of his wife contracted before marriage, nor for those contracted after in her own name, for any lawful purpose; but she is liable in both cases. A suit may be maintained against her, or against her and her husband therefor, and her property may be attached and taken on execution for such debts, as if she were sole; but she cannot be arrested.

MARYLAND.—A married woman cannot make a contract, neither can she sue or be sued in a court of law, except through her next friend, or some third person.

The property, real or personal, belonging to a woman at the time of her marriage, and all property which she may acquire or receive after her marriage, by purchase, gift, grant, devise, bequest, or in a course of distribution, shall be protected from the debts of the husband, and not in any way liable for the payment thereof: Provided, That no acquisition of property passing to the wife from the husband after coverture shall be valid if the same has been made or granted to her in prejudice of the rights of his subsisting creditors. The wife is entitled on the death of her husband to be endowed of one-third of the rents and profits of his realty, and becomes absolute owner of one-third of his personalty. The law is somewhat confused in regard to the rights and liabilities of married women in this State. The husband is liable for the debts and obligations of his wife incurred previous to marriage. A married woman can convey and relinquish dower by joining her husband in a deed conveying his property. A married woman is bound by her covenant in a lease of her separate estate.

Under a recent act of assembly, any married woman can be sued jointly with her husband, on any note, bond, or contract she may make jointly with her husband, and can employ counsel, and can defend such action or suit separately or jointly with her husband, and judgments obtained shall be a lien upon the property of both, and may be collected on execution, as though defendants were not husband and wife. When a married woman has made a contract as feme sole, binding her separate estate, she can be proceeded against by attachment, upon petition and proof of claim, or by proceedings in equity.

MASSACHUSETTS.—A married woman may bargain, sell, and convey her separate real and personal property, enter into any contracts in reference to the same, carry on any trade or business, and perform any labor or services on her sole and separate account, and sue and be sued in all matters having relation to her separate property, business, trade, services, labor, and earnings, in the same manner as if she were unmarried. But no conveyance by her of her real estate for a period of more than one year shall deprive the husband of his estate by the courtesy therein, without his consent in writing to such conveyance. A married woman may make a will of her real and personal property as if she were sole, except that no such will made without the written consent of her husband shall have the effect to deprive him of more than one-half of her personal property or of his tenancy by the courtesy in her real estate. A husband is not liable upon his wife's contracts made before marriage.

MICHIGAN.—All real and personal estate of any female, whether acquired before or after marriage, from whatever source, remains her sole and separate property. She may contract with the husband or any other person in relation thereto, and may sue and be sued alone upon such contracts, the same as if unmarried. She may carry on business in her own name, and deal with her husband as with other persons. Her property is not liable for the husband's debts, nor is the husband liable for her debts, whether contracted before or after marriage.

It has been held that a wife cannot bind her separate property by becoming surety on the promissory note of her husband, where the sole consideration is the pre-existing debt of the husband. But she may mortgage her separate property to secure her husband's debt.

Neither the property nor the person of the husband can be taken in execution on a judgment rendered against husband and wife, jointly, for a tort or wrong done by the wife.

A wife has common law dower and a right to the homestead during her widowhood. She can bar her dower and alienate her homestead during the husband's life, only by joining with him in a deed of the same. The husband has no tenancy by courtesy.

MINNESOTA.—A married woman can conduct business separate and apart from her husband, and can sue and be sued in her own name, in all respects as if she were an unmarried woman. She cannot, however, convey her real estate without the consent of her husband.

MISSISSIPPI.—A married woman may engage in trade or business as if she were a single woman, and she is bound by her contracts, made in the course of such trade or business, in the same manner as if she were unmarried. The husband is not liable for debts contracted by the wife before marriage, nor is he liable for debts contracted by her after marriage, if she hold separate property.

The husband and wife may sue jointly, or if the husband will not join with her, she may sue alone for the recovery of her property or rights. She may be sued jointly with her husband, on all contracts or other matters for which her individual property is liable; but if the suit be against husband and wife, no judgment shall be rendered against her, unless the liability of her separate property be first established. All property, both real and personal, and all rights and credits belonging to any woman before marriage, shall continue to be her separate property after marriage; and all such property or rights which may accrue to her by will, descent, or otherwise, and also the income derived from her personal services, shall be her separate property. And such property shall not be subject or liable to be taken in satisfaction of the debts of the husband; nor shall such property be sold or encumbered by the husband, unless the wife join in the conveyance thereof, and acknowledge the same in manner provided by law.

MISSOURI.—Under the laws of this State, a married woman cannot conduct business separate and apart from her husband; neither can she sue or be sued on her individual note or account, except in the following cases: When the husband fails to provide for her support, neglects, or abandons her, or during the time her husband is confined in prison; in which cases she may transact business as a single woman. A married woman holding property in her own right, being compelled to live apart from her husband, may, by petitioning the circuit court, obtain judgment that such real estate, or a part thereof, may be enjoyed by her for her own use and benefit. The wife may, by will, devise her real estate, subject to the husband's estate therein, by courtesy. The real estate of the wife, and the rents, issues, and products thereof, are exempt from attachment or execution for the sole debts of the husband; such annual products, however, may be attached or levied upon for debts for the necessaries of the family, or for labor or materials expended upon the wife's real estate. The wife may insure the husband's life; and if she survive him, she may hold the proceeds of such insurance free from the husband's creditors, providing the amount of annual premium does not exceed $300.

Any property not consisting of stocks or bonds of any kind, given by a parent to his daughter, may be held by her free from all the debts of the husband, except as above, and she may dispose of the same as if unmarried.

NEBRASKA.—The property, real and personal, which any woman may own at the time of her marriage, and the rents, issues, profits, and proceeds thereof, and any real, personal, or mixed property which shall come to her by descent, devise or bequest, or the gift of any person except her husband shall remain her sole and separate property, notwithstanding her marriage, and not be subject to the disposal of her husband, or liable for his debts. A married woman, while the marriage relation exists, may bargain, sell, and convey her real and personal property, and enter into any contract with reference to the same, in the same manner, to the same extent, and with like effect, as a married man may in relation to his real and personal property. She may sue and be sued in the same manner as if she were unmarried. She may carry on trade or business and perform any labor or service on her sole and separate account; and the earnings from her trade, business, labor, or services, shall be her sole and separate property, and may be used and invested by her in her own name. If married out of the State and her husband afterwards becomes a resident of this State, she shall enjoy all the rights as to property which she may have acquired by the laws of any other State, Territory or country, or by virtue of any marriage settlement or contract made out of this State.

No will, however, or alteration or revocation of any will made by a married woman, shall be of any validity, without the consent of her husband in writing annexed to such will, alteration, or revocation, and attested and subscribed, and to be proven and recorded in like manner as the will itself.

She may bar her dower by joining with her husband in a deed. The husband is entitled to courtesy.

NEW HAMPSHIRE.—A married woman in this State can conduct business separate and apart from her husband. She can sue on her own individual accounts in her own name. She can be sued on notes given by herself, only when based upon a contract by her made, or upon a wrong by her committed, in respect to property holden by her in her own right, free from the control of her husband.

The will of a married woman passes property held in her right, to any devisee except her husband, but does not affect his tenancy by courtesy. Any conveyance, devise, or bequest to a married woman to her sole use, or coming to her under a deed of trust (except a direct conveyance from the husband), is valid, and she has the same power and control over it as if she were an unmarried woman.

NEW JERSEY.—When a suit is brought against a married woman who has been conducting business in her own name, the husband must be joined with her in the action.

The real and personal property which a married woman may own at the time of her marriage, and the rents, issues, and profits thereof, are not subject to her husband's disposal, nor liable for his debts. She may insure the life of her husband for her or his heirs' benefit, but the premium must not be more than $100 yearly.

In a joint deed by husband and wife (if she be of full age), her covenant of warranty will bind her in the same manner as if she were unmarried. If her husband be a lunatic, or confined in the State prison for crime, she may dispose of her interest in any property, so as not to interfere with his rights in the same property.

If living apart from her husband, she may, by joining his name with hers (though with his consent), bring her suit in any court of record, and he cannot control, release, or discontinue such action. In such case she may also, by decree of court, convey any interest in real or personal property, except a gift from her husband, without his concurrence, but cannot affect any right which he may then have in such property.

NEW MEXICO. — The property which a married woman inherits, or which she may bring into the marriage community, is her sole and separate estate, but which she may not convey without her husband joins in the conveyance, and the same be acknowledged as required for a married woman; namely, she must be informed of the contents of the deed, and confess on an examination separate and apart from and independent of her husband, that the conveyance was executed voluntarily and without compulsion or the illicit influence of her husband—all of which the certificate must show.

Dower, as known to the common law, has no existence here. The private property of the wife which she brings to the marriage community is known as her "dole." And although during coverture the husband has the entire management and control of it, he stands towards her in the nature of a creditor as respects it; and the law gives to the wife a first lien or tacit mortgage upon all the property of the husband, and takes precedence of all other creditors, the marriage itself constituting notice of the lien.

Upon the payment of the community debts the wife is entitled to one-half of the acquest property on the decease of the husband. During life their relation to the community or acquest property is in many respects analagous to that of a partner ship.

NEW YORK.—The rights and liabilities of married women have been greatly enlarged and extended by reason of special legislation and construction of statutes by the Court of Appeals during the last few years. As the law now stands, a married woman has the rights and is subject to the same liability as if she were a single woman, in all matters relating to her separate estate.

She may carry on business in her own name and for her own separate benefit, independent of her husband. Her endorsement of negotiable paper renders her liable on proper protest of dishonor, provided, she expresses her intention in the endorsement to make the same a charge upon her separate estate.

It seems to be the opinion of the profession that the husband is no longer responsible for the wife's indebtedness contracted previous to marriage.

In all actions against her for a tort, her husband must be joined as a party defendant.

She may inherit, hold, and convey in her own name, personal and real estate, and has her right of dower in all real estate her husband may die possessed of in fee simple absolute.

The husband and wife may maintain an action, the one against the other, on contract, the same as if they were unmarried.

NORTH CAROLINA. — Married women can only contract for necessaries, unless they become "free traders," which can be provided for by ante or post nuptial contract with husband, duly registered, or when she is separated from or abandoned by her husband.

A marriage settlement or contract is invalid against creditors if a greater value is secured to the intended wife and children of the marriage than is received with her in marriage, and the estate of the husband free from debt at the time of the marriage.

Real estate belonging to the wife at the time of the marriage cannot be sold or leased by the husband except with her consent, ascertained by private examination; and no interest of the husband therein is subject to execution against him. The proceeds of the wife's land sold by court are secured to her or her representatives.

OHIO.—A married woman has entire control of her separate property, both real and personal, and may charge it by her contracts expressing that intention, and in actions concerning it, or upon a written obligation, contract, or agreement signed by her, or where the cause of action grows out of any business in which she is owner or partner; or when the action is brought by her to set aside a deed or will, or is between her and her husband, she may sue and be sued alone, and the like judgment shall be rendered, and her separate property shall be liable, as if she were an unmarried woman, except that she shall be entitled to the exemption allowed to heads of families; and if sued jointly with her husband, she may defend her own rights. The husband is liable on his wife's contracts for necessaries.

OREGON.—The constitution of the State provides that the property and pecuniary rights of every married woman at the time of marriage, or afterwards acquired by gift, devise, or inheritance, shall not be subject to the debts or contracts of the husband, and laws shall be passed providing for the registration of personal property. Laws have been passed providing for such registration. The property, either real or personal, acquired by any married woman during coverture, is free from and not liable for the debts, liabilities, or contracts of her husband, in the same manner as property owned at the time of marriage, or afterwards acquired by gift, devise, or inheritance. She can only convey her real estate or right of dower by joining with her husband in a conveyance, and acknowledging it apart from her husband.

PENNSYLVANIA.—Under act of 22d February, 1718, where any mariner or others are gone, or shall hereafter go to sea, leaving their wives at shop-keeping, or to work for their livelihood at any trade, all such wives shall be deemed, adjudged, and taken, and are hereby declared to be, as feme sole traders; and shall have the ability, and by this act are enabled to sue and be sued, plead and be impleaded at law in any court or courts, during their husbands' natural lives, without naming their husbands in such suits, pleas, or actions; and their goods and chattels and property held in trust for them may be taken and sold on execution, but not the property of their husbands, unless it shall appear that they paid debts contracted by their husbands, and expended money for the necessary support of themselves and children, when execution may be had against the real and personal estate of their husbands to the value so paid or expended, and no more. If such husbands shall encumber or alienate their estates without having made provision for the maintenance of their wives and children, such incumbrance or alienation shall be null and void, unless they be shipwrecked, or by sickness or other casualty be disabled to maintain themselves.

Under act of May 4th, 1855, whenever any husband, from drunkenness, profligacy, or other cause, shall neglect or refuse to provide for his wife, or shall desert her, she shall have all the rights and privileges secured to a feme sole trader, under the act of 22d February, 1718, and be subject as therein provided; and her property, real and personal, however acquired, shall be subject to her free and absolute disposal during life, or by will, without any liability to be interfered with or obtained by such husband; and in case of her intestacy, shall go to her next of kin, as if he were previously dead. She must, however, be declared, by the court of common pleas of the county in which she lives, a feme sole trader, which will be done by petition and proof by two respectable witnesses. She may convey her real estate in which her husband does not join. 22d P. F. Smith, 306.

The property of married women for their separate use, not liable for the debts of their husbands, unless for necessaries furnished the family. Nor is the husband liable for debts of the wife contracted prior to marriage. She can give no valid note, or other evidence of debt, save a mortgage on her separate real estate, in which her husband should join.

By act of February 29, 1872, all contracts made by married women for sewing-machines for their own use, shall be valid and binding, without joining with their husbands in the same.

She cannot carry on business in her own name, unless declared by the courts a feme sole trader, which may be done, under act of April 3d, 1872, by application to the court of common pleas. This act secures to married women their separate earnings, and may be applied for by any married woman. Goods sold to her should be charged to husband and wife.

Under act of April 1st, 1874, married women owning any of the loans of this State, or of the city of Philadelphia, or any share or shares of the capital stock of any corporation created under the laws of this State, shall have the right to sell and transfer the same with like effect as if she were unmarried.

Act of May 15th, 1874, declares that the board of trustees of any bank in this State shall have full power, at their discretion, to pay on application the check, proper receipt, or order of any minor or married woman, such money of any part thereof, as he or she may have deposited to his or her credit, or any interest or dividend accruing thereon, without the assent or approbation of the parent or guardian of such minor, or the husband of such married woman, as the case may be; and it shall not be lawful for the parent or guardian of such minor, or the husband, or the creditors of the husband of such married woman, to attach or in any manner interfere with any deposit, interest, or dividend thereon of such minor or married woman.

RHODE ISLAND.—A married woman cannot conduct business separate and apart from her husband, nor cans he sue or be sued in her own name. She cannot transact business as a trader, and her individual contract is worthless, and cannot be enforced against her. If a married woman comes into this State without her husband, he never having lived with her in this State, and she resides here one year without him, she may then transact business in her own name, sue and be sued as an unmarried woman.

SOUTH CAROLINA. — The real and personal estate of a married woman, held by her at the time of marriage, or afterwards acquired, is not subject to levy and sale for her husband's debts, but is held as her separate property. She may devise, bequeath, or convey the same, in the same manner and to the same extent, as if she were unmarried. She may execute deeds, mortgages, and other legal instruments; may purchase property in her own name, and take conveyances to herself; and may contract and be contracted with, in all respects, as if unmarried. In respect to her separate estate she may sue and be sued alone; and execution may be enforced against her separate estate. The husband is not liable for her debts contracted before marriage, nor for those contracted after marriage, unless for her necessary support. A surviving wife is entitled to dower as at common law in all lands of which her husband was seized at any time during coverture. Her estate in dower is for life, in one-third of the lands.

TENNESSEE.—A married woman cannot conduct business separate and apart from her husband, neither can she sue or be sued without her husband being joined. A note given by a married woman should express that she binds her separate property for the payment of the same, otherwise it cannot be collected. The real estate of a married woman cannot be sold without her joining the husband in the deed. The personal property of a married woman in her own right, not being reduced to possession during coverture, is her absolute property after the death of the husband; but if the personal property be reduced into possession by the husband during marriage, it then becomes his property absolutely; and the husband, as her administrator, can collect any debts due her, and the same becomes his absolute property.

TEXAS.—A married woman is not authorized by statute to conduct business in her own name, and it would, therefore, be very unsafe for merchants to give her credit.

All property owned by either husband or wife at the time of marriage, or acquired afterward by gift, devise, or descent to either, is his or her separate property.

All property acquired otherwise during the marriage is their common property, managed and disposed of by the husband during marriage, but their interest in it is equal on the dissolution of the marriage, after payment of their debts contracted during marriage.

The husband's consent is necessary to the alienation of the wife's separate property. Her separate property is only liable, by law, for debts for necessaries for herself or children, or contracted by her for the benefit of her separate property. The extent of her power to mortgage her separate property for her husband's debts is not well settled.

UTAH TERRITORY.—May hold and enjoy property in her own right, and sue and be sued touching her own property without joining her husband. Dower is abolished in this Territory. Wife inherits child's portion.

VERMONT.—When any married man has abandoned his wife, and has not made sufficient provision for her maintenance, if the wife is of the age of eighteen years, the supreme court may, on her petition, authorize her to sell and convey her real estate, or any part thereof, and also any personal estate which shall at the time have come to the husband by reason of the marriage, and which may remain in the State undisposed of by him.

The wife is deemed an unmarried woman so far as to enable her to carry on and transact business on her own account, during such time as her husband shall be confined in the State prison; and she may sue and be sued as a single woman in all cases where the cause of action arose while her husband was so imprisoned; and she is also entitled to the same rights and privileges during his imprisonment as if he had abandoned her.

There is no statute authorizing a married woman to conduct business separate and apart from her husband in cases other than the above.

The rents, issues, and products of the real estate of any married woman belonging to her before marriage, or which she may have acquired by gift, grant, devise or inheritance, during coverture, shall not be liable to attachment or levy of execution, for the sole debts of her husband; but such annual products may be attached or levied upon for any debt of her husband created for the necessaries of the wife and family, and for any debt incurred in the cultivation or improvement of such real estate for labor or materials furnished subsequent to the 20th day of November, 1861.

No conveyance made during coverture, by the husband, of the rents, issues, and products, or of any interest in the real estate of the wife, shall be valid, unless the same be by deed, executed by the wife jointly with the husband, and acknowledged by her, in manner provided by law, in the case of the conveyance by husband and wife of the real estate of the wife. Married women may devise, by last will and testament, their real estate, or any interest therein descendable, to their heirs.

VIRGINIA.—A married woman cannot conduct business separate and apart from her husband, nor can she sue or be sued on her individual note. Her personal property becomes the husband's absolutely upon marriage, as does also the rents and profits of her real estate, unless the contrary is provided by marriage settlement. The wife is entitled to dower, and must join with the husband to release it.

WEST VIRGINIA.—A married woman cannot conduct business separate and apart from her husband, neither can she sue or be sued in her own name, except when the action concerns her separate property, or when it is between herself and husband; or when she is living separate and apart from her husband, in which case she can carry on business as though she were an unmarried woman.

A married woman cannot charge her separate estate unless by contract expressing or implying a charge upon such estate. All the real and personal property owned by her at the time of marriage she retains as her sole and separate property; but she cannot sell and convey her real estate without her husband joining, unless she is living separate and apart from him. She may also take, during coverture, by inheritance, gift, devise, or otherwise, from any person other than her husband, any property, and hold the same as her separate estate.

WISCONSIN.—A married woman now has nearly all the rights and powers of an unmarried female. She may carry on business in her own name, but in an action commenced against her, although concerning her separate estate, her husband must be joined as defendant. In an action concerning her separate property she may sue alone.

The wife may take and acquire real and personal property in any manner whatever from any person other than her husband, and may enjoy and dispose of the same as freely as if unmarried. The individual earnings of a married woman, except those accruing from labor performed for her husband, or in his employ or payable by him, are her separate property, and are not subject to her husband's control, nor liable for his debts. A married woman may be sued as if she were single for the recovery of her ante-nuptial debts. If her husband shall desert her, or shall neglect or refuse to provide for her support, or that of her children, she may carry on business in her own name. She may bind herself by contract relating to her separate property, and such contract may be enforced by an action at law; all other contracts can be enforced only in equity. A conveyance from the husband to the wife of real and personal property, though void at law, is sufficient in equity to vest the property in the wife as against all persons except creditors of the husband.

WYOMING TERRITORY.—A married woman may carry on any trade or business in her own name, and may sue and be sued as if she were a single woman.

All property, real or personal, owned by a woman before marriage, and all acquired in good faith during coverture, together with all interest and profits arising therefrom, is held by her as though she were unmarried, and is free from the control and debts of the husband. She may make any contract she desires with reference to her personal property, and may make a will as though she were a single woman. The wife must join with the husband to convey her real estate.

RELEASE BY OPERATION OF LAW:

Where a compromise cannot be made with one of several joint debtors, or members of a firm, without releasing the others.

At Common Law, a release of one of several joint obligors, or joint debtors, operates as a release of all; and, as this rule is in force in all the States where it has not been changed by Statute Laws, it becomes an important question in commercial transactions.

ALABAMA, ARKANSAS.—In these States the common law rule is in force.

CALIFORNIA.—A debtor may release one or more of several joint obligors, or one or more of several joint debtors, as to his proportion of the debt, without affecting his right of recovery against the remainder.

CONNECTICUT.—A provision is made by statute, permitting compromise, and changing the common law rule as to joint debtors.

DAKOTA TERRITORY, DELAWARE, DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA, FLORIDA, GEORGIA, ILLINOIS, INDIANA, IOWA, KANSAS, KENTUCKY, LOUISIANA, MAINE, MARYLAND, MASSACHUSETTS.—The common law rule prevails in these States.

MICHIGAN.—There appears to be an exception to the rule in actions against the several parties to a bill of exchange or promissory note. Judgment may be rendered for the plaintiff against one or more of the defendants, and in favor of one or more of the defendants against the plaintiff, according as the rights and liabilities of the respective parties shall appear, either upon confession, default, or on trial. —Green's Practice, sec. 550.

MINNESOTA.—A provision is made, by statute, permitting compromise and changing the common law rule as to joint debtors.

MISSISSIPPI.—The common law rule is in force.

MISSOURI.—A creditor may compound with any one of several joint debtors without impairing his right to recover the balance from the other debtor or debtors not so released, but such release does not impair the right of contribution between co-debtors.

MONTANA TERRITORY AND NEBRASKA.—The common law rule is in force.

NEVADA.—A provision is made, by statute, permitting compromise, and changing the common law rule as to joint debtors.

NEW HAMPSHIRE, NEW JERSEY.—The common law rule is in force.

NEW MEXICO.—The common law rule is in force.

NEW YORK.—It is provided by statute that, whenever any copartnership firm shall be dissolved by mutual consent or otherwise, it shall and may be lawful for any one or more of the individuals who was or were embraced in such copartnership firm to make a separate composition or compromise with any one or all of the creditors of such copartnership firm; and such composition or compromise shall be a full and effectual discharge to the debtor or debtors making the same, and to them only, of and from all and every liability to the creditor or creditors with whom the same is made or incurred by reason of his or their connection with such copartnership firm.

Every such debtor or debtors making such composition or compromise, shall take from the creditor or creditors with whom he may make the same, a note or memorandum in writing, exonerating him or them from all and every individual liability incurred by reason of such connection with such co-partnership firm, which note or memorandum may be given in evidence by such debtor or debtors under the general issue, in bar of such creditor's right of recovery against him or them; and if such liability shall be by judgment in any court of record in this State, then on a production to and filing with the clerk of such court, the said note or memorandum in writing, duly acknowledged by the party or parties making the same, in the same manner as satisfaction of judgment is now required by law to be acknowledged, such clerk shall discharge said judgment of record so far as the said compromising debtor or debtors shall be concerned.

Such compromise or composition with an individual member of a firm shall not be so construed as to discharge the other copartners, nor shall it impair the right of the creditor to proceed at law or in equity against the members of such copartnership firm as have not been discharged; and the member or members of such copartnership firm so proceeded against, shall be permitted to set off any demand against said creditor or creditors which could have been set off, had such suit been brought against all the individuals composing such firm; nor shall such compromise or discharge of an individual of a firm, prevent the other members of such firm from availing themselves of any defence at law or equity, that would have been available had not this act been passed, except that they shall not set up the discharge of one individual as a discharge of the other copartners, unless it shall appear that all were intended to be discharged.

Such compromise or composition of an individual of a firm with a creditor of such firm, shall in no wise affect the right of the other copartners to call on the individual making such compromise, for his ratable portion of such copartnership debt, the same as if this law had not been passed.

The above provisions in reference to the copartners of a firm shall extend to joint debtors who are hereby authorized individually to compound or compromise for their joint indebtedness, with the like effect in reference to creditors and the joint debtors of the individual so compromising, as is above provided in reference to copartners.

OHIO.—It is provided by statute that, Whenever any copartnership firm shall be dissolved, by mutual consent or otherwise, it shall and may be lawful for any one or more of the individuals who was or were embraced in such copartnership firm, to make a separate composition or compromise with any one or all of the creditors of such copartnership firm; and such composition or compromise shall be a full and effectual discharge to the debtor or debtors making the same, and to them only, of and from all and every liability to the creditor or creditors with whom the same is made or incurred by reason of his or their connection with such copartnership firm, according to the terms of such compromise.

This provision does not discharge the other copartners, nor impair the right of the creditor to proceed against the members of such copartnership firm as have not been discharged. But such copartners shall have the same right of set-off as if the suit had been brought against the firm.

The above provisions shall extend to joint debtors, with the like effect in reference to creditors and to joint debtors, as provided in reference to copartners.

OREGON.—The common law rule is in force.

PENNSYLVANIA. — The act of March 22d, 1862, provides that: Whenever any copartnership firm shall be dissolved, by mutual consent or otherwise, it shall and may be lawful for any one or more of the individuals who was or were embraced in such copartnership firm, to make a separate composition or compromise with any one or all the creditors of such copartnership firm; and such composition or compromise shall be a full and effectual discharge to the debtor or debtors making the same, and to them only, of and from all and every liability to the creditor or creditors with whom the same is made or incurred, by reason of his or their connection with such copartnership firm, according to the terms of such compromise.

Every such debtor or debtors making such composition or compromise, may take from the creditor or creditors with whom he may make the same, a note or memorandum in writing exonerating him or them from all and every individual liability incurred by reason of such connection with such copartnership firm, which note or memorandum may be given in evidence by such debtor or debtors, in bar of such creditor's right of recovery against him or them; and if such liability shall be by judgment in any court of record in this State, then, on a production to and filing with the clerk of such court, the said note or memorandum in writing, lawfully acknowledged, such clerk shall discharge such judgment of record, so far as the said compromising debtor or debtors shall be concerned. Such composition or compromise with an individual member of a firm shall not be so construed as to discharge the other copartners, nor shall it impair the right of the creditor to proceed against the members of such copartnership firm as have not been discharged; and the member or members of such copartnership firm so proceeded against, shall be permitted to set off any demand against said creditor or creditors, which could have been set off had such suit been brought against all the individuals comprising such firm. Nor shall such compromise or discharge of an individual of such firm prevent the other members from availing themselves of any defence that would have been available had not this act been passed, except that they shall not set up the discharge of an individual as a discharge of the other copartners, unless it shall appear that all were intended to be discharged: Provided, That the discharge of any such copartner shall be deemed a payment to the creditor equal to the proportionate interest of the partner discharged, in the partnership concern, unless he shall have paid more than his proportioned interest; in which event, the full amount paid by such discharged debtor shall be credited.

Such compromise or composition of an individual of a firm, with a creditor of such firm, shall in nowise affect the right of the other copartners to call on the individual making such compromise, for his ratable portion of such copartnership debt, the same as if this law had not been passed.

The above provisions in reference to copartners of a firm shall extend to joint debtors, who are hereby authorized, individually, to compound or compromise for their joint indebtedness, with the like effect in reference to creditors and joint debtors of the individuals so compromising, as is above provided in reference to copartners.

RHODE ISLAND, SOUTH CAROLINA, TENNESSEE, TEXAS, VERMONT.—The common law rule is in force.

UTAH TERRITORY.—The common law rule as to joint debtors has not been changed to any considerable extent by statute.

VIRGINIA.— A creditor may compound with one co-obligor, and release him from liability, without impairing the contract or obligation as to the others. But the contract or obligation is to be credited with the full share of the party released, if a principal; if a surety or co-surety, then with the sum actually paid by him.

WEST VIRGINIA.—No provisions, special or otherwise, than as embraced under the head Statute of Limitations.

WISCONSIN.—A provision is made by statute permitting compromise, and changing the common law rule as to joint debtors.

WYOMING TERRITORY.—Common law rule in force.

STATUTE OF FRAUDS.

The following extract from "Chitty on Contracts" (p. 69, 10th Am. ed.), contains the most important sections of the English Statute of frauds; and as this statute has been re-enacted by the Legislatures of all the States of the Federal Union, with only immaterial alterations or additions, it is deemed unnecessary to give the statute of each State on the subject separately, as they are similar in all important points, as will be seen by the States of Delaware, New Mexico, New York, Oregon, Pennsylvania and Utah Territory which are given. The statute is in force in all the States, except Louisiana, where the Roman Law, or French Civil Code, is in force:

"The Statute 29, Charles II., c. 3, commonly called the Statute of Frauds, from its having been passed to prevent frauds and perjuries, in upholding fictitious or misrepresented contracts, requires that the various agreements mentioned therein shall be signed by the party to be charged therewith, or by his agent. But this statute does not in any respect alter the nature or effect of a contract. It must, for example, be founded upon a sufficient consideration; and the statute requires the ceremony of reducing the engagement of the parties into writing, and that the signature of the party to be charged shall be attached thereto, merely for the purpose of affording more certain proof of their previously completed agreement.

The first, second, and third sections of the Statute of Frauds relate to the creation of a title to, and to demises of, real property, and to contracts respecting such title and demises.

The fourth section of the act provides, that no action shall be brought (1st), whereby to charge any executor or administrator upon any special promise to answer damages out of his own estate; or (2d), whereby to charge the defendant upon any special promise to answer for the debt, default, or miscarriage of another person; or (3d), to charge any person upon any agreement made upon consideration of marriage; or (4th), upon any contract or sale of lands, tenements, or hereditaments, or any interest in or concerning them; or (5th), upon any agreement that is not to be performed within the space of one year from the making thereof, unless the agreement upon which such action shall be brought, or some memorandum or note thereof, shall be in writing, and signed by the party to be charged therewith, or some other person thereunto, by him lawfully authorized."

DELAWARE.—No sale, whether with or without bill of sale, of any goods or chattels, within this State, shall be good in law (except as against the vendor), or shall change or alter the property in such goods or chattels, unless a valuable consideration shall be paid, or in good faith secured to be paid, and unless the goods and chattels sold shall be actually delivered into the hands of the vendee, as soon as may be after the making of such sale. And if such goods and chattels so sold shall afterwards come into and continue in the possession of the vendor, the same shall be liable to the demands of all creditors.

Verbal assumptions to pay the debt of another under five dollars aregood, and may be proven by the promisee. Between five and twenty-five dollars must be proven by one credible witness, or memorandumin writing to be signed by the party to be charged.

Promise to pay debts of another over twenty-five dollars must be in writing, and signed by the party to be charged.

NEW MEXICO.—The English statute is considered in force here.

NEW YORK.—It is provided by statute that in the following cases every agreement shall be void, unless such agreement, or some note or memorandum thereof, be in writing and subscribed by the party to be charged therewith: 1. Every agreement that by its terms is not to be performed within one year from the making thereof. 2. Every special promise to answer for the debt, default, or miscarriage of another person. 3. Every agreement, promise, or undertaking made upon consideration of marriage, except mutual promises to marry.

OREGON.—In the following cases the agreement is void unless the same, or some note or memorandum thereof expressing the consideration, be in writing, and subscribed by the party to be charged.

1. An agreement that, by its terms, is not to be performed within a year from the making thereof.

2. An agreement to answer for the debt, default, or miscarriage of another.

3. An agreement by an executor or administrator to pay the debts of his testator or intestate out of his own estate.

4. An agreement made upon consideration of marriage other than a mutual promise to marry.

5. An agreement for the sale of personal property, at a price not less than fifty dollars, unless some part of the same be received by the purchaser, or some portion of the purchase price be paid. When the sale is made at auction, an entry by the auctioneer is a sufficient memorandum.

6. An agreement for the leasing for a longer period than one year, or for the sale of real property, or any interest therein.

7. An agreement concerning real property made by an agent of the party sought to be charged, unless the authority of the agent be in writing.

PENNSYLVANIA.—Act of March 21, 1772, provides: That all leases, estates, interest of freehold or term of years, or any uncertain interest of, in or out of any messuages, manors, lands, tenements or hereditaments, made or created by livery and seizin only, or by parol, and not put in writing and signed by the parties so making or creating the same, or their agents, thereunto lawfully authorized by writing, shall have the force and effect of leases or estates at will only, and shall not, either in law or equity, be deemed or taken to have any other or greater force or effect, any consideration for making any such parol leases or estates, or any former law or usage, to the contrary notwithstanding; except, nevertheless, all leases not exceeding the term of three years from the making thereof. And moreover, no leases, estates, or interests, either of freehold or term of years, or any uncertain interest of, in, to or out of any messuages, manors, lands, tenements, or hereditaments, shall at any time be assigned, granted, or surrendered, unless it be by deed or note in writing, signed by the party so assigning, granting, or surrendering the same, or their agents, thereto lawfully authorized by writing, or by act and operation of law.

Act of April 22, 1856, provides: That all declarations or creations of trusts or confidences of any lands, tenements, or hereditaments, and all grants and assignments thereof, shall be manifested by writing, signed by the party holding the title thereof, or by his last will in writing, or else be void: Provided, That where any conveyance shall be made of any lands or tenements, by which a trust or confidence shall or may arise, or result by implication or construction of law, or be transferred or extinguished by act or operation of law, then and in every such case, such trust or confidence shall be of like force and effect as if this act had not been passed.

Act of April 26, 1855, provides: That no action shall be brought whereby to charge any executor or administrator upon any promise to answer damages out of his own estate, or whereby to charge the defendant upon any special promise to answer the debt or default of another, unless the agreement upon which said action shall be brought, or some memorandum or note thereof, shall be in writing, and signed by the party to be charged therewith, or some other person by him authorized. This act not to apply to any contract the consideration of which is less than twenty dollars. This act affects the validity of certain kinds of endorsement of commercial paper. It was held by the Supreme Court, in 59th vol. Penna. Reports, Shafer vs. The Farmers' and Mechanics' Bank of Easton, "that where B. made a note payable to J., S. endorsed it; afterward J. endorsed it, and it was discounted by a bank for J.; that S. was not liable either to the bank or to J." The endorsement is not a note in writing, as required by the act of April 26, 1855.

The act of May 14, 1874, provides: That from and after January 1, 1875, the surety or sureties in any instrument of writing for the forbearance or payment of money at any future time, shall not be discharged from their liability when the same, by reason of notice from the surety to the creditor to collect the amount from the principal on said instruments, unless such notice be in writing, and signed by the party giving the same.

DEEDS, MORTGAGES AND DEPOSITIONS.

ALABAMA.

Deeds, Mortgages, &c., Acknowledgments of.

Acknowledgments of deeds and other instruments of writing, within the State, may be taken by the following officers: judges of the Supreme and Circuit Courts, and clerks of the courts; judges of the Courts of Probate; chancellors; registers in chancery; justices of the peace, and notaries public.

When deeds are acknowledged without the State, but within the United States, the acknowledgment may be taken by the following officers: judges of any court of record within the State where taken; notaries public, or commissioners appointed by the governor of Alabama.

When deeds are acknowledged beyond the limits of the United States, the acknowledgment may be taken by the judge of any court of record; mayor, or chief magistrate of any city or town; notaries public, or by any diplomatic consular or commercial agent of the United States.

Powers of attorney for the conveyance of real estate may be acknowledged in the same manner, and as evidence, the same legal effect will attach to them as to other conveyances.

[No subscribing witness is necessary, if the deed is acknowledged; but where the grantor cannot write his name—and in every other case—there must be two witnesses.]

Acknowledgment by Husband and Wife.

Deeds, Mortgages, &c., Recording of.

Recording conditional or unconditional conveyances of estates, or transfers of real property, conditionally, for the purpose of securing the payment of a debt contracted at the date of execution of the conveyance, are absolutely null and void as to purchasers for a valuable consideration, mortgagees, and judgment creditors without notice, unless placed on record within three months from date of execution.

Digitized by Google

Mortgages of personalty to secure debts or to indemnify, are usually accompanied by a power of sale, and can be used by an assignee or personal representative of any person who becomes entitled to the money by assignment, otherwise they are inoperative and void against creditors and purchasers without notice until recorded, unless the property is brought into this State, subject to such incumbrances, in which case they must be registered within four months, and if such property is removed to a different county from that in which the mortgagor resides, the mortgage must be recorded within six months from date of removal; the conveyance must be recorded in the county of the grantor's residence, and also in the county wherein the property is situate at time of conveyance; in the event of removal of the property to another county, the conveyance must be again recorded within six months from date of such removal in the county to which it has been removed.

Depositions, Instructions for taking.

To take the testimony of witnesses residing out of the State, or about to remove from the State, or where the witness is a female, or from infirmity, or age, or sickness is unable to attend court, or resides more than one hundred miles from the place of trial, or where the claim or defence, or a material part thereof, depends exclusively on the testimony of the witness, or where the witness is governor of the State or a State official, or of a profession or calling such as to prevent attendance upon the place of trial, interrogatories are filed in the office of the clerk of the court, notice of which is given to the opposing party by service of a copy of the interrogatories, personally or upon his attorney, if residing in the county, or if the defendant resides out of the county where the suit is pending, and has no attorney of record within the county, notice is given by having the interrogatories filed in the office of the clerk for ten days. The clerk then issues a commission to one or more persons to take such depositions, prescribing the notice to be given to the opposite party, of the time and place of taking the deposition. It is the duty of the commissioner to reduce the answers of the witness to writing, or cause it to be done by the witness, or some impartial person, as near as may be in the language of the witness, having first sworn him to speak the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth.

Depositions of witnesses in chancery causes are taken in the same way, using the same forms. The commission is issued by the register in chancery and returned to him.

Forms of caption and certificate for taking depositions on interrogatories.

vs.
RICHARD ROE.

I, [Thomas Kilvert,] one of the commissioners named in the annexed commission, caused to come before me at [137 Broadway New York, in the county of New York, State of New York,] C. D., a witness examined by the plaintiff in the annexed stated cause, and having sworn him or affirmed him on the Holy Evangelists, the truth to speak, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth, he deposes and says as follows:

1. To the first direct interrogatory he saith:

(Here write the answer in language of the witness).

2. .....

If there are cross or rebutting interrogatories, proceed in the same manner.

To the first cross-interrogatory he saith:

.....

If any exhibits are produced and sworn to before the commissioner, they must be attached to the depositions to which they relate, and must, in like manner, be subscribed by the witness proving the same, and shall be certified to by the commissioner in the following manner:

"At the execution of a commission for the examination of witnesses, between .....complainant and.....respondent, this paper was produced and shown to.....a witness for the.....and deposed to by him.

"As witness my hand and seal,"

THOMAS KILVERT,
Commissioner for Alabama, in New York.

When the deposition is finished, it must be subscribed by the witness and certified by the commissioner as follows:

Certificate.

I, [Thomas Kilvert,] said commissioner, hereby certify that I caused to come before me at [137 Broadway, New York,] in the county of [New York,] State of [New York,] the above named witness, C. D.; that he was duly sworn and examined; that his evidence was taken down as near as may be in his own language, and was read over to him, and by him subscribed in my presence, and that the identity of the said witness is known to me (or has been made known to me by proof made by E. F.,) as the same person named in the interrogatories and the commission annexed.

As witness my hand and seal this ..... day of ....., A.D. 18...

THOMAS KILVERT,
[L. S.] 137 Broadway, New York,
Commissioner.

The deposition is then folded with the commission, interrogatories, and exhibits or papers attached, if any, in a packet sealed and directed to the clerk, as follows:

If the package be delivered to messenger, he should be instructed that on his arrival he will be required to take an oath that he received it from Thomas Kilvert, Esq., the commissioner, and that it had been in his possession ever since he received the same, and that it has undergone no alteration, to the best of his knowledge or belief; and he should also be instructed that he should deliver it to no other person but the officer to whom it is directed.

ARKANSAS.

Deeds, Mortgages, &c., Acknowledgment of.

Acknowledgment of deeds in this State may be taken by any court having a seal, or by any judge, justice, or clerk thereof, notary public, or justice of the peace of the county wherein the real estate is situated.

If the acknowledgment be taken without the State, but within the United States, it may be taken by any court of the United States, State, or Territorial court having a seal, or by the clerk of any such court, notary public, or commissioner, appointed by the governor of this State to take acknowledgment of deeds.

If the acknowledgment be taken without the United States, it may be done by any court of any State having a seal, the mayor or chief magistrate of any city or town having a seal, or by any minister or consul of the United States, or notary public having a seal.

Deeds may be attested and proved by two witnesses. Persons offering to make acknowledgment of conveyances of real estate, must be personally known to the officer taking the same, to be the persons whose names are subscribed to the instrument, or shall be proved to be such by two credible witnesses, in which case the names and residence of the witnesses must be inserted in the certificate. No acknowledgment of a married woman shall be taken, unless she first be made acquainted with the contents of the instrument, and on examination apart from her husband she acknowledged that she executed the same freely and without compulsion, or under influence of her husband. The certificate of the officer must show, in the case of a married woman, that she relinquished her right of dower.

Every instrument of writing executed out of this State, and within the United States, which conveys lands in this State, and which is acknowledged or proved according to the laws and usages of the place where executed, shall be received and recorded in the county where the lands lie, and shall be as effectual and valid as if made in accordance with the laws of this State.

All lands in this State are declared to be allodial, and feudal tenures with all their incidents, are prohibited. Leases and grants of lands for a longer period than twenty-one (21) years hereafter made, in which shall be reserved any rent or service of any kind, shall be held a conveyance in fee to the lessee. (Constitution of 1868.)

Deeds, Mortgages, &c., Recording.

Mortgages are not liens until filed for record, though they are good between the parties. Trust deeds must be filed the same as mortgages.

Depositions, Instructions for taking.

Depositions may be used when the witness does not reside in the county where the action is pending, or resides more than thirty miles from the place where the action is pending, or is absent from the State. One day's notice for each thirty miles of travel, and one day for preparation must be given where the distance is one hundred miles or less, and two days where it is more.

Where more than three days' notice has been given to take a deposition out of the State, the party may, by notice to adverse party or his attorney, served in one day after service of the first notice, require the deposition to be taken upon interrogatories. Where a deposition is taken upon interrogatories, neither the party nor his agent or attorney, shall be present, unless both parties are present or represented, or unless the opposite party or his agent or attorney has been seasonably notified of the time and place of the examination, or the party attending has been notified by the adverse party to attend.

The officer before whom the deposition was taken must state the time and place of taking the deposition; that the witness was duly sworn before he gave his testimony, and that his testimony was written and read to, and subscribed by him in the presence of the officer. It must also state by whom it was written, and which of the parties, in person, or by agent or attorney, was present at the examination of the witnesses.

