Col. Carlos Cantillo, chief of the military intelligence service, announced the seizure of another arms cache in a Vedado apartment yesterday and reported the arrest of three persons who are charged with participation in the frustrated armed attack on the Presidential Palace last March 13.

The issue has been brought to the point of final decision by Nasser's proposal to the United Nations and to eight nations this week of a plan for operating the vitally important waterway through the Egyptian Canal Authority.

This Authority would collect all tolls. It would be bound, according to the Egyptian memorandum, by an 1888 treaty guaranteeing right of transit to all nations. The cache consisted of Thompson machineguns, carbines, .45 caliber pistols, hand grenades, cartridges, packages of dynamite, fuses, electric batteries, maps of Havana, subversive propaganda and letters addressed to the late Jose A. Echevarria and rebel leader Fidel Castro.

Likewise, the announcement reported the arrest of J. Soto Diaz, Eligio Camacho Rodriguez and Pedro Gutierrez Rodriguez. These three were picked up in different parts of the city.

Military intelligence quoted the trio as confessing that they met in the aforementioned Vedado apartment with Jose A. Echevarria and Eladio Prieto Guillaume.

Echevarria, who was president of the University Students Federation (FEU), was killed in a clash with police as he emerged from a radio station in Vedado which he had assaulted while the attack was being launched on the Palace. Prieto Guillaume was killed in the Palace attack.

MIS charged the trio, and others still at large, formed a revolutionary group led by Dr. Norberto Martinez, ex director of the Manzanera Insane Asylum, who, together with Dr. Israel Padilla Frade, an ex-subsecretary of the treasury, hid the group at a second-rate hotel in Havana until the zero hour to attack the Palace.

An unconfirmed report said that Dr. Martinez has sought refuge in an embassy in Havana.