The depositions, when completed, must be sealed up by the officer, and directed to the clerk of the court in which the action is pending, with an endorsement thereon, showing them to be depositions and the style of the case. They must then be either delivered or mailed to the clerk by the officer taking them; except that depositions taken out of the State, sealed and directed as above, may be delivered to the party taking the same, his agent or attorney, to be by him delivered; such person so delivering them taking an oath that they have not been opened by him, or other person to his knowledge.

The statement of the witness must be written in the presence of the officer taking it, either by the witness or the officer.

Officers before whom depositions may be taken out of the State.

Commissioner appointed by the governor of this State; a judge of a court; a justice of the peace; notary public; mayor of a city, or any other person empowered by a commission directed to him, by consent of the parties, or by order of the court.

CALIFORNIA.

Deeds, Mortgages, &c., Acknowledgment of.

Every deed whereby any real estate is conveyed, or in any way affected must be acknowledged. If acknowledged within the State, before one of the following officers: Any judge or clerk of a court having a seal, notary public, or county recorder, or by a justice of the peace of the county where the deed or conveyance is executed. If acknowledged without this State, and within any State or Territory in the United States, before any judge or clerk of any court in the United States, or of any State or Territory having a seal, or by a commissioner appointed by the governor of this State for that purpose, or by any notary public, commissioner of deeds, or justice of the peace, authorized to take and certify the acknowledgment or proof of deeds to be used in his State or Territory. When a deed is acknowledged out of this State by an officer other than a commissioner of this State, the secretary of the State or Territory in which the acknowledgment is taken, must certify that such notary public or commissioner of deeds, at the time of taking such acknowledgment, was such officer, and that he is authorized by law to take such acknowledgment within the State or Territory in which he was acting; and if the officer taking the acknowledgment be a justice of the peace, the clerk of the county in which such justice resides, or the clerk of a court of record, must certify to the same effect.

No officer shall take an acknowledgment of any deed whereby real estate is conveyed or affected, unless he shall personally know the party appearing to make such acknowledgment to be the same person whose name is subscribed to such deed as a party thereto, or unless the same shall be proven by the oath or affirmation of some credible witness.

In witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and affixed my official seal, at my office in the city and county of [New York,] the day and year in this certificate first above written.

THOMAS KILVERT,

[L. S.]. Commissioner for California, in New York.

Deeds, Mortgages, &c., Recording of.

Every deed or instrument in writing, whereby any real estate is conveyed or affected, must be recorded in the office of the recorder in the county in which such real estate is situate, before it can operate as a notice to a third party, but it is valid and binding between the parties thereto, without being recorded.

Chattel mortgages must be recorded in the same manner as mortgages of real estate, and when so recorded, are valid against third parties.

Instructions for Taking Depositions.

Commissions for taking the depositions of a witness out of this State are issued from the court in which the action is pending. Depositions may be taken by a commissioner appointed by the governor of this State, or by any person agreed upon by the parties; but if the parties cannot agree in the choice of the person to take such depositions, then he shall be selected by the judge.

The examination of the witness need not be taken upon written interrogatories, unless either of the parties wish it to be so, in which case the interrogatories are prepared by the parties in dispute, and settled by the judge who grants the commission. If the time and place for taking the depositions are not named in the commission, the person so appointed to take the depositions will subpœna the witnesses to appear before him at such time and place as he shall appoint. The evidence of the witness shall be taken down in writing, as near as may be in the language he shall use, either by the commissioner, the witness, or some impartial person.

Form of Deposition.

Deposition of....., a witness sworn and examined under and by virtue of a commission issued out of the..... Court of ....., in and for the county of ....., in the State of California, in a certain cause therein pending between ....., plaintiff, and ....., defendant.

....., of [the city and county of New York,] being duly sworn to speak the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth, deposes and says, as follows:

To the first interrogatory, he says:

To the second interrogatory, he says:

When the witness has finished his deposition, let him subscribe it, and the acting commissioner will certify as follows:

Examination taken, reduced to writing, and by the witness subscribed and sworn to this .....day of .....18 ... before

THOMAS KILVERT,
Commissioner.

If any papers or exhibits are produced and proved they must be annexed to the depositions in which they are referred to, and be subscribed by the witness, and be endorsed by the acting commissioner, in this manner.

"At the execution of a commission for the examination of witnesses between ..... plaintiff and ..... defendant, this paper writing was produced and shown to ..... and by him deposed unto at the time of his examination, before

THOMAS KILVERT,
Commissioner, 137 Broadway, New York.

Digitized by Google

The acting commissioner will sign his name to each half sheet of the depositions and exhibits.

If an interpreter is employed, one of the commissioners will administer to him the following oath, and certify thereto:

"You do solemnly swear, that you will truly and faithfully interpret the oath and interrogatories to be administered to ..... a witness now to be examined, out of the English language into the ..... language, and that you will truly and faithfully interpret the answers of the said ..... thereto, out of the ..... into the English language."

Let the deposition be subscribed by the interpreter as well as by the witness, and certified by the acting commissioners, as follows:

Examination taken, reduced to writing, subscribed by the witness and by the sworn interpreter, and sworn to by the witness, this ..... day of ..... 18 ... before

THOMAS KILVERT,
Commissioner.

The commissioner will make return on the back of the commission by endorsement, thus:

"The execution of this commission appears in certain schedules hereunto annexed."

THOMAS KILVERT,
Commissioner.

The depositions and exhibits (if any) must be annexed to the commission, and then the commission, the directions, the interrogatories, cross-interrogatories, depositions, and exhibits, must be folded into a packet and bound with tape. The acting commissioners are to set their seals at the several meetings or crossings of the tape, endorse their names on the outside, and direct it thus:

To ..... Esquire
Clerk of the .....
at.....

When the commission is thus executed, made up and directed, it must be returned in the manner specified in the direction on the commission, if there be any.

If there be no direction on the commission specifying the manner in which it is to be returned, then it must either be delivered to the Court by one of the acting commissioners, personally, or else be forwarded by some person coming to this place, and who must be able, on his arrival, to make oath, before one of the judges or the clerk of the court:

"That he received the same from the hands of A. B., one of the commissioners, and that it had not been opened or altered since he so received it."

In case of returning the commission by mail, it is to be deposited by the acting commissioner in the nearest post-office, he making the following endorsement thereon:

"Deposited in the post-office at New York City, this ..... day of ..... 18..., by me,"

THOMAS KILVERT,
Commissioner.

In case of returning the commission by a vessel, it is to be deposited by one of the acting commissioners in the letter-bag of such vessel, he making upon the commission the following endorsement:

"Deposited in the letter-bag of the ..... now lying at ..... and bound for the port of ..... this ..... day of ..... 18 ... by me,"

THOMAS KILVERT,
Commissioner.

☞ The commissioners are requested to be very careful to observe the foregoing instructions, as the smallest variance may vitiate the execution of the commission.

COLORADO.

Deeds, Mortgages, &c., Acknowledgments of.

Deeds may be acknowledged before the following officers, when executed in this State: Justices of Supreme or District Court, probate judges, county clerks, and notaries public. The officer taking the acknowledgment must certify the same under his official seal. Acknowledgments may also be taken by justices of the peace, in which case, however, should the lands respecting which the acknowledgment is taken, not lie in the county of the justice of the peace taking such acknowledgment, there must be affixed to his acknowledgment the certificate of the county clerk of such county, to the official capacity of such justice of the peace, and that the signature of the justice to the certificate of acknowledgment is his true signature. When deeds are executed without the State, but within the United States or the Territories thereof, acknowledgments may be taken by any of the following officers: Secretary of any State or Territory, or clerk of any United States, State, or Territorial court of record; the acknowledgments being certified by the officer taking the same under his official seal, also before any other officer authorized by the laws of such State or Territory, to take and certify such acknowledgments. The certificate of acknowledgment must be accompanied by the certificate of a clerk of a court of record of the county wherein the officer taking the acknowledgment resides, stating that such officer is the person he is represented to be, and that he has authority by the laws of the State or Territory to take and certify such acknowledgment, and that the signature to such acknowledgment is his true signature. Acknowledgments may also be taken before any commissioner of deeds appointed by the laws of this State. When deeds are executed without the United States, acknowledgments may be made before any court of record, the judge of such court certifying under the seal of such court, that the acknowledgment has been made before the court. Also before any mayor, or other chief officer of any city or town, having a seal, the acknowledgment certified by such mayor or chief officer, under his official seal. Acknowledgments may also be made before any consul of the United States, duly certified under his official seal.

Deeds, Mortgages, &c., Acknowledgment of.

The statutes require that "all grants, bargains, and mortgages of lands shall be in writing, subscribed by the grantor, with his own hand, or with his mark, with his name thereunto annexed, and also attested by two witnesses, with their own hands, or with their marks, with their names thereunto annexed; or the name of the grantor shall be subscribed to such grant, by his lawful attorney, authorized by a written power for that special purpose, duly executed and acknowledged in the manner herein prescribed in the case of deeds, and such subscribing name of the grantor shall be attested by two witnesses."

All grants and deeds of bargain and sale, and mortgages of houses and lands, shall be acknowledged by the grantor or grantors to be his or their free act and deed.

Deeds executed within the State must be acknowledged before one of the following officers: Judge of probate or other court, justices of the peace, notaries public, town clerk, commissioner, or any commissioned officer in the service of the United States, or of a company raised in the State of Connecticut, while in such service out of the State.

The acknowledgment of deeds executed in any other of the United States, or foreign country, may be made before any United States consul resident in such foreign State or country, or before any notary public or justice of the peace of such State or country.

Deeds, Mortgages, &c., Recording.

All deeds, mortgages, both of real estate and chattels; leases for more than one year; tax liens on real estate; attachment and execution liens on real estate; mechanics' liens and waivers of priority of title by reason of preceding mortgage, must be recorded.

A recorded conveyance takes precedence of one unrecorded, even though made subsequently.

Depositions, Instructions for taking.

Depositions may be taken out of this State by a notary public, a commissioner appointed for that purpose by the State of Connecticut, or by a justice of the peace. If taken by a justice of the peace there must also be annexed a certificate with the signature and official seal of a notary public, county clerk, or secretary of State, that the person by whom the deposition is taken was at the time of such taking a justice of the peace.

The deposition may be in the handwriting of the deponent, or of the magistrate taking the same, but must not be written by any party to the action, nor by the agent or attorney of such party, and should be subscribed by the deponent.

Reasonable notice must be given to the opposite party, of the time and place of taking the deposition, and it must be taken pursuant to the notice. The fact that notice was given should be stated in the certificate, and also that the adverse party, or his attorney, was or was not present, precisely as the case may be; and the citation and return should be annexed to the deposition.

If the hearing is adjourned, notice thereof should be left at the place named in the citation, and the fact of the adjournment and of the deposition being taken pursuant thereto, should be stated in the certificate.

The deposition may be taken as above without any further authority from the court, and without filing any written interrogatories.

Both parties, or their counsel, may be present at the examination, and put all proper questions to the deponent.

DAKOTA TERRITORY.

Deeds, Mortgages, etc., Acknowledgments of.

Acknowledgments of deeds and other instruments of writing executed within this Territory, whereby any interest in real estate is conveyed or affected, may be made before any judge or clerk of a court of record, mayor or recorder of a city, justice of the peace, commissioner of deeds, probate judge or notary. Acknowledgments executed without this Territory, but within the United States or the Territories thereof, may be made before any commissioner appointed by the laws of this Territory, judge of the Supreme or District Court of the United States, judge of the circuit or supreme court of any State or Territory, mayor of a city, or any other officer authorized by his State or Territory to take acknowledgments.

Dower having been abolished, it is not necessary that the wife should join in the conveyance of land belonging to her husband, nor is it necessary for the husband to join in the conveyance of land belonging to his wife; but the officer taking the acknowledgment of a deed or conveyance of any property belonging to the wife, must examine her separately and apart from her husband, and state that she executed such deed freely and without compulsion or fear of her husband. Two witnesses are necessary to every conveyance.

DELAWARE.

Deeds, Mortgages, &c., Acknowledgment of.

A deed in Delaware must be signed and sealed by the party thereto, a scrawl seal is sufficient; also one witness to a deed is sufficient, excepting assignments of notes in writing, bonds, mortgages and other specialties, which require two witnesses.

A married woman may make a deed if her husband be a party thereto, and if she acknowledge the same as prescribed by law; but no married woman shall have power to make a letter of attorney. But in all cases of sales of land and tenements under judgments, or by trustees of idiots, lunatics, and persons of unsound mind, it shall be lawful for the wife of any defendant in such judgment, or of such idiot, &c., to execute any deed to bar dower, without her husband being a party thereto.

I.—Deeds Acknowledged within the State.

Deeds may be acknowledged in any county by any party to same in the Superior Court, or before the chancellor, or any judge or notary public, or before two justices of the peace for the same county. Also clerks of U S. Circuit or District courts, of deeds to be used in their respective courts.

II.—Acknowledged without the State.

A deed concerning lands, tenements, or hereditaments within this State, may be acknowledged or proved, or the private acknowledgment of a married woman, party to such deed, may be taken out of the State before any consul general, consul, or commercial agent of the United States, duly appointed in any foreign country, at the places of their respective official residence, before any commissioner of deeds for Delaware, or before the judge of any District or Circuit Court of the United States, or the chancellor, or any judge of a court of record, of any State, Territory or country, or the mayor or chief officer of any city or borough, and certificate under the hand of such Consul General, &c., commissioner, chancellor, judge, mayor or officer, and the seal of his office, court, city or borough, by certificate endorsed upon or annexed to the deed; or such acknowledgment or proof may be taken in any such court, and certified under the hand of the clerk or other officer of said court, and the seal of said court, in like manner. In case of such certificate by a judge, the seal of his court may be affixed to his certificate, or to a certificate of attestation of the clerk or keeper of the seal. The same requirement is necessary in the acknowledgment of a letter of attorney to sell or dispose of lands, &c., or to acknowledge a deed concerning lands, &c., in this State. The certificate of the acknowledgment of a married woman must show "that she upon private examination apart from her husband, acknowledged that she executed said deed willingly, without compulsion or threats or fear of her husband's displeasure."

DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA.

Deeds, Mortgages, &c., Acknowledgment of.

Deeds, mortages, and all other contracts relating to lands, if executed out of the District of Columbia, and within the United States or Territories, may be acknowledged or proved before any judge of a court of record and of law, or before any chancellor of any State; or before any judge of the Supreme, Circuit, or Territorial Courts of the United States; or before any two justices of the peace of State, district, or territority and county. The register, clerk, or prothonotary of such court or county must certify, under his hand and the seal of his office, that the judge, chancellor or justices, is or are, was or were, such at the time of the execution or acknowledgment thereof. Deeds executed in a foreign country may be acknowledged before any judge or chancellor of any court, master or master extraordinary in chancery, or notary public in such foreign country.

Deeds, Mortgages, &c., Recording of.

Any deed executed in a foreign country must be recorded within twelve months from its date; and if executed within the United States or the Territories thereof, within six months from its date. Every conveyance, covenant, agreement or other deed (except deeds of trust and mortgages) which shall be acknowledged or proved and certified according to law, and delivered to the proper clerk in the District of Columbia for record, within six months after the sealing and delivery thereof; shall take effect and be valid as to all persons from the time of such acknowledgment or proof; but all deeds of trust and mortgages, whenever delivered for record, and all other instruments relating to real estate, which shall not be acknowledged, proved or certified, and delivered to the clerk of the proper court to be recorded within six months after the sealing and delivery thereof, take effect, as to third persons, from the time of such delivery for record. But if two or more deeds of the same property be recorded on the same day, that which shall have been first sealed and delivered, shall have preference in law. Married women may relinquish their dower, but can give no covenant or warranty which shall operate further than to convey their right of dower or other interest in real estate which they may have at the date of such deed.

Witnesses—Notaries—Power of Attorney.

Deeds should be executed in presence of two witnesses. A notary public in the District of Columbia, or any two justices of the peace, may take acknowledgments or proof of deeds; but a notary out of the district can not take such acknowledgment; nor can a conveyance of real estate be executed by virtue of a power of attorney, or in any other manner than specified in the above mentioned act of Congress.

Instructions for taking Depositions.

Before taking depositions notice must be given by the person taking the same to the adverse party or his attorney, to be present at the taking of such deposition, in order that he may put interrogatories if he should think fit, personal service of the notice is not necessary, it may be left at the residence of the party. Every person making a deposition must be carefully examined, cautioned, and sworn (or affirmed) to testify the truth; the testimony must be subscribed by the deponent after it has been reduced to writing by the person taking the deposition, or by the deponent in his presence. The depositions with the certificate of the person taking them stating the reasons for their being taken, and of the notice given to the adverse party may be sealed up and directed to the court for which they were taken, or may be delivered by him into the court. No witness can be compelled to attend at any place out of the county where he resides for the purpose of making any deposition, nor more than forty miles from his place of residence. Unless he be first paid his expenses for going to and returning from, and one day's attendance upon such examination, he will not be deemed guilty of contempt.

When Depositions may be Taken.

Depositions may be taken when it is necessary to have the testimony of any person who lives more than one hundred miles from the place of trial, or who is about to go on a sea voyage, or out of the United States, or out of such place before the time of trial beyond such distance, or who is old and infirm.

FLORIDA.

Deeds, Mortgages, &c., Acknowledgments of.

In order to entitle any deed by which any real estate is conveyed or affected, and all instruments under seal to be recorded, the same must be acknowledged before one of the following officers: Any judge or justice of a court of record, or notary public. In case the deed or other instrument shall be executed without the State of Florida, but within the United States, it may be acknowledged by the party or parties executing the same, before a commissioner duly appointed by the governor of Florida, or the execution thereof may be proved by a subscribing witness thereto. In places where no commissioner has been appointed, the acknowledgment may be taken before one of the following officers: judge or president of any court of record of the United States, or of any State or Territory thereof, having a seal, and a clerk or prothonotary, but no acknowledgment shall entitle any deed or other instrument to be recorded unless taken within some district or place to which the jurisdiction of the court to which he belongs shall extend. The officer before whom the acknowledgment is taken must set forth in his certificate of acknowledgment the place of taking such acknowledgment, and also that the court of which he is a judge, justice, or president, is a court of record; and that he knows or has satisfactory proof that the person making the acknowledgment is the individual described in, and who executed the deed or other instrument. The certificate of the judge, justice, or president, before whom the acknowledgment was taken, must be accompanied by the certificate of the clerk or prothonotary of the court to which he belongs, under the seal of said court, stating that he is duly appointed as such judge or justice, &c.

Two witnesses are necessary to the conveyance of any land or interest therein.

The relinquishment of dower by the wife must be acknowledged before some judicial officer of the State of Florida, when acknowledged in this State. When acknowledged without the State of Florida, but within the United States, the acknowledgment must be taken by the clerk or prothonotary of some court of record of the State or Territory, and in the district in which the deed shall be made, in the presence of the judge or justices.

GEORGIA.

Deeds, Mortgages, &c., Acknowledgments of.

A deed, mortgage, or other conveyance of realty must be attested by at least two witnesses to entitle such instrument to be recorded. If executed in this State, one of the witnesses must be a judge of a court of record, justice of the peace, notary public, or clerk of the Superior Court of this State, a commissioner of deeds for this State, a consul or vice consul of the United States (certificates of these officers, under their seals, being evidence of the fact), or by a judge of a court of record, in the State where executed, with the certificate of the clerk under seal of such court, of the genuineness of the signature of such judge. If one of the witnesses be not such officer, it may be acknowledged subsequent to its execution, in the presence of either of the above named officers, and that fact certified on the deed by such officer, shall entitle it to record. If neither attested by nor acknowledged before either of the officers aforesaid, may be admitted to record, upon the affidavit of a subscribing witness, before either of the above named officers, testifying to the execution of the deed, and its attestation, according to law.

Deeds to land must be recorded in the office of the clerk of the Superior Court of the county wherein the land lies, within one year from date of same. Mortgages must be recorded within three months from date of execution, if on realty, in the county where the land lies; if on personalty, where the mortgagor resided at time of execution; if non-resident, then in county where the chattels lie.

Depositions, Instructions for taking.

Two commissioners are required, less will not suffice. It is essential that those acting in such capacity are capable, disinterested, and in no way related to the parties litigant, nor should they have any interest whatever in the cause at issue. The attorneys, their clerks, and agents of the parties to the suit, are not available as commissioners. Competent parties being selected as such commissioners, reasonable compensation will be allowed them by the party suing out the commission; the taxable costs are two dollars per diem.

The commission should not be excuted in the presence of any party to the suit, their attorney or agent; it is permissible for the witness to write down his answers to the interrogatories in the presence of the commissioners, and should he answer from written memoranda, such memoranda should be made part of the deposition, and attached thereto, duly certified by the commissioners.

Depositions, Forms for taking.

Fill the blank in the commission with the names of the persons officiating as commissioners (any two respectable citizens may act; less than two will not suffice.)

Take a separate sheet of paper, state the case precisely as it is at the head of the interrogatories, then write the following formula.

State the title of the case on the outside of the envelope just as it is in the caption of the interrogatories.

IDAHO TERRITORY.

Deeds, Mortgages, etc., Acknowledgment of.

Acknowledgments of deeds or other instruments of writing executed within this Territory, by which any real estate is conveyed or affected, may be made before some judge or clerk of a court having a seal, notary public, or justice of the peace for the proper county. Acknowledgments executed without this Territory, but within the United States, must be made by some judge or clerk of any court of the United States, or of any State or Territory having a seal, or by any commissioner appointed by the governor of this Territory for that purpose. If executed without the United States, by some judge or clerk of any court of any State, Kingdom, or Empire having a seal, or by any notary public therein, or by any minister, commissioner, or consul of the United States appointed to reside therein.

Depositions,

When taken out of the Territory, must be upon commission from the court and upon interrogatories, unless the parties agree otherwise, and may be taken by any judge, justice of the peace, or commissioner appointed by the governor of this Territory, or any person agreed upon by the parties.

Instructions are usually sent with a commission.

ILLINOIS.

Deeds, Mortgages, &c., Acknowledgment of.

Deeds, mortgages, conveyances, releases, powers of attorney, or other writing of or relating to the sale, conveyance, or other disposition of real estate, or any interest therein whereby the rights of any person may be affected in law or in equity, may be acknowledged or proved before some one of the following courts or officers, namely:

First. When acknowledged or proved within this State before a master in chancery, notary public, circuit or county clerk, justice of the peace, or any court of record having a seal, or any judge, justice, or clerk of any such court. When taken before a notary public, the same shall be attested by his official seal; when taken before a court or the clerk thereof, the same shall be attested by the seal of such court; and when taken before a justice of the peace there shall be added the certificate of the county clerk, under his seal of office, that the person taking such acknowledgment or proof, was a justice of the peace in said county at the time of taking the same. If the justice of the peace reside in the county where the lands mentioned in the instrument are situated, no such certificate shall be required.

Second. When acknowledged or proved without this State and within the United States or their territories, or the District of Columbia, before a justice of the peace, a notary public, commissioner to take acknowledgments of deeds, mayor of a city, clerk of a county, or before any judge, justice, or clerk of the supreme or any circuit or district court of the United States, or any judge, justice or clerk of the supreme, circuit, superior, district, county or common pleas court of any of the United States or their territories. When such acknowledgment or proof is made before a notary public, commissioner of deeds, mayor of a city, or clerk, it shall be certified by such officer, under his seal of office. If before a mayor of the city, it shall be certified under the seal of such city; if before a justice of the peace, there shall be added a certificate of the proper clerk, under the seal of his office, setting forth that the person before whom such proof or acknowledgment was made was a justice of the peace at the time of making the same. An acknowledgment or proof may be made in conformity with the laws of the State, territory, or district where it is made: Provided, That if any clerk of a court of record, within such State, territory, or district, shall, under his hand and the seal of such court, certify that such deed or instrument is executed and acknowledged or proved in conformity with the laws of such State, territory, or district, or it shall so appear by the laws of such State, territory, or district duly proved and certified, copies of the record of such deed, mortgages, or other instruments relating to real estate, heretofore or hereafter made and recorded in the proper county, may be read in evidence as in other cases of such certified copies, upon such a certificate of conformity to the laws of the State, territory, or district where such deeds, mortgages, or other instruments were made and acknowledged, being exhibited therewith or annexed thereto.

Third. When acknowledged or proved without the United States, then before any court of any republic, State, kingdom, or empire having a seal, or any mayor or chief officer of any city or town, having a seal, or before any minister or secretary of legation, or consul of the United States in any foreign country, attested by his official seal, or before any officer authorized by the laws of such foreign country to take acknowledgments of conveyances of real estate, if he have a seal, such deed to be attested by the official seal of such court or officer; and in case such acknowledgment or proof is taken other than before a court of record, or mayor, or chief officer of a town having a seal, proof that the officer taking such acknowledgment was duly authorized by the laws of his country to do so, shall accompany the certificate of such acknowledgment.

All deeds, mortgages, and other instruments in writing, relating to or affecting any lands, tenements, or hereditaments, situated within this State, which have been or may hereafter be executed and acknowledged or proved before any justice of the peace of any county in this State, other than the one in which such lands, tenements, or hereditaments lie, and which have been or may be recorded in the county where such lands, tenements, or hereditaments do actually lie, shall be adjudged and treated by all courts as legally executed and recorded, notwithstanding there is no certificate attached to said mortgage or other instruments, by the proper officer, that the justice of the peace before whom said deed, mortgage, or other instrument was acknowledged or proved, was at the time of said acknowledgment or proof, an acting justice of the peace of the county in which said deed, mortgage, or other instruments purports to have been acknowledged or proved; Provided, That the record, or a certificate transcript of such record, shall not be read in evidence unless the certificate of the proper county clerk, under his official seal, is produced or other competent evidence introduced showing that the person purporting to take such acknowledgment was a justice of the peace at the date such acknowledgment was taken, and for this purpose the certificate of the proper county clerk shall be prima facie evidence.

Where any deed, conveyance or power of attorney has been or may be acknowledged or proved in any foreign state, kingdom, empire, or country, the certificate of any consul or minister of the United States in said country, under his official seal, that the said deed, conveyance, or power of attorney, is executed in conformity with such foreign law, shall be deemed and taken as prima facie evidence thereof:

Provided, That any other legal mode of proving that the same is executed in conformity with such foreign law may be resorted to in any court in which the question of such execution or acknowledgment may arise.

All deeds, conveyances, and powers of attorney, for the conveyance of lands lying in this State, which have been or may be acknowledged or proved and authenticated as aforesaid, or in conformity with the laws of any foreign state, kingdom, empire, or country, shall be deemed as good and valid in law as though acknowledged and proved in conformity with the existing laws of this State.

No judge or other officer shall take the acknowledgment of any person to any deed or instrument of writing, as aforesaid, unless the person offering to make such acknowledgment shall be personally known to him to be the real person who and in whose name such acknowledgment is proposed to be made, or shall be proved to be such by a credible witness, and the judge or officer taking such acknowledgment shall, in his certificate thereof, state that such person was personally known to him to be the person whose name is subscribed to such deed or writing, as having executed the same, or that he was proved to be such by a credible witness, (naming him,) and on taking proof of any deed or instrument of writing, by the testimony of any subscribing witnesses, the judge or officer shall ascertain that the person who offers to prove the same is a subscribing witness, either from his own knowledge, or from the testimony of a credible witness; and if it shall appear from the testimony of such subscribing witness that the person whose name appears subscribed to such deed or writing is the real person who executed the same, and that the witness subscribed his name as such, in his presence and at his request, the judge or officer shall grant a certificate, stating that the person testifying as subscribing witness was personally known to him to be the person whose name appears subscribed to such deed, as a witness of the execution thereof, or that he was proved to be such by a credible witness, (naming him,) and stating the proof made by him; and where any grantor or person executing such deed or writing, and the subscribing witnesses, are deceased or cannot be had, the judge or officer, as aforesaid, may take proof of the handwriting of such deceased party and subscribing witness or witnesses (if any), and the examination of a competent and credible witness who shall state on oath or affirmation that he personally knew the person whose handwriting he is called to prove, and well knew his signature, (stating his means of knowledge,) and that he believes the name of such person subscribed to such deed or writing, as party or witness, (as the case may be,) was thereto subscribed by such person; and when the handwriting of the grantor or person executing such deed or writing, and of one subscribing witness, (if any there be,) shall have been proved, as aforesaid, or by proof of signature of grantor where there is no subscribing witness, the judge or officer shall grant a certificate thereof stating the proof aforesaid.

If any grantor shall not have duly acknowledged the execution of any deed or instrument entitled to be recorded, and the subscribing witness or witnesses be dead, or not to be had, it may be proved by evidence of the handwriting of the grantor, and of at least one of the subscribing witnesses, which evidence shall consist of the testimony of two or more disinterested persons swearing to each signature.

No deed or other instrument shall be construed as releasing or waiving the right of homestead, unless the same shall contain a clause expressly releasing or waiving such right. And in such case the certificate of acknowledgment shall contain a clause substantially as follows: "Including the release and waiver of the right of homstead," or other words which shall expressly show that the parties executing the deed or other instrument intended to release such right. And no release or waiver of the right of homestead by the husband shall bind the wife unless she join in such release or waiver.

Deeds, Mortgages, etc., Recording of.

Deeds and other instruments relating to or affecting the title to real estate in this State, shall be recorded in the county in which such real estate is situated, but if such county is not organized, then in the county to which such unorganized county is attached for judicial purposes.

Before any deed or other instrument conveying any land (not including mortgages) shall be received for record in the recorder's office, the same shall be exhibited to the county clerk of the county in which the land is situated, who shall take a minute thereof, showing the grantee and the description of the land conveyed, which shall be kept by such clerk for the purpose of reference in making out the books for the assessment of taxes; and the county clerk shall write upon the back of such deed or other instrument "entered," and sign his name thereto; and the recorder shall not receive said instrument for record until such indorsement is made thereon.

Where an original deed, mortgage, or other instrument relating to or affecting the title to real estate, having tracts of land therein described lying in different counties, has been or may hereafter be recorded in any of such counties, it shall be lawful to record a certified copy of such deed or other instrument in counties where the original has not been recorded; and the recording of such certified copy heretofore or hereafter, shall be noticed in the same manner that the filing and recording of the original would be, and copies from such records shall be prima facie evidence to the same extent as if the original had been so recorded.

All deeds, mortgages, and other instruments of writing which are authorized to be recorded, shall take effect and be in force from and after the time of filing the same for record, and not before, as to all creditors and subsequent purchasers, without notice; and all such deeds and title papers shall be adjudged void as to all such creditors and subsequent purchasers without notice, until the same shall be filed for record.

Deeds, mortgages, and other instruments of writing relating to real estate shall be deemed, from the time of being filed for record, notice to subsequent purchasers and creditors, though not acknowledged or proven according to law; but the same shall not be read as evidence, unless their execution be proved in manner required by the rules of evidence applicable to such writings, so as to supply the defects of such acknowledgment or proof.

All deeds which may be executed by any administrator, executor, guardian, conservator, commissioner, master in chancery, sheriff, or other officer, of any real estate sold in pursuance of any decree or on execution, upon being acknowledged or proved before any officer authorized to take acknowledgment or proof of deeds, and certified as other deeds, shall be admitted to record in the county where the real estate sold is situated.

All original wills duly proved, or copies thereof duly certified, according to law, and exemplifications of the record of foreign wills made in pursuance of the law of congress in relation to records in foreign States, may be recorded in the same office where deeds and other instruments concerning real estate may be required to be recorded; and the same shall be notice from the date of filing the same for record as in other cases, and certified copies of the record thereof shall be evidence to the same extent as the certified copies of the record of deeds.

Where deeds conveying lands in this State have heretofore been or may hereafter be executed by executors, duly qualified in pursuance of due power vested in them by will, executed and proved out of this State, the same shall be evidence of title in the vendee or grantee, to the same extent as was vested in the testator at the time of his death, whether such will has been proved in this State or not, unless, at the time of executing such deed, letters testamentary or of administration upon the estate of the deceased shall have been granted within this State, and remained unrevoked.

Every deed, mortgage, power of attorney, conveyance, or other writing, of, or concerning any lands, tenements or hereditaments, which, by virtue of this act, shall be required or entitled to be recorded as aforesaid, being acknowledged or proved according to the provisions of this act, whether the same be recorded or not, may be read in evidence without any further proof of the execution thereof; and if it shall appear to the satisfaction of the court that the original deed, so acknowledged or proved and recorded, is lost or not in the power of the party wishing to use it, the record, or a transcript thereof, certified by the recorder in whose office the same may be recorded, may be read in evidence in any court of this State, without further proof thereof.

Whenever, upon the trial of any cause in law or equity in this State, any party to said cause, or his agent or attorney in his behalf, shall, orally in court, or by affidavit to be filed in said cause, testify and state under oath that the original of any deed, conveyance, or other writing of or concerning lands, tenements, and hereditaments, which shall have been or may hereafter be acknowledged or proved according to any of the laws of this State, and which, by virtue of any of the laws of this State, shall be required or be entitled to be recorded, is lost, or not in the power of the party wishing to use it on the trial of any such cause, and that to the best of his knowledge said original deed was not intentionally destroyed or in any manner disposed of for the purpose of introducing a copy thereof in place of the original, the record of such deed, conveyance, or other writing, or a transcript of the record thereof, certified by the recorder in whose office the same may have been or may hereafter be recorded, may be read in evidence in any court in this State, with like effect as though the original of such deed, conveyance, or other writing was produced and read in evidence.

All affidavits required to be made and produced under the foregoing section, may be made in any county in this State, before any officer authorized by the laws of this State to administer oaths and affirmations, and may also be made, out of this State, before any judge of a court of record, justice of the peace, clerk of a court of record, notary public, or commissioner appointed under the laws of the State of Illinois to take acknowledgments of deeds, and administer oaths and affirmations, and certified to by the said officer, under his seal of office, if such officer have an official seal; but if taken and certified by any officer who does not require or use an official seal, the certificate of the proper clerk or other officer of the official character of the person certifying to such oath or affirmation shall also be produced with such affidavit and certificate.

Depositions, Instructions for taking.

When the testimony of any witness residing within this State more than one hundred miles from the place of holding the court, or not residing in this State, or who is engaged in the military or naval service of this State or of the United States, and is out of this State, shall be necessary in any civil cause pending in any court of law or equity in this State, it shall be lawful for the party wishing to use the same, on giving to the adverse party, or his attorney, ten days' previous notice, together with a copy of the interrogatories intended to be put to such witness, to sue out from the proper clerk's office a dedimus potestatem or commission, under the seal of the court, directed to any competent and disinterested person, as commissioner, or to any judge, master in chancery, notary public, or justice of the peace of the county or city in which such witness may reside, or in case it is to take the testimony of a person engaged in such military service, "to any commissioned officer in the military or naval service of this State or the United States," authorizing and requiring him to cause such witness to come before him, at such time and place as he may designate and appoint, and faithfully to take his deposition upon all such interrogatories as may be enclosed with or attached to said commission, both on the part of the plaintiff and defendant, and none others; and to certify the same when thus taken, together with the said commission and interrogatories into the court in which such cause shall be pending, with the least possible delay.

When a party shall desire to take the evidence of a non-resident witness, to be used in any cause pending in this State, the party desiring the same, or where notice shall have been given that a commission to take the testimony of a non-resident witness will be applied for, the opposite party, upon giving the other three days' notice in writing of his election so to do, may have a commission, directed in the same manner as hereinbefore provided to take such evidence, upon interrogatories to be propounded to the witness orally; upon the taking of which each party may appear before the commission, in person or by attorney, and interrogate the witness. The party desiring such testimony shall give to the other the following notice of the time and place of taking the same, to wit: ten days, and one day in addition thereto (Sundays included) for every one hundred miles' travel from the place of holding the court to the place where such deposition is to be taken.

When a party to a suit shall give the opposite party notice to take a deposition upon oral interrogatories, and shall fail to take the same accordingly, unless such failure be on account of the non-attendance of the witness, not occasioned by the fault of the party giving the notice, or some other unavoidable cause, the party notified, if he shall attend himself or by attorney, agreeably to the notice, shall be entitled to two dollars per day for each day he may attend under such notice, and to six cents per mile for every mile that he shall necessarily travel in going to or returning from the place designated to take the deposition, to be allowed by the court where the suit is pending, and for which execution may issue.

Previous to the examination of any witness whose deposition is about to be taken as aforesaid, he or she shall be sworn (or affirm) by the person or persons authorized to take the same, to testify the truth in relation to the matter in controversy, so far as he or she may be interrogated; whereupon the said commissioner, judge, master in chancery, notary public, justice of the peace, clerk, or other person authorized to take depositions, (as the case may be,) shall proceed to examine such witness upon all such interrogatories as may be enclosed with or attached to any such commission as aforesaid, and which are directed to be put to such witness, or where the testimony is taken upon oral interrogatories, upon all such interrogatories as may be directed to be put by either party litigant; and shall cause such interrogatories, together with the answers of the witness thereto, to be reduced to writing in the order in which they shall be proposed and answered, and signed by such witness; after which, it shall be the duty of the person taking such deposition, to annex at the foot thereof a certificate, subscribed by himself, stating that it was sworn to and signed by the deponent, and the time and place when and where the same was taken. And every such deposition, when thus taken and subscribed, and all exhibits produced to the said commissioner, judge, master in chancery, notary public, justice of the peace, or clerk, or other person authorized to take depositions, as aforesaid, or which shall be proved or referred to by any witness, together with the commission and interrogatories, if any, shall be enclosed, sealed up, and directed to the clerk of the court in which the action shall be pending, with the names of the parties litigant indorsed thereon: Provided, That when any deposition shall be taken as aforesaid, by any judge, master in chancery, notary public, or justice of the peace out of this State, or other officer, such return shall be accompanied by a certificate of his official character, under the great seal of the State, or under the seal of the proper court of record of the county or city wherein such deposition shall be taken.

Every deposition that shall be returned to the court unsealed, or the seal of which shall be broken previous to its reception by the clerk to whom it is directed, shall, if objection be made thereto in proper time, be regarded by the court as informal and insufficient.

The party, his attorney, or any person who shall in anywise be interested in the event of the suit, shall not be permitted to dictate, write, or draw up any deposition which may at any time be taken under this act, or be present during the taking of any deposition by written interrogatories; and every deposition so dictated, written, or drawn up, or during the taking of which any such party, his attorney, or any person so interested is present when the same is taken upon written interrogatories as aforesaid, shall be rejected by the court as informal and insufficient.

Each and every commissioner, judge, justice of the peace, or clerk of court, mastery in chancery, notary public, or other officer who may at any time be required to take depositions in any cause pending in any of the courts of law or equity in this State, or by virtue of any commission issued out of any court of record in any other State or Territory, shall have power and authority to issue subpœnas, if necessary, to compel the attendance of all such witnesses as shall be named in the commission, or by the parties litigant, where no commission is necessary, in the same manner and under the same penalties as is prescribed in other cases, where witnesses are directed to be subpœnaed.

Every witness attending before any commissioner, judge, justice of the peace, clerk or other person authorized to take depositions, as aforesaid, to be examined as aforesaid, shall be entitled to a compensation for his time and attendance and traveling expenses, at the same rate, for the time being, as is or shall be allowed by law to witnesses attending courts of record in this State; and the party requiring such examination shall pay the expenses thereof, but may, if successful in the suit, be allowed for the same in the taxation of costs.

On the trial of every suit in chancery, oral testimony shall be taken, when desired, by either party.

Certificate.

I do hereby certify that the foregoing deposition of A. B. was read to said witness by me, and was sworn to and signed by the deponent before me and in my presence; and that the said deposition was taken and reduced to writing by me, on the ..... day of ....., A. D. 18....., at ...., in the said county of [New York,] between the hours of ..... o'clock in the morning, and ..... o'clock in the evening of said day.

Given under my hand and seal this ..... day of....., A. D. 18.....

THOMAS KILVERT,

Commissioner of the State of Illinois, New York.

Form to be used when a Commission issues from the Court.

The deposition of ...., of the county of ..... and State (or Territory) of ....., a witness of lawful age, produced, sworn, and examined, on his corporal oath, on the ..... day of ....., A. D. 18....., at the office (or house) of ....., in the town (or city) of ....., in the county of ..... , and State (or Territory) aforesaid, by me, ..., a commissioner (or "by us", if more than one commissioner, inserting the names of all the commissioners), duly appointed by a dedimus potestatem, or commission, issued out of the clerk's office of the ..... Court of ..... county, in the State of Illinois, bearing tests in the name of ....., clerk of the said court, with the seal of said court affixed thereto, and to me (or "us," if more than one), directed as such commissioner (or commissioners), for the examination of the said ....., a witness in a certain suit and matter in controversy, now pending and undetermined in the said ..... Court of ..... county, wherein ..... is plaintiff, and ....., defendant, in behalf of the said ....., as well upon the cross-interrogatories of the ....., as on the interrogatories of the ....., which were attached to or inclosed with the said commission, and upon none others. The said ....., being first duly sworn by me (or by ...., one of the said commissioners, if more than one), as a witness in the said cause, previous to the commencement of his examination, to testify the truth, as well on the part of the plaintiff as the defendant, in relation to the matters in controversy between the said plaintiff and defendant; so far as he should be interrogated, testified and deposed as follows:

Interrogatory first. (Here insert first interrogatory.)

Answer to first interrogatory. (Here insert answer, and so on successively in t order in which the interrogatories may be propounded and answered.) Then follo "Cross-interrogatories and answers thereto by the witness on the part of the def ant" (or plaintiff as the case may be). (Here again write down the interrogat and the answers successively in the order aforesaid.) After the deposition is t the interrogatories and answers should be read over to the witness, and if he to the truth of the answers as written down, the witness will then sign his the bottom of the deposition, and swear to the truth of it before the comm (or before one of the commissioners, if more than one.) The oath is in a the preliminary oath which is administered previous to the commencement of his examination.

The commissioner should then append his certificate as to the time, place, and manner of taking the deposition, as follows:

Certificate.

I ....., of the county of ....., and State or (Territory) of ....., a commissioner duly appointed to take the deposition of the said ...., a witness whose name is subscribed to the foregoing deposition, do hereby certify, that previous to the commencement of the examination of the said ....., as a witness in the suit between the said ....., plaintiff, and the said ....., defendant, he was duly sworn by me as such commissioner, (or by ....., one of said commissioners, if more than one), to testify the truth in relation to the matters in controversy between the said ....., plaintiff, and the said ....., defendant, so far as he should be interrogated concerning the same; that the said deposition was taken at my office, (or at the house of .....,) in the city (or town) of ....., in the county of ....., and State (or Territory) of ....., on the ..... day of ....., A. D. 18..... ; and that after said deposition was taken by me (or us), as aforesaid, the interrogatories and answers thereto, as written down, were read over to the said witness, and that thereupon the same was signed and sworn to by the said deponent, ..., before me (or us), the oath being administered by ....., one of said commissioners (where there are more than one), as such commissioner at the place and on the day and year last aforesaid.

Signature of Commissioner.

(The foregoing certificate of the commissioner should be signed at the foot or bottom of the deposition, immediately following the signature of the witness.)

The commissioner should then fold up the deposition, as thus taken and certified, together with the commission and interrogatories, and all exhibits (if any), produced on the examination, properly marked or lettered as "Exhibit A," "Exhibit B," etc., and inclose the whole in a suitable wrapper or envelope, and then seal up the same securely with three seals, writing his name transversely across the middle seal; or if three commissioners, then each one will write his name across one of the seals in manner aforesaid. The commissioner (or commissioners) will also endorse the names of the parties to the suit transversely across one end of the package thus sealed up, according to the proper title of the suit, and direct the same to the proper address of the clerk who may issue the commission, and transmit the same by mail to the proper post office.

One caption will answer for the deposition of several witnesses when they are all taken at the same time and place, to be read as evidence in the same suit, by so modifying the form above given as to make it applicable to the number of witnesses to be examined, as, for instance, at the commencement, say, "The depositions of A. B., C. D., and E. F., of the county of ..... and State of ....., witnesses of lawful age, produced, sworn, and examined on their respective corporal oaths," etc., and then in this part of the caption, say, "The said A. B., C. D., and E. F., being first duly sworn by me as witnesses in the said cause," etc.

Then, at the commencement of each deposition, say, "Interrogatories propounded to the said A. B., a witness produced and sworn as aforesaid, on the part of the said ....., and his answers thereto, as follows:

Interrogatory, first. (Here insert first interrogatory.)

Answer to first interrogatory. (Here insert answer.)

And so on successively with all the interrogatories to be propounded to that witness. Then insert the cross-interrogatories as before directed. The deposition should then be read over to the witness, and signed and sworn to by him, before the next witness is examined. Then proceed with the second and third witnesses in like manner to the end.

The certificate as to the time, place, and manner of taking such depositions, and that each one was signed and sworn to by such witness, respectively, will be sufficient, provided due care be taken to insert the names of all the witnesses, and the certificate in other respects conforms to the form given above.

It is essential to the validity of the deposition that the foregoing rules and instructions be strictly followed.

INDIANA.

Deeds, Mortgages, &c., Acknowledgement of.

Conveyances may be acknowledged in or out of the State, before any judge, clerk of a court of record, notary public, justice of the peace, auditor, recorder or mayor of the city, or before a commissioner of deeds for this State, residing in another State, or before a minister, charge d'affaires, or consul of the United States in a foreign country. Where such acknowledgments are before an officer having, and attesting under his official seal, it is sufficient; but if made before a justice of the peace or officer having no official seal, the acknowledgment must be certified by a clerk of a court of record of the county in which such officer resides, and attested by the seal of the court. The clerk must certify that the officer before whom such acknowledgment was taken, was at the time lawfully acting as such, and that the signature to the certificate of acknowledgment is genuine.

Deeds, Mortgages, &c., Recording of.

Deeds and mortgages must be recorded within ninety days from date of the execution thereof, or they will be void as against any subsequent purchaser or mortgagee in good faith; and for a valuable consideration, or creditor, etc., chattel mortgages are made absolutely void as to all the world excepting the parties thereto, unless recorded within ten days.

Depositions.

Depositions without the State are taken under a commission issued out of the court, where the cause is pending, usually addressed to any officer authorized to take depositions, or to some person specially authorized to take the deposition named in the commission. Due notice must be given to the adverse party, and reasonable time allowed to reach the place where the deposition is to be taken, the day of notice, and of taking the deposition, as also Sundays and legal holidays must be excluded in the computation of time.

Instructions and Forms for Taking and Certifying Depositions to be used in the Courts of Indiana.

It is provided by the revised statutes, 1852, article 14, as follows:

SECTION 245. Depositions of witnesses, taken within or without the State, may be taken according to the regulations hereinafter provided, before any judge, justice of the peace, notary public, mayor or recorder of a city, clerk of a court of record, a commissioner appointed by the court to take depositions. But depositions shall not be taken before any person being of kin to either party, or interested in the action.

The directions of the statutes as to the mode of taking depositions are as follows:

SECT. 255. The deponent shall be first sworn by the officer to testify to the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth, relating to the cause or matter for which the deposition is to be taken; and he shall then be examined by the party producing him, and then by the adverse party, and by the officers or parties afterwards, if they see cause.

SECT. 256. The deposition shall be written down by the officer, or by the deponent, or by some disinterested person, in their presence, and under the direction of the officer, and after the same has been carefully read to or by the deponent, it shall be subscribed by him.

SECT. 257. The officer shall annex a certificate to the deposition, stating the following facts:

First. That the deponent was sworn according to law.

Secondly. By whom the deposition was written, and if written by the deponent, or by some disinterested person, that it was written in the presence and under the direction of the officer.

Thirdly. Whether or not the adverse party attended.

Fourthly. The time and place of taking deposition, and the hours between which the same was taken; and the officer shall sign and attest the certificate, and seal the same, if he have a seal of office.

SECT. 258. The officer taking the deposition shall seal up the same in a sufficient paper envelope, and direct the same to the clerk of the court in which the action is pending, endorsing on the envelopes the names of the parties and witnesses whose depositions are enclosed.

Depositions, Instructions for taking.

If a witness reside out of the county wherein the cause is pending, whether within or without the State, his deposition may be taken before one or more commissioners on written interrogatories. The party suing out such commission to take deposition of witness or witnesses, may select as commissioner the judge or clerk of any court of record, or any commissioners appointed by the governor of the State to take acknowledgments of deeds in another State, or any notary public or consul of the United States; who should be addressed by the name of office of such officer, or by his individual name and official title, the name of the court of which such constituted commissioner is clerk or judge, and the State and county wherein he resides; if in any foreign country the State, city or town, wherein such commissioner of deeds, notary or consul resides, must be noted in the notice, and also in the commission. The above-named officers are not allowed to take such deposition without the limits of their jurisdiction. Reasonable notice must be given to the adverse party, of the time when a commission will be sent out for taking the depositions of a witness (naming him). Said notice to be accompanied with a copy of the interrogatories to be propounded, so that cross-interrogatories may be appended, should the party so desire.

Section 4820 of the Revision of 1860, laws of Iowa, requires that, Where a deposition is taken upon interrogatories, neither party nor his agent or attorney, shall be present at the examination of witnesses, unless both parties are present, or represented by an agent or attorney, and the certificate shall state such facts, if party or agent is present. The officer taking the deposition will observe the following forms and mode of proceeding, commencing thus:

Deposition of Witnesses produced, sworn and examined at [New York, in the county of New York, and State of New York,] before me, [Thomas Kilvert,] commissioner for Iowa, in New York, in a certain case now pending in the ..... Court of ..... county, State of Iowa, between ..... plaintiff, and ..... defendant, on the part of ....., A. B., of lawful age, being produced, sworn and examined on the part of the ....., deposeth and saith (here insert each interrogatory as it occurs and the answer thereto, immediately following).

A separate caption is written down for each witness, as follows:

Deposition of A. B. — The said A. B. being first duly sworn (or affirmed) doth depose and say in answer to the several interrogatories as follows, to wit:

Interrogatory first.—(Here insert interrogatory.)

Answer to interrogatory first.—(Here insert answer.)

And so on with successive interrogatories and answers until the same are completed; then take the cross-interrogatories in their order; the witness should then subscribe his name to his deposition, and the officer will annex at the foot of the deposition of each witness the following certificate:

I, [Thomas Kilvert,] commissioner for Iowa, do hereby certify that A. B., the deponent, whose place of residence is (here insert it), was by me sworn (or affirmed) to testify the whole truth of his (or her) knowledge, touching the matter in controversy in the cause aforesaid; that deponent was examined, and his (or her) examination reduced to writing by (here name of person) who is neither of the parties nor attorney of either, or in anywise interested in the suit, and after being carefully by me read over to the said deponent, the same was sworn to and subscribed by the said deponent in my presence, on the ..... day of ...., A. D. 18....., between the hours of ..... A. M. and ..... P. M. of said day, at [New York, in the county of New York, and State of New York.]

Given and certified under my hand and official seal the ..... day of ....., A. D. 18.....

THOMAS KILVERT,
[L. S.] Commissioner for Iowa, in New York.

Then proceed with the other depositions, if any, in the same form, annexing a certificate to each. When all the witnesses who appear have been sworn and examined, and their depositions reduced to writing, subscribed and certified as above, the officer will attach to the deposition, all papers and exhibits, proved or referred to in the examination, the commission and notice, with the following certificate endorsed thereon, or attached thereto:

Certificate.

State of [New York,] } County of [New York.] } ss.

I, [Thomas Kilvert,] a commissioner for the State of Iowa, within and for the [city and county of New York,] do certify that in pursuance of the within (or annexed) commission and notice, came before me, at my office, [No. 137 Broadway, N. Y.,] ..... and ....., who were there by me sworn and examined, and such examination reduced to writing by (insert name of person), who is neither of the parties, their attorney, nor in anywise interested in the event of the suit, and after being by me read over to each of the deponents, the same was sworn to and subscribed to by said witnesses respectively in my presence, and their depositions are now herewith returned. (State if either or both parties were present at the examination personally, or by agent or attorney)

Given under my hand and official seal hereto affixed at (name of place, county and State,) this (give date.)

THOMAS KILVERT,
[L. S.] Commissioner for Iowa, in New York.

The officer taking the deposition is required to enclose in a strong envelope, securely sealed, the depositions, papers, and exhibits, commission notice and certificates, and direct the same to the clerk of ..... Court of ..... county, Iowa, noting on some convenient part of the envelope, the style of the cause and contents—thus:

..... }
v. } Depositions on the part of.... .....
..... }

The depositions must be begun on the day mentioned in the notice. If they cannot be completed on that day, the taking of them may be adjourned to the succeeding day, at the same place, and between the same hours. The person taking them should in such case, make the following entry closing the business of the day, viz.:

Not being able to complete the taking of said depositions, by reason that (here insert the reason.....), I adjourned the further taking of the same until to-morrow, then to be continued at the same place, and between the same hours mentioned in the annexed notice.

THOMAS KILVERT,
Commissioner.

On the succeeding day let the person taking the deposition commence as follows:

Pursuant to the adjournment as above stated, on the ..... day of ..... . in the year 18....., between the hours of ..... in the forenoon, and ..... in the afternoon, at the .... I continued the taking of said depositions, as follows:

N. O., in the continuance of his deposition, commenced yesterday, on his oath, further says, etc.

The foregoing directions must be strictly observed, or the deposition will be unavailing.

If the officer taking the deposition has a seal of office, it must be affixed to every certificate.

The officer taking the deposition must write out each interrogatory in full, and insert the answer just below the proper question.

The depositions must be returned by mail, unless some other mode is agreed upon between the parties.

NOTE.—Every deposition must be reduced to writing by some person who is neither of the parties, attorneys of either, nor in anywise interested in the event of the suit, in presence of the officer before whom it is taken, and signed by the witness.

If any paper or exhibit is produced and proved, or referred to by a witness, it ought to be described in his deposition, and referred to by the deponent in such a manner that it may be identified when the deposition is read, and all such papers and exhibits must be attached to and returned with the deposition.

KANSAS.

Deeds, Mortgages, &c., Acknowledgment of.

Any deed or other instrument by which any real estate is conveyed or affected must be acknowledged. The acknowledgment within the State must be before some judge or clerk of a court having a seal, justice of the peace, notary public, county clerk, register of deeds, or mayor, or clerk of an incorporated city. If the acknowledgment be made without the State, it must be before some court of record, or clerk, or other officer having the seal thereof, or before some commissioner to take the acknowledgments of deeds appointed by the governor of this State, or before a justice of the peace, notary public, or before any United States consul, resident abroad. When an acknowledgment is made before a justice of the peace, some clerk of a court of record must certify to his official position, annexing thereto the seal of said court. There is no dower in Kansas, and consequently no release thereof; but a wife who inherits one-half of an estate must join in conveyance to extinguish her interest.

Any deed or other instrument as aforesaid, must be filed for record in the office of the register of deeds of the county in which the real estate conveyed is situated, and until so deposited is valid only between the parties thereto, and such as have actual notice thereof.

Be it remembered, that on this ..... day of ....., A. D. 18....., before me, [Thomas Kilvert, a commissioner for the State of Kansas, in the city of New York,] duly commissioned in and for the county and State aforesaid, came ..... , and ....., his wife, who are personally known to me to be the same persons who executed the foregoing instrument of writing as grantors, and they duly acknowledged the execution of the same.

In witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and affixed my official seal, the day and year last above written.

Instructions for Taking Depositions.

Depositions may be taken upon notice being given to the opposite party, sufficient time being allowed the adverse party to attend by the usual route, one day for preparation, exclusive of Sundays and the day of service.

The deposition may be taken by stating the facts in narrative form, or in reply to questions first written down.

These depositions may be taken before any judge, justice, or chancellor of any court of record, a justice of the peace, notary public, mayor, or chief magistrate of any city or town corporate, or a commissioner appointed by the governor of the State of Kansas, to take depositions; such officer not to be an attorney or relative of either party, nor otherwise interested in the event of the suit.

If there are adjournments, they shall be noted by the magistrate, or other officer, from day to day, at the close of the day, and legal reasons therefor given. Objections should be entered to witnesses supposed to be interested, and to questions supposed to be illegal. This entry is made on behalf of the party raising the objection, imply by a short note made by the magistrate or officer taking the depositions.

Each witness must sign his own deposition.

The notice must be attached to the depositions, and enclosed with them.

The depositions should be commenced on the day named, and some portion of a deposition taken on each successive day, Sundays excepted; adjournments being from Saturday to Monday; Sundays and national holidays not being regarded. A legal reason for every adjournment should appear in the officer's certificate.

When depositions are taken under an agreement, the above instructions will be followed, except when they are modified by the agreement. In such case, the agreement will be followed. It should be attached to the depositions, if sent, and referred to in the caption, as the notice is, when taken under a notice.

If taken by interrogatories and cross-interrogatories, under agreement or otherwise, each interrogatory and cross-interrogatory must be put to each witness and answered, so far as he can answer it, and the answer written down. The deposition must show that each interrogatory and cross-interrogatory was thus put and answered.

Begin with the following:

of lawful age, being by me first duly examined, cautioned, and solemnly sworn to testify the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth (or affirmed), deposeth and saith that (here write the deposition), and so on with all the witnesses.

Close the depositions with a certificate in the form following, namely:

Certificate.

I, [Thomas Kilvert, Commissioner for the State of Kansas, in the city and county of New York,] do hereby certify that ..... and ....., who have testified, were by me first severally sworn (or affirmed), to testify the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth, and that the depositions by them respectively subscribed as above set forth, were reduced to writing by myself, (or if any other person, name him, and say, by ....., who is not interested in the suit, in my presence and) in presence of the witnesses respectively, and were respectively subscribed by the said witness (or witnesses) in my presence, and were taken at the time and place in the annexed notice (or agreement) specified; that I am not counsel, attorney, or relative of either party, or otherwise interested in the event of this suit; (if there be adjournments add), and commenced at the time in the notice specified, and continued by adjournments from day to day, as above stated.

THOMAS KILVERT,

The whole should be sealed up by the magistrate, the title of the suit indorsed on the outside, the name of the officer taking the same, and depositions on behalf of (the party taking the same), and addressed to the clerk of the ..... at Kansas, or ..... justice of the peace, at ....., as the case may be. The officer before whom the depositions are taken should endorse across the back of the envelope: These depositions sealed up by me, and sign his name officially thereto. When the depositions are taken before the mayor, notary public, or commissioner, they must be certified under his official seal. If before any of the other officers above named, a certificate must be annexed under the seal of the court of the county, or the great seal of the State, that the officer by whom the depositions were taken, was, at the time of the taking the same, such officer as he represents himself to be in his certificate. This should be attached to the magistrate's certificate.

This proof of official character is omitted when waived by agreement of parties at the foot of notice. This agreement does not waive the taking them at the time and place named in the notice.

The fees for taking depositions should be taxed, and a memorandum made by whom they were paid.

KENTUCKY.

Deeds, Mortgages, &c., Acknowledgment of.

Deeds executed out of the State, but within the United States, by persons other than married women, must be certified by the clerk of a court, mayor of a city, or secretary of State, or a commissioner to take acknowledgment of deeds under his seal of office, or by a judge under seal of his court, to have been proved before him in the manner required.

Deeds executed out of the United States, by persons other than married women, must be certified by any foreign minister, or consul or secretary of legation of the United States; or by the secretary of foreign affairs, certified under his seal of office; or the judge of a Superior Court of the nation where the deed shall be executed, to have been acknowledged or proved before him as required by law.

The deed of a married woman must be acknowledged before some of the officers before mentioned. Before such acknowledgment she shall be examined separately and apart from her husband by such officer, touching her consent to such conveyance, and if acknowledged before an officer residing in the State, he shall simply certify that it was acknowledged before him, but if acknowledged out of the State he shall

State [Commonwealth, or Kingdom] of [New York,] } ss.
City [County, or Department] of [New York.] }

I, [Thomas Kilvert, commissioner for the Commonwealth of Kentucky, in the city and county of New York,] and within the State of [New York,] do certify that this instrument of writing from ....., and wife ....., was this day produced to me by the parties, and the contents and effects of the instrument being explained to the said ..... by me, separately and apart from her husband, she thereupon declared that she did freely and voluntarily execute and deliver the same, to be her act and deed, and consented that the same might be recorded.

Given under my hand and seal of office. THOMAS KILVERT,

If the husband join in the deed with his wife, and acknowledge it before the same officer, his acknowledgment may be certified with that of his wife, immediately succeeding the word "parties," thus: "which was acknowledged by the said ..... to be his act and deed."

Two subscribing witnesses are required where proof of execution instead of acknowledgment by the grantor is intended.

Where one of two subscribing witnesses proves the execution of the deed by the grantor, and the attestation of the other witness, it is sufficient.

Where both subscribing witnesses are dead, two other persons may prove their death, the signature of the grantor, and of one or both of the subscribing witnesses, and it will be good. If both subscribing witnesses are out of the State, or one of them is absent and the other dead, proof by two witnesses, of these facts, of the signature of one or both subscribing witnesses, and of the grantor, will be sufficient.

Where a deed is proved by persons other than the subscribing witnesses, the officer shall state the names and residences of such persons in his certificate.

Deeds, Mortgages, &c., Recording of.

All deeds, mortgages, and other instruments of writing, required to be recorded; all deeds conveying any title to or interest in land for a longer term than five years, all agreements in consideration of marriage, and all deeds of trust or mortgage conveying a legal or equitable title to real or personal estate, to be valid against purchasers for valuable consideration, and without notice, or any creditor shall be recorded. And no deed made by a resident of Kentucky, other than deeds of trust and mortgages, shall be good against purchasers for valuable consideration without notice, or against creditors, unless the same be recorded, or lodged for record within eight months from the date thereof; if made by persons out of Kentucky but within the United States, eighteen months, and if out of the United States, eighteen months.

Copies of all instruments legally recorded shall be prima facie evidence in all courts and tribunals of this State. Non-resident married women may convey real or personal property in this State, by agent under power of attorney recorded as deeds are required to be.

Depositions, Instructions for taking.

1. In this State, depositions should be taken before examiners. But where an examiner cannot be obtained in the county in which the deposition is taken; or, where the witness is unable from age, infirmity, or imprisonment, to attend at the examiner's office, and the examiner refuses to go to him; or where all the examiners of the county are interested in the county, the depositions may be taken before a judge of a court, a justice of the peace, a notary public, or a clerk of a court. Where a deposition is taken before any other officer than an examiner, the cause of it being so taken shall be made to appear by an accompanying affidavit.

2. Where parties consent in writing of record, justices of the peace may take depositions.

3. Depositions may be taken out of the State before a commissioner, appointed by the governor thereof, a judge of court, a justice of the peace, mayor of a city, notary public, or any other person empowered by a commission directed to him by consent of the parties, or by order of court.

4. The caption of the deposition may be in this form:

Deponent being of lawful age and first duly sworn, deposes and says:

6. When depositions are taken upon notices they must be taken at the time and place mentioned in the notice, and cannot be continued beyond the day named unless the notice so authorizes. If the notice authorizes adjournments, they must be from day to day—Sundays excepted—and noted and signed by the officer. Any person may be present when depositions are taken on notice, and the notice should be returned with deposition, though it is not essential.

7. All objections to questions may be decided by the officer, and his ruling noted; but, unless the question is palpably improper, it should be allowed, the objection being noted.

8. The deposition must be written by the officer in presence of the witness, or by the witness in presence of the officer, and then read to the witness by the officer, and be subscribed by the witness in the presence of the officer.

9. The certificate of the officer may be in this form:

Certificate.

State of [New York,] } ss.
County of [New York.] }

I, [Thomas Kilvert,] a Commissioner of Deeds for the State of Kentucky, duly appointed and commissioned by the Governor thereof for the State of New York, authorized to take and certify depositions, do hereby certify that the foregoing deposition of ..... was taken before me at the time and place, and for the purpose mentioned in the caption thereof; that the said ..... was duly sworn by me, before he gave his testimony, that the evidence he should give in the action mentioned in the caption should be the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth, and thereupon testified as shown in the foregoing deposition, by him subscribed, the statements of the witness being reduced to writing by himself in my presence (or by me in his presence), and read to him and subscribed by him in my presence. [Here state, according to the facts, the names of the persons, plaintiffs or defendants in the action, who were present at the examination, and whether in person or by attorney; and if none were present in person or by attorney, that fact must be stated.]

Given under my hand and seal of office, this ..... day of ....., 18.....

THOMAS KILVERT,

10. When completed, the deposition must be sealed up by the commissioner, and directed to the clerk of the court in which the action is pending, with a note indorsed on the envelope showing it to be a deposition, and the style of the case in which it was taken, and mailed to the clerk by the commissioner.

11. If depositions are taken upon interrogatories, the above caption may be used, except that after the word "taken" insert "upon the interrogatories (and cross interrogatories) hereto appended." It is best to copy the interrogatories and cross-interrogatories into the body of the deposition; but where several depositions are taken upon the same interrogatories, they need not be copied into any except the first deposition. In the caption to the second and succeeding depositions, when taken upon interrogatories, insert in the above form in paragraph 5, after the word "purpose," the words "and upon the same interrogatories (and cross-interrogatories)." The above certificate in paragraph 9 may be used when a deposition is taken upon interrogatories, and, in such case, neither party, or agent, or attorney, shall be present at the taking, unless both parties are present or represented by agent or attorney, or unless the opposite party or his agent or attorney has been reasonably notified of the time and place of taking the depositions, or the party attending has been notified by the opposite party to attend.

The officer should tax his fees, certify the costs of taking, and if paid, and by whom paid, at the foot of the deposition.

The interrogatories and all papers filed by witnesses should be attached to the deposition.

Deeds, Recording of.

Any deed or instrument in writing, whereby any real estate is conveyed or affected, shall be recorded in the parish where the property is situated. Should the deed be under private signature it cannot affect a third party, unless previous to its being recorded it was duly acknowledged before a notary, and his certificate be attached to such acknowledgment and recorded with it.

Depositions, Instructions and Forms for taking.

The commission may be executed by any one of the commissioners. If they are all absent or otherwise incapable of executing it, it may be executed by any judge, or justice of the peace. If executed by any other than one of the commissioners expressly named, it will be necessary to obtain the certificate of the governor of the State, that the judge, or justice of the peace officiating was such on the day or days when the commission was executed, and that his signature to the commission was genuine.

Number the interrogatories in chief and give the answers, and proceed in the same manner with the cross-interrogatories.

The commissioner ought, previous to writing the answer of the witness, to swear him to declare the truth on the questions put to him in the cause.

The commissioner should draw his proces verbal, or certificate of the taking of the depositions, and annex the same to the commission and interrogatories.

The title of a purchaser for a valuable consideration, or a title derived from levy of an execution cannot be defeated by a trust, however declared or implied by law, unless the purchaser or creditor had notice thereof. When the instrument creating or declaring it is recorded in the registry where the land lies, that is to be regarded as such notice. No time is allowed, as in some States, for the recording of conveyances, except as to attachments on mesne process, which must be recorded in five days from time of attachment, and levies of execution which must be recorded three months. Actual notice however binds a purchaser.

On this ..... day of ....., A. D. 18....., the within named deponent personally appeared before me, at [my office, 137 Broadway, New York], in said county, was first sworn by me, according to law, to testify the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth, relating to the cause or matter for which his within deposition was to be taken; and then being examined on interrogatories, according to law, gave on oath the within deposition, which was written by ..... a disinterested person, in the presence and under the direction of myself; and after the said deposition had been carefully read by me to said deponent it was then subscribed by him in my presence.

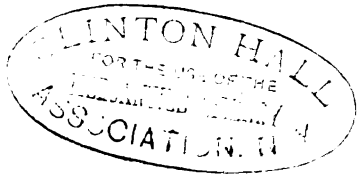

Said deposition was taken at the request of the plaintiff; the adverse party was notified to attend and did (or did not) attend its taking. The cause in which it is to be used is an action of trespass, in which ..... is plaintiff, and ..... defendant, which is now pending in the .... Court, within and for the county of ..... , in said State, and is to be tried in said court at its term to be holden at ...., within and for said county of ....., on the ..... day of ....., A. D. 18.....

The cause of taking said deposition is that the deponent does not reside in the State of Maine but is a resident of the [State of New York].

Witness my hand and seal at said [city of New York], the day and year first named.

THOMAS KILVERT,
[L. S.] Commissioner for Maine, in New York.

The deposition should then be sealed up and directed to The ..... of the ..... Court to be held at ....., within and for the county of ..... , Maine.

Deeds, Mortgages, &c., Acknowledgment of.

No estate of inheritance or freehold, or any declaration or limitation of use, or any estate for above seven years, shall pass or take effect, unless the deed conveying the same shall be executed, acknowledged, and recorded.

No mortgage shall be valid except as between the parties thereto, unless there be endorsed thereon an oath or affirmation of the mortgagee that the consideration in said mortgage is true and bona fide as therein set forth. This affidavit may be made at any time before the mortgage is recorded, before any one authorized to take the acknowledgment of a mortgage, and the affidavit shall be recorded with the mortgage.

The affidavit may be made by one of several mortgagees, and shall have the same effect as if made by all; or the said affidavit may be made by any agent of a mortgagee; and when made by an agent, he shall, in addition to the affidavit above mentioned, make affidavit to be endorsed upon the mortgage, that he is agent of the mortgagee or mortgagees, or some one of them, which affidavit shall be sufficient proof of such agency; and the president or other officer of a corporation, or the executor of the mortgagee, may make such affidavit.

If a deed is acknowledged without the State, but within the United States, the acknowledgment may be made before, 1st, a notary public; 2d, judge of any court of the United States; 3d, judge of any court of any State having a seal; 4th, any commissioner of this State to take the acknowledgment of deeds.

If acknowledged in a foreign country, the acknowledgment may be made before any minister or consul of the United States, notary public, or a commissioner of this State authorized to take acknowledgments of deeds.

Every deed conveying real estate shall be signed and sealed by the grantor or bargainor, and attested by at least one witness.

Any married woman may convey her real and personal property, if her husband joins in the conveyance, whether the conveyance be absolute or by way of mortgage, and she may execute and acknowledge any deed, mortgage, or bill of sale, in the same manner as other grantors or bargainors, without any private examination or other ceremony; and she may relinquish her dower in any real estate by the joint deed of herself and husband, or by her separate deed.

Deeds must be recorded within six months from their date, in the county or city in which the land affected by such deed lies; and where it lies in more than one county, or in the city of Baltimore and a county, it shall be recorded in all the counties and the said city in which such land lies.

Depositions, Instructions for taking.

When witnesses are material and competent to establish a point at issue, in any cause pending in any of the courts of record of this State, and are non-residents, the court will order the clerk of such court to issue a commission for the taking of the deposition of such witness, or witnesses, provided it be shown by affidavit or otherwise, to the satisfaction of the court, that such commission is proper and necessary. The commissioners are named by the court, and must be sworn, "truly, faithfully and without partiality," to execute the said commission. Before entering upon their duties, the obit should be taken before a judge of a court of record, commissioner for Maryland, or notary public, or justice of the peace; the official character of the latter should be certified to by a clerk of a court of record. Two commissioners are named in the commission, one or both may act.

It is competent for the parties litigant, their agents and attorneys, to be present at the execution of any commission to take testimony.

Before proceeding to act, the commissioners will take the oath headed on the commission "Commissioner's Oath," before a person authorized to administer an oath, and get this person to write at the foot thereof, as follows:

The above oath was administered by me, this ..... day of ....., A.D. 18...., to ..... (and the other commissioners, naming them), commissioners within named, and sign his name and his title.

If the commissioners think proper to appoint a clerk, they will do so, and one of the commissioners will administer to him the oath headed on the commission "Clerk's Oath," and make this certificate underneath such oath. The preceding oath administered to ..... by me, appointed clerk, before proceeding to execute this commission, and one of the acting commissioners will sign it.

One of the commissioners will administer to the witness whom they are about to examine on oath or affirmation, in the established form of the place, "to make true answers to all such questions as shall be asked upon the interrogatories annexed to the commission, without favor or affection to either party, and therein to speak the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth."

[L. S.] THOMAS KILVERT.

The witness must subscribe his examination with his name, and the acting commissioners must subscribe their names opposite to his signature, for the purpose of identifying it; and if in the course of examination the witness shall produce or refer to any paper, exhibit, or document, the same must be marked by some letter or figure, and further identified by the acting commissioners in the following manner: "This is the paper, exhibit, or document referred to by ....., in his examination, as the paper marked 'A,'" etc., to which they will sign their names.

The commissioners are requested distinctly to observe that every question must be answered by the witness, if it be merely to declare that he is ignorant of the matter inquired of, and that an omission to answer any one will be fatal to the whole examination.

The acting commissioners must bind up the depositions and exhibits together with the commission, tape passing through and connecting the whole, and then make the following endorsement upon the commission: "The execution of this commission appears in a certain schedule hereunto annexed;" to which they will also subscribe their names and affix their seals.

Thus prepared and executed, they will enclose the same in an envelope, sealed with their seals, their names written across or by the side of the seal, and the whole addressed to the clerk of the court.

The depositions may then be delivered to the agent, or forwarded by the most expeditious and safe conveyance to the court whence the commission issued.

Depositions, Instructions for taking.

A commission may issue for the taking of depositions of a witness without the State, directed to any one or more competent persons in any other State or country, from the court wherein the cause is pending; or the deposition may be taken before a commissioner appointed by the governor of this State, authorized to act in any part of the United States, or in any foreign country.

Depositions taken under a commission must be upon written interrogatories previously submitted to the adverse party or his attorney, that cross-interrogatories may be filed by such party should they see fit.

Neither party shall be permitted to attend at the taking of the deposition, either himself or any attorney or agent; nor to communicate by interrogatories or suggestions with the deponent whilst giving his deposition in answer to the interrogatories annexed to his commission. And such deposition must be taken in a place separate and apart from all other persons, and no person be permitted to be present during such examination, except the deponent and commissioner, and such disinterested person (if any) as the commissioner may think fit to appoint as a clerk, to assist in reducing the deposition to writing. The several interrogatories and cross-interrogatories must be put to the deponent in their order, and the answer to each taken fully and clearly before proceeding to the next, and not read to the deponent, nor the deponent be permitted to read a succeeding interrogatory, until the answer of the preceding has been fully taken down.

Deeds, Mortgages, &c., Acknowledgment of.

When a deed is acknowledged out of this State, and within the United States, it may be done before any judge of a court of record, notary public, justice of the peace, master in chancery, or other officer authorized by the laws of such State to take the acknowledgment of deeds therein, or before any commissioner appointed by the governor of this State for such purpose. Unless the acknowledgment be taken before a commissioner, such deed shall have attached thereto a certificate of the clerk or other proper certifying officer of the court of record of the county or district within which such acknowledgment was taken, under the seal of his office, in the usual form; that the person whose name is subscribed to the certificate of acknowledgment was at the date thereof, such officer as he is therein represented to be; that he believes the signature of such person subscribed thereto to be genuine, and that the deed is executed and acknowledged according to the laws of such State, Territory, or district.

If executed in a foreign country, it may be according to the laws of such country, and acknowledged before any minister, consul, or chargé d'affaires of the United States, notary public, or commissioner, appointed by the governor of the State, to take acknowledgment of deeds, and such acknowledgment should be certified to by the officer taking it, and his official seal affixed thereto.

Digitized by Google

To entitle a deed or other instrument of writing to be recorded or read in evidence in this State, it is necessary:

1st. That it be executed under seal, and in the presence of two subscribing witnesses thereto.

2d. That it be acknowledged by the party executing it, to be his free act and deed.

3d. That the officer taking the acknowledgment be satisfied as to the identity of the person, and certify to the same in his certificate of such acknowledgment.

4th. If a married woman be a party to such instrument, that she personally acknowledge before the officer, separate and apart from her husband, that she executed the same freely, and without fear and compulsion of any one, which separate acknowledgment must be certified by such officer.

5th. That the certificate of a commissioner taking an acknowledgment be endorsed, or the instrument acknowledged, with his official seal affixed thereto.

There is no statutory provision allowing deeds to be proved by subscribing witnesses out of the State of Michigan, but deeds executed out of the State will be valid if executed according to the laws of the State, Territory, district, or foreign country in which the same are executed.

Depositions, Instructions for taking.

The depositions of non-resident witnesses may be taken to be used in this State, in courts not of record. Due notice of the time and place of taking, and before whom, must previously be given. Witnesses residing without this State, whose testimony is material to either of the parties litigant, in any cause pending and at issue in any court of record within this State, may have their deposition taken upon the application of either party to the court, setting forth that the testimony of said witness is vital and necessary, and praying that a commission be issued to one or more competent persons, authorizing them to examine said witness on oath, upon the interrogatories framed for the purpose of eliciting the truth from such witness upon the point at issue.

The order for such commission to issue may be made either in term time or vacation, by any judge or Circuit Court commissioner, upon due proof being made that notice of such application for commission to issue, had been served on the adverse party at least ten days before making the same. It is usual to issue commissions based upon stipulation containing name of the person, to whom directed, and mode and manner of its return; such stipulation is in effect as obligatory and binding as an order of court.

Depositions, Instructions and forms for taking.

The persons to whom such commission shall be directed, or any one of them, unless otherwise expressly directed therein, shall execute the same as follows:

1st. They, or any of them, shall publicly administer an oath to the witnesses named in the commission, that the answers given by such witnesses to the interrogatories proposed to them shall be the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth.

2d. They shall cause the examination of each witness to be reduced to writing and to be subscribed by him, and certified by such of the commissioners as are present at the taking of the same.

3d. If any exhibits are produced and proved before them, they shall be annexed to the depositions to which they relate, and shall in like manner be subscribed by the witness proving the same, and shall be certified by the commissioners. (This section must be understood to refer to such papers as can be produced upon the examination. If the paper referred to be a record, not subject to the control of the party or the commissioners, it will be sufficient to annex a copy, and the original may be produced on the trial, separate from the commission.)

4th. The commissioners, or commissioner, shall subscribe each sheet of the depositions, shall annex all the depositions and exhibits to the commission upon which the return shall be endorsed, and shall close them up, under their or his seals, and shall address the same, when so closed, to the clerk of the court from which the commission issued, at his place of residence.

5th. If there is a direction on the commission to return the same by mail, they, or he, shall immediately deposit the packet so directed in the nearest post office.

6th. If there be direction on the commission to return the same by an agent to the party who sued out the same, the packet so directed shall be delivered to such agent.

Further Instructions to the Commissioners.—Mode of Administering Oaths.

The usual mode of administering oaths now practised in this State, by the person who swears holding up the right hand, shall be observed in all cases in which an oath may be administered by law, except as hereinafter provided.

When the court, magistrate, or other officer, before whom any person is to be sworn, shall be satisfied that such person has any peculiar mode of swearing, which is, in his opinion, more solemn or obligatory than holding up the hand, such court, or officer, may adopt that mode of administering the oath.

Every person conscientiously opposed to taking an oath, shall, when called on to take an oath, be permitted instead of swearing, solemnly and sincerely to affirm, under the pains and penalties of perjury.

The commission may be executed by any one of the commissioners without the others.

Administer the oath in the following form:

You do solemnly swear, in the presence of Almighty God, that the answers given by you, to the interrogatories proposed to you, shall be the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth. So help you, God.

And in all cases certify the mode of administering the oath.

Prepare a caption to the deposition as follows, namely:

Deeds, Acknowledgment of.

The acknowledgment must be made before a judge, or commissioner of a court of record, or a justice of the peace, or notary public, within this State.

A married woman may convey her title, or release her dower, by joining with her husband in the deed, or by a separate deed, in like manner as if she were single, and the acknowledgment or proof of such deed may be the same as if she were single.

When deeds are executed outside of this State, unless the acknowledgment is taken before a commissioner appointed by the governor of this State for that purpose, or before a notary public, or clerk of court of record, or some other officer having a seal of office, and the certificate of acknowledgment upon such deed, with the seal of office of such officer affixed thereto, there shall be attached or appended to or endorsed on such deed a certificate of the clerk, or other proper officer of a court of record of the county, district or place where taken, under the seal of his office, that the person whose name is subscribed to the certificate of acknowledgment was, at the date thereof, such officer as he is therein represented to be; that he is acquainted with the handwriting of such person, and verily believes the signature subscribed to the certificate of acknowledgment is genuine, and that such instrument is executed and acknowledged according to the laws of the State where executed. No separate acknowledgment of wife is required by the laws of this State.

Deeds, Recording of.

Deeds must be recorded in the office of register of deeds in the county where such lands are situated.

To entitle a deed or other instrument to be read in evidence or recorded, it must be executed in the presence of at least two witnesses, who must subscribe their names thereto, and acknowledged by the party or parties executing the same.

All deeds and other instruments relating to real estate must be executed under seal, which may be a scroll in ink, or a wafer, or wax.

Depositions, Instructions for taking.

The deposition of any witness without this State may be taken under a commission issued to any competent person in any State or country by the court in which the cause is pending, or upon a reference as hereinafter mentioned, and the deposition may be used in the same manner, and subject to the same conditions and objections as if it had been taken in this State.

No commission shall be issued to take testimony out of this State, except in the following cases:

1st. When an issue has been joined in an action in a court of record in this State, and it shall appear on the application of either party that any witness not residing in this State is material in the prosecution or defence of such action, and that due notice of such application was served upon the adverse party at least eight days before the application is made.

2d. When, in an action commenced in a court of record in this State, the time of answering the complaint has expired, and the defendant has not answered or demurred to the said complaint, and it appears upon the application of the plaintiff that the testimony of any witness not residing in this State is material and necessary to establish the facts stated in the complaint and to enable the court to render judgment in such action.

When the application is made by the plaintiff, and there has been no appearance for the defendant in the action, it may be made ex parte, and without notice, and the deposition may be taken upon interrogatories filed by the plaintiff and annexed to the commission. In all other cases, such depositions shall be taken under a commission and upon written interrogatories to be exhibited to the adverse party or his attorney, and cross-interrogatories to be filed by him if he sees fit; depositions, however, may be taken in any other manner by stipulation in writing, signed by the parties or their attorneys, and shall have the like force and effect as if taken in the manner provided by statute.

The evidence contained in a deposition of a witness residing in this State is subject at the time of trial to any objection which could be made were the witness examined in open court, with the single exception, that to take advantage of the form of a question, the objection must be noted at the time of taking the deposition.

Depositions of witnesses within this State, and resident more than thirty miles from the place of trial, or of witnesses about to depart from the State and not to return in time for trial, or of witnesses so sick, infirm or aged as to make it probable that they will not be able to attend at the trial, may be taken at any time after the cause is commenced, by application to a justice of the peace, who, upon such application or motion, issues a notice to the adverse party to appear before him at the time and place appointed by him for taking such deposition, and to put such interrogatories as he may see fit. Service of this notice may be made on the party, his agent or attorney. Where there are several adverse parties, notice upon one is notice upon all. The notice is served by delivering an attested copy thereof to the proper person, or by leaving such copy at his place of abode. Such notice shall allow the adverse party twenty-four hours after the service thereof to appear and put interrogatories, also one day in addition for every twenty miles' travel, Sundays excepted. The witnesses in such cases are sworn to testify as in other cases, and their testimony reduced to writing, and a similar certificate added as in the case of non-resident witnesses, with the addition of a certified statement as to the reason of taking the deposition, that is, whether on the ground of age, infirmity, &c. The certificate should also contain a statement to the effect that the adverse party was duly served with the notice required by law, of which a true copy, and of the return of services thereon, is annexed to the deposition. No deposition can be used if it appears that the reason for taking it no longer exists.

The commissioner must return upon the commission a certificate substantially as follows:

Certificate.

I, [Thomas Kilvert,] commissioner named in the within and above written commission, do certify that the said commission was executed, and the testimony of ..... was taken before me, at [137 Broadway, in New York,] on the..... day of ....., A.D. 18...., at ..... o'clock in the forenoon, and was reduced to writing by myself (or by deponent, or by ....., a disinterested person, in my presence, and under my direction). That the said testimony was taken by and pursuant to the authority and requirements of the said commission (or stipulation, as the case may be), upon the interrogatories hereto annexed, and herewith returned. That said witness, before examination, was sworn to testify the whole truth, and nothing but the truth, relative to the cause specified in said commission, and that the testimony of said witness was carefully read to (or by) said witness, by me, and then by him subscribed in my presence.

Deeds, Mortgages, &c., Acknowledgment of.

Deeds and other instruments of writing, conveying or affecting real estate, may be acknowledged in this State, in the presence of any judge of the Supreme or Circuit Court, any chancellor or clerk of a court of record who shall append a certificate of such acknowledgment, under the seal of the court; any justice of the peace, a member of the board of supervisors, whether the lands conveyed are lying in his county or not.

If executed out of this State, but within the United States, it may be certified and proven before any of the judges of the Supreme Court of the United States, or justice of the Supreme or Superior Court of any State or Territory, any justice of the peace, whose official character shall be certified to under the seal of some court of record, within his county, or by any commissioner appointed by the governor of this State, residing therein to take acknowledgments and proof of deeds and depositions.

If the grantor and witness or witnesses of any deed, conveyance, or other instrument of writing, be dead or absent, so that his or their personal attendance cannot be had, the deed may be established by the oath of any person who, on examination before an officer competent to take acknowledgments, can establish the handwriting of the deceased or absent witnesses; or when such proof cannot be had, then the handwriting of the grantor may be proved, and the officer before whom such proof is made shall certify accordingly, and such certificate shall be deemed equivalent to an acknowledgment by the grantor, on proof by subscribing witnesses, and entitle the deed to be recorded.

The lands, tenements, or hereditaments of a married woman, or her right of dower, shall not pass by any deed made by her, either jointly with her husband or separately, without a previous acknowledgment made by her before an officer competent to take such acknowledgment, on a private examination, apart from her husband, that she signed, sealed, and delivered the same as her voluntary act and deed, freely, without any fear, threats, or compulsion of her husband; and the officer taking such acknowledgment shall make a certificate thereof, under his hand, on or under the deed, which certificate shall conform to the requirement hereinbefore provided for; and any deed of a femme covert, so executed, acknowledged, and certified, shall bar her right of dower in the lands, tenements, and hereditaments therein conveyed, and shall, moreover, be good and effectual for the purposes for which it was intended.

And in like manner, a femme covert may relinquish her right of dower in lands previously conveyed by her husband; and the relinquishment and certificate, in such cases, shall be recorded in the office where the deed is recorded, and shall be as effectual as if it had been taken at the time of executing the deed, and any married woman, although under the age of twenty-one years, may relinquish her dower in any real estate. Every conveyance, covenant, agreement, and other deed, except deeds of trust and mortgages, which shall be acknowledged or proved, and certified according to law, and delivered to the clerk of the proper county, to be recorded within three months after its execution, shall take effect and be valid from the date of its delivery; but deeds of trust and mortgages, whenever they shall be delivered to the clerk to be recorded, and all other conveyances, covenants, or agreements, and deeds not acknowledged or proved and certified and delivered to the proper clerk, within three months after execution, to be recorded, shall take effect, as to all subsequent purchasers, for a valuable consideration, without notice, and as to all creditors only from the time when delivered to the clerk to be recorded: Provided, however, that if two or more deeds, embracing the same property, after having been properly acknowledged, or proved and certified, be delivered to the clerk, to be recorded on the same day, that which was first sealed and delivered shall have the preference.

THOMAS KILVERT,
Commissioner for Mississippi, in New York.

Depositions, Instructions for taking.

When any party shall desire to take the deposition of any witness absent from or residing out of the State, he shall file interrogatories in the clerk's office, and serve the opposite party or his attorney with a copy thereof, with a notice of the day on which a commission will issue, ten days before issuing the same, in which time the opposite party shall file his cross-interrogatories; and the clerk shall thereupon issue a commission, and shall annex thereto a copy of such interrogatories and cross-interrogatories, and the witness shall be examined by the commissioner thereon.

If the opposite party does not reside in the State, and has no agent or attorney at law within the same, upon whom copies of the interrogatories and notice can be served, it shall be sufficient to file the same with the clerk among the papers in the cause for the time required.

All commissions may be directed to one or to several commissioners, in the alternative by name, or to any judge of a court of record, justice of the peace, mayor, or chief magistrate of a city or town, commissioner appointed by the governor of this State, or other person authorized to administer oaths by the law of the place where the deposition is taken; and the certificate of any such officer shall be prima facie evidence of his official character, and of his authority to administer oaths.

The witnesses shall be sworn (or affirmed) by the commissioner to testify the whole truth, and nothing but the truth, and the commissioners, or one or more of them, shall carefully and impartially examine the witness, on the interrogatories and cross-interrogatories annexed to the commission; and shall cause the testimony to be fairly written down by himself or by the witness, or some disinterested person in his presence, and subscribed by the witness; and the testimony, and interrogatories, and every exhibit and voucher relating thereto, and also a certificate by the commissioner of all his proceedings therein, shall be sealed up and directed to the clerk of the court where the action is pending, and transmitted in the most safe and convenient manner; and the clerk shall open the same, and, having endorsed thereon the time of the receipt and opening thereof, shall deposit the same among the papers in the cause.

The commissioners shall endorse the style of the case and the word "deposition" on the envelope.

The commissioners shall have power to continue the taking of depositions from day to day.

Depositions, Instructions for taking.

Depositions must be taken by a commissioner of this State, to whom it is not necessary to issue a commission, a notice being sufficient, or before a mayor or chief officer of any city, town, or borough, having a seal of office, or by some judge, justice of the peace, or other judicial officer, or before a notary public. When taken before a judge or a justice of the peace, his official character must be shown by the certificate and seal of the clerk of some court of record, within the county where the officer resides, stating that such officer was acting judge or justice of the peace, and duly commissioned as such, at the time when the depositions were taken. The depositions may be taken in reply to questions or in a narrative form.

Forms and Instructions for taking Depositions.

The officers taking the depositions will observe the following forms and mode of proceeding, commencing thus:

[state whether plaintiff or defendant] ....., of lawful age, being produced, sworn and examined, on the part of the ....., deposeth and saith: [here insert the statement of witness.]

[NOTE.—Every deposition must be reduced to writing in presence of the officer before whom it is taken, and signed by the witness. If any paper or exhibit is produced and proved, or referred to by the witness, it ought to be described in his deposition, or marked and referred to by the deponent in such manner that it may be identified when the deposition is read, and all such papers and exhibits must be attached to and returned with the deposition.]

The officer will annex, at the foot of the deposition of each witness, the following certificate:

Subscribed and sworn to before me, on the day, at the place, and within the hours first aforesaid.

THOMAS KILVERT,
Commissioner for Missouri, in New York.

Then proceed with other depositions (if any,) in the same form, annexing a like certificate to each. When all the witnesses who appear have been sworn and examined, and their depositions reduced to writing, subscribed and certified as above, the officer will attach to the depositions, all papers and exhibits, proved or referred to in the examination, the commission, and notice, with the following certificate endorsed thereon, or attached thereto:

Certificate.

I, [Thomas Kilvert, a commissioner for the State of Missouri,] within and for the city and county of [New York,] in the State of [New York,] do certify, that in pursuance of the [within or annexed, as the case may be] commission and notice, came before me, at [No. 137 Broadway,] in the county and State last aforesaid [insert the names of the witnesses,] who were by me severally [sworn or affirmed,] to testify the whole truth of their knowledge touching the matter in controversy aforesaid; that they were examined, and their examination reduced to writing, and subscribed by them respectively, in my presence, on the day, between the hours, and at the place in that behalf first aforesaid, and their said depositions are now herewith returned.

If the officer know the residence of the witnesses, he will include the following in his certificate: And I further certify that said ....., is a resident of the county of ....., in the State of ..... Given at [137 Broadway,] in the county of [New York,] and State of [New York,] this ..... day of ....., 18...

THOMAS KILVERT,
Commissioner for Missouri, in New York.

The return must be accompanied by a certificate of the official character of the officer taking them, if taken by any officer other than a commissioner for this State, attested by the seal of the State of his residence, or by the seal of some court of record within said State, which may be as follows:

It is hereby certified that [Thomas Kilvert,] on the ..... day of ....., in the year of our Lord 18..., was, and now is, a commissioner within and for the county of [New York,] State of [New York,] duly commissioned and acting as such and that full faith and credit are due to his acts as such.

In testimony whereof, I ....., have hereunto subscribed my name and affixed the seal of office, this ..... day of ....., 18...

.....,

The officer taking the deposition is required to enclose in a strong envelope, securely sealed, the depositions, papers, and exhibits, commission, notice, and certificates, and direct the same to the clerk of the ..... Court of the county of ....., Missouri, noting on some convenient part of the envelope, the style of the cause and contents—thus:

John Smith, [same as above,] Defendant.
} Deposition for [plaintiff.]

If the package is to be transmitted by mail, it will be necessary to enclose it (directed and endorsed as above) in another envelope, directed to clerk of the court, in order to insure its being taken out of the post office.

The depositions must be begun on the day mentioned in the notice. If they cannot be completed on that day, the taking of them may be adjourned to the succeeding day, at the same place, and between the same hours. The person taking them should in such case, make the following entry, closing the business for that day.

Not being able to complete the taking of said depositions, by reason that [here insert the reasons,] I adjourned the further taking of the same till to-morrow, then to be continued at the same place, and between the same hours mentioned in the annexed notice.

THOMAS KILVERT,
Commissioner.

On the succeeding day let the person taking the deposition commence as follows: Pursuant to the adjournment as above stated, on the ..... day of ....., 18....., between the hours of ..... o'clock in the forenoon, and ..... o'clock in the afternoon, at the county of [New York,] I continued the taking of said depositions as follows, viz.: ..... in continuation of his deposition, commenced yesterday, on his oath further says, &c.

The foregoing directions must be strictly observed, or the depositions will be unavailing.

described therein, and who executed the same, and saw him sign (or heard him acknowledge that he had signed) the same.

In testimony whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and seal, at [New York,] in said county, the day and year last above written.

THOMAS KILVERT,

[L. S.] Commissioner for Nebraska, in New York.

In all cases the acknowledgment or proof must be certified by the officer taking the same under his official seal.

Deeds, Recording of.

Deeds, mortgages, and other instruments, required by law to be recorded, must be recorded in the county in which the lands lie, and are in force from and after they are delivered to the clerk for record. The certificates of proof or acknowledgment, and of the validity of the signature of each officer, where such certificate is required, must be recorded with the deed.

Depositions, Instructions, and Forms for taking.

Depositions in other States or Territories may be taken before any of the following officers: A judge, justice, or chancellor of any court of record, a justice of the peace, notary public, mayor or chief magistrate of any city or town corporate, a commissioner appointed by the governor of this State to take depositions, or any person authorized by a special commission from this State.

When the officer taking the depositions has an official seal, the same should be annexed with his official signature to the certificate.

When the officer has no official seal, and the deposition is taken out of this State, it must be certified, and signed by the officer, and there must be, in addition, annexed thereto, the official certificate, and seal of any secretary or other officer of State keeping the great seal thereof, or of the clerk or prothonotary of any court having a seal attesting the fact that the officer before whom the deposition was taken, was, at the time of taking the same, an officer, authorized to take the same.

Form for taking Depositions.

Depositions of witnesses, taken in an action pending in the .... court of ..... county, in the State of Nebraska, wherein A. B. is plaintiff, and C. D. is defendant, and for said plaintiff (or defendant, as the case may be), in pursuance of the notice hereto attached. (Here state which of the parties, their agents or attorneys, are present.)

....., of the county of ....., and State of ....., of lawful age, being first duly sworn by me, as hereinafter certified, deposes as follows (Here insert the depositions, either by stating the facts in a narrative form, or in the form of answers, to questions first written down. And if questions are asked, let them be in the following form):

1. Question by

Deeds, Mortgages, &c., Acknowledgment of.

Every deed or instrument in writing conveying or affecting any interest in real estate shall be acknowledged, proved and certified as follows: If acknowledged within this State, before some judge or clerk of a court having a seal, or some notary public or a justice of the peace. If without this State, but within the United States, before a judge or clerk of a court having a seal, or some notary public, or justice of the peace, or by any commissioner appointed by the governor of this State for that purpose; when taken before a justice of the peace, it shall be accompanied by the certificate of a clerk of a court of record of the county having a seal, showing the official character of the justice, and the genuineness of his signature. If taken without the United States, it shall be before some judge or a clerk of a court of State, Kingdom or Empire having a seal, or a notary public therein, or by a minister, commissioner or consul of the United States appointed to reside therein.

Proof of the acknowledgment of a conveyance shall be made, first, by the testimony of a subscribing witness; second, when all the subscribing witnesses are dead, or cannot be had, by evidence of the handwriting of the party, and of at least one subscribing witness, given by a credible witness to each signature, under oath.

The certificate of acknowledgment or proof must be under the hand and seal of office when taken by a judge or clerk, or an officer having a seal of office.

Certificate of Acknowledgment by Husband and Wife.

State of [New York,] } ss.
County of [New York.] }

On this ..... day of ....., A. D. 18....., personally appeared before me, [Thomas Kilvert, commissioner for Nevada, in New York,] ..... and ....., his wife, whose names are subscribed to the conveyed instrument as parties thereto, personally known to me to be the individuals described in, and who executed the said annexed instrument as parties thereto, who each acknowledged to me that they, each of them respectively, executed the same freely and voluntarily, and for the uses and purposes therein mentioned. And the said ...., wife of the said ....., having been by me first made acquainted with the contents of said instrument, acknowledged to me on examination, apart and without the hearing of her said husband, that she executed the same freely and voluntarily, without fear or compulsion, or undue influence of her said husband, and that she does not wish to retract the execution of the same.

In witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and affixed my official seal, the day and year first above written.

THOMAS KILVERT,
[L. S.] Commissioner for Nevada, in New York.

When the grantor is unknown to the court or officer, the certificate that he was satisfactorily proved to be the person described in, and who executed the annexed instrument, by the oath of ....., a competent and credible witness for that purpose by me duly sworn, and the said ..... acknowledged, etc.

Proof by Subscribing Witness.

The certificate of a subscribing witness shall set forth, that the subscribing witness was personally known to the officer granting the certificate, to be the person whose name is subscribed to such conveyance as a witness thereto, or was proved to be such by the oath of a witness whose name shall be given in the certificate; also, that the proof given by such witness of the execution of such conveyance, and of the fact that the person whose name is subscribed to such conveyance as a party thereto, is the person who executed the same, and that such witness subscribed his name to such conveyance as a witness thereof.

Depositions, Instructions for taking.

Depositions within this State may be taken after service of summons, or when the witness is a party to the action, or resides out of the county, or is expected to be absent, is too infirm to attend the trial, or resides more than fifty miles from the place of trial. Depositions may be taken before a judge or clerk of a court, justice of the peace or notary public, upon giving the absent party five days' notice, and for every twenty-five miles travel one additional day, though for cause shown the judge may shorten the time.

If taken without this State, and within the United States, to be used in this State, they must be taken before a commissioner appointed by the governor of this State to take depositions, or before any judge of a court of record having a seal.

When a commission is sued out, it is issued under seal of the court, upon an order of the judge, after notice given to the other party of five days. When the parties cannot select a person by agreement, to act as commissioner, the court shall issue a commission to a judge or a justice of the peace, or to a commissioner appointed by the governor of this State to take depositions in other States. If the parties disagree to the form of the interrogatories, they will be settled by the court. Written interrogatories may be dispensed with upon agreement. Where a deposition is not returned, the trial shall not be postponed, unless the court is satisfied by evidence given that the testimony is necessary, and that proper means to obtain it had been used. Commissions may be issued by justices of the peace.

Digitized by Google

Notice of the time and place of executing a commission shall be given to all the commissioners named in the commission; and when any of them do not act, let the fact that they were notified, or could not be notified, and the reason for not acting be stated.

The commission must be executed by the commissioner named therein.

The acting commissioner, after publicly swearing the witnesses, will examine them separately.

The general style or title of the depositions must be drawn up in the following manner:

Caption.

Depositions of witnesses produced, sworn (or affirmed) and examined the ..... day of ....., in the year one thousand eight hundred and ....., at New York, under and by virtue of a commission issued out of the ..... District Court of the ..... Judicial District of the State of Nevada, in and for the county of ....., in a certain cause therein depending and at issue between ..... and ....., as follows:

....., of ....., by occupation a ....., aged ..... years and upwards, being duly and publicly sworn (or affirmed), pursuant to the directions hereto annexed, and examined on the part of the plaintiff (or defendant), doth depose and say as follows, namely:

To the first interrogatory, he saith, etc. (Insert the witness' answer.)

To the second interrogatory, he saith, etc., and so on, throughout.

If he cannot answer, let him say that he knoweth not.

If there be any cross-interrogatories, the witness will go on thus:

To the first cross-interrogatory, he saith, etc., and so on throughout.

When the witness has finished his deposition, let him subscribe it, and the acting commissioner will certify as follows:

Examination taken, reduced to writing, and by the witness subscribed and sworn to this ..... day of ....., A.D. 18..., before me.

THOMAS KILVERT,
Commissioner for Nevada, in New York.

When any papers or exhibits are produced and proved, they must be annexed to the depositions in which they are referred to, and be subscribed by the witness, and be endorsed by the acting commissioner in this manner:

At the execution of a commission for the examination of witnesses between ....., plaintiff, and ....., defendant, this paper writing was produced and sworn to by ....., and by him deposed unto at the time of his examination before me.

THOMAS KILVERT,
Commissioner.

The acting commissioners will sign their names to each half sheet of the depositions and exhibits.

If an interpreter is employed, one of the commissioners will administer to him the following oath, and certify thereto:

You do solemnly swear, that you will truly and faithfully interpret the oath and interrogatories to be administered to ...., a witness now to be examined, out of the English language into the German (or other) language, and that you will truly and faithfully interpret the answers of the said ..... thereto, out of the German language into the English language.

Let the deposition be subscribed by the interpreter, as well as by the witness, and certified by the acting commissioner as follows:

Examination taken, reduced to writing, subscribed by the witness, and by the sworn interpreter, and sworn to by the witness, this ..... day of ....., A. D 18....., before me.

THOMAS KILVERT,
Commissioner.

The commissioner will make return on the back of the commission by endorsement, thus:

The execution of this commission appears in certain schedules hereunto annexed.

THOMAS KILVERT,
Commissioner.

The depositions and exhibits (if any) shall be annexed to the commission, and then the commission, the directions, the interrogatories, cross-interrogatories, depositions and exhibits, must be folded into a packet and bound with tapes. The acting commissioners are to set their seals at the several meetings or crossings of the tape, endorse their names on the outside, and direct it thus:

To ...., Esq., clerk of the court at ..... county, Nevada.

When the commission is thus executed, made up and directed, it must be returned in the manner specified in the direction on the commission, if there be any.

Where there is no direction on the commission specifying the manner in which it is to be returned, the acting commissioner must then either deliver it to the court in person, or else forward it by some person coming to this place, and who must, upon his arrival, be able to make oath before one of the judges or the clerk of the court, That he received the same from the hands of [Thomas Kilvert,] one of the commissioners, and that it had not been opened or altered since he so received it.

When the commission is returned by mail, it is to be deposited by one of the acting commissioners in the nearest post office, he making the following endorsement thereon:

Deposited in the post office at [New York,] this ..... day of ....., 18....., by me,

THOMAS KILVERT,
Commissioner.

When the commission is to be returned by a vessel, it is to be deposited by one of the acting commissioners in the letter-bag of such vessel, and the following endorsement written thereon:

Deposited in the letter-bag of the [barque .....,] now lying at ....., and bound for the port of [New York,] this ..... day of ....., 18....., by me,

THOMAS KILVERT,
Commissioner.

The commissioners should follow the foregoing instructions very carefully, as the execution of the commission may be vitiated by the smallest variance.

When the commission is returned by an agent, let him be instructed to call, upon his arrival at this place, on ....., who will direct him as to its delivery.

Deeds, Mortgages, &c., Acknowledgment of.

Deeds must be acknowledged by the grantor. If within this State, before a justice, notary public, or a commissioner; if in a foreign country, before a minister, or a consul of the United States, signed and sealed by the grantor, attested by two witnesses, and recorded in full in the office of the register of deeds in the county in which the lands are situated. The wife is not required to make a separate acknowledgment, but when she possesses the title, she must join with her husband in the acknowledgment, and her name inserted in the certificate with his.

The official character of the person taking the acknowledgment, must be certified to in the same manner as that of persons taking depositions.

Certificate of Acknowledgment by Husband and Wife.

State of [New York,] } ss.
County of [New York.] }

Personally appeared the above named ..... and ..... his wife, and acknowledged the foregoing instrument to be their voluntary act and deed. Before me this ..... day of ..... A. D. 18.....

THOMAS KILVERT,

[L. S.] Commissioner for New Hampshire, in New York.

Proof by a subscribing witness will not be admitted in evidence, unless taken in the usual form of a deposition, and upon due notice.

Depositions, Instructions for taking.

Depositions may be taken in all civil causes and used at the trial, unless the opposite party procures the witness to attend, upon a notice signed by a justice or a notary, stating the day, hour, and place of taking, three days before the taking, when the parties reside within ten miles of the place of taking, and one day's additional notice for every twenty miles: Provided, That twenty days' notice shall be sufficient in all cases, excluding Sundays, when the notice is served less than seven days before the taking.

Depositions in this State may be taken by any justice, or notary public. If taken out of this State, before any commissioner appointed by the governor of this State, to take acknowledgments, &c., or before any judge or justice of the peace, or a notary public. Where a deposition is taken out of this State, the official character of the person before whom it is taken, must be duly certified by some clerk of a court of record, under its seal, or by the secretary of State, under seal of the State, which certificate must be annexed to the caption. If the opposite party is residing without the State, and twenty miles or more from the place of caption, or of the party desiring to take the deposition, the notice of the taking may be served on the attorney of such party.

A person disqualified to act as a juror on the trial of the cause, cannot write the testimony of the witness, or act as magistrate in the taking of the same. The witness must sign the deposition, and make oath that it contains the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth, concerning the cause for which it was taken. The officer taking the deposition must annex to it the caption and certificate as follows:

NEW JERSEY.

Deeds, Mortgages, &c., Acknowledgment of.

To entitle a deed or other instrument of writing, affecting or conveying any interest in realty, to be read in evidence, or to be recorded, it must be acknowledged by the party executing it, or must be proved by a subscribing witness.

It is required by the laws of this State that the person making the acknowledgment should be personally known to the commissioner, or that his identity should be proved by a witness.

If the instrument is proved by a subscribing witness thereto, such witness must be known personally to the commissioner, or his identity must be proved by the oath of another.

When one of the parties is a married woman, her deed is not effectual without a personal acknowledgment before the commissioner, upon a private examination apart from her husband.

The name and place of residence of every witness examined should be stated in the certificate, with the substance of his testimony.

It is necessary to comply strictly with these instructions and forms, as the least variance may cause all the labor to be lost.

Acknowledgments may be taken before the chancellor of this State, or one of the justices of the Supreme Court, one of the masters in chancery, one of the judges of the Court of Common Pleas, or a commissioner appointed to take acknowledgment or proof of deeds.

If the acknowledgment or proof be taken without this State, and within the United States, for a deed of land lying within this State, it must be made before and certified by the chief justice, or an associate justice of the Supreme Court of the United States, or any judge or justice of the Supreme or Superior Court of any State, Territory, or district, mayor or other chief magistrate of any town incorporate, duly certified under the seal of such town, or before any judge or justice of any District or Circuit Court, Court of Common Pleas, chancellor of the State, district, or Territory, or by a commissioner appointed by the governor of this State for that purpose: Provided, That where the said acknowledgment or proof is made before any judge of a Court of Common Pleas, in such State, etc. Also any person authorized to take acknowledgments in any other State, may take them for the parties residing therein: Provided, That such acknowledgment shall in other respects be in conformity to the laws of this State, and that the certificate thereof shall be accompanied by a certificate, under the seal of such State, or under the seal of the Circuit or other court of the county in which it shall be made, that the person before whom such acknowledgment was taken was such officer as in and by his certificate is claimed.

Deeds, Recording of.

By an act respecting conveyancing, approved April 15th, 1846, sect. 18, it is provided that "every deed or conveyance of or for any lands, tenements, or hereditaments, to any purchaser of the same, which shall have been made and executed since the first day of January, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and twenty-one, or which shall hereafter be made and executed, shall be void and of no effect against a subsequent judgment creditor, or bona fide purchaser, or mortgager for a valuable consideration, not having notice thereof, unless such deed or conveyance shall be acknowledged, or proved and recorded, or lodged for that purpose with the clerk of the Court of Common Pleas of the county in which such lands, tenements, or hereditaments are situated, within fifteen days after the time of signing, sealing, and delivering the same: Provided, nevertheless, That such deed or conveyance shall, as between the parties and their heirs, be valid aud operative.

That all leases for estates, in lands and tenements, for a term not less than two years, or for life, being duly signed, and sealed, and acknowledged by the parties thereto, may be recorded in like manner as deeds are now recorded.

Depositions, Form of taking.

Depositions of witnesses residing out of New Jersey may be taken de bene esse when a civil cause is pending in any court of New Jersey, by any chancellor, judge of a Supreme, Circuit, or District Court, commissioner appointed by the governor of New Jersey to take acknowledgments and proofs of deeds residing in the State where such witness is, or a commissioner appointed by the court in which such suit is pending. Such testimony is to be taken on oath or affirmation previously administered, and upon interrogations then and there put by the parties, or either of them, or by any person authorized on their behalf, and such interrogatories and answers reduced to writing by the officer taking such testimony, and subscribed by the deponent in his presence.

The officer taking such testimony must first take and subscribe an oath or affirmation to fairly and impartially take the same, before some person lawfully authorized to administer oaths in the State, Territory, or Kingdom where such officer resides.

The testimony must be certified, sealed up, endorsed, directed, and forwarded to the judge of the court wherein the cause is pending, and placed by him in the post-office, certifying on outside of envelope the time when and the post-office in which the same may be so placed.

Deeds, Mortgages, &c., Acknowledgment of.

The grantor, or his agent, must subscribe and seal every conveyance of a fee or a freehold estate made by him. If prior to its delivery it is not duly acknowledged, its execution and delivery must be attested by at least one witness; when it is not so attested, it has no effect against a purchaser or encumbrancer until acknowledged as aforesaid. The effect of a conveyance begins with its delivery.

When any married woman, not residing in this State, shall join with her husband in any conveyance of any real estate, situated within this State, the conveyance shall have the same effect as if she were sole; and the acknowledgment or proof of the execution of such conveyance by her may be the same as if she were sole.

To entitle a conveyance to be recorded in the clerk's office, it should be acknowledged by the grantor or proved by a subscribing witness thereto, before an officer authorized to take such acknowledgment or proof.

Digitized by Google

No estate of a married woman shall pass by any conveyance purporting to have been executed by her, unless she shall acknowledge before the proper officer on a private examination, apart from her husband, that she executed such conveyance freely and without any fear or compulsion of her husband.

In all cases the certificate of acknowledgment or proof must show that the officers taking the same, knew or had satisfactory proof, that the person who made such acknowledgment or proof, was the identical person described in, and who executed the instrument, or a subscribing witness thereto.

The following officers are authorized to take acknowledgments or proofs within this State: judges of courts of record within the jurisdiction of their respective courts, county judges, surrogates, notaries public, and justices of the peace within their counties, mayors, recorders, and commissioners of deeds of cities within their respective cities. When taken without the State, before judges of United States courts, judges of the Supreme, Circuit, or Superior Courts of any other State or Territory, at a place within the jurisdiction of their courts; commissioners appointed by the governor of this State, to reside in other States, whose certificate must state the day in which, and the city, town, and county within which such proof and acknowledgment was taken; or before the mayor of any city, or any other officer authorized by the laws of this State to take such proof or acknowledgment, to whose certificate must be attached a certificate in the following form:

Depositions, Instructions for taking.

Whenever a default is taken, or an issue of fact enjoined in any cause or proceeding in a court of record, a commission may be issued by order of the court, or a judge thereof in vacation, to take the deposition of the witnesses named in the commission, in answer to the interrogatories annexed to the commission. Any male person of twenty-one years of age and of sound mind, may be authorized to take the deposition. It is customary, however, to issue the commission to an attorney. Printed instructions are usually sent. The interrogatories and cross-interrogatories are either settled by consent of the parties to the action, or by order of the judge.

All of the commissioners named must have notice of the time and place of executing the commission; and if either of them are absent or do not act, their reasons for not acting and the fact of their being notified, or could not be notified, should be stated.

The commission must be executed by ....., the commissioner named therein.

The acting commissioner will examine the witnesses separately, after publicly administering to them the following oath or affirmation:

"You do swear, that the answers which shall be given by you to the interrogatories proposed to you, shall be the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth, so help you God."

The oath shall be administered (except in the cases hereinafter mentioned), by the witness laying his hand upon and kissing the Gospels.

But should the witness desire it, he may be sworn in the following form:

"You do swear in the presence of the ever-living God," and while so swearing, he may or may not hold up his hand, at his discretion.

Or if the witness declares that he has conscientious scruples against taking such an oath, or swearing in any form, he can affirm in the following manner: "You do solemnly, sincerely, and truly declare and affirm," omitting the words "so help you God."

Commissioner, 137 Broadway, New York.

NORTH CAROLINA.

Deeds, Mortgages, &c., Acknowledgment of.

Deeds or other instruments in writing by which any interest in real estate is conveyed or effected, excepting leases not having more than three years to run, must be filed for probate, or a certified probate thereof must be exhibited before the judge of any county in the following manner:

When the grantor or maker, or the subscribing witness are residents of this State, the acknowledgment must be made by such grantor or maker, or proved by the oath of such subscribing witness. If the grantor or maker, and subscribing witness are dead, or non-residents of this State, satisfactory proof of the handwriting of each will be sufficient.

The judges of probate, are the clerks of the superior courts; and the several judges of the Supreme Court may also take probate of deeds or other instruments required to be registered.

When the grantor or maker, and the subscribing witness of any deed or other instrument of writing, conveying lands lying within this State, are non-residents of this State, but reside in the United States; the probate judge having jurisdiction, shall issue under the seal of his court, a commission to a commissioner at the place of residence of such grantor, maker or witness giving authority to take the acknowledgment of the parties to the deed, or the examination on oath of the witness thereto, touching the execution thereof. The proceedings of the commissioner so authorized being returned to the probate judge, who issued the same, he may adjudge that such deed or other instrument is duly acknowledged or proved, and may order it to be registered.

Deeds or other instruments may be acknowledged and probated before any commissioner of affidavits appointed by the governor of this State, to reside in any of the United States, Territories, or District of Columbia. When the parties making such deed or instrument reside without the United States, the acknowledgment or probate may be made before any ambassador, minister, consul or commercial agent of the United States, and where such proof or acknowledgment is certified under the seal of such officer, and the same is exhibited before the probate judge having jurisdiction, he shall adjudge that such deed or other instrument shall be recorded where necessary.

When a deed or other instrument affects the estate of a married woman, it must be acknowledged and proved jointly by husband and wife, and she must be examined separate and apart from her husband, touching her voluntary assent thereto. When the wife resides in some other State, her acknowledgment must be made before a commissioner appointed by the probate judge having jurisdiction, or a commissioner of affidavits for the State of North Carolina, appointed by the governor thereof, for the State in which the wife resides; and a certificate of such acknowledgment or examination must be returned to the probate judge of the proper county.

Certificate of Acknowledgment by Husband and Wife.

Depositions, Instructions for taking.

Depositions may be taken de bene esse in all civil actions, and special proceedings in the Superior Courts, and all proceedings before judges of probate, in the following manner:

The party who desires the deposition of a witness, must notify the adverse parties that he will at a certain place, and before some person named, take the testimony of one or more witnesses, whom he shall name and describe by their residences if they are known by him, to be read on the trial of a certain action (to be described by the names of the plaintiffs and defendants), then pending in a described court, and that the interrogatories which he will put to the witness, are filed in the office of the clerk of the Superior Court in which said action is pending.

This notice should be served on the parties or their attorneys; and it may be given and depositions taken at any time after the summons is issued.

The adverse parties notified shall have five days (exclusive of the day of the service of notice) to file cross-interrogatories, and may object to the commissioner named, or require of the clerk, that another commissioner named by them shall be associated with the one named by the adverse party.

The clerk shall always allow the motion to associate another commissioner, but he may reject any commissioner that may be named by either party, and if they cannot agree upon one or more commissioners, the clerk shall appoint two impartial and competent persons to act as commissioners to take the depositions. When three days of the time for the parties' appearance has expired, proof of the service of the notice having been given, the clerk shall send to the commissioners agreed upon, all interrogatories which may be filed, if any.

The commissioners shall cause the witnesses whose depositions are to be taken, to come before them at such time and place as they may designate, and examine them under oath upon all the interrogatories and cross-interrogatories, accompanying the commission, giving all they know of the cause or action for which their testimony is taken. The evidence shall be reduced to writing by them, the commissioners returning the interrogatories, and the evidence in writing, together with a certificate under their hands and seals stating when, where, and how the commission has been executed, inclosed and sealed in an envelope, with the name of the case endorsed thereon, and directed to the clerk of the ..... Court of ..... county, at ...., county of ....., North Carolina. The return is to be made as directed in the commission, and on or before the time agreed upon by the parties or adjudged by the clerk of the court.

The commission may be directed to any one of the judges of any court of record, or to any commissioner for the State of North Caolina, in the State or county in which it is to be executed, or any person authorized by the laws of the State or county to administer an oath, or by consent of parties to any person whatever; and if it shall appear to the clerk, that in the place where the commission is to be executed, it will be inconvenient to obtain the services of any fit and competent person authorized by the laws of the State or county to administer an oath, he may direct the commission to any two persons of supposed honesty and intelligence.

Each deposition so taken and returned, may be read on the trial of the action or proceeding in the following cases:

When the witness dies or becomes insane since the deposition was taken; if he is a resident of a foreign county or another State, or cannot be present at the trial; or in case of imprisonment in this or another State; or when he is so sick and infirm that he is unable to attend court without danger to his life and health; or if he be President of the United States, or the head of any department of the Federal government, or a judge of any Circuit or District Court of the United States, and the trial shall take place during a session of his court; or if he be the governor of this State, or the head of any department of the State government, or the president of the university of this State; or if he be a justice of the Supreme Court; a judge of the Superior Court; and the trial shall take place during a session of his court; or if he be a member of Congress of the United States, or of the General Assembly of the State; and the trial shall take place during a session of the body of which he is a member; or if he has been duly summoned, and at the time of the trial is temporarily absent from the State, without the procurement or consent of the party offering his testimony, and is not likely to return during the term: Provided, That in such a case it shall be discretionary with the judge on motion before the trial has commenced, either to admit the deposition or to refuse it, or postpone the trial on such terms as may seem just.

When the depositions are to be taken before a justice out of the county they may be taken in the same manner as required in actions pending in the Superior Court.

Deeds, Mortgages, &c., Acknowledgment of.

Deeds and other instruments of writing affecting the conveying of any interest in real estate, must be acknowledged in this State, by a judge of the Supreme, or Common Pleas Court, a justice of the peace, notary public, mayor, or other presiding officer of an incorporated city or town, and such acknowledgment must be certified by the officer before whom it is taken, on the same sheet with the instrument, signed and sealed by the grantors, in the presence of two witnesses, who must sign their attestation, and, when the wife also executes, the officer must further certify that she was examined separate and apart from her husband, and the contents of such instrument read, or otherwise made known to her, and that she declared upon such examination, that she did voluntarily sign, seal, and acknowledge the same, and was still satisfied therewith.

When executed, acknowledged and proved out of this State, in accordance with the laws of the place where executed, or in accordance with the laws of this State, they will be as valid as if executed in this State.

Deeds, &c., Recording of.

Deeds must be recorded within six months after their execution, if not, will be deemed fraudulent against subsequent bona fide purchasers without notice, but if such subsequent purchaser be chargeable with notice, it is the same as to him whether the prior deed be recorded or not.

The recording of a mortgage is its execution, and until it is delivered to the recorder for record, it is considered as not existing, and no notice is given to third persons. The mortgage first delivered for record has priority, and holds the claim, without reference being had to any notice that may have been received of proceedings for the execution of other mortgages.

All deeds and other instruments of writing, for the encumbrance or conveyance of any lands, tenements, or hereditaments, shall be recorded within six months from the date thereof, otherwise they will be considered the same as absolute deeds, but such deeds or instruments of writing may be recorded, after the expiration of the time prescribed, and from the date of such record shall be notice to any subsequent purchaser.

Depositions, Instructions for taking.

Depositions may be taken by a judge, justice, or chancellor of any court of record, justice of the peace, notary public, mayor, or chief magistrate of any town corporate, commissioner appointed by the governor of Ohio, to take depositions, or any person authorized by a special commission, from a court of the State of Ohio. The officer taking the deposition must not be a relative, or attorney of either party, or interested in the event of the action.

The deposition must be written in the presence of the officer taking it, either by the officer or witness, or some disinterested person; and must be subscribed by the witness in the presence of the officer.

To the deposition must be annexed a certificate of the officer taking it, showing:

That the witness was first sworn to testify the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth. That the depositions was reduced to writing, either by the officer the witness, or some disinterested person (giving his name).

That it was written and subscribed in the presence of the officer taking it.

That it was taken at the time and place specified in the notice.

If a deposition be taken by an officer having a seal of office, it is sufficiently authenticated by his signature and official seal. If it be taken by an officer out of the State of Ohio, having no official seal, it must be certified and signed by such officer, and further authenticated by the official certificate and seal of the secretary, or other officer of the State, keeping the great seal thereof, or by the clerk or prothonotary of any court having a seal, attesting to the official character of the officer at the time of taking such deposition.

The notice in pursuance of which the deposition is taken, must be attached to the deposition, and the same sealed up, and endorsed with the title of the cause, and the name of the officer taking the deposition, and by such officer addressed, and transmitted to the clerk of the court in which the action is pending.

The depositions may be taken by stating the facts in narrative form, or in reply to questions first written down.

If there are adjournments, they should be noted by the magistrate, or other officer, from day to day, at the close of the day.

Objections should be entered to witnesses supposed to be interested, and to questions supposed to be illegal. This entry is made on behalf of the party raising the objection, simply by a short note made by the magistrate, or officer taking the depositions.

The depositions should be commenced on the day named, and some portion of a deposition taken on each successive day, Sundays excepted, adjournments being from Saturday to Monday; Sundays and national holidays not being regarded.

When depositions are taken under an agreement, the above instructions will be followed, except where they are modified by the agreement. In such case the agreement will be followed. It should be attached to depositions if sent, and referred to in the caption, as the notice is when taken under a notice.

If taken by interrogatories and cross-interrogatories, under agreement or otherwise, every interrogatory and cross-interrogatory must be put to each witness, and answered so far as he can answer it, and the answer be written down. The deposition must show that each interrogatory and cross-interrogatory was thus put and answered.

The fees for taking the depositions should be taxed, and a memorandum made by whom they were paid.

Caption.

Depositions of sundry witnesses taken before me, [Thomas Kilvert, a commissioner for the State of Ohio, in the county and State aforesaid,] on the ..... day of ....., 18..., between the hours of eight o'clock A.M. and six o'clock P.M., at 137 Broadway, in said county, pursuant to the annexed notice (or agreement, as the case may be), to be read in evidence on behalf of the (plaintiff or defendant, as the case may be), in the said action.

Certificate.

I, [Thomas Kilvert, a commissioner for the State of Ohio, in the State of New York,] do hereby certify that (naming all the witnesses who have testified,) were by me severally sworn to testify the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth, and that the depositions by them respectively subscribed as above set forth, were reduced to writing by myself in the presence of the witnesses respectively, and were respectively subscribed by the said witnesses in my presence, and were taken at the time and place in the annexed notice specified; that I am not counsel, attorney, or relative of either party, or otherwise interested in the event of this suit (if there be adjournments, add) and commenced at the time in the notice specified, and continued by adjournments from day to day, as above stated.

THOMAS KILVERT,

[L. S.] Commissioner for Ohio, in New York.

The whole should be sealed up by the magistrate, the title of the suit endorsed on the outside, the name of the officer taking the same, and "Depositions on behalf," (the party taking the same,) and addressed to the clerk of the Court of ....., at ....., Ohio. Let the magistrate also endorse, "These Depositions sealed up by me," and sign his name to such endorsement.

Depositions are to be used only in the following cases:

If the witness is a non-resident of the county in which the cause is pending, or is sent for trial, by change of venue, or is absent therefrom.

When the witness is unable to attend court, either from age, infirmity, imprisonment, or death.

When the testimony is required upon a motion, or in any other case where the oral examination of a witness is not required.

Either of the parties may commence taking testimony by depositions, at any time after service upon the defendant. Written notice must be given to the adverse party before taking any depositions, specifiying the action or proceeding, the name of the court or tribunal in which it is to be used, and the time and place of taking the same; and where the deposition of a party to the cause is taken, it cannot be used on the part of said party, unless the notice shall also specify that the deposition taken is that of the party. Notice shall be served so as to permit the adverse party time sufficient (Sundays excluded, also the day of service, and one day for preparation), to travel by the usual routes and means of conveyance, to the place named in such notice. The examination may be adjourned from day to day, if so stated in the notice.

The filing of the depositions must be made at least one day before the day of trial.

When the acknowledgment is taken in the military service of the United States, it may be made before any person holding the rank of major, or any higher officer in said service.

Deeds and other instruments of writing, if certified under the hand of the officer taking same in due form, shall not be rendered invalid by reason of such officer neglecting to affix his seal.

Proof may be made by a subscribing witness of the execution of a deed or acknowledgment.

Where acknowledgments are taken before a commissioner of deeds or a notary public, it is not necessary to be certified.

The husband cannot encumber or convey any property belonging to his wife, without her written consent first had and obtained, and duly acknowledged, before an officer duly authorized to take such acknowledgments, that such consent was not the result of coercion on the part of her said husband, but that the same was voluntarily given, and of her own free will.

A deed by a married woman, conveying her separate estate, to which her husband is not a party, is void; and the wife must be of full age.

Depositions, Instructions for taking.

A reasonable notice of the time and place of taking testimony should be given to the witnesses. Interrogatories must be filed at the time of issuing the commission, and a written notice of the rule and of the name of the commissioners, where the witnesses reside out of the State, must be served on the adverse party, at least fifteen days before the commission issues, in order that said party may have time to file cross-interrogatories, or nominate commissioners on his part.

The commission must be executed by the commissioner named therein. Having agreed upon the time and place of meeting, of which reasonable notice should be given to the agent who attends the execution of the commission, that he may collect the witnesses, proceed at the time and place appointed in the following manner:

Draw upon paper preparatory to the examination of the witnesses, the following

Depositions of witnesses produced, sworn (or affirmed), and examined on the ..... day of ....., in the year of our Lord 18....., at the office of [Thomas Kilvert, commissioner, No. 137 Broadway, in the city of New York,] by virtue of a commission issuing from the Court of ....., for ..... county, State of Pennsylvania, to him directed, for the examination, of witnesses in a certain cause depending in said court, wherein .... is plaintiff, and ..... is defendant.

Next administer to the witness about to be examined an oath or affirmation, in the established form of the place, if the same be binding on his conscience; if not, administer such oath or affirmation as may be binding upon his conscience, to make true answers to all such questions as shall be asked, upon the interrogatories annexed to the commission, without favor or affection to either party, and therein to speak the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth. And having demanded from the witness his name, addition or title, and age, draw up in writing his answers to the interrogatories as follows:

..... of the (city of New York,) aged ..... years, or thereabouts, being produced, sworn (or affirmed), and examined on behalf of the plaintiff or defendant (as the case may be), deposeth as follows:

1st. To the first interrogatory on the part of the plaintiff or defendant (as the case may be), he answers as follows, and then set down the answer.

2d. To the second interrogatory on the part of the plaintiff or defendant (as the case may be), he answers as follows, and so on through the rest of the interrogatories until the whole are answered.

The witness must then subscribe his examination with his name, or his mark, if he cannot write, and the acting commissioners must subscribe their names opposite to his signature or mark, for the purpose of identifying it, and at the bottom of every

THOMAS KILVERT,

[L. S.] Commissioner, 137 Broadway, New York.

The commissioner is requested distinctly to observe that every question must be answered by the witness, if it be merely to declare that he is ignorant of the matter inquired of, and that an omission to answer any one will be fatal to the whole examination. He will also bear in mind, that rigid observance of the forms herein prescribed is essential, and that the disregard of any one of them, may render their labor of no effect. If an adjournment should be necessary, the time of such adjournment and reasons therefor shall distinctly be noted and returned.

Having examined all the witnesses produced upon all the interrogatories, bind up the depositions and exhibits together with the commission, some tape passing through and connecting the whole; and then make the following endorsement on the commission:

"The execution of this commission, appears in a certain schedule hereunto annexed," to which subscribe your name. Thus prepared and executed, enclose the same in an envelope, sealed with your seal, your name written across or by the side of the same.

All depositions, whether taken under a rule or commission, must be forwarded directly to the clerk of the court from which the rule or commission issued.

Deeds, Mortgages, &c., Acknowledgment of.

Acknowledgments taken within this State, may be made before any judge, justice of the peace, senator, notary public or town clerk, and recorded, or filed for record in the office of the town clerk of the town where the lands lie. When executed without this State, but within the United States, acknowledgments may be made before any judge, justice of the peace, notary public, or before any commissioner appointed by the governor, and duly qualified thereunto; and if without the United States, by any ambassador, minister, charge d' affaires, consul, vice consul, or commercial agent of the United States, or before any commissioner appointed and qualified according to the laws of this State, in the country in which such deed or instrument is executed

When the grantor refuses to acknowledge a deed or other instrument, he may be compelled by summary proceedings by complaint and warrant. Where he removes to another State, or dies before the acknowledgment is taken, the Supreme Court, or Court of Common Pleas, on proof of signature, may order the deed recorded. When a married man conveys the land, the fee to which is in him, his wife, in order to release her right of dower, may join in the execution of a deed, though it is only necessary for the husband to acknowledge it.

Where the husband and wife being of lawful age are seized of lands, tenements, or other real estate in the right of the wife, they may convey the same by the same deed, or by separate deeds, signed, sealed, delivered and acknowledged by them respectively. The wife shall be examined privily, and apart from her husband, and shall declare to the officer that such acknowledgment is her voluntary act and deed, and that she has no desire to retract the same. If the wife, on such privy examination, shall refuse to make such acknowledgment, the deed or other instrument executed by the husband and the wife as aforesaid shall not operate to convey to the grantee named in such deed or instrument any other or greater estate in the premises described in such deed, than what belongs to the husband.

If such deed, or any deed affecting her right of dower in any estate of her husband during his life, be executed by attorney of the wife, the letter of attorney shall be executed and acknowledged with like formalities as are required in the execution and acknowledgment of a deed by a husband and wife of an estate held in the right of the wife.

A married woman may bar her right of dower in any estate conveyed by her husband, by joining with him in the deed conveying the same, and therein releasing her claim to dower; or by releasing the same by subsequent deed jointly with her husband, or by joining in a deed given by a guardian of her husband.

She may also bar her right of dower in any estate in which the interest of her husband has been before conveyed, by a deed thereof executed by her in the presence of two witnesses, and acknowledged by her after a separate examination and an explanation of the deed to her, in the same manner as is required by law for a conveyance of real estate owned by her in her own right.

during the sitting of the court before which the cause may be pending, unless the same shall have been taken by order of such court.

When depositions are taken without this State, the party causing them to be taken must give notice to the adverse party, or his known attorney, of the time and place appointed for the taking of the same; and such notification issued by any justice or notary in this State, or by the magistrate or commissioner taking such deposition, shall be served such reasonable time previous to the taking of such depositions as will permit the adverse party or his attorney sufficient opportunity to be present in person, or by attorney, and put interrogatories to the deponent, if he think fit.

Each witness, previous to deposing, shall be sworn to testify the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth; and such witness shall subscribe the testimony given by him after the same shall be reduced to writing, which shall be done only by the officer taking the deposition, or by the deponent, in the presence or under the direction of such officer.

The testimony so taken shall be retained by the officer taking it, until the same shall be delivered by him in person to the court for which it is taken, or shall, together with a certificate of its having been taken, be by such officer sealed up and directed to said court, and remain so sealed until opened in court.

SOUTH CAROLINA.

Deeds, Mortgages, &c., Acknowledgment of.

Deeds may be acknowledged before any magistrate by the grantor on proof of their execution by one of the witnesses, and should be recorded immediately in the office of the register of mesne conveyances of the district in which the property is situated. There is a special register in the Charleston district, but in all others the clerk of the circuit court acts as register.

Deeds for South Carolina, executed out of the State, cannot be acknowledged, but the execution must be proved before a commissioner for South Carolina. The grantor of a deed must sign it in the presence of two witnesses, one of whom must go before the commissioner and make the oath given below.

TENNESSEE.

Deeds, Mortgages, &c., Acknowledgment of.

Deeds must be in writing, but a prescribed form is not necessary; neither is it necessary for the wife to join with her husband in the conveyance of realty belonging to him, but both must join where the lands belong to the wife. The code of Tennessee has repealed the limitation on the conveyance of lands known as "the rule in Shelly's Case." It is optional with the parties to register deeds, but where they are not registered, they may be levied upon for the debts of the bargainor. A joint tenancy does not survive to the living tenant. If the grantor resides in the State, the deed shall be acknowledged before the clerk of a county court. When he is a non-resident of this State, but within the United States, the acknowledgment may be taken before any court of record, or clerk of any such court, notary public or commissioner, appointed by the governor of Tennessee for such State. When he is a non-resident of the United States, before a commissioner for Tennessee, in the country where such acknowledgment is taken, a notary public of such country, minister, ambassador, or a consul of the United States, who must certify to such acknowledgment, under his seal of office; if made before a judge, a certificate under his hand is sufficient, when his official character is certified to by the clerk under the seal of the court, or by the governor, under the seal of the State or Territory; if before the clerk of a court of record, must be certified under his seal of office, and his official character certified by the judge.

Depositions.

When the notice is given to the adverse party, it is not necessary to issue a commission to take depositions.

If taken within the State, they may be taken before a justice of the peace, any clerk of the court, mayor of a town or city, and notary public; or if taken out of the State, by a commissioner of deeds, appointed by the governor of this State, to reside therein, judge of a court, or any one appointed by the court. When taken by a notary or commissioner, their official seals must be attached to the certificate. Five days' notice is required, when taken in the county where the suit is pending; when out of the county, as follows: five days for every fifty miles or under; ten days, from fifty to one hundred; fifteen days, from two hundred to two hundred and fifty; twenty days, from two hundred and fifty to five hundred; thirty days, for over five hundred, and if in a foreign country, at such time as the court or the clerk of the court may order. Commissioners may be appointed by the courts to take depositions in other States.

The only evidence of service necessary, is the return of the sheriff or constable that he has served a copy of the notice, or it may be proved by a witness or by affidavit at the trial.

The deponent or officer taking them, must write the depositions, or some one consented to by the parties.

Clerk of Supreme Court of New York County.

It is not necessary to add the seal, though it may be done.

When an instrument of writing, conveying or affecting any real or personal estate, has been signed by husband and wife, she may appear before a court of record, or before the clerk thereof, in his office, and upon an examination separate and apart from her husband, by the judge or clerk of the court, and having such instrument of writing fully explained to her, she should acknowledge the same to be her act, and declare that she executes it voluntarily, and has no desire to retract it; such separate examination, acknowledgment and declaration, shall thereupon be recorded in such court, or in the office of the clerk, or she may appear before two justices, who shall be present together, or a commissioner in chancery, or a notary public within the United States, or before a commissioner appointed by the governor of this State, within the same, or any other officer authorized by the laws of their State, upon such examination, she may acknowledge and declare as follows:

Certificate of Private Examination of a Married Woman.

State of [New York,] } ss.
County of [New York.] }

I, [Thomas Kilvert, a commissioner appointed by the governor of the State of Virginia for said State of New York,] do certify that ....., the wife of ....., whose names are signed to the writing above (or hereto annexed), bearing date on the ..... day of ....., 18....., personally appeared before me in the State aforesaid, and being examined by me, privately and apart from her husband, and having the writing aforesaid fully explained to her, she, the said ....., acknowledged the said writing to be her act, and declared that she had willingly executed the same, and does not wish to retract it.

Given under my hand, this ..... day of ....., 18....

Foreign Deeds, &c., offered in Evidence.

Whenever a deed or power of attorney is executed without the State, the acknowledgment or proof of which is certified so that it may be recorded in accordance with the provisions just quoted, and every insurance policy, charter party, copy of record from any foreign court, or from a register of births and marriages without the United States, if such instrument of writing be attested by a notary public, under his official seal, that it was made, entered, or kept in due form in accordance with the law of the place where it was made, entered, or kept, and that such copy is true, and the official character of such notary be certified by any court of record, or the mayor or other chief magistrate of any county, city, town, or borough, or under the great seal of the State, kingdom, province, island, or colony in which such notary may reside, shall be evidence in any court in this State.

Depositions, Instructions and Forms for taking.

On affidavit that a witness resides out of this State, or is out of it in the service thereof, or of the United States, a commission to take his deposition may be issued by the clerk of the court wherein the case is pending, directed, if the deposition is to be taken out of the State but within the United States, to any commissioner appointed by the governor of this State. * * * * * * * * Such commissioner may administer an oath to the witness, and take and certify the deposition with his official seal annexed; and if he have none, then the genuineness of his signature shall be authenticated by some officer of the same State (Territory or district) under his official seal.—Ch. clxxvi., p. 726, § 30.

Reasonable notice shall be given to the adverse party of the time and place of taking every deposition.—Ibid, § 31.

In any case wherein there has been a judgment, decree, or order, from or to which an appeal, writ of error, or supersedeas has been or might be allowed, a deposition may be taken for any party to such case, or for or against the wife or husband, their personal representative, heirs or devisees, in like manner and by such person as is before prescribed for pending cases.—Ibid, § 34.

Form of Certificate and of Deposition.

In testimony whereof, I hereunto subscribe my name and affix my seal, on the ..... day of ....., 18....., at the place and between the hours specified.

THOMAS KILVERT,

[L. S.] Commissioner for Virginia, in New York.

The depositions are then to be enclosed, and the envelope sealed and directed as follows: To the Clerk of the ..... Court of ..... County, Virginia.

WASHINGTON TERRITORY.

Deeds, Mortgages, &c., Acknowledgment of.

Deeds and other instruments may be acknowledged before any notary public, or county auditor and their deputies. All deeds relating to the property of a married woman, must be executed by the husband and wife, and acknowledged by her.

Deeds, &c., Recording of.

All deeds relating to real estate must be recorded in the office of the county auditor for the county in which such property is situated.

Depositions, Forms and Intructions for taking.

Depositions may be taken when the witness resides out of the district and more than twenty miles from the place of trial; is about to leave the district, and go more than twenty miles from the place of trial, and there is a probability that he will continue absent when the testimony is required; and when the witness is sick, infirm or aged, as to make it probable that he will not be able to attend at the trial.

Either party may have the deposition of a witness taken in this territory, before any judge of the District Court, justice of the peace, clerk of the Supreme or District Court, mayor of a city, or notary public; on serving on the adverse party or his attorney, previous notice of the time and place of examination. Such notice shall be at least three days, and in addition one day, Sundays excepted, for every ten miles of the distance of the place of examination, from the residence of the person to whom notice is given. The deposition must be written by the officer taking the same, or by the witness, or by some disinterested person, in the presence and under the direction of such officer. When completed it shall be carefully read to or by the witness, corrected if desired, and subscribed by him and certified by the officer substantially as follows:

Territory of Washington, } County of ..... } ss.

I, A. B., justice of the peace, in and for said county (or judge, clerk, etc., as the case may be), do hereby certify that the deposition was taken before me, and reduced to writing by myself (or witness, as the case may be), at ..... in said county, on the ..... day of ..... , 18....., at .... o'clock, in pursuance of notice hereto annexed, that the above named witness, before examination, was sworn (or affirmed) to testify the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth, and that the said deposition was carefully read to (or by) said witness, and then subscribed by him.

Dated at ..... the ..... day of ....., 18.....

A. B., (Justice of the Peace.)

The depositions shall be enclosed in a sealed envelope, by the officer taking the same, and directed to the clerk of the court, arbitrators, referee or justice of the peace before whom the action is pending, or to such person as the parties in writing may agree upon, and either delivered to the clerk of the court or other person, or transmitted through the mail or by some private conveyance.

Such deposition may be used by either party upon the trial, or other proceedings against any party giving or receiving the notice, subject to all legal exceptions, to the competency or credibility of the witness, or the manner of taking the deposition. But if the parties attend at the examination, no objection to the form of an interrogatory can be made at the trial, unless the same was taken at the time of the examination. It is the duty of the person taking the deposition, to propound to the witness every question proposed by either party, and to note all objections to the form of any interrogatory, and when any interrogatory is objected to on account of form, unless the form is amended and the objection waived, he shall write after the question and before the answer the words "objected to," and when any witness declines to answer a question on the ground that it will tend to criminate himself, that fact shall also be noted after the question is written down. The deposition may be taken in the form of a narrative, or by question and answer, or partly in either form, as either party present at the examination shall require. When taken by question and answer, the officer shall first write down the question and then the answer, as nearly as may be in the language of the witness, but when the deposition is read to the witness previous to signing it, he shall be permitted to amend his answer to any question or any part of his deposition; such amendment, however, unless both parties shall otherwise agree, shall not be made by way of interlining or erasing, but shall be added at the end of the deposition, under the title "amendment by the witness," and such amendment shall intelligibly refer to the part so amended.

The testimony of a witness out of the territory, but residing within one hundred miles of holding courts, may be taken under a notice in the same manner, and before officers of the like character as depositions are taken in this territory, and all such depositions must be governed by the same rules as if taken in the territory.

In other cases the deposition of a witness out of the territory, must be taken upon a commission issued by the clerk, under the seal of the court, upon an order of the court or a judge thereof, or any judges of the Supreme Court, which order may be made on the application of either party, upon giving to the adverse party or his attorney, ten days' previous notice in writing, together with a copy of the interrogatories intended to put to such witness. At the time and place named in the notice, the parties or their attorneys may attend, and the party notified may present his cross-interrogatories, if any he have, and failing so to do, shall be deemed to have waived the cross-examination. If the court be not in session, or the judge in said notice named be unable to attend, the parties may appear before the clerk of the court, who shall note any and all objections to such interrogatories and cross-interrogatories by writing the words "objected to," after such interrogatories. The clerk shall issue the commission annexing thereto a copy of interrogatories, cross-interrogatories, and the objections, and the commissioners taking said deposition must note both questions and answers as "objected to," when the objection has been noted as aforesaid, and the parties at the trial shall have full benefit of said objections taken at the time of the issue of said commission. It shall be issued to a person or persons not exceeding three in number, agreed upon by the parties or their attorneys; or if they do not agree to any judge, justice of the peace, notary public, or other competent person selected by the court or judge, granting the order for the commission.

Such proper interrogatories as well on the part of the plaintiff, as on the part of the defendent, as the respective parties may prepare, to be settled if they disagree as to form, by the court or judge thereof, granting the order for the commission, shall be annexed to the commission; or where the parties agree, the examination may be without written interrogatories. Said agreement to be in writing and appended to the commission.

The commission must authorize the commissioners to administer an oath to the witness, and take his deposition in answer to the several interrogatories annexed to such commission; or when the examination is to be without interrogatories in respect to the question in dispute, to certify the deposition to the court, and to direct it to the clerk of the court, or such other person designated or agreed upon, and forward it to him by mail or other usual channel of conveyance.

WEST VIRGINIA.

Deeds, Mortgages, &c., Acknowledgment of.

Acknowledgment of deeds for record in this State, may be taken before a justice, notary public, recorder, prothonotary, or clerk of any court within the United States, or a commissioner appointed within the same by the governor of this State, who shall certify the same, and if he be without this State, shall authenticate such certificate by his official seal annexed. Such certificate shall be to the following effect:

State of [New York,] } ss.
County of [New York.] }

I, [Thomas Kilvert,] a commissioner appointed by the governor of the State of West Virginia for the said State of [New York,] do certify, that ....., whose name is signed to the writing above, bearing date on the ..... day of....., A. D. 18 ....., has this day acknowledged the same before me.

Given under my hand, this ..... day of ....., A. D. 18.....

THOMAS KILVERT.

[L. S.] Commissioner for West Virginia, in New York.

And if there be an acknowledgment by a married woman, add:

And I further certify that ....., wife of ....., whose names are signed to the writing aforesaid, personally appeared before me, in my county aforesaid, and being examined by me, privately and apart from her husband, and having the said writing fully explained to her, she, the said ....., acknowledged the said writing to be her act, and declared that she had willingly executed the same, and does not wish to retract it.

Given under my hand, &c.

The privy examination of a married woman is required. Deeds and other instruments of like character, must be acknowledged before they are admitted to record. Instruments must be recorded within ninety days after their execution.

Depositions, Instructions for taking.

In any pending case the deposition of a witness, whether a party to the suit or not, may, without any commission, be taken in or out of this State by a justice, notary public, or by a commissioner in chancery, and if certified under his hand, may be received without proof of the signature of such certificate.

Commissioners in other States, appointed by the governor of this State, are also authorized to take depositions within the State, Territory, or district, for which any such commissioner is appointed, to be used in this State; and no special commission for such deposition is necessary.

Reasonable notice must be given to the adverse party of the time and place of taking every deposition.

It is further provided, that on affidavit that a witness resides out of this State, or is out of it in the service thereof, or of the United States, his deposition may be taken by or before any commissioner appointed by the governor of this State, or any justice, notary public, or other officer authorized to take depositions in the State wherein the witness may be, or if the deposition is to be taken in a foreign country by or before such commissioner or commissioners as may be agreed upon by the parties, or appointed by the court, or if there be none such, by or before any American minister plenipotentiary, charge d' affaires, consul general, vice consul, or commercial agent appointed by the government of the United States, or by or before the mayor or other chief magistrate of any city, town, or corporation in such country, or any notary public therein. Any person or persons taking such depositions may administer an oath to the witness, and take and certify the deposition with his official seal annexed, and

By the laws of Wisconsin all deeds, conveyances, etc., relating to real estate, in order to entitle them to be used or recorded in this State, must be executed under seal, which may be a scroll, or a wafer, or wax. They must also be executed in the presence of two witnesses, who shall subscribe their names thereto, and must be acknowledged by the party executing the same, or proved by a subscribing witness.

Where a married woman joins with her husband in any deed or conveyance of real estate, or where she alone, without joining her husband, executes any release of dower, she is barred of and from all claim of dower, and all other right and title therein, the same as if she were sole; and her acknowledgment and proof thereof may be the same as if she were sole.

Depositions, Forms and Instructions for taking.

Depositions of witnesses residing within the State, may be taken when the witness resides thirty miles from the place of trial, is about to leave the State, is sick, infirm, or aged. The deposition may be taken before a justice or court commissioner; twenty-four hours' notice, and one day for every twenty miles of travel being given.

When it is desired to take the deposition of witnesses, without the State, the plaintiff before issue joined, may, on filing an affidavit in the clerk's office, setting forth the facts of the case and the necessity of the testimony required, enter a common rule for a commission to any suitable person. The plaintiff, however, must serve a copy of the affidavit, with interrogatories, on the defendant or his attorney; five days being allowed for cross-interrogatories.

All the commissioners named in the commission should have notice of the time and place of executing it; and if any of them do not act, let the fact that they were notified, or could not be notified, and the reasons for their not acting, be stated.

The acting commissioner must examine the witnesses separately, after publicly administering to them the following oath or affirmation:

You do swear (or affirm), that the answers which shall be given by you to the interrogatories proposed to you, shall be the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth (so help you God).

The general style or title of the deposition must be drawn up in the following manner:

examined on the part of the plaintiff, doth depose and say, as follows, viz.: First.—To the first interrogatory he saith (insert witness' answer). Second.—To the second interrogatory he saith, etc., and so on throughout.

If he cannot answer, let him say he knoweth not.

If there be any cross-interrogatories, the witness will go on thus: First.—To the first cross-interrogatory he saith, etc., and so on throughout.

When the witness has finished his deposition, let him subscribe it, and the acting commissioner will certify, as follows:

JUDICIARY, JURISDICTION, AND TIME AND PLACE OF HOLDING UNITED STATES COURTS, WITH STATES AND COUNTIES COMPOSING UNITED STATES DISTRICTS, TOGETHER WITH THE RULES OF THE SUPREME COURT AND RULES OF PRACTICE FOR THE CIRCUIT AND DISTRICT COURTS IN EQUITY AND ADMIRALTY CASES. REVISED AND CORRECTED TO 1875.

JUDICIARY.

SUPREME COURT OF THE UNITED STATES.

CHIEF JUSTICE.

MORRISON R. WAITE, Washington, D. C.

ASSOCIATE JUSTICES.

NATHAN CLIFFORD, Portland, Me.
WARD HUNT, UTICA, N. Y.

NOAH H. SWAYNE, Columbus, Ohio.
DAVID DAVIS, Bloomington, Ill.
SAMUEL F. MILLER, Keokuk, Iowa.
STEPHEN J. FIELD, San Francisco, Cal.

JURISDICTION.—The Supreme Court has exclusive jurisdiction of all controversies of a civil nature where a State is a party, except between a State and its citizens; and except, also, between a State and citizens of other States, or aliens, in which latter case it has original, but not exclusive, jurisdiction. It has exclusively all such jurisdiction of suits or proceedings against ambassadors, or other public ministers, or their domestics, or domestic servants, as a court of law can have or exercise consistently with the Laws of Nations; and original, but not exclusive, jurisdiction of all suits brought by ambassadors, or other public ministers, or in which a consul or vice-consul is a party. The trial of issues in fact in the Supreme Court, in all actions at law against citizens of the United States, is by jury. The Supreme Court has also appellate jurisdiction from the Circuit Courts, and courts of the several States, in cases specially provided for. It has also power to issue writs of prohibition to the District Courts, when proceeding as Courts of Admiralty and Maritime Jurisdiction; and writs of mandamus, in cases warranted by the principles and usages of law, to any courts appointed, or persons holding office, under the authority of the United States.

TERMS OF COURT.—The Supreme Court of the United States is held at Washington, commencing on the second Monday in October, annually.

CIRCUIT COURTS OF THE UNITED STATES,

WITH THE JUSTICES ASSIGNED.

The United States are divided into nine Judicial Circuits. "The Circuit Courts in each Circuit shall be held by the Justice of the Supreme Court, allotted to the Circuit or by the Circuit Judge of the Circuit, or by the District Judge of the District sitting alone, or by the Justice of the Supreme Court and Circuit Judge sitting together."

1st Circuit.	Maine, New Hampshire, Massachusetts, and Rhode Island,	Justice NATHAN CLIFFORD.
2nd "	Connecticut, New York, and Vermont,	Justice WARD HUNT.
3d "	New Jersey, Pennsylvania, and Delaware,	Justice WILLIAM STRONG.

7th "	Indiana, Illinois, and Wisconsin,	Justice David Davis.
8th "	Iowa, Missouri, Kansas, and Arkansas,	Justice Samuel F. Miller.
9th "	California, Nevada, and Oregon,	Justice Stephen J. Field.

Circuit Judges.

1st Circuit.	George F. Shepley, Portland, Maine.	6th Circuit.	H. H. Emmons, Detroit, Mich.
2d "	Lewis B. Woodruff, New York City.	7th "	Thomas Drummond, Chicago, Ill.
3d "	William McKennan, Washington, Pa.	8th "	John F. Dillon, Davenport, Iowa.
4th "	Hugh L. Bond, Baltimore, Md.	9th "	Lorenzo Sawyer, San Francisco, Cal.
5th "	William B. Woods, Montgomery, Ala.

Jurisdiction.—The Circuit Courts have original cognizance concurrent with the courts of the several States of all suits of a civil nature at common law or in equity, where the matter in dispute exceeds, exclusive of costs, the sum or value of $500, and the United States are plaintiffs or petitioners, or an alien is a party, or the suit is between a citizen of the State where the suit is brought, and a citizen of another State. This court has exclusive cognizance of all crimes and offences cognizable under the authority of the United States, and concurrent jurisdiction with the District Courts of the crimes and offences cognizable therein. But no person can be arrested in one district for trial in another, in any civil action before a Circuit or District Court. Neither can any civil suit be brought before either of said courts against an inhabitant of the United States by any original process in any other district than that whereof he is an inhabitant, or in which he shall be found at the time of serving the writ; nor can any District or Circuit Court have cognizance of any suit to recover the contents of any promissory note or other chose in action in favor of an assignee, unless a suit have been prosecuted in such court to recover the said contents if no assignment had been made, except in cases of foreign bills of exchange. The Circuit Courts have also appellate jurisdiction from the District Courts under certain regulations and restrictions. The jurisdiction of this court also extends to all cases in law or equity, arising under the revenue laws of the United States, for which other provisions are not already made by law; also if any person receives any injury to his person or property for or on account of any act by him done, under any law of the United States, for the protection of the revenue or the collection of duties on imports, he shall be entitled to maintain suit for damages therefor in the Circuit Court of the United States in the district wherein the party doing the injury resides or may be found.

Terms of Court.—For times of holding Circuit Courts, see the several States in which they are holden.

DISTRICT COURTS OF THE UNITED STATES.

Judges.—For names of judges, see the several States in which they hold their courts.

Jurisdiction.—The District Courts of the United States have (exclusively of the courts of the several States) cognizance of all crimes and offences that are cognizable under the authority of the United States, committed within their respective districts, or upon the high seas, where no other punishment than whipping (not exceeding thirty stripes), a fine not exceeding $100, or a term of imprisonment not exceeding six months is to be inflicted. It has also exclusive original cognizance of all civil causes of admiralty and maritime jurisdiction, including all seizures under laws of imposts, navigation, or trade of the United States, where the seizures are made, on waters which are navigable from the sea by vessels of ten or more tons burden, within their respective districts, as well as upon the high seas; saving to suitors, in all cases, the right of a common law remedy, where the common law is competent to give it. It has also exclusive original cognizance of all seizures on land, or other waters than as aforesaid made, and of all suits for penalties and forfeitures incurred, under the laws of the United States. It has also cognizance, concurrent with the courts of the several States, or the Circuit Courts, as the case may be, of all causes where an alien sues for a tort only in violation of the Law of Nations or a treaty of the United States. It has also cognizance (concurrent as last mentioned), of all suits at common law where the United States sue, and the matter in dispute amounts (exclusive of costs) to the sum or value of $100. It has also jurisdiction, exclusively of the courts of the several States, of all suits against consuls or vice-consuls, except for offences above the description aforesaid. The trial of issues in fact, in the District Courts, in all causes, except civil causes of admiralty and maritime jurisdiction, is by jury.

But no person can be arrested in one district for trial in another, in any civil action before a circuit or district court. Neither can any civil suit be brought before either of the said courts against an inhabitant of the United States, by any original process in any other district than that whereof he is an inhabitant, or in which he is found at the time of serving the writ; nor can any district or circuit court have cognizance of any suit to recover the contents of any promissory note or other chose in action in favor of an assignee, unless a suit might have been prosecuted in such court to recover the said contents if no assignment had been made, except in cases of foreign bills of exchange. The circuit court has also appellate jurisdiction from the district courts under certain regulations and restrictions.

The District Court of the United States has also cognizance (concurrent with the courts and magistrates of the several States, and the Circuit Courts of the United States) of all suits at common law, where the United States, or any officer thereof, under the authority of any act of Congress, shall sue, although the debt, claim, or other matter in dispute, shall not amount to $100.

The District Courts of the United States (in districts where no circuit courts are held) has cognizance of all cases arising under an act of Congress, approved May 15th, 1820, entitled "An act to continue in force an act to protect the commerce of the United States, and punish the crime of piracy, and also to make further provisions for punishing the crime of piracy;" and has the same power and jurisdiction therein as the Circuit Courts of the United States under the same act.

This court has also concurrent jurisdiction with the circuit courts of all crimes and offences against the United States, the punishment of which is not capital. And in such of the districts where the business of the court may require it to be done for the purposes of justice, and to prevent undue expenses and delays in the trial of criminal causes, this court can hold monthly adjournments of the regular terms thereof for the trial and hearing of such causes.

The District Courts have also been constituted Courts of Bankruptcy, and have original jurisdiction in their respective districts in all matters and proceedings in bankruptcy.

TERMS OF COURT.—For the times of holding the several District Courts of the United States, see the several States in which they are holden.

RULES

SUPREME COURT OF THE UNITED STATES.

No. 1.

CLERK.

The clerk of this court shall reside and keep the office at the seat of the National Government, and he shall not practice, either as an attorney or counsellor, in this court, or any other court, while he shall continue to be clerk of this court.

The clerk shall not permit any original record or paper to be taken from the court-room, or from the office, without an order from the court.

No. 2.

ATTORNEYS.

It shall be requisite to the admission of attorneys or counsellors, to practice in this court, that they shall have been such for three years past in the supreme courts of the States to which they respectively belong, and that their private and professional character shall appear to be fair.

They shall respectively take and subscribe the following oath or affirmation, viz.:

I, —— ——, do solemnly swear (or affirm, as the case may be), that I will demean myself, as an attorney and counsellor of this court, uprightly, and according to law; and that I will support the Constitution of the United States.

No. 3.

PRACTICE.

This court consider the practice of the courts of king's bench and of chancery, in England, as affording outlines for the practice of this court; and they will, from time to time, make such alterations therein as circumstances may render necessary.

No. 4.

BILL OF EXCEPTIONS.

Hereafter the judges of the circuit and district courts shall not allow any bill of exceptions which shall contain the charge of the court at large to the jury in trials at common law, upon any general exception to the whole of such charge. But the party excepting shall be required to state distinctly the several matters of law in such charge to which he excepts; and such matters of law, and those only, shall be inserted in the bill of exceptions, and allowed by the court.

No. 5.

PROCESS.

All process of this court shall be in the name of the President of the United States.

When process at common law, or in equity, shall issue against a State, the same shall be served on the governor, or chief executive magistrate, and attorney-general of such State.

Process of subpœna, issuing out of this court, in any suit in equity, shall be served on the defendant sixty days before the return-day of the said process; and if the defendant, on such service of the subpœna, shall not appear at the return-day contained therein, the complainant shall be at liberty to proceed ex parte.

No. 6.

MOTIONS.

All motions hereafter made to the court shall be reduced to writing, and shall contain a brief statement of the facts and objects of the motion.

No motion to dismiss, except on special assignment by the court, shall be heard, unless previous notice has been given to the adverse party, or the counsel or attorney of such party.

All motions to dismiss appeals and writs of error, except motions to docket and dismiss under the ninth rule, must be submitted in the first instance on printed briefs or arguments. If the court desires further argument on that subject it will be ordered in connection with the hearing on the merits. The party moving to dismiss shall serve notice of the motion, with a copy of his brief or argument, on the counsel for plaintiff in error or appellant of record in this court, at least three weeks before the time fixed for submitting the motion, in all cases except where the counsel to be notified resides west of the Rocky Mountains, in which case the notice shall be at least thirty days.

Affidavit of the deposit in the mail of the notice and brief to the proper address of the counsel to be served, duly postpaid, at such time as to reach him by due course of mail, the three weeks or thirty days before the time fixed by the notice, will be regarded as prima facie evidence of service on counsel who reside without the District of Columbia. On proof of such service, the motion will be considered, unless, for satisfactory reasons, further time be given by the court to either party.

MOTION DAY.

The court will not hear arguments on Saturday (unless for special cause it shall order to the contrary), but will devote that day to the other business of the court. The motion-day shall be Monday of each week, in lieu of Friday, and motions not required by the rules of the court to be put on the docket shall be entitled to preference immediately after the reading of opinions, if such motions shall be made before the court shall have entered upon the hearing of a cause upon the docket.

No. 7.

LAW LIBRARY.

1. During the session of the court, any gentleman of the bar having a cause on the docket, and wishing to use any book or books in the law library, shall be at liberty, upon application to the clerk of the court, to receive an order to take the same (not exceeding at any one time three) from the library, he being thereby responsible for the due return of the same within a reasonable time, or when required by the clerk. And it shall be the duty of the clerk to keep, in a book for that purpose, a record of all books so delivered, which are to be charged against the party receiving the same. And in case the same shall not be so returned, the party receiving the same shall be responsible for and forfeit and pay twice the value thereof; as also one dollar per day for each day's detention beyond the limited time.

CONFERENCE ROOM.

2. The clerk shall take charge of the books of the court, together with such of the duplicate law-books as Congress may direct to be transferred to the court, and arrange them in the conference room, which he shall have fitted up in a proper manner; and he shall not permit such books to be taken therefrom by any one except the judges of the court.

No. 8.

RETURN TO WRIT OF ERROR AND RETURN-DAY.

1. The clerk of the court to which any writ of error shall be directed may make return of the same, by transmitting a true copy of the record, and of all proceedings in the cause, under his hand and the seal of the court.

2. In all cases brought to this court, by writ of error or appeal, to review any judgment or decree, the clerk of the court by which such judgment or decree was rendered shall annex to, and transmit with, the record a copy of the opinion or opinions filed in the case.

3. No cause will hereafter be heard until a complete record, containing in itself, without references aliunde, all the papers, exhibits, depositions, and other proceedings which are necessary to the hearing in this court, shall be filed.

4. Whenever it shall be necessary or proper, in the opinion of the presiding judge in any circuit court, or district court, exercising circuit court jurisdiction, that original papers of any kind should be inspected in this court upon appeal or writ of error, such presiding judge may make such rule or order for the safe keeping, transporting, and return of such original papers as to him may seem proper; and this court will receive and consider such original papers in connection with the transcript of the proceedings.

RETURN-DAY.

5. In cases where final judgment is rendered more than thirty days before the first day of the next term of this court, the writ of error and citation, if taken before, must be returnable on the first day of said term, and be served before that day; but in cases where the judgment is rendered less than thirty days before the first day, the writ of error and citation may be made returnable on the third Monday of the said term, and be served before that day.

Digitized by Google

No. 9.

DOCKETING CASES.

1. In all cases where a writ of error or an appeal shall be brought to this court from any judgment or decree rendered thirty days before the commencement of the term, it shall be the duty of the plaintiff in error, or appellant, as the case may be, to docket the cause and file the record thereof with the clerk of this court within the first six days of the term; and if the writ of error or appeal shall be brought from a judgment or decree rendered less than thirty days before the commencement of the term, it shall be the duty of the plaintiff in error or appellant to docket the cause and file the record thereof with the clerk of this court within the first thirty days of the term; and if the plaintiff in error or appellant shall fail to comply with this rule, the defendant in error or appellee may have the case docketed and dismissed, upon producing a certificate from the clerk of the court wherein the judgment or decree was rendered, stating the cause, and certifying that such writ of error or appeal has been duly sued out and allowed. And in no case shall the plaintiff in error or appellant be entitled to docket the cause and file the record after the same shall have been docketed and dismissed under this rule, unless by order of the court.

2. But the defendant in error or appellee may, at his option, docket the cause, and file a copy of the record with the clerk of the court; and if the case is docketed, and a copy of the record filed with the clerk of this court by the plaintiff or appellant, within the periods of time above limited and prescribed by this rule, or by the defendant in error or appellee at any time thereafter during the term, the case shall stand for argument at the term.

3. Upon the filing of the transcript of a record, brought up by writ of error or appeal, the appearance of the counsel for the plaintiff in error or appellant shall be entered.

4. In all cases where the period of thirty days is mentioned in this rule, it shall be extended to sixty days in writs of error and appeals from California, Oregon, Washington, New Mexico, Utah, Nevada, Arizona, Montana, and Idaho.

No. 10.

SECURITY FOR COSTS.

1. In all cases the clerk shall take of the party a bond, with competent surety, to secure his fees, in the penalty of two hundred dollars; or a deposit of that amount, to be placed in bank subject to his draft.

PRINTING RECORDS.

2. In all cases, the clerk shall have fifteen copies of the records printed for the court, and the costs of printing shall be charged to the Government in the expenses of the court.

3. The clerk shall furnish copies for the printer, shall supervise the printing, and shall take care of and distribute the printed copies to the judges, the reporter, and the parties, from time to time, as required.

4. In each case the clerk shall charge the parties the legal fees for but the one manuscript copy in that case.

5. In all cases the clerk shall deliver a copy of the printed record to each party; and in cases of dismissal, reversal, or affirmance with costs, the fees for the said manuscript copy of the record shall be taxed against the party against whom costs are given, and which charge includes the charge for the copy furnished him.

6. In cases of dismission for want of jurisdiction, each party shall be charged with one half the legal fees for a copy.

ATTACHMENT FOR COSTS.

7. Upon the clerk of this court producing satisfactory evidence, by affidavit or the acknowledgment of the parties or their sureties, or having served a copy of the bill of fees due by them, respectively, in this court, on such parties or their sureties, an attachment shall issue against such parties or sureties, respectively, to compel payment of thed sai fees.

No. 11.

TRANSLATIONS.

Whenever any record transmitted to this court upon a writ of error or appeal shall contain any document, paper, testimony, or other proceeding in a foreign language, and the record does not also contain a translation of such document, paper, testimony, or other proceeding, made under the authority of the inferior court, or admitted to be correct, the record shall not be printed, but the case shall be reported to this court by the clerk, and the court will thereupon remand it to the inferior court, in order that a translation may be there supplied and inserted in the record.

No. 12.

EVIDENCE

1. In all cases where further proof is ordered by the court, the depositions which shall be taken shall be by a commission, to be issued from this court, or from any circuit court of the United States.

2. In all cases of admiralty and maritime jurisdiction, where new evidence shall be admissible in this court, the evidence by testimony of witnesses shall be taken under a commission, to be issued from this court, or from any circuit court of the United States, under the direction of any judge thereof; and no such commission shall issue but upon interrogatories, to be filed by the party applying for the commission, and notice to the opposite party or his agent or attorney, accompanied with a copy of the interrogatories so filed, to file cross-interrogatories within twenty days from the service of such notice: Provided, however, That nothing in this rule shall prevent any party from giving oral testimony in open court in cases where, by law, it is admissible.

No. 13.

DEEDS, ETC., NOT OBJECTED TO, ETC., ADMITTED, ETC.

In all cases of equity and admiralty jurisdiction, heard in this court, no objection shall hereafter be allowed to be taken to the admissibility of any deposition, deed, grant, or other exhibit found in the record as evidence, unless objection was taken thereto in the court below and entered of record; but the same shall otherwise be deemed to have been admitted by consent.

No. 14.

CERTIORARI.

No certiorari for diminution of the record shall be hereafter awarded in any cause, unless a motion therefor shall be made in writing, and the facts on which the same is founded shall, if not admitted by the other party, be verified by affidavit. And all motions for such certiorari shall be made at the first term of the entry of the cause, otherwise the same shall not be granted, unless upon special cause shown to the court, accounting satisfactorily for the delay.

No. 15.

DEATH OF A PARTY.

1. Whenever, pending a writ of error or appeal in this court, either party shall die, the proper representatives in the personalty or realty of the deceased party, according to the nature of the case, may voluntarily come in and be admitted parties to the suit, and thereupon the cause shall be heard and determined as in other cases; and if such representatives shall not voluntarily become parties, then the other party may suggest the death on the record, and thereupon, on motion, obtain an order, that unless such representatives shall become parties within the first ten days of the ensuing term, the party moving for such order, if defendant in error, shall be entitled to have the writ of error or appeal dismissed; and if the party so moving shall be plaintiff in error, he shall be entitled to open the record, and on hearing have the same reversed, if it be erroneous: Provided, however, that a copy of every such order shall be printed in some newspaper at the seat of Government, in which the laws of the United States shall be printed by authority, for three successive weeks, at least sixty days before the beginning of the term of the Supreme Court then next ensuing.

2. When the death of a party is suggested, and the representatives of the deceased do not appear by the tenth day of the second term next succeeding the suggestion, and no measures are taken by the opposite party within that time to compel their appearance, the case shall abate.

3. When either party to a suit in the circuit courts of the United States shall desire to prosecute a writ of error or appeal to the Supreme Court of the United States from any final judgment or decree, rendered in said circuit courts, and at the time of suing out such writ of error or appeal the other party to the suit shall be dead, and have no proper representative within the jurisdiction of the court which rendered such final judgment or decree, so that the suit cannot be revived in that court, but shall have a proper representative in some State or Territory of the United States, the party desiring such writ of error or appeal may procure the same and may supersede or stay proceedings on such judgment or decree in the same manner as is now allowed by law in other cases, and shall thereupon proceed with such writ of error or appeal as in other cases.

And within thirty days after the commencement of the court to which such writ of error or appeal is returnable the plaintiff in error, or appellant, shall make a suggestion to the court, supported by affidavit, that the said party was dead when the writ of error or appeal was taken or sued out, and had no proper representative within the jurisdiction of the court which rendered said judgment or decree, so that the suit could not be revived in that court, and that said party had a proper representative in some State or Territory of the United States, and stating therein the name and character of such representative, and the State or Territory in which such representative resides; and upon such suggestion he may, on motion, obtain an order that, unless such representative shall make himself a party within the first ten days of the ensuing term of the court, the plaintiff in error or appellant shall be entitled to open the record, and on hearing have the judgment or decree reversed, if the same be erroneous: Provided, however, that a proper citation reciting the substance of such order shall be served upon such representative, either personally or by being left at his residence, at least sixty days before the beginning of the term of the Supreme Court then next ensuing; and provided, also, that in every such case, if the representative of the deceased party does not appear by the tenth day of the term next succeeding said suggestion, and the measures above provided to compel the appearance of such representative have not been taken within the time as above required, by the opposite party, the case shall abate; and provided, also, that the said representative may at any time before or after said suggestion come in and be made a party to the suit, and thereupon the cause shall proceed, and be heard and determined as in other cases.

No. 16.

NO APPEARANCE OF PLAINTIFF.

Where there is no appearance for the plaintiff when the case is called for trial, the defendant may have the plaintiff called and dismiss the writ of error, or may open the record and pray for an affirmance.

No. 17.

NO APPEARANCE OF DEFENDANT.

Where the defendant fails to appear when the cause shall be called for trial, the court may proceed to hear an argument on the part of the plaintiff, and to give judgment according to the right of the cause.

No. 18.

NO APPEARANCE OF EITHER PARTY.

When a case is reached in the regular call of the docket, and no appearance is entered for either party, the case shall be dismissed at the costs of the plaintiff.

No. 19.

NEITHER PARTY READY AT SECOND TERM.

When a case is called for argument at two successive terms, and upon the call at the second term neither party is prepared to argue it, it shall be dismissed at the costs of the plaintiff, unless sufficient cause is shown for further postponement.

No. 20.

PRINTED ARGUMENTS.

1. In all cases brought here on appeal, writ of error, or otherwise, the court will receive printed arguments, without regard to the number of the case on the docket, if the counsel on both sides shall choose so to submit the same, within the first sixty days of the term; but twenty copies of the arguments, signed by attorneys or counsellors of this court, must be first filed; ten of these copies for the court, two for the reporter, three to be retained by the clerk, and the residue for counsel.

2. When a case is reached in the regular call of the docket, and a printed argument shall be filed for one or both parties, the case shall stand on the same footing as if there were an appearance by counsel.

3. When a case is taken up for trial upon the regular call of the docket, and argued orally in behalf of only one of the parties, no printed argument will be received, unless it is filed before the oral argument begins, and the court will proceed to consider and decide the case upon the ex parte argument.

4. No brief or argument will be received, either through the clerk or otherwise, after a case has been argued or submitted, except upon leave granted in open court after notice to opposing counsel.

No. 21.

ARGUMENT—BRIEFS.

TWO COUNSEL.

SEC. 1. Only two counsel shall be heard for each party on the argument of a cause.

Digitized by Google

TWO HOURS.

SEC. 2. Two hours on each side shall be allowed to the argument, and no more, without special leave of the court, granted before the argument begins. The time thus allowed may be apportioned between the counsel on the same side, at their discretion: Provided, always, that a fair opening of the case shall be made by the party having the opening and closing arguments.

BRIEFS.

SEC. 3. The counsel for the plaintiff in error, or appellant, shall file with the clerk of the court, at least six days before the case is called for argument, twenty copies of a printed brief, one of which shall, on application, be furnished to each of the counsel engaged upon the opposite side.

SEC. 4. This brief shall contain, in the order here stated—

I. A concise abstract, or statement of the case, presenting succinctly the questions involved, and the manner in which they are raised.

II. An assignment of the errors relied upon, which, in cases brought up by writ of error, shall set out separately and specifically each error asserted and intended to be urged, and in cases brought up by appeal the assignment shall state, as specifically as may be, in what the decree is alleged to be erroneous. If error is assigned to a ruling upon the report of a master, the specification shall state the exception to the report and the action of the court upon it.

III. A brief of the argument, exhibiting a clear statement of the points of law or fact to be discussed, with a reference to the pages of the record, and the authorities relied upon in support of each point. When a statute of a State is cited, so much thereof as may be deemed necessary to the decision of the case shall be printed at length.

SEC. 5. When the error alleged is to the charge of the court, the specification shall set out the part referred to totidem verbis, whether it be instructions given or instructions refused.

SEC. 6. When the error alleged is to the admission or to the rejection of evidence, the specification shall quote the full substance of the evidence admitted or rejected.

SEC. 7. Counsel for a defendant in error, or an appellee, shall file with the clerk twenty printed copies of his argument, at least three days before the case is called for hearing. His brief shall be of a like character with that required of the plaintiff or appellant, except that no assignment of errors is required, and no statement of the case, unless that presented by the plaintiff or appellant is controverted.

SEC. 8. Without such an assignment of errors, counsel will not be heard, except at the request of the court, and errors not assigned according to this rule will be disregarded, though the court, at its option, may notice a plain error not assigned.

SEC. 9. When, according to this rule, a plaintiff in error, or an appellant, is in default, the case may be dismissed on motion; and when a defendant in error, or an appellee, is in default, he will not be heard, except on consent of his adversary, and with request of the court.

SEC. 10. When no counsel appears for one of the parties, and no printed brief or argument is filed, only one counsel will be heard for the adverse party; but if a printed brief or argument is filed, the adverse party will be entitled to be heard by two counsel.

No. 22.

ORDER OF ARGUMENT.

The plaintiff or appellant in this court shall be entitled to open and conclude the case. But when there are cross-appeals, they shall be argued together as one case, and the plaintiff in the court below shall be entitled to open and conclude the argument.

No. 23.

INTEREST.

1. In cases where a writ of error is prosecuted to this court, and the judgment of the inferior court is affirmed, the interest shall be calculated and levied from the date of the judgment below until the same is paid, at the same rate that similar judgments bear interest in the courts of the State where such judgment is rendered.

2. In all cases where a writ of error shall delay the proceedings on the judgment of the inferior court, and shall appear to have been sued out merely for delay, damages at the rate of ten per cent., in addition to interest, shall be awarded upon the amount of the judgment.

3. The same rule shall be applied to decrees for the payment of money in cases of chancery, unless otherwise ordered by this court.*

* Interest not allowed in admiralty, unless specially directed by the court. (20 How., 255.)

COSTS.

1. In all cases where any suit shall be dismissed in this court, except where the dismissal shall be for want of jurisdiction, costs shall be allowed to the defendant in error or appellee, as the case may be, unless otherwise agreed by the parties.

2. In all cases of affirmance of any judgment or decree in this court, costs shall be allowed to the defendant in error or appellee, as the case may be, unless otherwise ordered by the court.

3. In cases of reversal of any judgment or decree in this court, costs shall be allowed to the plaintiff in error or appellant, as the case may be, unless otherwise ordered by the court. The cost of the transcript of the record from the court below shall be a part of such costs, and be taxable in that court as costs in the case.

4. Neither of the foregoing rules shall apply to cases where the United States are a party; but in such cases no costs shall be allowed in this court for or against the United States.

5. In all cases of the dismissal of any suit in this court, it shall be the duty of the clerk to issue a mandate, or other proper process, in the nature of a procedendo, to the court below, for the purpose of informing such court of the proceedings in this court, so that further proceedings may be had in such court as to law and justice may appertain.

6. When costs are allowed in this court, it shall be the duty of the clerk to insert the amount thereof in the body of the mandate, or other proper process, sent to the court below, and annex to the same the bill of items taxed in detail.

No. 25.

OPINIONS OF THE COURT.

1. All opinions delivered by the court shall immediately upon the delivery thereof, be delivered over to the clerk to be recorded. And it shall be the duty of the clerk to cause the same to be forthwith recorded and to deliver a copy to the reporter as soon as the same shall be recorded.

2. The opinions of the court, as far as practicable, shall be recorded during the term, so that the publication of the reports may not be delayed thereby.

3. The original opinions of the court shall be filed with the clerk of this court for preservation.

No. 26.

CALL OF THE DOCKET.

1. The court, on the second day in each term, will commence calling the cases for argument in the order in which they stand on the docket, and proceed from day to day during the term, in the same order (except as hereinafter provided); and if the parties, or either of them, shall be ready when the case is called, the same will be heard; and if neither party shall be ready to proceed in the argument, the cause shall go down to the foot of the docket, unless some good and satisfactory reason to the contrary shall be shown to the court.

2. Ten causes only shall be considered as liable to be called on each day during the term, including the one under argument.

3. Criminal cases may be advanced, by leave of the court, on motion of either party.

4. Revenue cases and cases in which the United States are concerned, which also involve or affect some matter of general public interest, may also, by leave of the court, be advanced on motion of the Attorney-General.

5. No other cause shall be taken up out of the order on the docket, or be set down for any particular day, except under special and peculiar circumstances, to be shown to the court. Every cause which shall have been called in its order and passed, and put at the foot of the docket, shall, if not again reached during the term it was called, be continued to the next term of the court.

6. Two or more cases, also involving the same question, may, by the leave of the court, be heard together; but they must be argued as one case.

7. If, after a cause has been passed under circumstances which do not place it at the foot of the docket, the parties shall desire to have it heard, they may file with the clerk their joint request to that effect, and the cause shall then be by him re-instated for call ten cases after that under argument, or next to be called at the end of the day the request is filed. If the parties will not unite in such a request, either may move to take up the cause, and it shall then be assigned to such place upon the docket as the court may direct.

No stipulation to pass a cause without placing it at the foot of the docket will be recognized as binding upon the court. A cause can only be so passed upon application made and leave granted in open court.

No. 27.

ADJOURNMENT.

The court will, at every session, announce on what day it will adjourn at least ten days before the time which shall be fixed upon; and the court will take up no case for argument, nor receive any case upon printed briefs, within three days next before the day fixed upon for adjournment.

No. 28.

DISMISSING CASES IN VACATION.

Whenever the plaintiff and defendant in a writ of error pending in this court, or the appellant and appellee in any appeal, shall at any time hereafter, in vacation and out of term-time, by their respective attorneys, who are entered as such on the record, sign and file with the clerk an agreement in writing directing the case to be dismissed, and specifying the terms on which it is to be dismissed as to costs, and also paying to the clerk any fees that may be due to him, it shall be the duty of the clerk to enter the case dismissed, and to give to either party which may request it, a copy of the agreement filed; but no mandate or other process is to issue without an order by the court.

No. 29.

SUPERSEDEAS.

Supersedeas bonds in the circuit courts must be taken, with good and sufficient security, that the plaintiff in error or appellant shall prosecute his writ or appeal to effect, and answer all damages and costs if he fail to make his plea good. Such indemnity, where the judgment or decree is for the recovery of money not otherwise secured, must be for the whole amount of the judgment or decree, including "just damages for delay," and costs and interest on the appeal; but in all suits where the property in controversy necessarily follows the event of the suit, as in real actions, replevin, and in suits on mortgages; or where the property is in the custody of the marshal under admiralty process, as in case of capture or seizure; or where the proceeds thereof, or a bond for the value thereof, is in the custody or control of the court, indemnity in all such cases is only required in an amount sufficient to secure the sum recovered for the use and detention of the property, and the costs of the suit, and "just damages for delay," and costs and interest on the appeal.

ORDER

IN REFERENCE TO

APPEALS FROM THE COURT OF CLAIMS.

REGULATIONS PRESCRIBED BY THE SUPREME COURT OF THE UNITED STATES, UNDER WHICH APPEALS MAY BE TAKEN FROM THE COURT OF CLAIMS TO SAID SUPREME COURT.

Rule 1.

In all cases hereafter decided in the Court of Claims, in which, by the act of Congress, such appeals are allowable, they shall be heard in the Supreme Court upon the following record, and none other:

1. A transcript of the pleadings in the case, of the final judgment or decree of the court, and of such interlocutory orders, rulings, judgments, and decrees as may be necessary to a proper review of the case.

2. A finding by the Court of Claims of the facts in the case established by the evidence in the nature of a special verdict, but not the evidence establishing them; and a separate statement of the conclusions of law upon said facts, upon which the court founds its judgment or decree

Digitized by Google

The finding of facts and conclusions of law to be certified to this court as a part of the record.

Rule 2.

In all cases in which judgments or decrees have heretofore been rendered, where either party is by law entitled to an appeal, the party desiring it shall make application to the Court of Claims by petition for the allowance of such appeal. Said petition shall contain a distinct specification of the errors alleged to have been committed by said court in its rulings, judgment, or decree in the case. The court shall, if the specification of alleged error be correctly and accurately stated, certify the same, or may certify such alterations and modifications of the points decided and alleged for error as, in the judgment of said court, shall distinctly, fully, and fairly present the points decided by the court. This, with the transcript mentioned in Rule 1 (except the statement of facts and law therein mentioned), shall constitute the record on which those cases shall be heard in the Supreme Court.

Rule 3.

In all cases an order of allowance of appeal by the Court of Claims, or the chief justice thereof in vacation, is essential, and the limitation of time for granting such appeal shall cease to run from the time an application is made for the allowance of appeal.

Rule 4.

In all cases in which either party is enentitled to appeal to the Supreme Court, the Court of Claims shall make and file their finding of facts, and their conclusions of law therein, in open court, before or at the time they enter their judgment in the case.

Rule 5.

In all such cases either party, on or before the hearing of the cause, may submit to the court a written request to find specifically as to the matter of fact which such party may deem material to the judgment in the case, and, if the court fails or refuses to find in accordance with such prayer, then such prayer and refusal shall be made a part of the record, certified on the appeal, to this court.

RULES OF PRACTICE

FOR THE

COURTS OF EQUITY OF THE UNITED STATES.

PRELIMINARY REGULATIONS.

1.

The circuit courts, as courts of equity, shall be deemed always open for the purpose of filing bills, answers, and other pleadings; for issuing and returning mesne and final process and commissions; and for making and directing all interlocutory motions, orders, rules, and other proceedings, preparatory to hearing of all causes upon their merits.

2.

The clerk's office shall be open, and the clerk shall be in attendance therein, on the first Monday of every month, for the purpose of receiving, entering, entertaining, and disposing of all motions, rules, orders, and other proceedings, which are grantable of course and applied for, or had by the parties, or their solicitors, in all causes pending in equity, in pursuance of the rules hereby prescribed.

3.

Any judge of the circuit court, as well in vacation as in term, may, at chambers, or on the rule days at the clerk's office, make and direct all such interlocutory orders, rules, and other proceedings, preparatory to the hearing of all causes upon their merits, in the same manner and with the same effect as the circuit court could make and direct the same in term, reasonable notice of the application therefor being first given to the adverse party, or his solicitor, to appear and show cause to the contrary at the next rule day thereafter, unless some other time is assigned by the judge for the hearing.

All motions, rules, orders, and other proceedings, made and directed at chambers, or on rule days at the clerk's office, whether special or of course, shall be entered by the clerk in an order-book, to be kept at the clerk's office, on the day when they are made and directed; which book shall be open at all office hours to the free inspection of the parties in any suit in equity and their solicitors. And, except in cases where personal or other notice is specially required or directed, such entry in the order-book shall be deemed sufficient notice to the parties and their solicitors, without further service thereof, of all orders, rules, acts, notices, and other proceedings entered in such order-book, touching any and all the matters in the suits to and in which they are parties and solicitors. And notice to the solicitors shall be deemed notice to the parties for whom they appear and whom they represent, in all cases where personal notice on the parties is not otherwise specially required. Where the solicitors for all the parties in a suit reside in or near the same town or city, the judges of the circuit court may, by rule, abridge the time for notice of rules, orders, or other proceedings not requiring personal service on the parties, in their discretion.

5.

All motions and applications in the clerk's office for the issuing of mesne process and final process to enforce and execute decrees, for filing bills, answers, pleas, demurrers, and other pleadings; for making amendments to bills and answers; for taking bills pro confesso; for filing exceptions; and for other proceedings in the clerk's office which do not, by the rules hereinafter prescribed, require any allowance or order of the court, or of any judge thereof, shall be deemed motions and applications, grantable of course by the clerk of the court. But the same may be suspended, or altered, or rescinded by any judge of the court, upon special cause shown.

6.

All motions for rules or orders and other proceedings, which are not grantable of course or without notice, shall, unless a different time be assigned by a judge of the court, be made on a rule day, and entered in the order-book, and shall be heard at the rule day next after that on which the motion is made. And if the adverse party, or his solicitor, shall not then appear, or shall not show good cause against the same, the motion may be heard by any judge of the court ex parte, and granted, as if not objected to, or refused, in his discretion.

PROCESS.

The process of subpœna shall constitute the proper mesne process in all suits in equity, in the first instance, to require the defendant to appear and answer the exigency of the bill; and, unless otherwise provided in these rules, or specially ordered by the circuit court, a writ of attachment, and, if the defendant cannot be found, a writ of sequestration, or a writ of assistance to enforce a delivery of possession, as the case may require, shall be the proper process to issue for the purpose of compelling obedience to any interlocutory or final order or decree of the court.

8.

Final process to execute any decree may, if the decree be solely for the payment of money, be by a writ of execution, in the form used in the circuit court in suits at common law in actions of assumpsit. If the decree be for the performance of any specific act, as, for example, for the execution of a conveyance of land or the delivering up of deeds or other documents, the decree shall, in all cases, prescribe the time within which the act shall be done, of which the defendant shall be bound, without further service, to take notice; and upon affidavit of the plaintiff, filed in the clerk's office, that the same has not been complied with within the prescribed time, the clerk shall issue a writ of attachment against the delinquent party, from which, if attached thereon, he shall not be discharged, unless upon a full compliance with the decree and the payment of all costs, or upon a special order of the court or of a judge thereof, upon motion and affidavit, enlarging the time for the performance thereof. If the delinquent party cannot be found, a writ of sequestration shall issue against his estate upon the return of non est inventus, to compel obedience to the decree.

9.

When any decree or order is for the delivery of possession, upon proof made by affidavit of a demand and refusal to obey the decree or order, the party prosecuting the same shall be entitled to a writ of assistance from the clerk of the court.

10.

Every person, not being a party in any cause, who has obtained an order, or in whose favor an order shall have been made, shall be enabled to enforce obedience to such order by the same process as if he were a party to the cause; and every person, not being a party in any cause, against whom obedience to any order of the court may be enforced, shall be liable to the same process for enforcing obedience to such order as if he were a party in the cause.

SERVICE OF PROCESS.

No process of subpœna shall issue from the clerk's office in any suit in equity until the bill is filed in the office.

12.

Whenever a bill is filed, the clerk shall issue the process of subpœna thereon, as of course, upon the application of the plaintiff, which shall be returnable into the clerk's office the next rule day, or the next rule day but one, at the election of the plaintiff, occurring after twenty days from the time of the issuing thereof. At the bottom of the subpœna shall be placed a memorandum, that the defendant is to enter his appearance in the suit in the clerk's office on or before the day at which the writ is returnable; otherwise, the bill may be taken pro confesso. Where there are more than one defendant, a writ of subpœna may, at the election of the plaintiff, be sued out separately for each defendant, except in the case of husband and wife defendants, or a joint subpœna against all the defendants.

13.

The service of all subpœnas shall be by a delivery of a copy thereof by the officer serving the same to the defendant personally, or, in case of husband and wife, to the husband personally, or by leaving a copy thereof at the dwelling-house or usual place of abode of each defendant, with some free white person who is a member or resident in the family.

14.

Whenever any subpœna shall be returned not executed as to any defendant, the plaintiff shall be entitled to another subpœna, toties quoties, against such defendant, if he shall require it, until due service is made.

15.

The service of all process, mesne and final, shall be by the marshal of the district, or his deputy, or by some other person specially appointed by the court for that purpose, and not otherwise. In the latter case, the person serving the process shall make affidavit thereof.

16.

Upon the return of the subpœna as served and executed upon any defendant, the clerk shall enter the suit upon his docket as pending in the court, and shall state the time of the entry.

APPEARANCE.

17.

The appearance day of the defendant shall be the rule day to which the subpœna is made returnable, provided he has been served with the process twenty days before that day; otherwise, his appearance day shall be the next rule day succeeding the rule day when the process is returnable.

The appearance of the defendant, either personally or by his solicitor, shall be entered in the order-book on the day thereof by the clerk.

BILLS TAKEN PRO CONFESSO.

18.

It shall be the duty of the defendant, unless the time shall be otherwise enlarged, for cause shown, by a judge of the court, upon motion for that purpose, to file his plea, demurrer, or answer to the bill, in the clerk's office, on the rule day next succeeding that of entering his appearance. In default thereof, the plaintiff may, at his election, enter an order (as of course) in the order-book, that the bill be taken pro confesso; and thereupon the cause shall be proceeded in ex parte, and the matter of the bill may be decreed by the court at the next ensuing term thereof accordingly, if the same can be done without an answer, and is proper to be decreed; or the plaintiff, if he requires any discovery or answer to enable him to obtain a proper decree, shall be entitled to process of attachment against the defendant to compel an answer, and the defendant shall not, when arrested upon such process, be discharged therefrom, unless upon filing his answer, or otherwise complying with such order as the court or a judge thereof may direct, as to pleading to or fully answering the bill, within a period to be fixed by the court or judge, and undertaking to speed the cause.

Digitized by Google

When the bill is taken pro confesso, the court may proceed to a decree at the next ensuing term thereof, and such decree rendered shall be deemed absolute, unless the court shall, at the same term, set aside the same, or enlarge the time for filing the answer, upon cause shown, upon motion and affidavit of the defendant. And no such motion shall be granted, unless upon the payment of the costs of the plaintiff in the suit up to that time, or such part thereof as the court shall deem reasonable, and unless the defendant shall undertake to file his answer within such time as the court shall direct, and submit to such other terms as the court shall direct, for the purpose of speeding the cause.

FRAME OF BILLS.

Every bill, in the introductory part thereof, shall contain the names, places of abode, and citizenship of all the parties, plaintiffs, and defendants, by and against whom the bill is brought. The form, in substance, shall be as follows: "To the judges of the Circuit Court of the United States for the district of ——: A. B., of ——, and a citizen of the State of ——, brings this his bill against C. D., of ——, and a citizen of the State of ——, and E. F., of ——, and a citizen of the State of ——. And thereupon your orator complains and says that, etc.

21.

The plaintiff, in his bill, shall be at liberty to omit, at his option, the part which is usually called the common confederacy clause of the bill, averring a confederacy between the defendants to injure or defraud the plaintiff; also what is commonly called the charging part of the bill, setting forth the matters or excuses which the defendant is supposed to intend to set up by way of defence to the bill; also what is commonly called the jurisdiction clause of the bill, that the acts complained of are contrary to equity, and that the defendant is without any remedy at law; and the bill shall not be demurrable therefor. And the plaintiff may, in the narrative, or stating part of his bill, state and avoid, by counter averments, at his option, any matter or thing which he supposes will be insisted upon by the defendant by way of defence or excuse to the case made by the plaintiff for relief. The prayer of the bill shall ask the special relief to which the plaintiff supposes himself entitled, and also shall contain a prayer for general relief; and if an injunction, or a writ of ne exeat regno, or any other special order, pending the suit, is required, it shall also be specially asked for.

22.

If any persons, other than those named as defendants in the bill, shall appear to be necessary or proper parties thereto, the bill shall aver the reason why they are not made parties, by showing them to be without the jurisdiction of the court, or that they cannot be joined without ousting the jurisdiction of the court as to the other parties. And as to persons who are without the jurisdiction and may properly be made parties, the bill may pray that process may issue to make them parties to the bill if they should come within the jurisdiction.

23.

The prayer for process of subpœna in the bill shall contain the names of all the defendants named in the introductory part of the bill, and if any of them are known to be infants under age, or otherwise under guardianship, shall state the facts, so that the court may take order thereon, as justice may require, upon the return of the process. If an injunction, or a writ of ne exeat regno, or any other special order, pending the suit, is asked for in the prayer for relief, that shall be sufficient, without repeating the same in the prayer for process.

24.

Every bill shall contain the signature of counsel annexed to it, which shall be considered as an affirmation on his part that, upon the instructions given to him and the case laid before him, there is good ground for the suit, in the manner in which it is framed.

25.

In order to prevent unnecessary costs and expenses, and to promote brevity, succinctness, and directness in the allegations of bills and answers, the regular taxable costs for every bill and answer shall in no case exceed the sum which is allowed in the State court of chancery in the district, if any there be; but if there be none, then it shall not exceed the sum of three dollars for every bill or answer.

SCANDAL AND IMPERTINENCE IN BILLS.

Every bill shall be expressed in as brief and succinct terms as it reasonably can be, and shall contain no unnecessary recitals of deeds, documents, contracts, or other instruments, in hæc verba, or any other impertinent matter, or any scandalous matter not relevant to the suit. If it does, it may, on exceptions, be referred to a master, by any judge of the court, for impertinence or scandal; and if so found by him, the matter shall be expunged at the expense of the plaintiff, and he shall pay to the defendant all his costs in the suit up to that time, unless the court or a judge thereof shall otherwise order. If the master shall report that the bill is not scandalous or impertinent, the plaintiff shall be entitled to all costs occasioned by the reference.

No order shall be made by any judge for referring any bill, answer, or pleading, or other matter, or proceeding, depending before the court, for scandal or impertinence, unless exceptions are taken in writing and signed by counsel, describing the particular passages which are considered to be scandalous or impertinent; nor unless the exceptions shall be filed on or before the next rule day after the process on the bill shall be returnable, or after the answer or pleading is filed. And such order, when obtained, shall be considered as abandoned, unless the party obtaining the order shall, without any unnecessary delay, procure the master to examine and report for the same on or before the next succeeding rule day, or the master shall certify that further time is necessary for him to complete the examination.

AMENDMENT OF BILLS.

The plaintiff shall be at liberty, as a matter of course, and without payment of costs, to amend his bill, in any matters whatsoever, before any copy has been taken out of the clerk's office, and in any small matters afterward, such as filling blanks, correcting errors of dates, misnomer of parties, misdescription of premises, clerical errors, and generally in matters of form. But if he amend in a material point (as he may do of course) after a copy has been so taken, before any answer or plea or demurrer to the bill, he shall pay to the defendant the costs occasioned thereby, and shall, without delay, furnish him a fair copy thereof, free of expense, with suitable references to the places where the same are to be inserted. And if the amendments are numerous, he shall furnish, in like manner, to the defendant, a copy of the whole bill as amended; and if there be more than one defendant, a copy shall be furnished to each defendant affected thereby.

After an answer, or plea, or demurrer is put in, and before replication, the plaintiff may, upon motion or petition, without notice, obtain an order from any judge of the court to amend his bill on or before the next succeeding rule day, upon payment of costs or without payment of costs, as the court or judge thereof may in his discretion direct. But after replication filed, the plaintiff shall not be permitted to withdraw it and to amend his bill, except upon a special order of a judge of the court, upon motion or petition, after due notice to the other party, and upon proof by affidavit that the same is not made for the purpose of vexation or delay, or that the matter of the proposed amendment is material, and could not with reasonable diligence have been sooner introduced into the bill, and upon the plaintiff's submitting to such other terms as may be imposed by the judge for speeding the cause.

30.

If the plaintiff so obtaining any order to amend his bill after answer, or plea, or demurrer, or after replication, shall not file his amendments or amended bill, as the case may require, in the clerk's office, on or before the next succeeding rule day, he shall be considered to have abandoned the same, and the cause shall proceed as if no application for any amendment had been made.

DEMURRERS AND PLEAS.

31.

No demurrer or plea shall be allowed to be filed to any bill, unless upon a certificate of counsel, that in his opinion it is well founded in point of law, and supported by the affidavit of the defendant; that it is not interposed for delay, and, if a plea, that it is true in point of fact.

32.

The defendant may, at any time before the bill is taken for confessed, or afterward with the leave of the court, demur or plead to the whole bill, or to part of it, and he may demur to part, plead to part, and answer as to the residue; but in every case in which the bill specially charges fraud or combination, a plea to such part must be accompanied with an answer fortifying the plea, and explicitly denying the fraud and combination, and the facts on which the charge is founded.

33.

The plaintiff may set down the demurrer or plea to be argued, or he may take issue on the plea. If, upon an issue, the facts stated in the plea be determined for the defendant, they shall avail him as far as in law and equity they ought to avail him.

34.

If, upon the hearing, any demurrer or plea is overruled, the plaintiff shall be entitled to his costs in the cause up to that period, unless the court shall be satisfied that the defendant has good ground, in point of law or fact, to interpose the same, and it was not interposed vexatiously or for delay. And, upon the overruling of any plea or demurrer, the defendant shall be assigned to answer the bill, or so much thereof as is covered by the plea or demurrer, the next succeeding rule day or at such other period as, consistently with justice and the rights of the defendant, the same can, in the judgment of the court, be reasonably done: in default whereof, the bill shall be taken against him pro confesso, and the matter thereof proceeded in and decreed accordingly.

35.

If, upon the hearing, any demurrer or plea shall be allowed, the defendant shall be entitled to his costs. But the court may, in its discretion, upon motion of the plaintiff, allow him to amend his bill, upon such terms as it shall deem reasonable.

36.

No demurrer or plea shall be held bad and overruled upon argument, only because such demurrer or plea shall not cover so much of the bill as it might by law have extended to.

37.

No demurrer or plea shall be held bad and overruled upon argument only because the answer of the defendant may extend to some part of the same matter as may be covered by such demurrer or plea.

38.

If the plaintiff shall not reply to any plea, or set down any plea or demurrer for argument on the rule day when the same is filed, or on the next succeeding rule day, he shall be deemed to admit the truth and sufficiency thereof, and his bill shall be dismissed as of course, unless a judge of the court shall allow him further time for the purpose.

ANSWERS.

The rule, that if a defendant submits to answer he shall answer fully to all the matters of the bill, shall no longer apply in cases where he might by plea protect himself from such answer and discovery. And the defendant shall be entitled in all cases by answer to insist upon all matters of defence (not being matters of abatement, or to the character of the parties, or matters of form) in bar of or to the merits of the bill, of which he may be entitled to avail himself by a plea in bar; and in such answer he shall not be compellable to answer any other matters than he would be compellable to answer and discover upon filing a plea in bar and an answer in support of such plea, touching the matters set forth in the bill, to avoid or repel the bar or defence. Thus, for example, a bona fide purchaser, for a valuable consideration without notice, may set up that defence by way of answer instead of plea, and shall be entitled to the same protection, and shall not be compellable to make any further answer or discovery of his title than he would be in any answer in support of such plea.

40.

A defendant shall not be bound to answer any statement or charge in the bill, unless specially and particularly interrogated thereto; and a defendant shall not be bound to answer any interrogatory in the bill, except those interrogatories which such defendant is required to answer; and where a defendant shall answer any statement or charge in the bill to which he is not interrogated, only by stating his ignorance of the matter so stated or charged, such answer shall be deemed impertinent.

DECEMBER TERM, 1850.

Ordered, That the fortieth rule, heretofore adopted and promulgated by this court as one of the rules of practice in suits in equity in the circuit courts, be, and the same is hereby, repealed and annulled. And it shall not hereafter be necessary to interrogate a defendant specially and particularly upon any statement in the bill, unless the complainant desires to do so, to obtain a discovery.

The interrogatories contained in the interrogating part of the bill shall be divided as conveniently as may be from each other, and numbered consecutively 1, 2, 3, etc.; and the interrogatories which each defendant is required to answer shall be specified in a note at the foot of the bill, in the form or to the effect following, that is to say: "The defendant (A. B.) is required to answer the interrogatories numbered respectively 1, 2, 3," etc.; and the office copy of the bill taken by each defendant shall not contain any interrogatories except those which such defendant is so required to answer, unless such defendant shall require to be furnished with a copy of the whole bill.

DECEMBER TERM, 1871.

Amendment to 41st Equity Rule.

If the complainant, in his bill, shall waive an answer under oath, or shall only require an answer under oath with regard to certain specified interrogatories, the answer of the defendant, though under oath, except such part thereof as shall be directly responsive to such interrogatories, shall not be evidence in his favor, unless the cause be set down for hearing on bill and answer only; but may nevertheless be used as an affidavit, with the same effect as heretofore, on a motion to grant or dissolve an injunction, or on any other incidental motion in the cause; but this shall not prevent a defendant from becoming a witness in his own behalf under section 3 of the act of Congress of July 2, 1864.

The note at the foot of the bill, specifying the interrogatories which each defendant is required to answer, shall be considered and treated as part of the bill, and the addition of any such note, to the bill, or any alteration in or addition to such note, after the bill is filed, shall be considered and treated as an amendment of the bill.

43.

Instead of the words of the bill now in use, preceding the interrogating part thereof, and beginning with the words "To the end, therefore," there shall hereafter be used words in the form or to the effect following: "To the end, therefore, that the said defendants may, if they can, show why your orator should not have the relief hereby prayed, and may, upon their several and respective corporal oaths, and according to the best and utmost of their several and respective knowledge, remembrance, information, and belief, full, true, direct, and perfect answer make to such of the several interrogatories hereinafter numbered and set forth, as by the note hereunder written they are respectively required to answer; that is to say—

"1. Whether, etc.

44.

A defendant shall be at liberty, by answer, to decline answering any interrogatory, or part of an interrogatory, from answering which he might have protected himself by demurrer; and he shall be at liberty so to decline, notwithstanding he shall answer other parts of the bill from which he might have protected himself by demurrer.

45.

No special replication to any answer shall be filed. But if any matter alleged in the answer shall make it necessary for the plaintiff to amend his bill, he may have leave to amend the same with or without the payment of costs, as the court, or a judge thereof, may in his discretion direct.

46.

In every case where an amendment shall be made after answer filed, the defendant shall put in a new or supplemental answer on or before the next succeeding rule day after that on which the amendment or amended bill is filed, unless the time is enlarged or otherwise ordered by a judge of the court; and upon his default the like proceedings may be had as in cases of an omission to put in an answer.

PARTIES TO BILLS.

In all cases where it shall appear to the court that persons, who might otherwise be deemed necessary or proper parties to the suit, cannot be made parties by reason of their being out of the jurisdiction of the court, or incapable otherwise, of being made parties, or because their joinder would oust the jurisdiction of the court as to the parties before the court, the court may in their discretion proceed in the cause without making such persons parties; and in such cases the decree shall be without prejudice to the rights of the absent parties.

48.

Where the parties on either side are very numerous, and cannot, without manifest inconvenience and oppressive delays in the suit, be all brought before it, the court in its discretion may dispense with making all of them parties, and may proceed in the suit, having sufficient parties before it to represent all the adverse interests of the plaintiffs and the defendants in the suit properly before it. But in such cases the decree shall be without prejudice to the rights and claims of all the absent parties.

49.

In all suits concerning real estate which is vested in trustees by devise, and such trustees are competent to sell and give discharges for the proceeds of the sale, and for the rents and profits of the estate, such trustees shall represent the persons beneficially interested in the estate, or the proceeds, or the rents and profits, in the same manner, and to the same extent, as the executors or administrators in suits concerning personal estate represent the persons beneficially interested in such personal estate; and in such cases it shall not be necessary to make the persons beneficially interested in such real estate, or rents and profits, parties to the suit; but the court may, upon consideration of the matter on the hearing, if it shall so think fit, order such persons to be made parties.

50.

In suits to execute the trusts of a will, it shall not be necessary to make the heir at law a party; but the plaintiffs shall be at liberty to make the heir at law a party where he desires to have the will established against him.

51.

In all cases in which the plaintiff has a joint and several demand against several persons, either as principals or sureties, it shall not be necessary to bring before the court as parties to a suit concerning such demand, all the persons liable thereto; but the plaintiff may proceed against one or more of the persons severally liable.

52.

Where the defendant shall, by his answer, suggest that the bill is defective for want of parties, the plaintiff shall be at liberty, within fourteen days after answer filed, to set down the cause for argument upon that objection only; and the purpose for which the same is so set down shall be notified by an entry, to be made in the clerk's order-book, in the form or to the effect following (that is to say:) "Set down upon the defendant's objection for want of parties." And where the plaintiff shall not so set down his cause, but shall proceed therewith to a hearing, notwithstanding an objection for want of parties taken by the answer, he shall not, at the hearing of the cause, if the defendant's objection shall then be allowed, be entitled as of course to an order for liberty to amend his bill by adding parties. But the court, if it thinks fit, shall be at liberty to dismiss the bill.

53.

If a defendant shall, at the hearing of a cause, object, that a suit is defective for want of parties not having by plea or answer taken the objection, and therein specified by name or description the parties to whom the objection applies, the court (if it shall think fit) shall be at liberty to make a decree saving the rights of the absent parties.

NOMINAL PARTIES TO BILLS.

54.

Where no account, payment, conveyance, or other direct relief is sought against a party to a suit, not being an infant, the party, upon service of the subpœna upon him, need not appear and answer the bill, unless the plaintiff specially requires him so to do by the prayer of his bill; but he may appear and answer at his option; and if he does not appear and answer he shall be bound by all the proceedings in the cause. If the plaintiff shall require him to appear and answer, he shall be entitled to the costs of all the proceedings against him, unless the court shall otherwise direct.

55.

Whenever an injunction is asked for by the bill to stay proceedings at law, if the defendant do not enter his appearance, and plead, demur, or answer to the same within the time prescribed therefor by these rules, the plaintiff shall be entitled, as of course, upon motion, without notice, to such injunction. But special injunctions shall be grantable only upon due notice to the other party by the court in term, or by a judge thereof in vacation, after a hearing, which may be ex parte, if the adverse party does not appear at the time and place ordered. In every case where an injunction—either the common injunction or a special injunction—is awarded in vacation, it shall, unless previously dissolved by the judge granting the same, continue until the next term of the court, or until it is dissolved by some other order of the court.

BILLS OF REVIVOR AND SUPPLEMENTAL BILLS.

Whenever a suit in equity shall become abated by the death of either party, or by any other event, the same may be revived by a bill of revivor, or a bill in the nature of a bill of revivor, as the circumstances of the case may require, filed by the proper parties entitled to revive the same; which bill may be filed in the clerk's office at any time; and, upon suggestion of the facts, the proper process of subpœna shall, as of course, be issued by the clerk, requiring the proper representatives of the other party to appear and show cause, if any they have, why the cause should not be revived. And if no cause shall be shown at the next rule day which shall occur after fourteen days from the time of the service of the same process, the suit shall stand revived, as of course.

57.

Whenever any suit in equity shall become defective from any event happening after the filing of the bill (as, for example, by change of interest in the parties), or for any other reason a supplemental bill, or a bill in the nature of a supplemental bill, may be necessary to be filed in the cause, leave to file the same may be granted by any judge of the court on any rule day, upon proper cause shown, and due notice to the other party. And if leave is granted to file such supplemental bill, the defendants shall demur, plead, or answer thereto, on the next succeeding rule day after the supplemental bill is filed in the clerk's office, unless some other time shall be assigned by a judge of the court.

58.

It shall not be necessary in any bill of revivor or supplemental bill to set forth any of the statements in the original suit, unless the special circumstances of the case may require it.

ANSWERS.

59.

Every defendant may swear to his answer before any justice or judge of any court of the United States, or before any commissioner appointed by any circuit court to take testimony or depositions, or before any master in chancery appointed by any circuit court, or before any judge of any court of a State or Territory.

AMENDMENT OF ANSWERS.

60.

After an answer is put in, it may be amended, as of course, in any matter of form, or by filling up a blank, or correcting a date, or reference to a document or other small matter, and be re-sworn, at any time before a replication is put in, or the cause is set down for a hearing upon bill and answer. But after replication, or such setting down for a hearing, it shall not be amended in any material matters, as by adding new facts or defences, or qualifying or altering the original statements, except by special leave of the court, or of a judge thereof, upon motion and cause shown, after due notice to the adverse party, supported, if required, by affidavit; and in every case where leave is so granted, the court or the judge granting the same may, in his discretion, require that the same be separately engrossed and added as a distinct amendment to the original answer, so as to be distinguishable therefrom.

EXCEPTIONS TO ANSWERS.

After an answer is filed on any rule day, the plaintiff shall be allowed until the next succeeding rule day to file in the clerk's office exceptions thereto for insufficiency, and no longer, unless a longer time shall be allowed for the purpose, upon cause shown to the court, or a judge thereof; and, if no exception shall be filed thereto within that period, the answer shall be deemed and taken to be sufficient.

62.

When the same solicitor is employed for two or more defendants, and separate answers shall be filed, or other proceedings had, by two or more of the defendants separately, costs shall not be allowed for such separate answers, or other proceedings, unless a master, upon reference to him, shall certify that such separate answers and other proceedings were necessary or proper, and ought not to have been joined together.

63.

Where exceptions shall be filed to the answer for insufficiency, within the period prescribed by these rules, if the defendant shall not submit to the same and file an amended answer on the next succeeding rule day, the plaintiff shall forthwith set them down for a hearing on the next succeeding rule day thereafter, before a judge of the court, and shall enter, as of course, in the order-book, an order for that purpose; and if he shall not so set down the same for a hearing, the exceptions shall be deemed abandoned, and the answer shall be deemed sufficient: Provided, however, that the court, or any judge thereof, may, for good cause shown, enlarge the time for filing exceptions, or for answering the same, in his discretion, upon such terms as he may deem reasonable.

64.

If, at the hearing, the exceptions shall be allowed, the defendant shall be bound to put in a full and complete answer thereto on the next succeeding rule day; otherwise the plaintiff shall, as of course, be entitled to take the bill, so far as the matter of such exceptions is concerned, as confessed, or, at his election, he may have a writ of attachment to compel the defendant to make a better answer to the matter of the exceptions; and the defendant, when he is in custody upon such writ, shall not be discharged therefrom but by an order of the court, or of a judge thereof, upon his putting in such answer, and complying with such other terms as the court or judge may direct.

65.

If, upon argument, the plaintiff's exceptions to the answer shall be overruled, or the answer shall be adjudged insufficient, the prevailing party shall be entitled to all the costs occasioned thereby, unless otherwise directed by the court, or the judge thereof, at the hearing upon the exceptions.

REPLICATION AND ISSUE.

66.

Whenever the answer of the defendant shall not be excepted to, or shall be adjudged or deemed sufficient, the plaintiff shall file the general replication thereto on or before the next succeeding rule day thereafter; and in all cases where the general replication is filed, the cause shall be deemed, to all intents and purposes, at issue, without any rejoinder or other pleading on either side. If the plaintiff shall omit or refuse to file such replication within the prescribed period, the defendant shall be entitled to an order, as of course, for a dismissal of the suit; and the suit shall thereupon stand dismissed unless the court, or a judge thereof, shall, upon motion, for cause shown, allow a replication to be filed nunc pro tunc, the plaintiff submitting to speed the cause, and to such other terms as may be directed.

TESTIMONY—HOW TAKEN.

67.

After the cause is at issue, commissions to take testimony may be taken out in vacation as well as in term, jointly by both parties, or severally by either party, upon interrogatories filed by the party taking out the same in the clerk's office, ten days' notice thereof being given to the adverse party to file cross-interrogatories before the issuing of the commission; and if no cross-interrogatories are filed at the expiration of the time, the commission may issue ex parte. In all cases the commissioner or commissioners shall be named by the court, or by a judge thereof. If the parties shall so agree, the testimony may be taken upon oral interrogatories by the parties or their agents, without filing any written interrogatories.

DECEMBER TERM, 1854.

Ordered, That the sixty-seventh rule, governing equity practice, be so amended as to allow the presiding judge of any court exercising jurisdiction, either in term time or in vacation, to vest in the clerk of said court general power to name commissioners to take testimony in like manner that the court or judge thereof can now do by the said sixty-seventh rule.

DECEMBER TERM, 1861.

Ordered, That the last paragraph in the sixty-seventh rule in equity be repealed, and the rule be amended as follows: Either party may give notice to the other that he desires the evidence to be adduced in the cause to be taken orally, and thereupon all the witnesses to be examined shall be examined before one of the examiners of the court, or before an examiner to be specially appointed by the court, the examiner to be furnished with a copy of the bill and answer, if any; and such examination shall take place in the presence of the parties, or their agents, by their counsel or solicitors, and the witnesses shall be subject to cross-examination and re-examination, and which shall be conducted as near as may be in the mode now used in common law courts. The depositions taken upon such oral examinations shall be taken down in writing by the examiner in the form of narrative, unless he determines the examination shall be by question and answer in special instances; and, when completed, shall be read over to the witness and signed by him in the presence of the parties or counsel, or such of them as may attend; provided, if the witness shall refuse to sign the said deposition, then the examiner shall sign the same; and the examiner may, upon all examinations, state any special matters to the court as he shall think fit; and any question or questions, which may be objected to, shall be noted by the examiner, upon the deposition, but he shall not have power to decide on the competency, materiality, or relevancy of the questions; and the court shall have power to deal with the costs of incompetent, immaterial, or irrelevant depositions, or parts of them, as may be just.

The compulsory attendance of witnesses.

In case of refusal of witnesses to attend, to be sworn, or to answer any question put by the examiner, or by counsel or solicitor, the same practice shall be adopted as is now practiced with respect to witnesses to be produced on examination before an examiner of said court, on written interrogatories.

Notice shall be given by the respective counsel or solicitors to the opposite counsel or solicitors, or parties, of the time and place of the examination, for such reasonable time as the examiner may fix by order in each cause.

When the examination of witnesses before the examiner is concluded, the original deposition, authenticated by the signature of the examiner, shall be transmitted by him to the clerk of the court, to be there filed of record, in the same mode as prescribed in the thirtieth section of act of Congress, September 24, 1789.

Testimony may be taken on commission in the usual way, by written interrogatories and cross-interrogatories, on motion to the court in term time, or to a judge in vacation, for special reasons satisfactory to the court or judge.

DECEMBER TERM, 1869.

Amendment to 67th Rule.

Where the evidence to be adduced in a cause is to be taken orally, as provided in the order passed at the December term, 1861, amending the 67th General Rule, the court may, on motion of either party, assign a time within which the complainant shall take his evidence in support of the bill, and a time thereafter within which the defendant shall take his evidence in defence, and a time thereafter within which the complainant shall take his evidence in reply; and no further evidence shall be taken in the cause, unless by agreement of the parties, or by leave of court first obtained on motion for cause shown.

68.

Testimony may also be taken in the cause, after it is at issue, by deposition, according to the acts of Congress. But in such case, if no notice is given to the adverse party of the time and place of taking the deposition, he shall, upon motion and affidavit of the fact, be entitled to a cross-examination of the witness, either under a commission or by a new deposition taken under the acts of Congress, if a court or a judge thereof shall, under all the circumstances, deem it reasonable.

69.

Three months, and no more, shall be allowed for the taking of testimony after the cause is at issue, unless the court or a judge thereof, shall, upon special cause shown by either party enlarge the time; and no testimony taken after such period shall be allowed to be read in evidence at the hearing. Immediately upon the return of the commissions and depositions containing the testimony into the clerk's office, publication thereof may be ordered in the clerk's office, by any judge of the court, upon due notice to the parties, or it may be enlarged, as he may deem reasonable under all the circumstances; but by consent of the parties publication of the testimony may at any time pass into the clerk's office, such consent being in writing, and a copy thereof entered in the order-books, or endorsed upon the deposition or testimony.

TESTIMONY DE BENE ESSE.

After any bill filed, and before the defendant hath answered the same, upon affidavit made that any of the plaintiff's witnesses are aged and infirm, or going out of the country, or that any one of them is a single witness to a material fact, the clerk of the court shall, as of course, upon the application of the plaintiff, issue a commission to such commissioner or commissioners as a judge of the court may direct, to take the examination of such witness or witnesses de bene esse, upon giving due notice to the adverse party of the time and place of taking his testimony.

FORM OF THE LAST INTERROGATORY.

71.

The last interrogatory in the written in terrogatories to take testimony now com monly in use shall in the future be altered, and stated in substance thus: "Do you know, or can you set forth, any other matter or thing which may be a benefit or advantage to the parties at issue in this cause, or either of them, or that may be material to the subject of this your examination, or the matters in question in this cause? If yea, set forth the same fully and at large in your answer."

CROSS-BILL.

72.

Where a defendant in equity files a cross-bill for discovery only against the plaintiff in the original bill, the defendant to the original bill shall first answer thereto before the original plaintiff shall be compellable to answer the cross-bill. The answer of the original plaintiff to such cross-bill may be read and used by the party filing the cross-bill at the hearing, in the same manner and under the same restrictions as the answer praying relief may now be read and used.

REFERENCE TO AND PROCEEDINGS BEFORE MASTERS.

73.

Every decree for an account of the personal estate of a testator or intestate shall contain a direction to the master, to whom it is referred to take the same, to inquire and state to the court what parts, if any, of such personal estate are outstanding or undisposed of, unless the court shall otherwise direct.

74.

Whenever any reference of any matter is made to a master to examine and report thereon, the party at whose instance or for whose benefit the reference is made shall cause the same to be presented to the master for a hearing on or before the next rule day succeeding the time when the reference was made; if he shall omit to do so, the adverse party shall be at liberty forthwith to cause proceedings to be had before the master, at the costs of the party procuring the reference.

Digitized by Google

75.

Upon every such reference it shall be the duty of the master, as soon as he reasonably can after the same is brought before him, to assign a time and place for proceedings in the same, and to give due notice thereof to each of the parties, or their solicitors; and if either party shall fail to appear at the time and place appointed, the master shall be at liberty to proceed ex parte, or, in his discretion, to adjourn the examination and proceedings to a future day, giving notice to the absent party or his solicitor of such adjournment; and it shall be the duty of the master to proceed with all reasonable diligence in every such reference, and with the least practicable delay, and either party shall be at liberty to apply to the court, or a judge thereof, for an order to the master to speed the proceedings, and to make his report, and to certify to the court or judge the reasons for any delay.

76.

In the reports made by the master to the court no part of any state of facts, charge, affidavit, deposition, examination, or answer brought in or used before them shall be stated or recited. But such state of facts, charge, affidavit, deposition, examination, or answer shall be identified, specified, and referred to, so as to inform the court what state of facts, charge, affidavit, deposition, examination, or answer were so brought in or used.

77.

The master shall regulate all the proceedings in every hearing before him, upon every such reference; and he shall have full authority to examine the parties in the cause, upon oath, touching all matters contained in the reference; and also to require the production of all books, papers, writings, vouchers, and other documents applicable thereto; and also to examine on oath, viva voce, all witnesses produced by the parties before him, and to order the examination of other witnesses to be taken, under a commission to be issued upon his certificate from the clerk's office, or by depositon, according to the acts of Congress, or otherwise, as hereinafter provided; and also to direct the mode in which the matters requiring evidence shall be proved before him; and generally to do all other acts, and direct all other inquiries and proceedings in the matters before him, which he may deem necessary and proper to the justice and merits thereof and the rights of the parties.

78.

Witnesses who live within the district may, upon due notice to the opposite party, be summoned to appear before the commissioner appointed to take testimony, or before a master or examiner appointed in any cause, by subpœna in the usual form, which may be issued by the clerk in blank, and filled up by the party praying the same, or by the commissioner, master, or examiner, requiring the attendance of the witnesses at the time and place specified, who shall be allowed for attendance the same compensation as for attendance in court; and if any witness shall refuse to appear, or give evidence, it shall be deemed a contempt of the court, which being certified to the clerk's office by the commissioner, master, or examiner, an attachment may issue thereupon by order of the court or of any judge thereof, in the same manner as if the contempt were for not attending, or for refusing to give testimony in the court. But nothing herein contained shall prevent the examination of witnesses viva voce when produced in open court, if the court shall, in its discretion, deem it advisable.

79.

All parties accounting before a master shall bring in their respective accounts in the form of debtor and creditor; and any of the other parties who shall not be satisfied with the accounts so brought in, shall be at liberty to examine the accounting party viva voce, or upon interrogatories, in the master's office, or by deposition, as the master shall direct.

80.

All affidavits, depositions, and documents, which have been previously made, read, or used in the court, upon any proceeding in any cause or matter, may be used before the master.

81.

The master shall be at liberty to examine any creditor or other person coming in to claim before him, either upon written interrogatories or viva voce, or in both modes, as the nature of the case may appear to him to require. The evidence upon such examinations shall be taken down by the master, or by some other person by his order and in his presence, if either party requires it, in order that the same may be used by the court, if necessary.

82.

The circuit courts may appoint standing masters in chancery in their respective districts, both the judges concurring in the appointment; and they may also appoint a master pro hac vice in any particular case. The compensation to be allowed to every master in chancery for his services in any particular case shall be fixed by the circuit court, in its discretion, having regard to all the circumstances thereof, and the compensation shall be charged upon and borne by such of the parties in the cause as the court shall direct. The master shall not retain his report as security for his compensation; but, when the compensation is allowed by the court, he shall be entitled to an attachment for the amount against the party who is ordered to pay the same, if, upon notice thereof, he does not pay it within the time prescribed by the court.

EXCEPTIONS TO REPORT OF MASTER.

83.

The master, as soon as his report is ready, shall return the same into the clerk's office, and the day of the return shall be entered by the clerk in the order-book. The parties shall have one month from the time of filing the report to file exceptions thereto; and, if no exceptions are within that period filed by either party, the report shall stand confirmed on the next rule day after the month expired. If exceptions are filed, they shall stand for hearing before the court, if the court is then in session; or, if not, then at the next sitting of the court which shall be held thereafter, by adjournment or otherwise.

84.

And, in order to prevent exceptions to reports from being filed for frivolous causes, or for mere delay, the party whose exceptions are overruled shall, for every exception overruled, pay costs to the other party, and for every exception allowed shall be entitled to costs; the cost to be fixed in each case by the court, by a standing rule of the circuit court.

DECREES.

85.

Clerical mistakes in decrees or decretal orders, or errors arising from any accidental slip or omission, may, at any time before an actual enrollment thereof, be corrected by order of the court or a judge thereof, upon petition, without the form or expense of a rehearing.

86.

In drawing up decrees and orders, neither the bill, nor answer, nor other pleadings, nor any part thereof, nor the report of any master, nor any other prior proceeding, shall be recited or stated in the decree or order; but the decree and order shall begin, in substance, as follows: "This cause came on to be heard (or to be further heard, as the case may be) at this term, and was argued by counsel; and thereupon, upon consideration thereof, it was ordered, adjudged, and decreed as follows, viz.:" [Here insert the decree or order.]

GUARDIANS AND PROCHEIN AMIS.

Guardians ad litem to defend a suit may be appointed by the court, or by any judge thereof, for infants or other persons who are under guardianship, or otherwise incapable to sue for themselves. All infants and other persons so incapable may sue by their guardians, if any, or by their prochein ami; subject, however, to such orders as the court may direct for the protection of infants and other persons.

88.

Every petition for a rehearing shall contain the special matter or cause on which such rehearing is applied for, shall be signed by counsel, and the facts therein stated, if not apparent on the record, shall be verified by the oath of the party, or by some other person. No rehearing shall be granted after the term at which the final decree of the court shall have been entered and recorded, if an appeal lies to the Supreme Court. But if no appeal lies, the petition may be admitted at any time before the end of the next term of the court, in the discretion of the court.

89.

The circuit courts (both judges concurring therein) may make any other and further rules and regulations for the practice, proceedings, and process, mesne and final, in their respective districts, not inconsistent with the rules hereby prescribed, in their discretion, and from time to time alter and amend the same.

90.

In all cases where the rules prescribed by this court or by the circuit court do not apply, the practice of the circuit court shall be regulated by the present practice of the High Court of Chancery in England, so far as the same may reasonably be applied consistently with the local circumstances and local conveniences of the district where the court is held, not as positive rules, but as furnishing just analogies to regulate the practice.

91.

Whenever, under these rules, an oath is or may be required to be taken, the party may, if conscientiously scrupulous of taking an oath, in lieu thereof make solemn affirmation to the truth of the facts stated by him.

DECEMBER TERM, 1863.

92.

Ordered, That in suits in equity for the foreclosure of mortgages in the circuit courts of the United States, or in any court of the Territories having jurisdiction of the same, a decree may be rendered for any balance that may be found due to the complainant over and above the proceeds of the sale or sales, and execution may issue for the collection of the same, as is provided in the 8th rule of this court regulating the equity practice, where the decree is solely for the payment of money.

The following provisions relating to equity practice are to be found in the act of 1st of June, 1872:

SEC. 7. That whenever notice is given of a motion for an injunction, out of a circuit court or district court of the United States, the court or judge thereof may, if there appear to be danger of irreparable injury from delay, grant an order restraining the act sought to be enjoined until the decision upon the motion. Such order may be granted with or without security, in the discretion of the court or judge: Provided, That no justice of the Supreme Court shall hear or allow any application for an injunction or restraining order except within the circuit to which he is allotted, and in causes pending in the circuit to which he is allotted, or in such causes at such place outside of the circuit as the parties may in writing stipulate, except in causes where such application cannot be heard by the circuit judge of the circuit, or the district judge of the district.

SEC. 13. That when in any suit in equity, commenced in any court of the United States, to enforce any legal or equitable lien or claim against real or personal property within the district where such suit is brought, one or more of the defendants therein shall not be an inhabitant of or found within the said district, or shall not voluntarily appear thereto, it shall be lawful for the court to make an order directing such absent defendant to appear, plead, answer, or demur to the complainant's bill at a certain day therein to be designated, which order shall be served on such absent defendant, if practicable, wherever found; or where such personal service is not practicable, such order shall be published in such manner as the court shall direct; and in case such absent defendant shall not appear, plead, answer, or demur within the time so limited, or within some further time to be allowed by the court, in its discretion, and upon proof of the service or publication of said order, and of the performance of the directions contained in the same, it shall be lawful for the court to entertain jurisdiction, and proceed to the hearing and adjudication of such suit in the same manner as if such absent defendant had been served with process within the said district, but said adjudication shall, as regards such absent defendant without appearance, affect his property within such district only.

RULES OF PRACTICE

FOR

THE COURTS OF THE UNITED STATES

IN ADMIRALTY AND MARITIME JURISDICTION, ON THE INSTANCE SIDE OF THE COURT, IN PURSUANCE OF THE ACT OF THE 23D OF AUGUST, 1842, CHAPTER 188.

1.

No mesne process shall issue from the district courts in any cause of admiralty and maritime jurisdiction until the libel, or libel of information, shall be filed in the clerk's office from which such process is to issue. All process shall be served by the marshal or by his deputy, or, where he or they are interested, by some discreet and disinterested person appointed by the court.

2.

In suits in personam the mesne process may be by a simple warrant of arrest of the person of the defendant, in the nature of a capias, or by a warrant of arrest of the person of the defendant, with a clause therein, that if he cannot be found, to attach his goods and chattels to the amount sued for; or if such property cannot be found, to attach his credits and effects to the amount sued for in the hands of the garnishees named therein; or by a simple monition, in the nature of a summons to appear and answer to the suit, as the libellant shall, in his libel or information, pray for or elect.

3.

In all suits in personam, where a simple warrant of arrest issues and is executed, the marshal may take bail, with sufficient sureties from the party arrested, by bond or stipulation, upon condition that he will appear in the suit and abide by all orders of the court, interlocutory or final, in the cause, and pay the money awarded by the final decree rendered therein in the court to which the process is returnable, or in any appellate court. And upon such bond or stipulation summary process of execution may and shall be issued against the principal and sureties by the court to which such process is returnable, to enforce the final decree so rendered, or upon appeal by the appellate court.

4.

In all suits in personam, where goods and chattels, or credits and effects, are attached under such warrant authorizing the same, the attachment may be dissolved by order of the court to which the same warrant is returnable, upon the defendant, whose property is so attached, giving a bond or stipulation, with sufficient sureties, to abide by all orders, interlocutory or final, of the court, and pay the amount awarded by the final decree rendered in the court to which the process is returnable, or in any appellate court; and upon such bond or stipulation, summary process of execution shall and may be issued against the principal and sureties by the court to which such warrant is returnable, to enforce the final decree so rendered, or upon appeal by the appellate court.

5.

Bonds or stipulations in admiralty suits may be given and taken in open court, or at chambers, or before any commissioner of the court who is authorized by the court to take affidavits of bail and depositions in cases pending before the court, or any commissioner of the United States authorized by law to take bail and affidavits in civil cases.

6.

In all suits in personam, where bail is taken, the court may, upon motion, for due cause shown, reduce the amount of the sum contained in the bond or stipulation therefor; and in all cases where a bond or stipulation is taken as bail, or upon dissolving an attachment of property as aforesaid, if either of the sureties shall become insolvent pending the suit, new sureties may be required by the order of the court to be given, upon motion and due proof thereof.

In suits in personam no warrant of arrest, either of the person or property of the defendant, shall issue for a sum exceeding five hundred dollars, unless by the special order of the court, upon affidavit or other proper proof, showing the propriety thereof.

8.

In all suits in rem against a ship, her tackle, sails, apparel, furniture, boats, or other appurtenances, if such tackle, sails, apparel, furniture, boats, or other appurtenances are in the possession or custody of any third person, the court may, after a due monition to such third person, and a hearing of the cause, if any, why the same should not be delivered over, award and decree that the same be delivered into the custody of the marshal or other proper officer, if, upon the hearing, the same is required by law and justice.

9.

In all cases of seizure, and in other suits and proceedings in rem, the process, unless otherwise provided for by statute, shall be by a warrant of arrest of the ship, goods, or other thing to be arrested; and the marshal shall thereupon arrest and take the ship, goods, or other thing into his possession for safe custody, and shall cause public notice thereof, and of the time assigned for the return of such process and the hearing of the cause to be given in such newspaper within the district as the district court shall order; and if there is no newspaper published therein, then in such other public places in the district as the court shall direct.

10.

In all cases where any goods or other things are arrested, if the same are perishable, or are liable to deterioration, decay, or injury, by being detained in custody pending the suit, the court may upon the application of either party, in its discretion, order the same or so much thereof to be sold as shall be perishable or liable to depreciation, decay, or injury; and the proceeds, or so much thereof as shall be a full security to satisfy in decree, to be brought into court to abide the event of the suit; or the court may, upon the application of the claimant, order a delivery thereof to him, upon a due appraisement, to be had under its direction, either upon the claimant's depositing in court so much money as the court shall order, or upon his giving a stipulation, with sureties, in such sum as the court shall direct, to abide by and pay the money awarded by the final decree rendered by the court, or the appellate court, if any appeal intervenes, as the one or the other course shall be ordered by the court.

11.

In like manner, where any ship shall be arrested, the same may, upon the application of the claimant, be delivered to him, upon a due appraisement, to be had under the direction of the court, upon the claimant's depositing in court so much money as the court shall order, or upon his giving a stipulation, with sureties, as aforesaid; and if the claimant shall decline any such application, then the court may, in its discretion, upon the application of either party, upon due cause shown, order a sale of such ship, and the proceeds thereof to be brought into court, or otherwise disposed of, as it may deem most for the benefit of all concerned.

12.

In all suits by material-men for supplies or repairs, or other necessaries, the libellant may proceed against the ship and freight in rem, or against the master or owner alone in personam.

13.

In all suits for mariner's wages the libellant may proceed against the ship, freight, and master, or against the ship and freight, or against the owner or the master alone, in personam.

14.

In all suits for pilotage the libellant may proceed against the ship and master, or against the ship, or against the owner alone, or the master alone, in personam.

15.

In all suits for damage by collision the libellant may proceed against the ship and master, or against the ship alone, or against the master or the owner alone, in personam.

16.

In all suits for an assault or beating on the high seas, or elsewhere within the admiralty and maritime jurisdiction, the suit shall be in personam only.

17.

In all suits against the ship or freight, founded upon a mere maritime hypothecation, either express or implied, of the master, for moneys taken up in a foreign port for supplies or repairs or other necessaries for the voyage, without any claim of marine interest, the libellant may proceed either in rem, or against the master or the owner alone in personam.

18.

In all suits on bottomry bonds, properly so called, the suit shall be in rem only against the property hypothecated, or the proceeds of the property, in whosesoever hands the same may be found, unless the master has, without authority, given the bottomry bond, or by his fraud or misconduct has avoided the same, or has subtracted the property, or unless the owner has, by his own misconduct or wrong, lost or subtracted the property, in which latter cases the suit may be in personam against the wrong-doer.

19.

In all suits for salvage, the suit may be in rem against the property saved, or the proceeds thereof; or in personam against the party at whose request and for whose benefit the salvage service has been performed.

20.

In all petitory and possessory suits between part owners or adverse proprietors, or by the owners of a ship, or the majority thereof, against the master of a ship, for the ascertainment of the title and delivery of the possession, or for the possession only, or by one or more part owners against the others to obtain security for the return of the ship from any voyage undertaken without their consent, or by one or more part owners against the others to obtain possession of the ship for any voyage, upon giving security for the safe return thereof, the process shall be by an arrest of the ship, and by a monition to the adverse party or parties to appear and make answer to the suit.

21.

In all cases of a final decree for the payment of money, the libellant shall have a writ of execution, in the nature of a fieri facias, commanding the marshal or his deputy to levy and collect the amount thereof out of the goods and chattels, lands and tenements, or other real estate, of the defendant or stipulators.

22.

All informations and libels of information upon seizures for any breach of the revenue, or navigation, or other laws of the United States, shall state the place of seizure, whether it be on land or on the high seas, or on navigable waters within the admiralty and maritime jurisdiction of the United States, and the district within which the property is brought, and where it then is. The information or libel of information shall also propound in distinct articles the matters relied on as grounds or causes of forfeiture, and aver the same to be contrary to the form of the statute or statutes of the United States in such case provided, as the case may require, and shall conclude with a prayer of due process to enforce the forfeiture, and to give notice to all persons concerned in interest to appear and show cause at the return day of the process why the forfeiture should not be decreed.

23.

All libels in instance causes, civil or maritime, shall state the nature of the cause; as, for example, that it is a cause, civil and maritime, of contract, or of tort or damage, or of salvage, or of possession, or otherwise, as the case may be; and, if the libel be in rem, that the property is within the district; and, if in personam, the names and occupations and places of residence of the parties. The libel shall also propound and articulate in distinct articles the various allegations of fact upon which the libellant relies in support of his suit, so that the defendant may be enabled to answer distinctly and separately the several matters contained in each article; and it shall conclude with a prayer of due process to enforce his rights, in rem or in personam (as the case may require), and for such relief and redress as the court is competent to give in the premises. And the libellant may further require the defendant to answer on oath all interrogatories propounded by him touching all and singular the allegations in the libel at the close or conclusion thereof.

24.

In all informations and libels in causes of admiralty and maritime jurisdiction, amendments in matters of form may be made at any time, on motion to the court, as of course. And new counts may be filed, and amendments in matters of substance may be made, upon motion at any time before the final decree, upon such terms as the court shall impose. And where any defect of form is set down by the defendant upon special exceptions and is allowed, the court may, in granting leave to amend, impose terms upon the libellant.

In all cases of libels in personam the court may in its discretion, upon the appearance of the defendant, where no bail has been taken, and no attachment of property has been made to answer the exigency of the suit, require the defendant to give a stipulation, with sureties, in such sum as the court shall direct, to pay all costs and expenses which shall be awarded against him in the suit, upon the final adjudication thereof, or by any interlocutory order in the progress of the suit.

26.

In suits in rem, the party claiming the property shall verify his claim on oath or solemn affirmation, stating that the claimant, by whom or on whose behalf the claim is made, is the true and bona fide owner, and that no other person is the owner thereof. And where the claim is put in by an agent or consignee, he shall also make oath that he is duly authorized thereto by the owner; or if the property be, at the time of the arrest, in the possession of the master of a ship, that he is the lawful bailee thereof for the owner. And, upon putting in such claim, the claimant shall file a stipulation, with sureties, in such sum as the court shall direct, for the payment of all costs and expenses which shall be awarded against him by the final decree of the court, or, upon an appeal, by the appellate court.

In all libels in causes of civil and maritime jurisdiction, whether in rem or in personam, the answer of the defendant to the allegations in the libel shall be on oath or solemn affirmation; and the answer shall be full and explicit and distinct to each separate article and separate allegation in the libel, in the same order as numbered in the libel, and shall also answer in like manner each interrogatory propounded at the close of the libel.*

* Vide post, 49th rule, page 359.

The libellant may except to the sufficiency, or fullness, or distinctness, or relevancy of the answer to the articles and interrogatories in the libel; and, if the court shall adjudge the same exceptions, or any of them, to be good and valid, the court shall order the defendant forthwith, within such time as the court shall direct, to answer the same, and may further order the defendant to pay such costs as the court shall adjudge reasonable.

29.

If the defendant shall omit or refuse to make due answer to the libel upon the return day of the process, or other day assigned by the court, the court shall pronounce him to be in contumacy and default; and thereupon the libel shall be adjudged to be taken pro confesso against him, and the court shall proceed to hear the cause ex parte, and adjudge therein as to law and justice shall appertain. But the court may, in its discretion, set aside the default, and, upon the application of the defendant, admit him to make answer to the libel, at any time before the final hearing and decree, upon his payment of all the costs of the suit up to the time of granting leave therefor.

30.

In all cases where the defendant answers, but does not answer fully and explicitly and distinctly to all the matters in any article of the libel, and exception is taken thereto by the libellant, and the exception is allowed, the court may, by attachment, compel the defendant to make further answer thereto, or may direct the matter of the exception to be taken pro confesso against the defendant, to the full purport and effect of the article to which it purports to answer, and as if no answer had been put in thereto.

31.

The defendant may object, by his answer, to answer any allegation or interrogatory contained in the libel, which will expose him to any prosecution or punishment for a crime, or for any penalty or any forfeiture of his property for any penal offence.

32.

The defendant shall have a right to require the personal answer of the libellant upon oath or solemn affirmation to any interrogatories which he may, at the close of his answer, propound to the libellant touching any matters charged in the libel, or touching any matter of defence set up in the answer, subject to the like exception as to matters which shall expose the libellant to any prosecution, or punishment, or forfeiture, as is provided in the thirty-first rule. In default of due answer by the libellant to such interrogatories, the court may adjudge the libellant to be in default, and dismiss the libel, or may compel his answer in the premises by attachment, or take the subject-matter of the interrogatory pro confesso in favor of the defendant, as the court, in its discretion, shall deem most fit to promote public justice.

Digitized by Google

Where either the libellant or the defendant is out of the country, or unable, from sickness, or other casualty, to make an answer to any interrogatory on oath or solemn affirmation at the proper time, the court may, in its discretion, in furtherance of the due administration of justice, dispense therewith, or may award a commission to take the answer of the defendant when and as soon as it may be practicable.

34.

If any third person shall intervene in any cause of admiralty and maritime jurisdiction in rem for his own interest, and he is entitled, according to the cause of admiralty proceedings, to be heard for his own interest therein, he shall propound the matter in suitable allegations, to which, if admitted by the court, the other party or parties in the suit may be required, by order of the court, to make due answer; and such further proceedings shall be had and decree rendered by the court therein as to law and justice shall appertain. But every such intervenor shall be required, upon filing his allegations, to give a stipulation, with sureties, to abide by the final decree rendered in the cause, and to pay all such costs and expenses and damages as shall be awarded by the court upon the final decree, whether it is rendered in the original or appellate court.

35.

The stipulations required by the last preceding rule, or on appeal or in any other admiralty or maritime proceeding, shall be given and taken in the manner prescribed by rule fifth as amended.

36.

Exceptions may be taken to any libel, allegation, or answer, for surplusage, irrelevancy, impertinence, or scandal; and if, upon reference to a master, the exception shall be reported to be so objectionable, and allowed by the court, the matter shall be expunged, at the cost and expense of the party in whose libel or answer the same is found.

37.

In cases of foreign attachment, the garnishee shall be required to answer on oath or solemn affirmation as to the debts, credits, or effects of the defendant in his hands, and to such interrogatories touching the same as may be propounded by the libellant; and if he shall refuse or neglect so to do, the court may award compulsory process in personam against him. If he admits any debts, credits, or effects, the same shall be held in his hands, liable to answer the exigency of the suit.

38.

In cases of mariners' wages, or bottomry, or salvage, or other proceedings in rem, where freight or other proceeds of property are attached to or are bound by the suit, which are in the hands or possession of any person, the court may, upon due application, by petition of the party interested, require the party charged with the possession thereof to appear and show cause why the same should not be brought into court to answer the exigency of the suit; and, if no sufficient cause be shown, the court may order the same to be brought into court to answer the exigency of the suit; and upon failure of the party to comply with the order, may award an attachment, or other compulsive process, to compel obedience thereto.

39.

If, in any admiralty suit, the libellant shall not appear and prosecute his suit, according to the course and orders of the court, he shall be deemed in default and contumacy, and the court may, upon the application of the defendant, pronounce the suit to be deserted, and the same may be dismissed with costs.

40.

The court may, in its discretion, upon the motion of the defendant and the payment of costs, rescind the decree in any suit in which, on account of his contumacy and default, the matter of the libel shall have been decreed against him, and grant a rehearing thereof at any time within ten days after the decree has been entered, the defendant submitting to such further orders and terms in the premises as the court may direct.

Digitized by Google

41.

All sales of property under any decree of admiralty shall be made by the marshal or his deputy, or other proper officer, assigned by the court, where the marshal is a party in interest, in pursuance of the orders of the court; and the proceeds thereof, when sold, shall be forthwith paid into the registry of the court by the officer making the sale, to be disposed of by the court according to law.

42.

All moneys paid into the registry of the court shall be deposited in some bank designated by the court, and shall be so deposited in the name of the court, and shall not be drawn out, except by a check or checks, signed by a judge of the court, and countersigned by the clerk, stating on whose account and for whose use it is drawn, and in what suit and out of what fund in particular it is paid. The clerk shall keep a regular book, containing a memorandum and copy of all the checks so drawn and the date thereof.

43.

Any person having an interest in any proceeds in the registry of the court shall have a right, by petition and summary proceeding, to intervene pro interesse suo for a delivery thereof to him; and upon due notice to the adverse parties, if any, the court shall and may proceed summarily to hear and decide thereon, and to decree therein according to law and justice. And if such petition or claim shall be deserted, or, upon a hearing be dismissed, the court may, in its discretion, award costs against the petitioner in favor of the adverse party.

44.

In cases where the court shall deem it expedient or necessary for the purposes of justice, the court may refer any matters arising in the progress of the suit to one or more commissioners, to be appointed by the court to hear the parties and make report therein. And such commissioner or commissioners shall have and possess all the powers in the premises which are usually given to or exercised by masters in chancery in reference to them, including the power to administer oaths to and to examine the parties and witnesses touching the premises.

45.

All appeals from the district to the circuit court must be made while the court is sitting, or within such other period as shall be designated by the district court by its general rules, or by an order specially made in the particular suit, or in case no such rule or order be made, then within thirty days from the rendering of the decree.

46.

In all cases not provided for by the foregoing rules the district and circuit courts are to regulate the practice of the said courts respectively, in such manner as they shall deem most expedient for the due administration of justice in suits in admiralty.

47.

In all suits in personam, where a simple warrant of arrest issues and is executed, bail shall be taken by the marshal and the court in those cases only in which it is required by the laws of the State where an arrest is made upon similar or analogous process issuing from the State courts.

An imprisonment for debt, on process issuing out of the admiralty court, is abolished in all cases where, by the laws of the State in which the court is held, imprisonment for debt has been, or shall be hereafter, abolished, upon similar or analogous process issuing from a State court.

The twenty-seventh rule shall not apply to cases where the sum or value in dispute does not exceed fifty dollars, exclusive of costs, unless the district court shall be of opinion that the proceedings prescribed by that rule are necessary for the purposes of justice in the case before the court.

All rules and parts of rules heretofore adopted inconsistent with this order are hereby repealed and annulled.

Further proof, taken in a circuit court upon an admiralty appeal, shall be by deposition, taken before some commissioner appointed by a circuit court, pursuant to the acts of Congress in that behalf, or before some officer authorized to take depositions by the thirtieth section of the act of Congress of the 24th of September, 1789, upon an oral examination and cross-examination, unless the court in which such appeal shall be pending, or one of the judges thereof, shall, upon motion, allow a commission to issue to take such depositions upon written interrogatories and cross-interrogatories. When such deposition shall be taken by oral examination, a notification from the magistrate before whom it is to be taken, or from the clerk of the court in which such appeal shall be pending, to the adverse party to be present at the taking of the same, and to put interrogatories, if he think fit, shall be served on the adverse party or his attorney, allowing time for their attendance after being notified not less than twenty-four hours, and in addition thereto one day, Sundays exclusive, for every twenty miles' travel; provided, that the court in which such appeal may be pending, or either of the judges thereof, may, upon motion, increase or diminish the length of notice above required.

When oral evidence shall be taken down by the clerk of the district court, pursuant to the above-mentioned section of the act of Congress, and shall be transmitted to the circuit court, the same may be used in evidence on the appeal, saving to each party the right to take the depositions of the same witnesses, or either of them, if he should so elect.

51.

When the defendant, in his answer, alleges new facts, these shall be considered as denied by the libellant, and no replication, general or special, shall be allowed. But within such time after the answer is filed as shall be fixed by the district court, either by general rule or by special order, the libellant may amend his libel, so as to confess and avoid, or explain or add to, the new matters set forth in the answer; and within such time as may be fixed, in like manner, the defendant shall answer such amendments.

52.

The clerks of the district courts shall make up the records to be transmitted to the circuit courts on appeals, so that the same shall contain the following:

1. The style of the court.

2. The names of the parties, setting forth the original parties, and those who have become parties before the appeal, if any change has taken place.

3. If bail was taken, or property was attached or arrested, the process of the arrest or attachment and the service thereof; all bail and stipulations; and, if any sale has been made, the orders, warrants, and reports relating thereto.

4. The libel, with exhibits annexed thereto.

5. The pleadings of the defendant, with the exhibits annexed thereto.

6. The testimony on the part of the libellant, and any exhibits not annexed to the libel.

7. The testimony on the part of the defendant, and any exhibits not annexed to his pleadings.

8. Any order of the court to which exception was made.

9. Any report of an assessor or assessors, if excepted to, with the orders of the court respecting the same, and the exceptions to the report. If the report was not excepted to, only the fact that a reference was made, and so much of the report as shows what results were arrived at by the assessor, are to be stated.

10. The final decree.

11. The prayer for an appeal, and the action of the district court thereon; and no reasons of appeal shall be filed or inserted in the transcript.

The following shall be omitted:

1. The continuances.

2. All motions, rules, and orders not excepted to, which are merely preparatory for trial.

3. The commissions to take depositions, notices therefor, their captions, and certificates of their being sworn to, unless some exception to a deposition in the district court was founded on some one or more of these; in which case, so much of either of them as may be involved in the exception shall be set out. In all other cases it shall be sufficient to give the name of the witness, and to copy the interrogatories and answers, and to state the name of the commissioner, and the place where and the date when the deposition was sworn to; and, in copying all depositions taken on interrogatories, the answer shall be inserted immediately following the question.

The clerk of the district court shall page the copy of the record thus made up, and shall make an index thereto, and he shall certify the entire document, at the end thereof, under the seal of the court, to be a transcript of the record of the district court in the cause named at the beginning of the copy made up pursuant to this rule; and no other certificate of the record shall be needful or inserted.

53.

Whenever a cross-libel is filed upon any counter-claim, arising out of the same cause of action for which the original libel was filed, the respondents in the cross-libel shall give security in the usual amount and form, to respond in damages, as claimed in said cross-libel, unless the court, on cause shown, shall otherwise direct; and all proceedings upon the original libel shall be stayed until such security shall be given.

Supplementary rules of practice in admiralty, under the act of March 3, 1851, entitled "An act to limit the liability of ship-owners, and for other purposes."

54.

When any ship or vessel shall be libelled, or the owner or owners thereof shall be sued, for any embezzlement, loss, or destruction by the master, officers, mariners, passengers, or any other person or persons, of any property, goods, or merchandise, shipped or put on board of such ship or vessel, or for any loss, damage, or injury by collision, or for any act, matter, or thing, loss, damage, or forfeiture done, occasioned, or incurred, without the privity or knowledge of such owner or owners, and he or they shall desire to claim the benefit of limitation of liability provided for in the third and fourth sections of the said act above recited, the said owner or owners shall and may file a libel or petition in the proper district court of the United States, as hereinafter specified, setting forth the facts and circumstances on which such limitation of liability is claimed, and praying proper relief in that behalf; and thereupon said court, having caused due appraisement to be had of the amount or value of the interest of said owner or owners, respectively, in such ship or vessel, and her freight, for the voyage, shall make an order for the payment of the same into court, or for the giving of a stipulation, with sureties, for payment thereof into court whenever the same shall be ordered; or, if the said owner or owners shall so elect, the said court shall, without such appraisement, make an order for the transfer by him or them of his or their interest in such vessel and freight, to a trustee to be appointed by the court under the fourth section of said act; and, upon compliance with such order, the said court shall issue a monition against all persons claiming damages for any such embezzlement, loss, destruction, damage, or injury, citing them to appear before the said court and make due proof of their respective claims at or before a certain time to be named in said writ, not less than three months from the issuing of the same; and public notice of such monition shall be given as in other cases, and such further notice served through the post-office, or otherwise, as the court, in its discretion, may direct; and the said court shall, also, on the application of the said owner or owners, make an order to restrain the further prosecution of all and any suit or suits against said owner or owners in respect of any such claim or claims.

55.

Proof of all claims which shall be presented in pursuance of said monition, shall be made before a commissioner to be designated by the court, subject to the right of any person interested to question or controvert the same; and, upon the completion of said proofs, the commissioner shall make report of the claims so proven, and upon confirmation of said report, after hearing any exceptions thereto, the moneys paid or secured to be paid into court as aforesaid, or the proceeds of said ship or vessel and freight (after payment of costs and expenses), shall be divided pro rata amongst the several claimants, in proportion to the amount of their respective claims, duly proved and confirmed as aforesaid, saving, however, to all parties any priority to which they may be legally entitled.

In the proceedings aforesaid, the said owner or owners shall be at liberty to contest his or their liability, or the liability of said ship or vessel for said embezzlement, loss, destruction, damage, or injury (independently of the limitation of liability claimed under said act), provided that, in his or their libel or petition, he or they shall state the facts and circumstances by reason of which exemption from liability is claimed; and any person or persons claiming damages as aforesaid, and who shall have presented his or their claim to the commissioner under oath, shall and may answer such libel or petition, and contest the right of the owner or owners of said ship or vessel, either to an exemption from liability, or to a limitation of liability under the said act of Congress, or both.

The said libel or petition shall be filed, and the said proceedings had in any district court of the United States in which said ship or vessel may be libelled to answer for any such embezzlement, loss, destruction, damage, or injury; or, if the said ship or vessel be not libelled, then in the district court for any district in which the said owner or owners may be sued in that behalf. If the ship have already been libelled and sold, the proceeds shall represent the same for the purposes of these rules.

The New Rules in Bankruptcy promulgated by the Supreme Court of the United States, April, 1875, will be found in the Appendix at the end of this work.

LACEY'S DIGEST OF RAILWAY DECISIONS.

A COMPLETE AND EXHAUSTIVE

Digest of all the American Decisions upon the Law of Railways

INCLUDING ALL CASES IN WHICH RAILROADS HAVE BEEN PARTIES.

BY JOHN F. LACEY, OF THE IOWA BAR.

"On the whole, we know not whether most to commend the author, who, in the midst of an active and exacting practice, could have the patience to complete in so thorough a manner a task of such magnitude, or the publishers whose good taste has given us a volume of such beauty and mechanical excellence."—Southern Law Review.

"Considering the difficulty of the task undertaken by Mr. Lacey, and the great amount of labor required to complete it, we are pleased to be able to say, after a careful examination of his work, that he has performed it ably, faithfully, and in a manner that will be satisfactory to the American Bar."—Chicago Legal News.

"The author has done his work carefully and well. It has all the requisites of a first-class modern digest—appropriate titles and subdivisions—a running head at the top of each page—a catch-word, in full-face type, at the head of each section—cross references—table of cases and of overruled cases, and an analytical index."—Judge Dillon, in "Central Law Journal."

The work is issued in one very large volume, of 1,000 pages, and will be sent to any address on receipt of the price, $10.

WISCONSIN REPORTS.

INCLUDING:

*Pinney's	Reports,	3	vols.
Smith's	" (1 to 11 Wis.)	11	"
Spooner's	" (12 to 15 Wis.)	4	"
Conover's	" (16 to 34 Wis.)	19	"

*Pinney's Reports include all the cases published in "Burnett's and Chandler's Reports," and, in addition, the cases decided between 1842 and 1849, which were not before reported, thus making a complete and consecutive series of Reports from the organization of the Territory to the present time.

WE HAVE JUST ISSUED A NEW EDITION OF THE FIRST TWENTY VOLUMES, WITH NOTES AND REFERENCES, TO OTHER DECISIONS THROUGHOUT THE SERIES, thus enabling the lawyer to obtain by one reference a full line of all the decisions upon the same subject. This work has been very carefully done by Chief Justice Dixon and Messrs. Vilas and Bryant, and adds very greatly to the practical utility of the set. The whole set is printed on superfine paper, and bound uniformly in a manner equal to the best text-books.

NEW LAW BOOKS.

HIGH ON EXTRAORDINARY LEGAL REMEDIES.

A TREATISE ON THE LAW OF EXTRAORDINARY LEGAL REMEDIES, EMBRACING MANDAMUS, QUO WARRANTO, AND PROHIBITION.

By JAMES L. HIGH,

Author of a Treatise on the Law of Injunctions.

"Its merits are, I think, of a very high order."—Hon. Samuel F. Miller, U. S. Supreme Court.

"To judge from internal evidence, we think that Mr. HIGH'S book is worthy of all praise."—London Law Magazine and Review

"Mr. HIGH has already won the favor of the profession by his valuable work on Injunctions, published a year ago. The present admirable book increases our obligations to him."—American Law Review.

"No American writer has treated the subject with any approach to the thoroughness and fullness of Mr. HIGH."—Central Law Journal.

"As a law-writer he is careful, accurate, able and laborious; and as a consequence, the more a work written by him is used by the profession, the more it will be prized."—Chicago Legal News.

"An examination of the present work shows that care and faithfulness which the author exhibited in his work on Injunctions."—Albany Law Journal.

"We have been considerably occupied since the receipt of this volume with other editorial labors, but we have nevertheless taken time to read thi treatise from the beginning to the end, and it is with pleasure that we can say that, much as we expected from the author, these expectations were more than realized."—American Law Record.

"I think Mr. HIGH'S work on Extraordinary Legal Remedies has great merit."—Hon. Theophilus Parsons.

"The principles underlying the decisions on this important branch of the law are stated concisely and clearly, and expressed in pure vigorous English."—Chicago Tribune.

"The author has performed his work well. This treatise is full and satisfactory, and will be of great value to the practitioner."—Legal Intelligencer.

"In all its details the book shows the marks of exceeding care and a determination to make it as nearly perfect as possible."—Chicago Evening Journal.

"We sincerely believe that the treatise before us is justly entitled to be considered as an accurate, exhaustive and able work, greatly adding to Mr. HIGH'S reputation as a thinker, lawyer and writer."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

The work is printed in one volume, of over 700 pages, and will be sent to any address on receipt of price, $7.50.

HIGH ON INJUNCTIONS.

A TREATISE ON THE LAW OF INJUNCTIONS AS ADMINISTERED IN THE COURTS OF ENGLAND AND AMERICA.

By JAMES L. HIGH,

Of the Chicago Bar.

"By his clear, cogent and comprehensive mode of investigating, thinking and writing, Mr. HIGH has invested the subject with new force and dignity, and elevated himself into the front rank of legal authors. In the midst of such a profusion of good, bad and indifferent books as is being foisted upon the profession, it is a pleasure to find a work so free from errors, so exhaustive in detail, so grand in design, so perfect in execution, so superlative in all respects, as that of Mr. HIGH'S on Injunctions—a work which the profession, neither in England nor America, can afford to be without."—Albany Law Journal.

"The impression it makes upon me is exceedingly favorable."—Hon. Theophilus Parsons.

"We do not hesitate to recommend the book as of great value."—Boston Post.

"The chief merit of the book seems to consist in the thoroughness of preparation, clearness of apprehension of the matter settled, and general accuracy of statement of the principles to be elicited from each of the cases coming under the cognizance of the author."—Hon. Emory Washburn.

"The book is remarkable at once for its conciseness and perspicuity."—Chicago Evening Post.

"It is hardly possible to speak of this work as it so richly deserves without a careful and connected perusal of its exhaustive pages. * * * He seems to have availed himself of every material calculated to aid in the production of the work which he was evidently ambitious to write, and which he hoped to make of lasting benefit to his profession."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

"Of the long list of law books, of recent date, we think none deserve a higher rank than this treatise upon the Law of Injunctions."—St. Louis Law News

"It is but justice to Mr. HIGH to say that his book is prepared from his own materials, and that we deem it a more useful work on Injunctions for the American lawyer's library than any other we have yet seen."—United States Jurist.

It is published in One Volume of 700 pages, and will be sent to any address on receipt of price, $7.50.

RORER ON JUDICIAL SALES.

A TREATISE ON THE LAW OF JUDICIAL AND EXECUTION SALES, AS ADMINISTERED IN THE AMERICAN COURTS.

By Hon. DAVID RORER, of the Iowa Bar.

"The work bears proof on every page of original and exhaustive labor."—Chicago Tribune.

"To the lawyer in active practice it will be of extreme value, and a most important aid to sheriffs and others into whose hands the execution of the final process of the Court is intrusted."—Boston Post.

"The work which he has furnished the profession is full and comprehensive, and in all respects worthy of their approval."—Albany Law Journal.

"It is a valuable addition to law literature, and one that the bonâ-fide practitioner has long needed."—Pacific Law Reporter.

"The work is a valuable compendium of a branch of the law which has grown rapidly in importance in the last twenty-five years."—Hon. Samuel F. Miller. Associate Justice U. S. Supreme Court.

"The time I have had to look into the work was sufficient to satisfy me of its great merit."—Hon. J. M. Beck, Chief Justice Supreme Court, Iowa.

Printed in one volume, 8vo. Price, $6.00.

BISSELL'S UNITED STATES CIRCUIT COURT REPORTS

Reports of Cases Argued and Determined in the United States Circuit and District Courts for the Seventh Judicial Circuit, comprising the States of Illinois, Indiana, and Wisconsin.

By JOSIAH H. BISSELL, Official Reporter.

Vols. 1 2, 3, and 4, now ready, Vol. 5 in press. Price, $7.50 per Vol.

This series is designed to include the Leading Decisions of the United States Courts for the Seventh Circuit since the time of McLean's Reports, and to form with them a continuous series to the present time.

No case has been reported unless found to be of unquestionable importance and usefulness, and the value of those reported has been greatly enhanced by the introduction of very elaborate and accurate notes and references by the Reporter to other and leading cases upon the same point.

Following are the Judges whose opinions are published in this series:

Hon. John McLean, Associate Justice U. S Supreme Court.
Hon. David Davis, Associate Justice U. S. Supreme Court.
Hon. Thos. Drummond, Circuit Judge Seventh Judicial Circuit.
Hon. Andrew G. Miller, District Judge District of Wisconsin.
Hon. Samuel H. Treat, District Judge Southern District of Illinois.
Hon. Elisha M. Huntington, District Judge District of Indiana.
Hon. David McDonald, District Judge District of Indiana.
Hon. Walter Q. Gresham, District Judge District of Indiana.
Hon. H. W Blodgett, District Judge Northern District of Illinois.
Hon. James C. Hopkins, District Judge Western District of Wisconsin.

Either of the above can be had by addressing

UNITED STATES LAW ASSOCIATION,
Messrs. ULMAN & REMINGTON:

Gentlemen:—I think it is now about two years and a half since we first made your Association our collecting Attorneys, and of the large number of claims we have placed in your hands, you have, without exception, treated them to our entire satisfaction.

What we chiefly commend in your system and practice is, your promptness in keeping us posted on the situation.

Prompt action and prompt remittance of proceeds of collection, your careful and cheerful attention to small claims, as well as large, makes our business relations agreeable to us.

We find your legal opinions and advice none the less valuable, though given to us freely on application.

Truly yours,
THE HART, BLIVEN & MEAD MFG. Co.,
EDWD. B. MEAD, Treasurer.

UNITED STATES LAW ASSOCIATION,

Messrs. ULMAN & REMINGTON:

Gentlemen:—It gives us pleasure to bear testimony to the value of your Association as a collecting medium.

For the past four years we have confided our "doubtful claims" and "suspense accounts" to you with the most gratifying results, feeling that you have saved us thousands of dollars, while we have escaped the annoyance incidental to the prosecution of such claims in the ordinary way, and avoided the necessity of giving them our personal attention.

Respectfully,
C. T. RAYNOLDS & CO.

SCHUYLER, HARTLEY & GRAHAM,

Messrs. ULMAN & REMINGTON,
DIRECTORS U. S. LAW ASSOCIATION:

Gentlemen:—Since 1868 we have placed a large amount of business in your hands, which we are pleased to say has been managed by you to our entire satisfaction.

We find your advice uniformly advantageous, your attention to business prompt and energetic, and information given and returns made on collections by you with the utmost promptness.

Very respectfully,
SCHUYLER, HARTLEY & GRAHAM.

APPENDIX OF FORMS OF NOTES.

The following is a Note in use in New York State, and in all the States where the law merchant, or common law, is in force.

The law merchant, or common law, requires that a Note should be presented for payment at its maturity, and if not paid by the maker, that notice must be given without delay to the endorser of such non-payment, in order to hold the endorser. The protest of a Note by a notary public, under his seal, is the most direct and least troublesome manner of proving the fact of non-payment and notice.

No defence can be made by the maker of the Note in the hands of a third party for value, if the Note has passed before maturity; the exception to this rule, however, is where the Note is given for a gambling consideration, or where the Note is tainted by usury at its inception.

The same laws apply to Checks and Bills with the addition that notice of non-acceptance or non-payment must be given to the drawer in order to fix his liability.

.....Dollars, ... Value received.
No..... Due..... .....

In those States where any peculiar form is necessary to comply with the Statute, they are given below.

In other of the States referred to in the Digest, no form has been devised whereby the peculiarities of the Statute can be overcome.

The Statute of this State makes all "promissory notes payable in money at a bank or private banking-house governed by the commercial law." This is all that is required to make the Note a negotiable one, and governed by the mercantile law as to days of grace, protest, and notice.

The ordinary form is all that is requisite to make a good Note, and its commercial character is determined by the fact that it calls for a payment in money at a bank or banker's.

If not payable at a bank or banking-house it is not governed by mercantile law.

.....

These are the usual forms used in California, merely varying to suit the circumstances. The interest may be payable at any rate agreed upon; and if payable monthly, quarterly, annually, or otherwise, before maturity of the principal, express it thus:

"Interest payable monthly;" or,

"Interest payable annually."

Interest is frequently payable in advance, and may be compounded if so expressed. Forms are as various as the fancies of the writers, and any written promise to pay absolutely a sum certain, at a time certain, or on demand to "bearer," or to the payee "or order," or to "the order of" any person, is a negotiable Note in California.

If made payable to the payee without the words "or order," "or bearer," or some equivalent expression, the Note is non-negotiable, but may be assigned subject to off-sets between the original parties.

When a Note is made payable at a bank within the State an attachment will issue without suit for its collection.

When made payable out of the State, or payable generally, it must be sued upon and judgment obtained before execution will issue.

The undersigned, principal, and the endorsers of this Note, which is filled up before signing, waive demand, notice and protest thereof, and guarantee payment of the same, without any relief whatever, from any valuation, appraisement, exemption or stay laws, now in force or hereafter to be enacted.

The Legislature at its recent session, 1875, passed an act by which heads of family entitled to benefit of Homestead and Exemption can waive the same by deed or mortgage where the debt intended to be secured is for plantation or household supplies, or clothing for the family; and such waiver shall be binding on all persons entitled, if said deed or mortgage had not been given, to apply for a homestead or exemption of personalty.

Also, at the same session. The legal rate of interest in the absence of a contract for a special rate is fixed at seven per cent.

Parties may agree in writing to pay twelve per cent.; any rate more than twelve per cent. charged is usury, and the party so charging forfeits the whole interest and such amount charged in excess of twelve per cent.; and any defendant may plead such forfeit as a set-off in any action for the recovery of the principal sum loaned or advanced.

Up to the late session parties could agree on any rate, in fact; there were no usury laws.

Suits for such usury paid must be within one year from time paid.

ILLINOIS.

$..... .....187..

.....after date.....promise to pay to the order of.....,
.....Dollars, at.....

Value received, with interest at ten per cent. per annum.

No..... Due..... .....

The above Note embodies all that by law is required in Illinois to constitute a valid Note. Notes are both joint and several—the holder may proceed against all or any one of the makers. If it is sought to charge the separate estate of a married woman, fit words must be used in the Note, as: "The maker, Mrs. Lucy Stone, expressly charges her separate estate with the payment of this Note," or words of similar import. If she is the sole maker, her name need not be recited. The principal and necessary ingredients in a promissory note are, (a) certainty as to the time made, (b) time when payable, (c) person to whom payable, (d) definite amount, (e) words "promise to pay," (f) words "value received." A Note payable when Andrew Jackson shall be elected President of U. S., not good for want of certainty; one made payable when John Smith attains his majority, is good, for that is a time certain. Protest is unnecessary, as it does not bind the endorser; suit must be brought against the maker at the first term of court, after the maturity of the Note, in order to hold the endorser, unless the maker is notoriously insolvent, in which case suit may be brought against the endorser without pursuing the maker.

INDIANA.

$..... Evansville, Ind.,.....187..

.....after date we, or either of us, promise to pay to the order of .....Dollars, negotiable and payable at The Evansville National Bank, Evansville, Ind., without any relief whatever from valuation or appraisement laws, for value received, with interest at ten per cent. per annum, after maturity, and until paid. The endorsers hereof severally waive presentment, demand, and notice of non-payment.

A Note payable "to the order of" the payee, and expressing on its face "for value received," is negotiable for all purposes with the single exception provided in the Statute, that in order to cut off all defences of the maker and parties thereto to a Note in the hands of a bona fide holder for value, the Note must be payable at a bank within the State of Indiana; and a private as well as State and National Bank has been held to be within the Statute. The waiver of presentment, demand, etc., has been held to be binding on endorsers. If the Note is not made payable at a bank, protest is unnecessary to hold the endorser; but suit must be brought the same as in Illinois, or the endorser is released.

And further, I do hereby authorize and empower any Attorney of any Court of Record of Pennsylvania, or elsewhere, to appear for and to enter judgment against me for the above sum, with or without declaration, with costs of suit, release of errors, without stay of execution, and with ten per cent. added for collecting fees; and I also waive the right of inquisition on any real estate that may be levied upon to collect this Note, and do hereby voluntarily condemn the same, and authorize the Prothonotary to enter upon the FI. FA. my said voluntary condemnation; and I further agree that said estate may be sold on a FI. APPENDIX.

SUPREME COURT OF THE UNITED STATES.

RULES AND ORDERS IN BANKRUPTCY.

October Term, 1874.

It is hereby ordered by the Chief-Justice and Associate Justices of the Supreme Court of the United States in pursuance of the powers conferred upon them by the several acts of Congress in that behalf, that the general orders in bankruptcy heretofore established by the court be, and they are hereby, amended so as to read as follows:

I.

DUTIES OF CLERKS OF DISTRICT COURTS.

The clerks of the several district courts shall enter upon each petition in bankruptcy the day, and the hour of the day, upon which the same shall be filed; and shall also make a similar note upon every subsequent paper filed with them, except such papers as have been filed before the register, and so endorsed by him; and the papers in each case shall be kept in a file by themselves. No paper shall be taken from the files for any purpose except by order of the court. Every paper shall have indorsed upon it a brief statement of its character. The clerks shall keep a docket, in which the cases shall be entered and numbered in the order in which they are commenced; and the number of each case shall be endorsed on every paper. The docket shall be so arranged that a brief memorandum of every proceeding in each case shall be entered therein, in a manner convenient for reference, and shall at all times be open for public inspection. The clerk shall also keep separate minute-books for the record of proceedings in bankruptcy, in which shall be entered a minute of all the proceedings in each case, either of the court or of a register of the court, under their respective dates.

II.

PROCESS.

All process, summons, and subpœnas shall issue out of the court under the seal thereof, and be tested by the clerk; and blanks, with the signature of the clerk and seal of the court, may, upon application, be furnished to the registers.

III.

APPEARANCE.

Proceedings in bankruptcy may be conducted by the bankrupt in person in his own behalf, or by a petitioning or opposing creditor; but a creditor will only be allowed to manage before the court his individual interest. Either party may appear and conduct the proceedings by attorney, who shall be an attorney or counselor authorized to practice in the circuit or district court. The name of the attorney or counselor, with his place of residence and business, shall be entered upon the docket, with the date of the entry. All papers or proceedings offered by an attorney to be filed shall be indorsed as above required; and orders granted on motion shall contain the name of the party or attorney making the motion. Notices and orders which are not, by the act or by these rules, required to be served on the party personally, may be served upon his attorney.

IV.

COMMENCEMENT OF PROCEEDINGS.

Upon the filing of a petition in case of voluntary bankruptcy, or as soon as any adjudication of bankruptcy is made upon a petition filed in case of involuntary bankruptcy, the petition shall be referred to one of the registers in such manner as the district court shall direct, and the petitioner shall furnish the register with a copy of the papers in the case, and thereafter all the proceedings required by the act shall be had before him, except such as are required by the act to be had in the district court, or by special order of the district judge, unless some other register is directed to act in the case.

The order designating the register to act upon any petition shall name a day upon which the bankrupt shall attend before the register, from which date he shall be subject to the orders of the court in all matters relating to his bankruptcy, and may receive from the register a protection against arrest, to continue until the final adjudication on his application for a discharge, unless suspended or vacated by order of the court.

A copy of the order shall forthwith be sent by mail to the register, or be delivered to him personally, by the clerk or other officer of the court.

V.

REGISTERS.

The time when and the place where the registers shall act upon the matters arising under the several cases referred to them, shall be fixed by special order of the district court, or by the register acting under the authority of a general order, in each case, made by the district court; and at such times and places the registers may perform the acts which they are empowered to do by the act, and conduct proceedings in relation to the following matters, when uncontested, viz.: making adjudication of bankruptcy on petition of the debtor; administering oaths; receiving the surrender of a bankrupt; granting protection thereon; giving requisite direction for notices, advertisements, and other ministerial proceedings; taking proofs of claims; ordering payment of rates and taxes, and salary or wages of persons in the employment of the assignee; ordering amendments, or inspections, or copies, or extracts of any proceedings; taking accounts of proceeds of securities held by any creditor; taking evidence concerning expenses and charges against the bankrupt's estate; auditing and passing accounts of assignees; proceedings for the declaration and payment of dividends, and taxing costs in any of the proceedings; and generally dispatching all administrative business of the court in matters of bankruptcy, and making all requisite uncontested orders and directions therein, which are not, by the acts of Congress concerning bankruptcy; specifically required to be made, done, or performed by the district court itself; all of which shall be subject to the control and review of the said court: Provided, however, That by the surrender of a bankrupt mentioned and referred to in this order and in the act in that behalf is intended and understood a personal submission of the bankrupt himself for full examination and disclosure in reference to his property and affairs, and not a surrender or delivery of the possession of his property.

VI.

DISPATCH OF BUSINESS.

Every register, in performing the duties required of him under the act, and by these orders, or by orders of the district court, shall use all reasonable dispatch, and shall not adjourn the business but for good cause shown. Six hours' session shall constitute a day's sitting if the business requires; and when there is time to complete the proceedings in progress within the day, the party obtaining any adjournment or postponement thereof may be charged, if the court or register think proper, with all the costs incurred in consequence of the delay.

VII.

EXAMINATION AND FILING OF PAPERS.

It shall be the duty of the register to examine the bankrupt's petition and schedules filed therewith, and to certify whether the same are correct in form; or, if deficient, in what respect they are so; and the court may allow amendments to be made in the petition and schedules upon the application of the petitioner, upon proper cause shown, at any time prior to the discharge of the bankrupt. The register shall indorse upon each paper filed with him the time of filing, and, at the close of the last examination of the bankrupt, the register having charge of the case shall file all the papers relating thereto in the office of the clerk of the district court, and these papers, together with those on file in the clerk's office, and the entries in the minute-book, shall constitute the record in each case; and the clerk shall cause the papers in each case to be bound together.

VIII.

ORDERS BY THE REGISTER.

Whenever an order is made by a register in any proceeding in which notice is required to be given to either party before the order can be made, the fact that the notice was given, and the substance of the evidence of the manner in which it was given, shall be recited in the preamble to the order, and the fact also stated that no adverse interest was represented at the time and place appointed for the hearing of the matter upon such notice; and whenever an order is made where adverse interests are represented before the register, the fact shall be stated that the opposing parties consented thereto, or that the adverse interest represented made no opposition to the granting of such order; provided, however, if any party interested adversely to such order shall not, before the hearing of the application therefor, give reasonable notice in writing to the register that he intends to contest the same, and objects to its being heard by the register, the same shall be heard by the register as by consent. But all such orders may be reviewed by the district court at the request of any party aggrieved, upon his paying the cost of certifying the matter to said court within ten days from the making of the order; which request and payment shall be entered by the register on his docket; and he shall thereupon forthwith certify the said matter to the court, the said court, upon making its decision, may make such order with regard to the costs as justice shall require.

IX.

NOTIFICATION TO ASSIGNEE OF HIS APPOINTMENT.

It shall be the duty of the register, immediately upon the appointment of an assignee, as prescribed in sections twelve and thirteen * of the act (should he not be present at such meeting), to notify him, by personal or mail service, of his appointment; and in such notification the assignee so appointed shall be required to give notice forthwith to the register of his acceptance or rejection of the trust.

No official assignee shall be appointed by the court or judge; nor any general assignee to act in any class of cases.

No additional assignee shall be appointed by the court or judge under section thirteen † of the act, except upon petition of one-fourth in number and value of the creditors who have proved their debts, and upon good and sufficient cause shown.

X.

TESTIMONY, HOW TAKEN.

The examination of witnesses before a register in bankruptcy may be conducted by the party in person or by his counsel or attorney, and the witnesses shall be subject to examination and cross-examination, which shall be had in conformity with the mode now adopted in courts of law. The depositions upon such examination shall be taken down in writing by or under the direction of the register in the form of narrative, unless he determines that the examination shall be by question and answer in special instances, and when completed shall be read over to the witness and signed by him in the presence of the register. Any question or questions which may be objected to shall be noted by the register upon the deposition, but he shall not have power to decide upon the competency, materiality or relevancy of the question; and the court shall have power to deal with the costs of incompetent, immaterial, or irrelevant depositions, or parts of them, as may be just. In case of refusal of a witness to attend, or to testify before a register, the same proceedings may be had as are now authorized with respect to witnesses to be produced on examination before an examiner of any of the courts of the United States on written interrogatories.

XI.

MINUTES BEFORE REGISTER, FILING, ETC.

A memorandum made of each act performed by a register shall be in suitable form, to be entered upon the minute-book of the court, and shall be forwarded to the clerk of the court not later than by mail the next day after the act has been performed. Whenever an issue is raised before the register in any proceedings, either of fact or law, he shall cause the same to be stated in writing in the manner required by the fourth and *sixth sections of the act, and certify the same forthwith to the district judge for his decision. The pendency of the issue undecided before a judge shall not necessarily suspend or delay other proceedings before the register or court in the case.

XII.

ACCOUNTS FOR SERVICES OF REGISTER AND MARSHAL.

Every register shall keep an accurate account of his travelling and incidental expenses, and those of any clerk or other officer attending him in the performance of his duties in any case or number of cases which may be referred to him; and shall make return of the same under oath, with proper vouchers (when vouchers can be procured), on the first Tuesday in each month; and the marshal shall make his return under oath, of his actual and necessary expenses in the service of every warrant addressed to him, and for custody of property, publication of notices, and other services, and other actual and necessary expenses paid by him, with vouchers therefor whenever practicable, and also with a statement that the amounts charged by him are just and reasonable.

XIII.

MARSHAL AS MESSENGER.

SURRENDER OF PROPERTY.

In cases of voluntary bankruptcy, the bankrupt, after being decreed such, and after the appointment of an assignee or trustee, and assignment duly made, shall, unless the court otherwise direct, deliver possession of all his property and assets (including evidences of debt and books of account) to said assignee or trustee, unless at or after such decree and before said assignment the court, on application of any creditor or creditors, and upon good cause shown by affidavit, shall deem it necessary for the interest of the creditors that possession of such property and assets should be sooner delivered up; in which case, as in cases of involuntary bankruptcy, the court may order said property and assets to be taken possession of by the marshal as messenger, directions for which may be inserted, in pursuance of such order, in the original warrant in bankruptcy, or in a special warrant to be issued for that purpose.

It shall be the duty of the marshal as messenger to take possession of the property of the bankrupt when required thereto by warrant or order of the court, and to deliver the same to the assignee or trustee when appointed and assignment made as aforesaid. The marshal, when taking possession as aforesaid, shall make an inventory of the property and assets by him received, and deliver the same, with the said property and assets, to said assignee or trustee, who shall verify the same; and if found correct and full no further inventory shall be required: Provided, however, That if any goods or effects so taken into possession as the property of the bankrupt shall be claimed by or in behalf of any other person, the marshal shall forthwith notify the petitioning creditor, or assignee, if one be appointed, of such claim, and may, within five days after so giving notice of such claim, deliver them to the claimant or his agent, unless the petitioning creditor or party at whose instance possession is taken shall, by bond with sufficient sureties, to be approved by the marshal, indemnify the marshal for the taking and detention of such goods and effects, and the expenses of defending against all claims thereto; and, in case of such indemnity, the marshal shall retain possession of such goods and effects, and proceed in relation thereto as if no such claim had been made: And provided further, that in case the petitioning creditor claims that any property not in the possession of the bankrupt belongs to him, and should be taken by the marshal, the marshal shall not be bound to take possession of the same, unless indemnified in like manner. He shall also, in case the bankrupt is absent or cannot be found, prepare a schedule of the names and residences of his creditors, and the amount due to each, from the books or other papers of the bankrupt that may be seized by him under his warrant, and from any other sources of information; but all statements upon which his return shall be made shall be in writing, and sworn to by the parties making them, before one of the registers in bankruptcy of the court, or a commissioner of the courts of the United States. In cases of voluntary bankruptcy, the marshal may appoint special deputies to act, as he may designate, in one or more cases, as messengers, for the purpose of causing the notices to be published and served as required in the eleventh* section of the act, and for no other purpose. In giving the notices required by the third subdivision of the eleventh† section of the act, it shall be sufficient to give the names, residences, and the amounts of the debts (in figures) due the several creditors, so far as known, and no more.

XIV.

PETITIONS AND AMENDMENTS.

All petitions, and the schedules filed therewith, shall be printed or written out plainly, and without abbreviation or interlineation, except where such abbreviation and interlineation may be for the purpose of reference; and whenever any amendments are allowed, they shall be written and signed by the petitioner on a separate paper, in the same manner as the original schedules were signed and verified; and if the amendments are made to different schedules, the amendments to each schedule shall be made separately, with proper reference to the schedule proposed to be amended, and each amendment shall be verified by the oath of the petitioner in the same manner as the original schedules.

XV.

PRIORITY OF ACTIONS (INVOLUNTARY BANKRUPTCY.)

Whenever two or more petitions shall be filed by creditors against a common debtor, alleging separate acts of bankruptcy committed by said debtor on different days within six months prior to the filing of said petitions, and the debtor shall appear and show cause against an adjudication of bankruptcy against him on the petitions, that petition shall be first heard and tried which alleges the commission of the earliest act of bankruptcy; and in case the several acts of bankruptcy are alleged in the different petitions to have been committed on the same day, the court, before which the same are pending, may order them to be consolidated, and proceed to a hearing as upon one petition; and if an adjudication of bankruptcy be made upon either petition, or for the commission of a single act of bankruptcy, it shall not be necessary to proceed to a hearing upon the remaining petitions, unless proceedings be taken by the debtor for the purpose of causing such adjudication to be annulled or vacated.

XVI.

FILING PETITIONS IN DIFFERENT DISTRICTS.

In case two or more petitions shall be filed against the same individual in different districts, the first hearing shall be had in the district in which the debtor has his domicile, and such petition may be amended by inserting an allegation of an act of bankruptcy committed at an earlier date than that first alleged, if such earlier act is charged in either of the other petitions; and in case of two or more petitions against the same firm in different courts, each having jurisdiction over the case, the petition first filed shall be first heard, and may be amended by the insertion of an allegation of an earlier act of bankruptcy than that first alleged, if such earlier act is charged in either of the other petitions, and, in either case, the proceedings upon the other petitions may be stayed until an adjudication is made upon the petition first heard; and the court which makes the first adjudication of bankruptcy shall retain jurisdiction over all proceedings therein until the same shall be closed. In case two or more petitions for adjudication of bankruptcy shall be filed in different districts by different members of the same copartnership for an adjudication of the bankruptcy of said copartnership, the court in which the petition is first filed having jurisdiction shall take and retain jurisdiction over all proceedings in such bankruptcy until the same shall be closed; and if such petitions shall be filed in the same district, action shall be first had upon the one first filed.

XVII.

CONCERNING REDEMPTIONS OF PROPERTY AND COMPOUNDING CLAIMS.

Whenever it may be deemed for the benefit of the estate of a bankrupt to redeem and discharge any mortgage or other pledge, or deposit, or lien upon any property, real or personal, or to relieve said property from any conditional contract, and to tender performance of the conditions thereof, or to compound any debts or other claims or securities due or belonging to the estate of the bankrupt, the assignee, or the bankrupt, or any creditor who has proved his debt, may file his petition therefor in the office of the clerk of the district court; and thereupon the court shall appoint a suitable time and place for the hearing thereof, notice of which shall be given in some newspaper, to be designated by the court, at least ten days before the hearing, so that all creditors and other persons interested may appear and show cause, if any they have, why an order should not be passed by the court upon the petition authorizing such act on the part of the assignee.

XVIII.

PROCEEDINGS IN CASE OF COPARTNERSHIPS.

In case one or more members of a copartnership refuse to join in a petition to have the firm declared bankrupt, the parties refusing shall be entitled to resist the prayer of the petition in the same manner as if the petition had been filed by a creditor of the partnership, and notice of the filing of the petition shall be given to him in the same manner as provided by law and by these rules in the case of a debtor petitioned against; and he shall have the right to appear at the time fixed by the court for the hearing of the petition, and to make proof, if he can, that the copartnership is not insolvent, or has not committed an act of bankruptcy, and to take all other defenses which any debtor proceeded against is entitled to take by the provisions of the act; and in case an adjudication of bankruptcy is made upon the petition, such copartner shall be required to furnish to the marshal, as messenger, a schedule of his debts and an inventory of his property, in the same manner as is required by the act in cases of debtors against whom adjudication of bankruptcy shall be made.

XIX.

DUTIES OF ASSIGNEES.

The assignee shall, immediately on entering upon his duties, prepare a complete inventory of all the property of the bankrupt that comes into his possession, except where an inventory is furnished to him by the marshal; in which case, having verified the same, he shall add thereto a certificate that the same is correct, or that the same is correct as modified by a supplemental inventory, to be annexed thereto; in which supplementary inventory he shall state any deficiency of assets named in the marshal's inventory, and shall add any property or assets not contained therein.

The assignee shall make report to the court within twenty days after receiving the deed of assignment, of the articles set off to the bankrupt by him, according to the provisions of the fourteenth section * of the act, with the estimated value of each article, and any creditor may take exceptions to the determination of the assignee within twenty days after the filing of the report. The register may require the exceptions to be argued before him, and shall certify them to the court for final determination at the request of either party. The substance of each monthly return of the assignee shall be sent by the register to any creditor who shall request it and pay the fee provided for notices to creditors. In case the assignee shall neglect to file any report or statement which it is made his duty to file or make by the bankrupt act, or any general order in bankruptcy, within five days after the same shall be due, it shall be the duty of the register to make an order requiring the assignee to show cause before the court, at a time specified in the order, why he should not be removed from office. The register shall cause a copy of the order to be served upon the assignee at least seven days before the time fixed for the hearing, and proof of the service thereof to be delivered to the clerk. All accounts of assignees are to be referred as of course to the register for audit unless otherwise specially ordered by the court.

XX.

COMPOSITION WITH CREDITORS: ARBITRATION.

Whenever an assignee shall make application to the court for authority to submit a controversy arising in the settlement of demands against the bankrupt's estate, or of debts due to it, to the determination of arbitrators, or for authority to compound and settle such controversy by agreement with the other party, the subject-matter of the controversy and the reasons why the assignee thinks it proper and most for the interest of the creditors that it should be settled by arbitration or otherwise, shall be set forth clearly and distinctly in the application; and the court, upon examination of the same, may immediately proceed to take testimony and make an order thereon, or may direct the assignee to give notice of the application, either by publication or by mail, or both, to the creditors who have proved their claims to appear and show cause, on a day to be named in the order and notice, why the application should not be granted, and may make such order thereon as may be just and proper.

XXI.

DISPOSAL OF PROPERTY BY ASSIGNEE.

Upon application to the court, and for good cause shown, the assignee may be authorized to sell any specified portion of the bankrupt's estate at private sale; in which case he shall keep an accurate account of each article sold, and the price received therefor, and to whom sold; which account he shall file with his report at the first meeting of creditors after the sale. In making sale of the franchise of a corporation it may be offered in fractional parts or in certain numbers of shares corresponding to the number of shares in the bankrupt corporation.

XXII.

PERISHABLE PROPERTY.

In all cases where goods or other articles come into possession of the messenger or assignee which are perishable, or liable to deterioration in value, the court may, upon application, in its discretion, order the same to be sold and the proceeds deposited in court.

XXIII.

SERVICE OF NOTICE.

The notice provided by the eighteenth section * of the act shall be served by the marshal or his deputy, and notices to the creditors of the time and place of meeting provided by the section † shall be given through the mail by letter, signed by the clerk of the court.

Each envelope containing a notice sent by the clerk or messenger shall have printed on it a direction to the postmaster at the place to which it is sent, to return the same within ten days unless called for.

* § 5039. R. S. † §§ 5039, 5041, R. S.

XXIV.

OPPOSITION TO DISCHARGE.

A creditor opposing the application of a bankrupt for discharge shall enter his appearance in opposition thereto on the day when the creditors are required to show cause, and shall file his specification of the grounds of his opposition, in writing, within ten days thereafter, unless the time shall be enlarged by order of the district court, in the case, and the court shall thereupon make an order as to the entry of said case for trial on the docket of the district court, and the time within which the same shall be heard and decided.

XXV.

SECOND AND THIRD MEETINGS OF CREDITORS.

Whenever any bankrupt shall apply for his discharge, within three months from the date of his being adjudged a bankrupt, under the provisions of the twenty-ninth section * of the act, the court may direct that the second and third meetings of creditors of said bankrupt required by the twenty-seventh and twenty-eighth sections † of said act shall be had on the day which may be fixed in the order of notice for the creditors to appear and show cause why a discharge should not be granted such bankrupt; and the notices of such meeting shall be sufficient, if it be added to the notice to show cause, that the second and third meetings of said creditors shall be had before the register upon the same day that cause may be shown against the discharge, or upon some previous days or day.

XXVI.

APPEALS.

Appeals in equity from the district to the circuit court, and from the circuit to the Supreme Court of the United States, shall be regulated by the rules governing appeals in equity in the courts of the United States. Any supposed creditor who takes an appeal to the circuit court from the decision of the district court rejecting his claim, in whole or in part, according to the provisions of the eighth section of the act, shall give notice of his intention to enter the appeal within ten days from the entry of the final decision of the district court upon his claim; and he shall file his appeal in the clerk's office of the circuit court within ten days thereafter, setting forth a statement in writing of his claim in the manner prescribed by said section; and the assignee shall plead or answer thereto in like manner within ten days after the statement shall be filed. Every issue thereon shall be made up in the court, and the cause placed upon the docket thereof, and shall be heard and decided in the same manner as other actions at law.

* § 5108, R. S. §§ 5092, 5093, R. S.

XXVII.

IMPRISONED DEBTOR.

If at the time of preferring his petition the debtor shall be imprisoned, the court, upon his application, may order him to be produced upon habeas corpus by the jailor, or any officer in whose custody he may be, before the register, for the purpose of testifying in any matter relating to his bankruptcy; and if committed after the filing of his petition upon process in any civil action founded upon a claim provable in bankruptcy, the court may, upon like application, discharge him from such imprisonment. If the petitioner, during the pendency of the proceedings in bankruptcy, be arrested or imprisoned upon process in any civil action, the district court, upon his application, may issue a writ of habeas corpus to bring him before the court, to ascertain whether such process has been issued for the collection of any claim provable in bankruptcy, and, if so provable, he shall be discharged; if not, he shall be remanded to the custody in which he may lawfully be. Before granting the order for discharge, the court shall cause notice to be served upon the creditor, or his attorney, so as to give him an opportunity of appearing and being heard before the granting of the order.

XXVIII.

DEPOSIT AND PAYMENT OF MONEYS.

The district court in each district shall designate certain national banks, if there are any within the judicial district, or if there are none, then some safe depository, in which all moneys received by assignees or paid into court, in the course of any proceedings in bankruptcy shall be deposited; and every assignee and the clerk of said court shall deposit all sums received by them, severally, on account of any bankrupt's estate, in one designated depository; and every clerk shall make a report to the court of the funds received by him, and of deposits made by him, on the first Monday of every month. On the first day of each month, the assignee shall file a report with the register, stating whether any collections, deposits, or payments have been made by him during the preceding month, and if any he shall state the gross amount of each. The register shall enter such reports upon a book to be kept by him for that purpose, in which a separate account shall be kept with each estate; and he shall also enter therein the amount, the date, and the expressed purpose of each check countersigned by him. No moneys so deposited shall be drawn from such depository unless upon a check, or warrant, signed by the clerk of the court, or by an assignee, and countersigned by the judge of the court, or one of the registers designated for that purpose, stating the date, the sum, and the account for which it is drawn; and an entry of the substance of such check or warrant, with the date thereof, the sum drawn for, and the account for which it is drawn, shall be forthwith made in a book kept for that purpose by the assignee or the clerk; and all checks and drafts shall be entered in the order of time in which they are drawn, and shall be numbered in the case of each estate. A copy of this rule shall be furnished to the depository so designated, and also the name of any register authorized to countersign said checks.

XXIX.

PREPAYMENT OR SECURITY OF FEES.

The fees of the register, marshal, and clerk shall be paid or secured in all cases before they shall be compelled to perform the duties required of them by the parties requiring such service; and in the case of witnesses their fees shall be tendered or paid at the time of the service of the summons or subpœna, and shall include their traveling expenses to and from the place at which they may be summoned to attend. The court may order the whole, or such portion of the fees and costs in each case to be paid out of the fund in court in such case as shall seem just.

The funds deposited with the register, marshal, and clerk shall, in all cases where they come out of the bankrupt's estate, be considered as a part of such estate, and the assignee shall be charged therewith, and shall not be allowed for any disbursements therefrom, except upon the pro-

Marshals.

The fees of the marshal shall be same as are allowed for similar services by the general fee-bill in section 829 of the Revised Statutes, as modified by section 5126, including additional fees allowed by the latter section for distinct services; but no allowances shall be made under the last clause of section 5126, commencing with the words "For cause shown."

The marshal shall be allowed for each hour necessarily employed in making inventory of bankrupt's property 1 00 —and for each folio of inventory 20
For each hour actually and necessarily employed in personal attention in taking care of bankrupt's property 1 00
(No other allowance to be made for custody of property, except for actual disbursements, which shall in all cases be passed upon by the court.)

Assignees.

The fees and allowances of assignees shall be as prescribed and provided for in sections 5099 and 5100 of the Revised Statutes; provided that, in addition to disbursements made, no allowance shall be made other than the commissions provided for in section 5100, except as hereinafter specified; and said commissions shall be calculated but once upon the amount of moneys received and paid, and not upon both the receipt and payment thereof. Besides which, there shall be allowed to the assignee as follows:

For serving or sending notices to creditors, or publishing the same, when required to be done by the assignee, the same amount allowed to the register for like services.
For each hour necessarily employed in making inventory or supplemental inventory of bankrupt's property, or verifying marshal's inventory.. $1 00

Witnesses and Jurors.

The fees of witnesses and jurors shall be the same as prescribed in the general fee-bill, in sections 848 and 852 of the Revised Statutes.

Attorneys.

No allowance shall be made against the estate of the bankrupt for fees of attorneys, solicitors, or counsel, except when necessarily employed by the assignee, when the same may be allowed as a disbursement; and no allowance shall be made to the assignee for custody of the bankrupt's property, except necessary disbursements in relation thereto. The necessity and reasonableness of disbursements shall in all cases be passed upon by the court.

Any money received by either of the officers mentioned, in excess of lawful fees or compensation, shall be ordered by the judge to be paid into court, and such order may be enforced, if necessary, by attachment as for contempt.

No bankrupt's discharge shall be refused or delayed by reason of the non-payment of any fees except the fee for his certificate of discharge.

Taxation of Costs.

Ten days before the day fixed for the consideration of the assignee's final account, or at any other time fixed by the court on its own motion, or on the application of any person interested, the clerk, marshal, and register shall file with the clerk a statement of fees, including prospective fees for final distribution, which shall exhibit, by items, each service and the fee charged for it, and the amount received. Said clerk shall tax each fee-bill, allowing none but such as are provided for by these rules, which taxation shall be conclusive, reserving to any party interested exceptions to the bills as taxed, which shall be decided by the court. The office of auditor is hereby discontinued.

XXXI.

COSTS IN CONTESTED ADJUDICATIONS.

In cases of involuntary bankruptcy, where the debtor resists an adjudication, and the court, after hearing, shall adjudge the debtor a bankrupt, the petitioning creditor shall recover, to be paid out of the fund, the same costs that are allowed by law to a party recovering in a suit in equity; and in case the petition shall be dismissed, the debtor may recover like costs from the petitioner.

When a debtor shall be adjudged a bankrupt on the application of a creditor, and shall be required under the provisions of the act to furnish a schedule of his creditors, and an inventory and valuation of his estate, the court, if the estate is large and the required schedule and inventory are likely to be voluminous or complicated, or other good reason exist, may, on the application of such debtor, allow him the services of a clerk or accountant to aid him therein, at such rate of compensation, not to exceed five dollars per day, as the court may deem reasonable.

XXXII.

AS TO FORMS AND SCHEDULES.

The several forms specified in the schedules annexed to the former general orders for the several purposes therein stated shall be observed and used, with such alterations as may be necessary to suit the circumstances of any particular case. The tabular forms hereto annexed shall be used respectively by the several officers named in section nineteen of the amendatory act of June 22, 1874, in making the returns required by said section. In all cases where, by the provisions of the act, a special order is required to be made in any proceeding, or in any case instituted under the act in a district court of the United States, such order shall be framed by the court to suit the circumstances of the particular case; and the forms hereby prescribed shall be followed as nearly as may be, and so far as the same are applicable to the circumstances requiring such special order. In proceedings in equity, instituted for the purpose of carrying into effect the provisions of the act, or for enforcing the rights and remedies given by it, the rules of equity practice established by the Supreme Court of the United States shall be followed as nearly as may be. In proceedings at law, instituted for the same purpose, the rules of the circuit court regulating the practice and procedure in cases at law shall be followed as nearly as may be. But the court, as the judge thereof, may, by special rule in any case, vary the time allowed for return of process, for appearance and pleading, and for taking testimony and publication, and may otherwise modify the rules for the preparation of any particular case so as to facilitate a speedy hearing.

XXXIII.

OMISSIONS AND AMENDMENTS.

Whenever a debtor shall omit to state in the schedules annexed to his petition any of the facts required to be stated concerning his debts or his property, he shall state, either in its appropriate place in the schedules or in a separate affidavit to be filed with the petition, the reason for the omission, with such particularity as will enable the court to determine whether to admit the schedules as sufficient, or to require the debtor to make further efforts to complete the same according to the requirements of the law; and in making any application for amendment to the schedules the debtor shall state under oath the substance of the matters proposed to be included in the amendment, and the reasons why the same had not been incorporated in his schedules as originally filed, or as previously amended. In like manner, he may correct any statement made during the course of his examination.

XXXIV.

PROOF OF DEBTS.

Depositions to prove claims against a bankrupt's estate shall be correctly entitled in the court and in the cause. When made to prove a debt due to a co-partnership, it must appear on oath that the deponent is a member of the creditor firm; when made by an agent, the reason the deposition is not made by the claimant in person must be stated; and when made to prove a debt due to a corporation, and the corporation has no such officer as cashier or treasurer, the deposition may be made by the officer whose duties most nearly correspond to those of cashier or treasurer. Depositions to prove debts existing in open account shall state when the debt became or will become due; and if it consists of items maturing at different dates, the average due date shall be stated; in default of which it shall not be necessary to compute interest upon it. All such depositions shall contain an averment that no note has been received for such account nor any judgment rendered thereon. Proofs of debt received by any assignee shall be delivered to the register to whom the cause is referred. The register may decline to file any deposition until the fee for filing the same is paid. When a proof of debt is sent by mail to the register, and it shall be accompanied by the fee for filing it, and the fee for sending a notice to a creditor, the register shall acknowledge the receipt of it, and state the amount at which he has entered it; and if it shall be insufficient or unsatisfactory to the register, he shall state the reason.

Any creditor may file with the register a request that all notices to which he may be entitled shall be addressed to him at any place, to be designated by the post-office box or street number, as he may appoint, and thereafter, and until some other designation shall be made by such creditor, all notices shall be so addressed; and in other cases notices shall be addressed as specified in the proof of debt.

Claims which have been assigned before proof shall be supported by a deposition of the owner at the time of the commencement of proceedings, setting forth the true consideration of the debt, and that it is entirely unsecured, or, if secured, such deposition shall set forth the security, as is required in proving secured claims.

Upon filing with the register satisfactory proof of the assignment of a claim proved and entered on the register's docket, the register shall immediately give notice by mail, to the original claimant, of the filing of such proof of assignment.

And if no objection be entered within ten days, he shall make an order subrogating the assignee to the original claimant.

If objection be made within the time specified, or within such further time as may be granted for that purpose, the register shall certify the objection into court for determination. The claims of persons contingently liable for the bankrupt may be proved in the name of the creditor, when known by the party contingently liable.

When the name of the creditor is unknown, such claims may be proved in the name of the party contingently liable; but no dividend shall be paid upon such claim, except upon satisfactory proof that it will diminish, pro tanto, the original debt. The execution of any letter of attorney to represent a creditor, or of an assignment of claim after proof, or of the consent of a creditor to a bankrupt's discharge, may be proved or acknowledged before a register in bankruptcy, or a United States circuit court commissioner. When executed on behalf of a co-partnership, or of a corporation, the person executing the instrument shall make oath that he is a member of the firm, or duly authorized officer of the corporation, on whose behalf he acts.

When the party executing is not personally known to the officer taking the proof or acknowledgment, his identity shall be established by satisfactory proof.

When the assignee or any creditor shall desire the re-examination of any claim filed against the bankrupt's estate, he may apply by petition to the register to whom the cause is referred, for an order for such re-examination; and thereupon the register shall make an order fixing a time for hearing the petition, of which due notice shall be given by mail, addressed to the creditor.

At the time appointed, the register shall take the examination of the creditor, and of any witnesses that may be called by either party; and if it shall appear from such examination that the claim ought to be expunged or diminished, the register, if no objection be made, may order accordingly. If objection be made, the register shall require the parties then, or within a time to be fixed for that purpose, to form an issue to be certified into court for determination.

Digitized by Google

If the petitioner is in default in making up said issue, the petition shall be dismissed; if the creditor, whose claim is re-examined, is in default in making said issue, the claim may be diminished or expunged by the register.

All orders thus made by the register may be reviewed by the court on special petition, and upon showing satisfactory cause for such review.

XXXV.

TRIAL BEFORE MARSHAL.

If the debtor, under the provisions of section 14 of the amendatory act relating to proceedings in bankruptcy, approved June 22, 1874, shall elect to have a trial of the facts before the marshal, he shall make such election in writing, and file the same with the clerk of the court; and thereupon the court, on application of the debtor, may award the venire facias in said section prescribed, upon and by virtue of which the marshal shall summon twenty-four good and lawful men, inhabitants of the vicinity of the place of trial, and indifferent between the parties, from whom to select the jury to try the said facts; and the names of the persons so summoned shall be drawn by lot to make the said jury, and each party shall be entitled to challenge four persons peremptorily; and if a sufficient number of jurors unchallenged and free from exception shall not appear to make the full panel of twelve men (or such less number as the parties may agree upon) to try the said cause, the marshal shall complete the number by forthwith summoning other proper persons for the purpose. And any person summoned by the marshal to sit on said jury, and failing to appear without sufficient excuse, shall be returned by the marshal and subject to be fined by the court.

The petitioning creditor shall be deemed the actor, give due notice of trial, and have the opening and close before the jury. Subpœnas may be issued to witnesses, and objections to evidence shall be decided by the marshal presiding at the trial, subject to review by the court. The trial shall be had upon the petition to have the debtor declared a bankrupt, and no other pleadings shall be necessary. The debtor may, on his part, prove any fact or state of facts which will entitle him to have the case dismissed. The jury, if desired, shall find a special verdict upon any point or question of fact stated for that purpose in writing by either party before the case shall have been submitted to them. The verdict shall be signed by the foreman of the jury and countersigned by the marshal, who shall immediately return the same to the court with the venire, and any points or questions raised and decided by him at the trial. The court, for good and legal cause shown, may set aside the verdict and award a new venire as often as occasion shall require.

XXXVI.

COMPOSITION UNDER SECTION 17 OF AMENDATORY ACT.

If at any time after the filing of a petition for an adjudication in bankruptcy, a petition duly verified be filed by the debtor or bankrupt, or by any creditor of such debtor or bankrupt, setting forth that a composition has been proposed by such debtor or bankrupt, and that he verily believes that such proposed composition would be accepted by a majority in number, and three-fourths in value of the creditors of such debtor or bankrupt, in satisfaction of the debts due from such debtor or bankrupt, the court shall forthwith order a meeting of the creditors to be called to consider of the said proposition as provided in the 17th section of the said amendatory act, whereupon such proceedings shall be had as are therein directed. The register acting in the case, or, if no register has been assigned, a register to be designated by the court, shall, at the time and place specified in the notice for holding such meeting, hold and preside at the same, and report to the court the proceedings thereof, with his opinion thereon; upon the filing of which, the clerk shall give the notices to the creditors required by said section, and the court shall at the time therein fixed, proceed to hear and determine the matter as in said section is prescribed.

In like manner, additional meetings in relation to such proposed composition, or any modification thereof, may, upon like application, be called and held, and the proceedings returned in like manner.

XXXVII.

REFERENCE TO SECTIONS OF ACT, ETC.

All orders referring specifically to any section or sections of the original bankrupt act, shall be deemed and construed to refer to the corresponding sections respectively, in the Revised Statutes of the United States; for example, Order IX., in referring to sections 12 and 13 of the act, shall be construed to refer to sections 5033 and 5034, respectively, of the Revised Statutes; and so of the rest. And all forms heretofore prescribed shall be adapted to any modification of the law, or of these orders.
